STUDENTS IN REVOLT.

A Series of Night Conflicts with the Police—Supposed Causes of the Trouble.

A despatch from Moscow says: "Between three hundred and four hundred medical students assembled in the courtyard of the University thinking an anniversary with the view of [illegible] with two of the professors. The rector proceeded to the residence of the Governor-General. The Chief of Police went to the University and ordered the students to disperse. They refused, and a serious conflict with the police and gendarmes ensued. All the students were arrested and escorted through the city to the House of Detention." Another account states that the trouble was caused by the supposed existence of an organization within the institution, believed to be Nihilistic in its tendencies, in which a large body of the students and many of the professors and teachers were concerned. An explanation of its character was demanded of by the Government and refused by the rector, whereupon a large force of police and soldiers surrounded the University buildings and demanded admission. The students, apparently encouraged by the rectory, hastily barricaded, locking the gates and doors. The police then assumed the offensive and a riot ensued, resulting in the arrest and imprisonment of 400 of the students. The Moscow University is a State Institution, under the authority of the Minister of Public Instruction, and has usually about fifteen hundred students and one hundred professors and teachers.

A similar occurrence took place in the same university some years ago. The students, wishing to make formal protest against the closing of the University of St. Petersburg, demanded from the rector permission to do so. This was refused, and some of their number were arrested. The others resolved to complain to the Governor-General of Moscow, and 200 of them marched in a body to his residence. Having arrived on the square opposite the building a troop of cavalry, concealed in an adjoining street, rushed suddenly upon them. The students were surrounded and cut down without mercy or trampled under the horses' feet. The greater number were stripped of their cloaks and marched into an open court before the Hall of Justice, where they were kept in the extreme cold from eleven o'clock in the morning until one o'clock at night. During these hours the police practised many acts of cruelty on the students. Eight were killed outright or wounded so badly by sword thrusts that they died within a few hours. Some of the ringleaders were sent to Siberia, and the rest were promptly expelled from the University.

Combustion Crumb.

Sarah Crumb, of Brookfield, Madison County, is on trial at Marysville for the poisoning of Mary Etta Burdick and Mrs. Nathaniel Sprague, of the same town, July 4th, 1879. Miss Crumb is about fifty years of age, and was housekeeper for Mr. Burdick, who is some ten years her senior. Counsel for the people allege that she fell in love with Burdick, and made up her mind to marry him at all hazards. The daughter Etta stood in her way. She was an invalid, and Miss Crumb prepared a small quantity of chicken soup. Mrs. Sprague, Mary Etta's sister, was home that day and both partook of the soup. The sick girl noticed a smarting taste to the food, and declined to eat much of it. A short time afterwards both were taken violently ill. A physician was called who declared that they were suffering from arsenical poisoning. Prompt treatment saved their lives. The soup was subjected to chemical analysis and it was found heavily charged with arsenic. The dish in which the soup had been served also contained about a teaspoonful of crystals of arsenic. Miss Crumb has an intelligent face, and appears in court neatly dressed. The prosecution has sworn witnesses to show the hostile declarations of Miss Crumb, and one of her anxious inquiries to the attending physician is, "How long is that girl Mary Etta going to live?" Mr. Burdick is a widower in easy circumstances. When put on the stand he testified that he had never encouraged Miss Crumb in the alleged love making.

A Clerical Fraud.

The discovery in Binghamton, N.Y., of the Rev. John Marsland, who mysteriously disappeared from his home at Chester, Connecticut, Nov. 15th, has been made certain. Soon after the accounts of his disappearance were published a young man who formerly lived in Binghamton, and he saw in an employee of the Bennorth elevator at Binghamton, who went by the name of John Montgomery, the missing clergyman. His suspicions were communicated to Marsland's friends and resulted in Mrs. Marsland's hasty visit to that city. Marsland, who was not aware of the coming of his wife, met her at the residence of one of his employers, and the meeting is said to have been very affecting. They left yesterday morning for home. Marsland arrived here on the 17th of November and immediately got work where he was discovered. His work was that of an ordinary laborer at $1.25 a day. The statement of his wife leaves no doubt that he left home under temporary mental depression, caused by what he thought was a lack of success in his ministerial work. Since the discovery of his whereabouts the society of his church has determined to welcome him cordially on his return and to continue his salary during his absence.

A Prudent Yankee Constable.

Mr. Elijah Hitchcock was a Connecticut constable, whose character was under scrutiny. Deacon Solomon Rising was inquired of about him.

"Deacon Solomon Rising," said the questioner, "do you think Mr Hitchcock is an honest man?"

Very promptly—Oh, no, sir! Not by any means."

"Well, do you think he is a mean man?"

"Well, with regard to that," said the deacon, a little more deliberately, "I may say that I don't really be in a mean man; I've sometimes thought he was what you might call a heerful—a prudent man."

"What do you mean by a prudent man?"

"Well, I mean this: that one time he had an execution for four dollars against the old widow Witter, back here, and he went up to her house and levied on a flock of ducks. He chased them ducks, one at a time, round the house pooty much all day; and every time he catched a duck he'd set right down and ring his neck and charge mileage, and his mileage 'mounted to more than the debt. Nothin' mean about it, as I know of, but I always thought that after that Mr. Hitchcock was a very prudent man."

The Death-Rate of

Our country is getting to be fearfully alarming, the average of life being lessened every year without any reasonable cause, death resulting generally from the most insignificant origin. At this season of the year, especially, a cold is such a common thing that in the hurry of every day life we are apt to overlook the dangers attending it and often find too late that a fever or lung trouble has already set in. Thousands lose their lives in this way every winter, while had Baxter's German Syrup been taken, a cure would have resulted, and a large bill from a doctor been avoided. For all diseases of the throat and lungs, Baxter's German Syrup has proven itself to be the greatest discovery of its kind in medicine. Every druggist in this country will tell you of its wonderful effect. Over 900,000 bottles sold last year without a single failure known. For sale by J. G. King, Kingston, and all first class druggists.
