RULES OF THE CHURCH.

At a meeting in Toronto, Rev. Mr. Sparling, Methodist, seemed to find fault with the rules of the church, whose tendency was to keep christian young people out of the world when they should be in it to leven it by their influence.

At the same meeting Rev. Mr. Starr complained that the church went further in its discipline to-day than it had in the time of Wesley. Hard and fast rules were laid down which it was impossible to have the young people excel. These rules, in his opinion, were badly in need of reform. Matters with which they treated should be left largely to the individual conscience. And are they not? Not long since a city clergyman mentioned some things which the church did not prohibit, and some persons seemed to be astonished.

If there is any misunderstanding among people as to what the church opposes and disapproves, the church is to blame. It does not make known its teachings by any process of education that is progressive and instructive. There is only one branch in the church which professesto give systematic instruction to the young people in regard to its doctrines, its rules, its polity, and it is not the particular branch to which Messrs. Sparling and Starr belong.

Times and conditions have entirely changed since Wesley made the rules which he wrote down for the guidance of the Methodist society, and they must need revising pretty badly. The conservative element in the general conference has, in the past, been against the modification of them, but the agitation in that direction is going on, and in due time it will have its effect.

FLING AT THE YOUNG MEN.

Rev. Dr. Thomas, of the Baptist church, and at the convention which is now being held in Toronto, scored the people because of their preference for the younger men. We quote from a newspaper report of his speech:

"If a man needed medication for his physical nature he went to the oldest and most experienced physician, but if he needed meditation for his immortal soul he would prefer to go to the sappiest young man in the ministry. (Laughter). There could be no real deadline in the ministry except when the minister is dead. The greater number of the churches in Ontario would, unfortunately, take the dapper young man who parts his hair in the middle and has a sonorous voice, in preference to the man of ripe experience and knowledge. He appealed to the congregations not to throw aside the old men for the dapper young men who knew nothing."

The arraignment is too general altogether. The minister may become a back number, like the doctor and the lawyer and the average business man. The world moves and men must move with it, and exercise the talents of acquisition in more than a pecuniary sense. The young man is not essential to the ministry any more than he is essential to the bank, the bar and the surgery. Because he is young he is supposed to possess energy and activity, a restless and progressive spirit. He is a worker, or he ought to be. That is about all that can be said in his favour, and he can say, in the language he has been required to quote repeatedly during his school days. "The offence of being a young man I will neither paliate nor deny." Dr. Thomas, in his own sarcastic speech, is indiscriminate in his attack. The young man, he says, knows nothing. It is a libel on the promising life that is helpful in every occupation. The young man knows a great deal, and he is appreciated for what he knows and does.

Nor are the old men pushed into the background simply because they are old. The physician is not consulted because he is experienced. Experience counts, but only when it is accompanied with the accumulated knowledge that comes of constant study. The lawyer and the doctor have to read up every case which is given to them, and the more they read the more they know. The minister has to keep on reading, likewise, and the more he reads the more he knows. The day will never come when he can sit down and feel that he has imbibed enough of the knowledge that enables him to be the safe guide of his congregation. The people are not unworthy in their devotions. They have their preferences for some men, by a natural law which cannot be ignored, but they do not esteem the young man most because he is sappy, or dapper, or has a sonorous voice, or parts his hair in the middle. That is a gratuitous fling at the younger men that is not calculated to help along the cause which Rev. Dr. Thomas expouses.

A REPUTATION AT STAKE.

At a meeting in New York a night or two since Mr. Shepard, whom Tammany Hall has adopted as its mayoralty candidate, announced that he was the same man politically as in 1897, and had the same ideas as to the civic government. Which revives the fact that he was four years ago a supporter of the man he now opposes, Seth Low, and an opponent of the party that now supports him. Mr. Shepard makes ancient history more interesting also by asserting that he has not changed his opinions of men and things. Therefore, he thinks now, as he did formerly, of Tammany Hall, and in 1897 he said that it was "a company of political free-booters, whose disintegrating and corrupting power is undermining the very vital foundation of our civilization."

Tammany Halls shows its desperation when it accepts the man who has denounced it, and who tells its leaders that he is still the uncompromising opponent of anything that is crooked in political life. It is content to put at the head of civil government one who tells its members that though he will accept their help in electing him he will, as mayor, refuse the orders of anybody. The Post says Mr. Shepard means well, but he is consenting to conditions that will get the best of him, and in the campaign is the associate of those who, as the tools of the Hall, will thwart and defeat him at every turn.

Says our contemporary: "Mr. Shepard appears to think that, from a benevolent idealist in the mayor's chair, virtue will go out to regenerate the whole Tammany organization. The moral interchange of evil companionship is not usually of that sort. Tammany will be bound by the law of its being to denounce and oppose Mr. Shepard in every effort he may make as mayor to cleanse the city. It will see to it that his fellow-officials are men who will serve it and baffle him."

Mr. Low's friends—republicans and democrats, clean men deserving clean government—expect to elect him. When he was a candidate of the citizens' union in 1897. there were three in the field. In this campaign there are only two. The republicans have wisely decided to support Mr. Low as the common foe of all that is deadly and destroying in political life. The tiger is in for the fight of its life, and may it be not merely wounded, as on a former occasion, but killed outright and put out of the way. The amazement of the hour is that Mr. Shepard, with a character and a reputation, should imperil them both by appearing with the beast.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

R. L. Borden and Sir Hibbert Tupper are referred to by a friendly print as the Nova Scotia wonders. Where were they during the recent local election? That's the wonder of the hour.

The Tory suggests that the municipal election in Toronto should be on party lines. It also suggests that some "so-called conservative aldermen in the council this year, who have forgotten the party," should be turned down. Will its advice be taken?

Rodolphe Lemieux, M.P. for Gaspe, at a meeting in Montreal, is said to have expressed the opinion that eventually independence was the destiny of Canada. Well, the contingency is so remote, if it ever takes place, that it is not up for consideration now.

The police magistrate has dismissed a case of Sabbath labour in Belleville, because the Lord's Day act does not include the corporation. And it cannot be amended. What's the use? Corporations have not souls that can be either damned or saved.

Toronto made a great mistake in not having a special census taken during the time the Duke and Duchess of Cornwall and York were in the city. The result would have been a swelling of the population and of the heads of some people to an inordinate extent.

The census returns will not be sufficiently mastered to permit of a bill being introduced at the next session for the redistribution of seats. Besides, that which will lengthen the session is not desired. Sir Wilfrid Laurier will attend the coronation of the king in June, and the session must be over before that.

The Telegram says Mr. Whitney's speeches are too mild and milky. His arraignment of the government suggests the quitting attorney rather than the indignant patriot. Mr. Stratton says the leader of the opposition is a firebrand and an anarchist, Which is right? "You pays your money and you takes your chance."

The Rights Of Patients.

Hamilton Times.

According to judge Morson a surgeon has no right to make a charge for an operation performed in a hospital supported by the public. In other words, a hospital patient is prima facie a free patient, unless he engages a private ward or signs a formal contract. That will be news for a good many patients and practitioners, but it brings us back to the idea that public hospitals are eleemosynary institutions.

AN ARSENIC BOUNTY

For North Hastings—The Project Is Discussed.

Madoc, Oct. 15.—A public meeting was held here regarding procuring a bounty on arsenical ore. J. W. Pearce, warden, was chairman and D. McDonald, secretary. Mr. Pearce showed the necessity of enlightening the government on the matter. Joseph James the prime mover, showed that the object was a good one, referring to a great many newspaper editorials and comments that Canada, and North Hastings, in particular could furnish a large supply of the arsenic made with unlimited markets. He referred to the excellent arsenic being turned out at Deloro, and also showed that if this industry was promoted in North Hastings the benefit derived would be great.

Mr. Gibson, director of the bureau of mines of Ontario explained that the agitation for a bounty on refined arsenic was of a late date, and that possibly all the arguments in favor of such had not been laid before the government. J. P. Kirkegaard stated his plant was turning out eighty tons of arsenic per month, and that the gold mining was of a secondary consideration. He also showed how the Canadian gold fields at the Pan-American had brought forth many inquiries as to the mining in North Hastings. W. A. Hungerford gave a very interesting address, following his first appearance in Madoc thirty-three years ago, during the gold excitement and emphasised the fact that the black eye North Hastings had received in the past had now entirely recovered. He suggested that the delegation that should wait on the government should work for a bounty on all ores. Ex-mayor Johnston, representative of Belleville board of trade promised all assistance from Belleville.

B. O. Lott suggested the advisability of more frequent meetings when mining matters could be discussed and a more enlightened report put before the government. Lieut.-Col. Halliwell was thoroughly in accord with the bounty on arsenic and was also in favor of bounties on other industries. A. F. Wood was also in perfect accord with the other speakers in asking the government to place a bounty on refined arsenic, and cautioned this meeting that the committee to be appointed should derive all the information possible to lay before the government. J. Allan, M.P.P., said he would do all in his power to further the interests of a bounty on arsenic.

A. W. Carscallen, M.P., moved the following names as a delegation:—J. W. Johnson, Thomas Clow, P. Kirkgaard, W. A. Hungerford, B. O. Lott, Joseph James, W. J. Allan, A. W. Carscallen, A. W. Coe, R. J. Graham, Col. Halliwell, J. W. Reeve: The motion was seconded by William Rankin and carried unanimously.

A. W. Carscallen moved a vote of thanks to Mr. James for his great efforts in the matter. Carried unanimously. Mr. James, in replying, thanked the meeting for its vote of thanks and expressed himself as still determined to do all in his power to further the interests of North Hastings and mining in general.

Gave Him A Send-Off.

Christian Guardian, Toronto.

On Thursday, September 26th, the congregation of Chapleau Methodist church, tendered a farewell social to Sydney P. Way, who leaves for Queen's university, Kingston, to pursue a course in medicine. For over a year Mr. Way has been superintendent of the Sunday school, and envelope steward. By his energy and consecration the Sunday school has been brought to a high degree of efficiency, while his genial, manly character endeared him to both children and parents. As a token of love for their departing superintendent the children of the school presented Mr. Way with an address, and a beautiful, well-filled leather toilet case, and a laundry receiver. Master James Cameron read the address, and Misses Mable McAdam and Brittie Black made the presentations. The members of the congregation expressed their esteem for Mr. Way, not by their presence only, but by the gift of a valuable set of books. Mr. Way very feelingly thanked the children and congregation for these marks of esteem.

To Have Designated Portion.

King Edward VII. has consented to the request made by the American society for a clearly designated portion of the memorial monument to the late queen Victoria. This will be designed and executed by an American sculptor in harmony with the memorial's general artistic design. The American society in London has originated the idea of opening a subscription in London for an English memorial to the late president McKinley, if such may be accomplished with propriety, and the idea has met with popular approval.

MRS. IDA L. ROSER,

Grand-Niece of Ex-President James K. Polk, Writes to Mrs. Pinkham.

Thankful for Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound,

Did you ever stop to realize what keen satisfaction one experiences when we find that some kind and helpful thing we have done for some one else has been sincerely appreciated! At such times, how truly we understand the expression "it is more blessed to give than to receive."

Think, therefore, of the pleasure and genuine satisfaction Mrs. Pinkham experiences when such letters come to her as the one from Mrs. Roser which we are herewith permitted to publish.

Think what it means to her; it means first, that one more lovely woman has been relieved from sickness and distress through her assistance; it means second, that this woman who is cured is so grateful that she wants other women in the land to know of it; and it means lastly that Mrs. Pinkham's claims for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound are fully substantiated by testimony of such high character that every woman who reads this must believe and hope.

To be appreciated is a great pleasure, but to bring peace and happiness to the suffering is heavenly. Such is the mission of Mrs. Pinkham, and such a letter as the following proves her success!

MRS. IDA L. ROSER, 326 E. 18th Ave., Denver, Col.
Grand-niece of ex-President James K. Polk, and Assistant Grand Secretary of Colorado, Wyoming, and New Mexico Independent Order of Good Templars.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I have been married for nearly two years, and so far have not been blessed with a child. I have, however, suffered with a complication of female troubles and painful menstruation, until very recently.

"The value of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was called to my attention by an intimate friend, whose life had simply been a torture with inflammation and ulceration, and a few bottles of your Compound cured her; she can hardly believe it herself today, she enjoys such blessed health. I took four bottles of your Compound and consider myself cured. I am once more in fine health and spirits; my domestic and official duties all seem easy now, for I feel so strong I can do three times what I used to do. You have a host of friends in Denver, and among the best count, Yours very gratefully,—MRS. IDA L. ROSER, 326 18th Ave., Denver, Col."

When a medicine has been successful in restoring to health so many women whose testimony is so unquestionable, you cannot well say, without trying it, "I do not believe it will help me." If you are ill, don't hesitate to get a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once, and write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for special advice—it is free and always helpful.

$5000 REWARD.—We have deposited with the National City Bank of Lynn, $5000, which will be paid to any person who can find that the above testimonial letter is not genuine, or was published before obtaining the writer's special permission. Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.
