It will be a fine literary treat and all should attend.

A CHICAGO man, against whom proceedings for a limited divorce had been begun by his wife, testified that he had kept his hair closely trimmed to prevent his wife from pulling it out. When a man takes such a mean advantage of his wife, we are not surprised that she wants a divorce. No doubt if he had permitted his hair to grow long, so she could get a good grab and drag him around the room three or four times a day to relieve the dull monotony of her household duties, she would never have thought of bringing suit for divorce. Husbands should read a lesson from this.

"Did you observe," a merchant who don't advertise in the paper, said to a customer, "the fine advertisement I had placed on the railing of the bridge?" "No," replied the customer, "but if you will send the bridge around to my house I will try and read the advertisement. I read the papers and haven't time to go round from place to place and read the boards." And the merchant scratched his head and slowly walked off.

CROSSED THE DARK RIVER.

We find in a St. Paul, Minn., paper the following account of the sickness and death of John H. Doran, which will be of interest to his many friends in this county, therefore we republish it in full:

It is with feelings of sorrow that we this week record the death of John H. Doran, a brother of our esteemed fellow townsman, F. B. Doran. Mr. Doran has been a citizen of the west side about ten years, having come here from Illinois to engage in the coal and wood business with his brother. He had immediate charge of the west side office, and he was a familiar figure on our streets during these years. He was a genial old hand, wholesome fellow who always had a good word for his friends and was ever ready to do a favor for them. Indeed, his was a generous spirit. About a year and a half ago he began to complain of not feeling well, but he was able to be about and attend to his business. Later, however, he broke out on his breast and neck and the physicians pronounced his disease tuberculosis of the bone. He seemed to realize that the end was near, but still maintained a cheerful spirit. All through his illness he was tenderly cared for by his devoted wife and daughter to whom he was fondly attached. Mr. Doran was an Old Fellow and at his own request a brotherhood conducted the funeral exercises. He was also a member of the Masonic fraternity, holding membership in Shekinah Lodge, No. 171, and also in Damascene Commandry, Knights Templar, and Ozmun Temple of the Mystic Shrine. The funeral services were conducted on Wednesday evening by Dr. Ingersoll, of the Park Congregational church, and by officers of Union Lodge, I. O. O. F. Rev. Powers an old time friend of the deceased, also made an address. The body was taken by the evening train to McHenry, Ill. His wife and daughter and F. B. Doran accompanied the remains. Thus there is removed from us a good citizen, a patriotic soldier when his country needed his services, a firm friend and devoted husband and father. The bereaved ones have the sympathy of all who are acquainted with the deceased.

ADVERTISE IN NEWSPAPERS.

Every holiday season there hobs up all sorts of little fly-up-the-creek advertising schemes. Merchants and business men are pestered and hounded to death by the promoters of devices to get a bulk of the money spent during this busy season. Yet these schemes have little, if any merit; they are of practically no benefit as advertising mediums, but they find patronage enough to induce their publication.

Merchants complain of the annoyance they encourage others to embark by giving their patronage, though acknowledging that they receive little or no return for their money.

The legitimate advertising medium is the newspaper. People who have money to spend, and want to buy something, look to their newspapers for announcements of what they want and where they can find it. Not one person out of a hundred ever reads a circular or dodger devoted purely to advertising. If any business man doubts the truth of this he will find proof of its accuracy in the waste basket at his own desk. He will find that receptacle for trash two-thirds full of circulars, posters, "Holiday Greetings" addresses, etc., many of which have not even been taken from the wrapper or envelope. He never bothers to more than glance at these things, and others do as he does. People are more alike than unlike. When the same man goes home he will find his family poring over the announcements in their weekly paper, discussing the bargains offered, trying to decide what they will buy and where they will buy it. Other families do the same thing as his.

Not only do the newspapers bring the biggest and best returns for money invested in advertising, but the merchant gives it to himself and his town to give them as liberal a support as his business will justify, and in preference to any and all other advertising devices.

The newspapers always vie with each other in their efforts to attract attention to their town and brings business to the community that supports them.

The only way a business community can rid itself of the itinerant advertising fakirs is to refuse to patronize them.—Aurora Daily News.

NAPOLEON'S VALUE OF VICTORY.

It Finds a Striking Counterpart in Recent World Triumphs.

Napoleon knew well the value of a victory. After Austerlitz the world seemed his. Fame invited, fortune favored, everything stimulated his aspiring ambition. With growing power he gathered the fruits of victory. And so it has ever been. Success succeeds. A notable illustration of this truth is furnished by the great victories won at the World's Fair in '93 and the California Midwinter Fair in '94 by Dr. Price's Cream Baking Powder. Ever increasing sales and popularity have been the result. The people have promptly ratified the official verdict that declared that Dr. Price's, for leavening power, keeping qualities, purity and general excellence the "formost baking powder in all the world." Quite as quickly as the great Emperor do they know the value of a victory that means world-wide supremacy.

Mrs. McDonald Wins.

Under the above head the Woodstock Democrat of Saturday last says: "The case of Mrs. Mary McDonald, of Greenwood, vs. Squire Dungee Company, which was an action brought to recover one dollar per bushel for the crop of pickles raised by Mrs. McDonald in the year 1890, and delivered by her to Dungee Company, was decided by the Appellate court, at Ottawa, on Friday of last week in favor of Mrs. McDonald. This case was tried at the last January term of our Circuit court, before Hon. Judge R. P. Goodwin and a jury, resulting in favor Mrs. McDonald, and the judgment of the Circuit court is now affirmed. This case has been closely contested from start to finish, and the result has been awaited with a good deal of interest by a great many outside the case. Attorney Barnes and Frank Spitzer represented Mrs. McDonald, while John B. Lyon, of Harvard, and Jas. F. Casey, of this city, looked after the interests of the Squire Dungee Company. This is only one of the many cases won by Attorney Barnes in the Appellate court, at Ottawa; where he has had many cases from this and adjoining counties, and nearly always won. Attorney Barnes stands to-day at the head of the McHenry county bar, and his business is steadily increasing, and to-day he ranks as one of the leading lawyers of Northern Illinois."

RINGWOOD.

Mrs. Lawson has been ailing for a few days, but is much improved at this writing.

Stevens & Bell have their corn husker running by horse power, being unable to move the engine through the snow.

The school board have just placed a jacket, or screen, around the stove at the school house, economy and comfort being the aim in view.

The second of the series of Club Dances will be held Wednesday evening, Dec. 25. Tickets, 50 cents, which includes care of horses and baggage.

We understand from good authority that there is a scheme on foot to establish transportation facilities between Cherry Valley and Ringwood, via McHenry. Round trip every seventh day, and to be known as "Laughing Jim's Bus Line."

The teachers and pupils of the Ringwood school will give an entertainment on Friday evening, Dec. 20. A good program will be rendered. The proceeds to be used in purchasing school apparatus. Admission 20c and 10c.

Ringwood can boast two tender hearted men; at least it looks that way. No. 1 cannot cut a turkey's head off to save his (the man's) life. No. 2 takes the turkey down to the barn and proceeds to divert it of feathers, after which he cuts the head off to keep it from freezing to death.

The Cemetery Society's Oyster Supper was a success in every particular. The evening was all that could be asked. This with good roads and the prospect of getting something to eat drew out a large crowd. The thanks of the President are due, and are hereby tendered the standing and special committees for their untiring efforts in making the meeting a success.

Camp No. 597, M. W. A., held its annual election of officers on Saturday evening, Dec. 14. The following are the officers elected: Consul, A. L. Francisco; Advisor, H. W. Allen; Banker, Phil S. Harrison; Escort, E. F. Harrison; Clerk, C. E. Fay; Watchman, R. Lawson; Sentry, W. McCannan; Manager, 3 years, C. W. Harrison; Delegate, C. E. Fay.

A good line of literature will be provided. We think all arrangements will be completed and the rooms opened to the public by the middle of the week.

Our M. W. A. Camp was organized by Deputy Martin, Wednesday evening, the 11th. The following officers were elected: V. L. E. W. Robbins; W. A., Frank Barber; Banker, Alva Hoar; Clerk, E. G.
