KILLED ON THE TRACK.

A Sailor on the Schooner Acacia Met Death This Morning.

A sad and fatal accident was that which occurred on the K. & P. tracks, near Anglin's mill, this morning. As James Godwin, a sailor on the schooner Acacia, which was lying at a nearby dock, was crossing the tracks, train No. 5 was approaching. He made no effort to get out of its way, and before the engineer could stop the train the locomotive had borne him to the earth, cut off both his legs just below the knees and injured his head. Corbett's ambulance was hastily summoned to bear the unfortunate man to the general hospital, where he died an hour or so afterwards.

Godwin was a Newfoundlander by birth, and comes of a most respected family. For a number of years he has sailed on boats out of Kingston, and during the winter boarded at the Dublin house. Two years ago he sailed on the schooner Annie Falconer. This year he shipped on the Acacia. The captain endeavored to persuade him to remain on board this morning, but Godwin refused, saying he was going up town to get some parcels. It was when returning to the schooner, that he met with the fatal accident. The deceased was about thirty-five years of age, and unmarried. As far as known, no relatives reside in this part of the country. It is supposed that he was under the influence of liquor when killed; he was celebrating yesterday, and had not recovered himself early this morning.

AFTER MANY YEARS.

Windsor, Ont., Oct. 21.—James Bell, a mulatto, giving his address as 1,098 Vinewood avenue, Detroit, was arrested in Windsor yesterday, on the charge of assaulting Alex. Gignac, of Sandwich West, seven years ago at the Mineral Springs hotel, Sandwich. Gignac was in bed a year as the result of his treatment and two men, Samuel Wilson and Montgomery Bell, brother of James Bell, served three years at Kingston for participation in the trouble. They were convicted of murderous assault.

Death of Fabian Paradis.

Fabian Paradis, Place de Armes, died to-day after an illness of considerable duration. He was born in Montreal forty-nine years ago, and for many years has followed the occupation of ship carpenter in this city. A wife and four children survive. It was only a week or so ago that Mr. Paradis' brother called to see him, and dropped dead from over-exertion on returning home. Deceased was an attendant of St. Mary's cathedral.

Are Swelling Themselves.

Toronto Telegram.

Since the defeat of the Argonauts the Granites are doing considerable crowing and the football committee have developed all the chesty developments of a pouter pigeon. But according to the dope sheet the close of the season will see the Argonauts so far ahead of the Granites that Morgan Shaw's beauties will be crying out for a lift up the ladder.

Mabel Franklyn Mayer, aged thirteen, San Francisco, Cal., was killed to-day at the home of her parents by John Stano, aged twenty-two years, who then placed the revolver to his own head and put an end to his life. Stano was infatuated with the girl.

ARE ACCUSED OF MURDER.

REV. DR. LANGTRY ACCUSES MANY WOMEN.

Says That on the Judgment Day They Will be Arraigned as Murderers — A Plain-Spoken Sermon—Practice Should be Stopped.

Toronto, Oct. 21.— Rev. Dr. Langtry, rector of St. Luke's church, in his sermon last night said that the whole world, in some characters, was growing better; in others it was undoubtedly growing worse. "There is," continued Dr. Langtry, "less drunkenness and less cruelty; however, compared with former days, but there is surely far more forgery and fraud and speculation and breach of trust. There is far more municipal and political corruption and robbery. There is far more gambling, horse gambling and wheat gambling and stock gambling, and all the trickery by which men try to transfer to their own pockets what belongs to others, than there was formerly. Then the worst of human crimes, murder, has been increased a thousand fold. I am not thinking of the atrocious murders and more atrocious suicides which defile columns of our own daily papers.

"I am thinking of the wholesale murders that are being perpetrated by wives who ought to be mothers, moving, many of them, in the highest ranks of society. The vital statistics leave no doubt that this crime is being committed on an enormous scale and if not arrested will end in the destruction of our Anglo-Saxon race and the substitution of a Celtic Roman Catholic population for that of which we are so proud. You may depend upon it that in families where there are no children or where there are only one or two children, in nine cases out of ten, there has been murder and the mothers that ought to have been, will be arraigned on the judgment day as murderers, and their husbands, in many cases, as accomplices. Something must be done to stop the enormous iniquity which is the out-growth of what is called an educated age."

Seven medals of the Royal Canadian humane society were presented Saturday by H. P. Dwight to as many persons for conspicuous bravery in saving the lives of four men who were upset from a yacht in the lake on Sunday evening, 18th of August, last. The names of the recipients of these valued medals are W. R. Plewman, Thomas Jones, Bradshaw Jamieson, H. G. Hocken, Frank Baker, John Gray, and Frederick Brown.

BULLER IS BELLIGERENT.

But May Receive Warning From the War Office.

London, Oct. 21.—Gen. Sir Redvers Buller is reported to be in a most belligerent mood, and likely to spatchcock a demand for the production of the heliograph message to Gen. White between thanks for the devotion of Devonshire friends and eulogies of the men who served under him. He may receive a warning from the war office before the luncheon comes on at Exeter. He is surrounded by flatterers at Aldershot, and there is no direct evidence that either the court or the war office has turned against him. Gen. Hilyard, who was his favorite during the Natal campaign, will be deputy adjutant at the war office. This seems to indicate that Gen. Buller has not lost the confidence of his official superiors, but neither lord Roberts not Mr. Brodrick can desire a repetition of the Westminster luncheon oratory.

CLEARING THE DEBRIS.

Some Strange Finds Made in the Ruins.

Halifax, Oct. 21.—One hundred men are at work at Sydney this morning clearing away debris. Among the buildings several articles were found intact. One workman picked up a large roll of bank notes and another found a refrigerator full of fowls and produce of various kinds. The streets burned or partly so will be re-opened for traffic in a day or two. The town council held a special meeting this morning. Councillors Hanrahan and Kimber were appointed a relief committee. Notice of motion was made to establish brick districts in business section of town.

At the mayor's suggestion a vote of thanks was tendered to all who in any way rendered aid to the town. After a thorough enquiry among the people burned out, there are only four or five families, at most, in destitute circumstances.

ANTI-DUEL CONGRESS.

Leipzig, Oct. 21.—The anti-duel congress, which opened here yesterday, has appointed a committee, including prince Carl Lowenstein, count Stolberg Erbach, and baron Celsnitz to take active measures to foster the agitation against duelling. At to-day's session a hope was expressed that emperor William would assist the movement.

This is the fifth accident of a like nature that has happened inside of two months, the unfortunate men being Messrs. Maloney, McIlwain, Murphy, Cullen and Mooney.

AIRSHIP'S SUCCESSFUL TRIP

Santos-Dumont Sails Around The Eiffel Tower.

Paris, Oct. 21.—M. Santos-Dumont, the young Brazilian aeronaut, made an ascension in his new dirigible balloon from the park station of the Aero club, at 2.42 o'clock Saturday afternoon. He doubled the Eiffel tower and returned successfully to St. Cloud in twenty-nine and a half minutes, but the guide rope was not seized immediately, and it took forty and three-fifth seconds more to bring the balloon down.

Consequently a discussion has arisen as to whether M. Santos-Dumont has won the prize of $20,000 offered by M. Henri Deutsch for any aeronaut who could make the trip in thirty minutes. A committee has been appointed to decide the matter. Great crowds of people witnessed the attempt of M. Santos-Dumont and there was much enthusiasm when he landed. M. Deutsch kissed the young Brazilian, who declared that he was ready to make another ascent if the decision of the committee was against him.

WAS ILL-TREATED.

Roast Merchant's Feet Until he Gives Up Keys.

New Lexington, O., Oct. 21.— Six masked men entered the residence of Charles Tague, a merchant at McLuney, this county, and at the point of revolvers bound and gagged the whole family.

Tague was searched and his gold watch and a considerable sum of money were taken. The robbers then demanded the keys of his store, but Tague refused to reveal where they were. His shoes were removed and his feet roasted with matches and hot iron until he gave up the keys. The robbers then entered the store and thoroughly looted it.

Taking Tague's horse and buggy, the gang loaded in a quantity of goods, the contents of the safe and other booty and made off. Later Tague freed himself and gave the alarm.

The sheriff with a posse and bloodhounds is in pursuit and found the abandoned buggy.

In the meantime it will be operated on the co-operative plan by all men directly interested in the movement of the trains.

A BEAUTIFUL CEREMONY.

REINTERRED REMAINS OF UNITED STATES SOLDIERS.

Who Fell at Lundy's Lane in 1814—Canadian and United States Soldiers Take Part—A Ceremony Long to be Remembered.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Oct. 21.—The military ceremony in connection with the reinterment of the remains of nine soldiers of the 9th United States regiment, who fell in battle in Lundy's Lane July 25th, 1814, was held Saturday. The scene of a full company of United States regulars carrying arms with their suitings of dark blue and British red coats fraternizing in the historical village of Drummondville, honoring the bones of America's soldiers who fell in fierce contest with British soldiers eighty-seven years ago, was a sight, under the circumstances, long to be remembered by 5,000 American and Canadian spectators present.

About 3 p.m. an escort of ten men of No. 1 company, 44th regiment, proceeded to the middle of the upper steel arch bridge and there met a full company, eighty officers and men, of the 14th United States regiment, stationed at Fort Niagara, accompanied by the 42nd separate company band of Niagara Falls, N.Y.

After the meeting and greeting of the soldiers of the two great English-speaking nations, they forthwith proceeded in marching order to Drummond Hill cemetery, headed by the 42nd band and the escort from the 44th regiment. The band played alternate British and United States military airs upon arrival in the village.

The United States regulars formed a line in front of undertaker Morse's rooms, where all that was mortal of the United States soldiers of 1814 lay in a casket nicely arranged. The casket was covered with the stars and stripes, and floral tributes, consisting of wreaths and crosses of roses and maple leaves.

Six men of the United States regiment lifted the casket to their shoulders and moved out. As they reached the street the full company presented arms, then wheeled into position of two companies, and with solemn tread, the band playing a funeral dirge, moved off towards the Drummond Hill cemetery up Lundy's Lane. Following in the rear was the bier and the Canadian military escort. Not since the famous battle of Lundy's Lane have United States soldiers, in full uniform, and carrying arms, trod the sacred soil of Lundy's Lane. Upon arrival at the cemetery, the United States soldiers came up in full line, with the British escort to the right around. The open grave was between two maple trees, under the eaves of the Presbyterian church.

When the pall-bearers lowered the casket, archdeacon Houston, assisted by Rev. canon Bull, read the burial ritual of the Anglican church. The casket being lowered the United States soldiers came again to full present, and fired three volleys. The company's bugler sounded "Lights Out," after which the band played "Nearer, My God to Thee." Then the soldiers marched off down the lane to the corner of Main street to the queen Victoria memorial fountain.

The United States soldiers and Canadian escort and band formed a half-square in front of the monument. Rev. canon Bull, president of Lundy's Lane historical society, acted as chairman of the unveiling ceremonies. Rev. Mr. Bull read an address to Mr. Brown, delegating him as master of the unveiling ceremony. Mr. Brown delivered an eloquent, patriotic and appropriate speech, alluding in feeling terms to the memory of queen Victoria, and as well to the international good feeling existing. To-day had proven, at the interment of the United States soldiers' remains, that the union jack and old glory were entwined. Mr. Brown then requested Miss Acheson to pull the string that held the union jack that covered the monument from view. As she did, and the union jack fell in folds at the base, the United States soldiers presented arms and the 42nd band played "God Save the King."

The chairman then introduced Hon. Harland W. Brush, who delivered a most enthusiastic address, very appropriate to the dual occasion, alluding to the great good life of Britain's illustrious sovereign, queen Victoria, and pointing out that no doubt hundreds of such monuments would be unveiled all over the British possessions, which the sun never sets on but the ceremonies would not be similar to those of this afternoon, when the soldiers of the two great English-speaking nations in the red and blue participated.
