NEW YORK IS STILL GAY.

CHRISTMAS WEEK HAS BEEN A RUSHING ONE.

New Yorkers Feel Much Cause for Rejoicing — Seth Low Takes Office Next Wednesday.

New York, Dec. 26.—The week is nearly ended and Gotham is as gay as if Christmas had not come and gone. It has been a record week for everybody; society never before crowded so many events into any six days; there have been no end of political dinners and receptions given by their friends for both the out-going and incoming office holders; the thousands of poor of the city were made happy by the generous donations of the various newspapers and charitable organizations and the business houses have exceeded their most sanguine expectations in holiday profits; so, taking it all in all New Yorkers feel that they have much cause for rejoicing at the approach of the New Year.

Next Wednesday mayor Low begins his administration and Mr. Jerome, as the new district attorney, will also assume the duties of office. There are many matters of grave importance awaiting the action of these gentlemen and the public is anxiously looking forward to a cleaner and better government during their term of office. One of the most sensational cases that will first come under Mr. Jerome's notice will be that of "Al" Adams, the notorious "policy king," whose place was raided recently. It is said that much incriminating evidence has been gathered against Adams, but those in possession of facts will not push the case until the new administration is in charge of affairs.

To counterbalance the occurrence of so many worldly affairs, as it were, all the leading churches of New York and Brooklyn, begin their revival seasons with the advent of the new year and a great deal is expected of these institutions by those interested in the reform movement in the metropolis. Brooklyn Presbyterians have arranged for a series of religious services to be conducted by Rev. G. Campbell Morgan, who has been chosen as Moody's successor, and who has a wonderful following, to say nothing of being a speaker of extraordinary force and sincerity.

In connection with matters religious it may be mentioned that New York is soon to lose another famous old landmark in the Broadway tabernacle, which is to be demolished next spring to give way to a luxurious $3,000,000 hotel. The new building will be twenty storeys high and on the ground floor there will be a bank, a trust company and safe deposit vaults. The hotel itself will be the most advanced type of modern structure yet attempted. This will make the second palatial hostelry in Thirty-fourth street, as the Waldorf-Astoria is on the same thoroughfare only a block away.

The new lying-in hospital, the gift of J. Pierpont Morgan, will soon be ready for occupancy and the annual report of the hospital authorities shows conclusively the need of such an institution and its extensive field of beneficient help for the poor. The hospital is for the benefit of those who are unable to pay for medical attendance, and for whom the department of charities makes inadequate provision in this class of cases. There were last year over fifty thousand births in the borough of Manhattan, and of these less than half were reported by physicians, the remainder being given by midwives. Some attempt has been made to regulate the practice of the latter class by requiring them to pass an examination as to their ability; but a bill introduced in the legislature failed to become law, and at present license can be obtained by any woman by merely presenting a certificate signed by two medical men that she is competent.

In spite of the many complaints and protestations by certain people against the extravagance of the rich there is a vast amount of charitable work being done this year. Of the generosity of Miss Helen Gould everyone knows, and her name is respected in every household; yet not content with all she has done unto the least of these God's children, she has decided to enlarge Woody Crest, her home for crippled children. Miss Gould is so pleased with the present results of her work that she is making plans to care for more crippled boys. At present there are eighteen inmates of the home.

The most talked about young man in Gotham's smart set just now is Reginald Claypole Vanderbilt, son of the late Cornelius Vanderbilt, and last of the Vanderbilt boys to become of age. Mr. Vanderbilt's twenty-first anniversary was gladdened with the knowledge that he was seven and a half million dollars richer than this time last year, this amount having been provided in his father's will to come to him upon his attaining majority. He is not yet out of school and graduates next May from Yale. He possesses all the characteristics of the Vanderbilt family—love of athletics, studiousness, fondness for society and susceptibility. He is said to be engaged to Miss Kathleen Neilson, to whom he has been devoted for years and the romance has been one of the prettiest in New York's social set.

New York is necessarily a city of fads, probably because of its cosmopolitan population, but more likely that its ideas become rapidly exhausted in the continual demand for something new, and popular fancy adopts almost anything out of the ordinary if it be quaint and suggestive of originality. After many years poor Lo has become a fad and everything that be—or more truly the squaw make is in great demand. There are some stunning Indian goods in town just now, quantities of them collected by a scientific exploring expedition under the great auspices and showing the best work of the American Indians of different tribes. Some of the effects are ancient, some modern; much of the work is characteristic and some less individual, but all interesting enough in itself and because of the people, who have made it. Thus articles with Indian effects are seen everywhere.

All the world loves a generous man as well as a lover, but when he gives a fortune and makes the gift anonymous, it becomes all the more interesting. The recent donation of a hundred thousand dollars to Columbia university, is attracting attention for more than this reason, however. It was given to found the "Dean Lung Fund," for instruction in the Chinese languages and literature. Great prominence was attracted to the gift on account of the report that Wu Ting Fang, the Chinese minister to this country was expected to accept the professorship. This having proved untrue, the public was anxious to know, who endowed the chair, and while Gen. H. W. Carpenter will not admit it, he does not deny that he is the giver of the $100,000 presented to Columbia for this purpose.

As soon as the new custom house in Bowling Green is completed, the present home of the institution in Wall street will be vacated, when the City bank, which purchased it from the government, will take possession. It has been understood that the bank would alter the building so as to make it fit for its business, but now it is stated that it is planned to remove the present structure and erect on the site the most imposing bank and office building in the country. It is to be hoped, however, that the great granite front and imposing pillars of the present building can be retained, so as to preserve at least a part of a notable historical land mark.

Chosen From A Multitude.

The Preference Shown by Thinking People for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine — Record Sales Last Month.

Considering the large number of remedies for coughs and colds that are now offered to the public, and in view of the fact that nearly every druggist has a preparation of his own which he makes an effort to substitute for the medicine asked for, it seems truly remarkable that the demand for Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine should increase by such leaps and bounds.

During October the sale of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine exceeded by several hundred bottles the record of any previous month in its history. When it is remembered that this preparation receives very little newspaper advertising the evidence seems to be conclusive that Linseed and Turpentine has proven to be a perfect protection against such developments as pneumonia, consumption, and serious lung troubles. You can with certainty rely on this preparation to afford prompt relief and perfect cure.

Do you suppose that the sale of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine would be more than three times that of any similar preparation if it was not the most effective remedy that money can buy? It has stood the test and proven itself worthy of the confidence that is placed in it. People recommend it one to another, and so the good news spreads. Be sure you get the genuine, with Dr. Chase's portrait and signature on the wrapper. 25 cents a bottle. Family size, three times as much, 60 cents. At all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

Sive that it makes its way by sheer force of merit.

Thinking people recognize the harmfulness and danger of using strong drugs which are said to cure a cold in a few hours. They prefer to cling to Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, which they know beyond a doubt to be a thorough and effective treatment for coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, whooping cough, throat irritation, asthma, and even consumption itself.

The combination of linseed and turpentine, with half a dozen other ingredients of equal value for treating colds, in such proportions as they are found in Dr. Chase's Syrup of Maberly Musings.

Maberly, Dec. 23.—The last sitting of the council was held on Monday. William Bygrove has resigned, so we are sure to have an election. The school concert was a grand success; great credit is due to Mr. McPhail in his earnest endeavors to advance the youths. He has been engaged for another year. John Manders, seriously ill, is convalescent; also Mrs. Briggs. The bells have been ringing in Bathurst again, not sleigh bells, but wedding bells. Miss Mamie Marks was united in marriage to Mr. Menzies, Brooke, on Wednesday, by Rev. Mr. Fisher. The bridal party drove to the home of the bride, where a sumptuous dinner awaited them. The evening was spent in dancing and other amusements. The presents were numerous and costly. There will be an old-fashioned tea meeting in the hall on Christmas night. Mrs. Morrow and Mrs. Walroth have been visiting friends in Bedford. The lead mine at Robert Hughes' is turning out well. William Mulligan had a few holidays last week. Visitors: Joseph Sergeant at Daniel Buchannan's, also Joe Chambers.

HAND GRIST MILL IN QUEEN'S MUSEUM.

An Ancient Relic—A History of the Querns—The Scottish Canadian University a Fit Place For Their Last Resting Place.

Queen's University Journal.

Among the many valuable relics in the museum is one which will especially attract the attention of those interested in the early settlement of the country. This relic is a pair of querns, the hand grist mill of the old days, donated to the museum in March, 1894, by Angus McCuaig, of Glengarry, grand-uncle of D. J. McLennan.

In structure these querns are very simple, being in the shape of two flat circular stone discs, about eighteen inches in diameter and one and one-third inches thick, fitting closely to each other. The top section differs slightly from the lower one in that it has at the centre a circular hole about four inches in diamater, which acts as a funnel for the grain to pass inward. This circular hole is spanned by a small hardwood bridge strongly wedged into the section. This bridge serves the double purpose of being a handle by which to lift up the top section from the base when it is necessary to clean out the ground meal; and also as a pivot-bearing for the hardwood pivot secured in the centre of the base.

About this pivot the upper stone revolves, while the base is stationary. On the top of the upper section are holes in which could be placed wooden handles with which to operate the mill.

The grain fed in at the top is caught between the two discs, and by the revolutions of the top section it works its way towards the outer edges, over which it finally passes in a well pulverized meal.

Regarding the history of these querns the following is an extract from an article written by Mr. McEwan for the Montreal Witness, on the occasion of his visit to Lochiel, Glengarry county, in 1894, at the centennial celebration of the early settlement. "Mr. McCuaig showed us a pair of ancient querns, or hand mill, for grinding grain. These stones, he said, had been owned by McKenzie, chief of Kintail, or lord Seaforth, and were used to grind grain for his soldiers in the battle of Kintail, in 1715. They were brought from there by Mr. McCuaig's great grandfather, MacCrimmon."

The querns came into the possession of the McCuaig family, through Catherine MacCrimmon McCuaig, mother of the donor, who received them from her father as part of her marriage dowry.

When she and her husband in 1802, came from Scotland to Glengarry, part of the necessary outfit brought with them to the new country was their grist mill—these very querns. Here they were used during the pioneer days until the modern grist mill took their place. Thereafter for more than seventy years their son, Angus McCuaig, who is now a hale and old gentleman of ninety-three, kept them as a highly prized memento of the hardships of the early days until he sent them west to Kingston.

Among other travels, these querns were once taken by a former McCrimmon on a military campaign to Stracuile, Roeshire, in 1719, where they were no doubt a very important part of the regimental equipment. Slow as the process of making flour by this handmill might seem, stories are told of some amazingly quick work done by them in cases of emergency. From standng grain in the field to a baked bannock inside of thirty minutes would be a record hard to beat today, yet stories are told of many actual cases in which this has been done. The grain was reaped, prepared for the mill, ground and baked up into bannocks, all within half an hour. From this it can be seen how serviceable such querns would be in military expeditions.

That these querns—made in Scotland, used there for many years during peace and war, brought out here and used for many years by those same Scotchmen, who became pioneers in Canada— that they should find a final peaceful resting place in the museum of our Scottish-Canadian university is but a fitting tribute to the memory of those sturdy pioneers and patriots.

Strathcona News.

Strathcona, Dec. 23.—Little Freddie Darlington, died here last week of croup; he was between five and six years of age. Mr. and Mrs. Darlington have the sympathy of all in their bereavement. The Methodists are preparing for an oyster supper. Services will be held in St. Jude's church Christmas morning at eight o'clock. The church is beautifully decorated with evergreens. Jay McIlenry leaves Tuesday for Marlbank, where his father is located. A. C. Granger and his son, Homer will dine with R. Madden on Christmas day; Mr. and Mrs. E. Rook with B. Rose. Mr. and Mrs. Morden go to Deseronto for Christmas. Miss Addie Rook leaves Tuesday for Tweed to spend the holidays with Mr. and Mrs. Chase. Mrs. G. Rook is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Geoege Wartman, Wesley. Mr. and Mrs. James McAvoy, of Picton, will spend the holiday with friends here.

No Danger.

There is no danger of throwing money away if you take Dr. Hall's Rheumatic Cure for rheumatism. In a little while you will say it is the best spent money you ever invested in your life. S. Donaldson, postmaster, Dufferin, P.O., Pittsburg, Ont., was lame for two years and could not get out of a rig. One bottle of Dr. Hall's, with the Climax Iron Tonic Pills, cured him. This great blood purifier is put up in bottles containing ten days' treatment. Price 50 cents a bottle at Wade's drug store.

Mrs. Charles Smith, of Jimes, Ohio, writes: I have used every remedy for sick headache I could hear of for the past fifteen years, but Carter's Little Liver Pills did me more good than all the rest.

We must not forget the babies. Rattan cradles only $2, children's rockers 75c. to $2.50, at R. J. Reid,
