EXPLANATION OF CANCER.

IT ATTACKS PERSONS IN BEST OF HEALTH.

Its Form Is a Vegetating Cell Growth—Knife Being Relinquished and Treatment of Escharotics Being Used.

New York, Dec. 20.—The much-heralded "discovery" by Chicago physicians of a cure for cancerous growths by the use of the X-rays, is received with more amusement than interest among the prominent medical men of the east. Leading physicians, while reluctant to discuss the claims of the Chicago doctors, agree in expressing the opinion that cancer is a malignant structural change of the tissues of the body, that the change is permanent and cannot be neutralized by heat, light, electrical effects, liquid air or any other agency. To effect a cure, leading practitioners agree, the cancer must be entirely removed and destroyed.

The causes and cure of the dread disease, as viewed through the eyes of the ablest members of the fraternity, are well set forth by Dr. Wallace E. Brown, perhaps the foremost cancer specialist in America, and who is now at the Waldorf-Astoria. Dr. Brown is the head of the medical faculty of the Berkshire Hills sanitarium, at North Adams, Mass., which for years has been a Mecca for cancer patients and physicians alike. In discussing the various methods for treatment of the disease Dr. Brown said to-day:

"I do not believe any valuable light will be thrown upon the malady by researches along the lines recently employed and exploited by certain physicians in Chicago and Buffalo. Cancer, to define it in a way that can be understood by the layman, is a perversion of cellular activity, or the dynamics of the cell. In its incipiency it is always a local disease, and not a disease of the blood. It invariably attacks persons that are otherwise in perfect general health, and never presents premonitory symptoms, not even a slight pain. The first knowledge a sufferer has of the presence of the malady is the appearance of a malignant structural change that is microscopical in size and permanent in character.

"This structural change is in form a vegetating cell growth and not parasitical. In every instance it invades the surrounding tissues by the process known as infiltration. To cure a cancer the remotest cell involved must be removed. This last is the reason why knife operations in cancer cases are almost invariably unsuccessful.

"One by one the eminent members of the medical profession are relinquishing their advocacy of the knife for cancer cure and turning their attention to the escharotic treatment, of which we at the Berkshire Hills sanitarium are the pioneers. This method of treatment may be said in common phrase to consist of caustic applications employed on a scientific basis. We use more than a score of escharotics, both single and in combination, chemically adapted for the needs of every patient. The applications are extended far outside the remotest infiltrations of the disease into sound tissue and cut off all circulation into the parts surrounding the cancer. This prevents the further progress of the disease and at the same time leaves the surface exposed after the eschar is separated, in a bloodless condition, and free from inflammation. If any cells of the cancer yet remain they are perfectly visible to the experienced eye and are situated so far within the area circumscribed that further applications can be made to these without retarding the healing process."

KINGSTON LODGE, I.O.O.F.

Entertained the Gananoque Lodge Last Evening.

Kingston lodge, No. 59, I.O.O.F., enjoyed a visit last night from Gananoque lodge of Oddfellows. The visitors were met at train and escorted to the lodge rooms, where, after an introduction, they conferred the initiatory degree in a very able manner. Kingston lodge then conferred the second degree on one of their old members, George McGowan, who though a member for over twenty-two years, had not received the second degree. The Oddfellows then repaired to the Whig building, where a fine spread awaited them. When the various courses had furnished their satisfying effects, speeches were in order.

The toast of his majesty the king was honored by the singing of the national anthem.

"The Grand Lodge" was responded to by district deputy Chapman, Gananoque, and Robert Black, Kingston. "Sister Lodges," by noble grand Parker, of Gananoque lodge, ex-mayor Carroll, Gananoque, and Dr. Sands, Kingston.

"Cataraqui Lodge," by Dr. Sands and J. R. Donaldson.

"Relief Association," by J. Bullis and Robert Meek.

"The Parliament of Canada," proposed by P. M. Thompson and responded to by George Taylor, M.P., Gananoque.

"The Young Ladies," by A. Kennedy, W. Patterson and Thomas Goodwell, of Prince Edward Island.

Dr. Abbott contributed a very appropriate reading, while charming songs were rendered by W. Bassam, Arthur Davis, city, and Messrs. E. J. Cotton and James McKellar, Gananoque, the latter contributing a Scotch song.

The committee having charge of the the proceedings and to whom credit for its success is due, was composed of these gentlemen: P. M. Thompson, M. P. Reid, Dr. Abbott, S. Reid, Robert Black, W. Bassam, John Pollie, A. S. Davis and A. Kennedy. At the conclusion of the programme three hearty cheers were given for the Gananoque boys, and they were escorted to the train and given a rousing send off.

A Bee In His Mouth.

Bancroft Times.

We have frequently heard of a candidate for municipal honors having a bee in his bonnet, but we never heard of one having a bee in his mouth until councillor Marshall, of Faraday, came to town in search of a doctor. Mr. Marshall had been engaged during the day in extracting honey, and when he finished the work he picked up a piece of comb from one of the dishes and put it in his mouth. Embedded in the comb was a real live bee, and when its business end came in contact with the roof of Mr. M's mouth the later danced a lively jig without a musical accompaniment. His throat and mouth became so badly swollen in a few minutes that he could scarcely breathe, and he started for Bancroft in search of medical assistance, but the swelling had gone down considerably before he reached the village, and he is not likely to suffer any serious consequences. It was a painful accident, but we are afraid Mr. Marshall got very little sympathy from his friends in town, who were inclined to look upon it as a huge joke.

Shakespearean Recital.

An entertainment under the auspices of the general hospital is sure of a large patronage, for the hospital has deservedly won the good wishes of the town. A Shakespeare recital is also an attraction that is likely to draw a good audience in a university town, and a Shakespeare recital by a Bostonian sounds more than usually enticing. It is not surprising, therefore, that every seat in St. Andrew's hall was filled last night to hear the recital of "Macbeth," by John F. Howard, of Boston. The entertainer was introduced by Prof. Marshall, of Queen's university, and the audience included the majority of Kingston's Shakespeare scholars. Unfortunately Mr. Howard was suffering from a cold, as indeed were many of his audience, and he was hardly in a position to do himself justice in the difficult part assigned to him. However, it is hoped that he will be in his usual good form to-night, when no doubt another large house will assemble to hear him in "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Owns Three Cheese Factories.

Strathcona, Dec. 18.—Jay McHenry, son of Thomas McHenry, millwright at Marlbank, while playing football here on Wednesday, dislocated his ankle. G. S. Madden, merchant, is erecting an extensive cold storage building. A. C. Granger is fast recovering his usual health. His son, who came here during his father's illness, returned to Minnesota in the spring. Miss McGowan, Napanee, was the guest of Miss McColl last week. The cement works are not running to their full capacity at present. Repairing of the mills is going on. George Cleall, who owns Selby and Newburgh cheese factories, has purchased Camden East factory, which gives him control of the milk for seven miles in a direct line. Word has been received that Nelson Shannon, who went to Manitoba about two years ago, has succeeded well. His many friends will be glad to hear of this.

A Mind Reader.

Chicago News.

"I suppose," said the physician, smiling and trying to appear witty, while feeling the pulse of a lady patient, "I suppose you consider me an old humbug?"

"Why, doctor," replied the lady, "I had no idea you could ascertain a woman's thoughts by merely feeling her pulse."

Money By Fraud.

The young man called at the office at the tannery and presented an account for $17 for hides, which he said he had just delivered. The money was paid over, and it was subsequently learned that the hides had not been brought in.

"SILENT PETE."

Beggar Two Years Ago, But Now Prosperous.

Chicago, Dec. 19.—"Silent Pete," a character, well-known to the Chicago police, who was a beggar two years ago, appeared in this city this week. He is now a prosperous mine owner, having a half interest in a copper mine in the Yukon, for which, it is said, an offer of $1,000,000 has been made. "Silent Pete" is now on his way to Sweden to join his wife and children, and has with him a letter of credit for $5,000. The story of the changed fortune of the man, whose real name is a secret, is that one evening he saw a man in Chicago take a match out of his waistcoat pocket and drop a roll of bills on the pavement. "Silent Pete" picked up the roll, overtook the stranger and asked him for a few pennies. The stranger refused, whereupon "Silent Pete" informed the man what he had picked up. The beggar showed the roll, which amounted to $2,000. The stranger, who is well-known in the far west, was on his return to Alaska where he operates mines. He finally succeeded in getting the beggar's story. "Silent Pete" said that he was a Swede, of good family, a university graduate and a civil engineer, but that drink had ruined him and separated him from his family. He came to the United States and had degenerated into a beggar. "Silent Pete" was taken in hand by the mine owner, and the result is that he is now prosperous and does not drink liquor.

VERDICT OF 26 CENTS.

Man Put Out of a Theatre For Wearing a Sweater.

Boston, Dec. 20.—Twenty-six cents was the sum awarded to William Skeene in the Suffolk superior court for being ejected from the Boston music hall last February because he wore a sweater. Skeene brought suit against the proprietors of the house for $1,000 damages, but the court decided that all he was entitled to recover was the price of his ticket, twenty-five cents and one cent interest.

The defendants did not dispute Skeene's story of the affair, but contended that a roll collar sweater, especially one not over-clean, was hardly the proper wearing apparel for a man occupying a seat in their theatre. The court said the management was right in putting Skeene out after he had refused to go voluntarily, but that they should have refunded the price of his ticket. The twenty-six cents verdict for the plaintiff was then ordered.

A Gentle Hint.

In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperature—rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day—it is no wonder that our children, friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Boschee's German Syrup kept about your home for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill, and perhaps death, by the use of three or four doses. For curing consumption, hemorrhages, pneumonia, severe coughs, croup, or any disease of the throat or lungs, its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you. Regular size, 75c. HEAVY LOSS IN SLUMP.

Rockefeller's Drop Said to Be Over $63,000,000.

New York, Dec. 20.—The drop of $20 a share in Standard oil stock, making a total decline of more than $50 a share in a week, makes a total shrinkage of $190,000,000 in value of these securities since May last when the stock sold at its high record figures. John D. Rockefeller is credited with holding one-third of the Standard oil company's stock so that his loss, in the slump, amounts to more than $63,000,000.

A Beautiful Trophy.

The Napanee challenge cup, donated by the Napanee hockey league, arrived in the city to-day and will be on exhibition for one week in the window of C. L. Bass' jewelery store. Kingston has two clubs in the league this year—Ramblers and bicycle club—and a strong effort will be made to have the cup repose here for at least one year, whether in the custody of the Ramblers or bicycle club makes little difference, as long as the honor comes to Kingston. The cup is a handsome trophy, standing about thirty-two inches high and surmounted by the figure of a hockeyist in the act of facing the puck. The trophy is far more beautiful in design and chasteness than the much-boasted of Robertson trophy, of the O.H.A.
