THINKS THE WAR IS OVER.

THE POSSIBILITY OF A PROLONGED RESISTANCE.

Now in Guerilla Stage—Charges Against Royal Army Hospital Service Have Little Foundation.

New York, July 23.—The Herald's London correspondent cables: Capt. Stephen L. H. Slocum, United States military attache with the British army, arrived in London from South Africa last night. In an interview with your correspondent he said:

"The war in South Africa is over. The Boers' resistance reached the guerilla stage six weeks ago, and the bushwacking campaign cannot last much longer. They have fought a good fight, but the odds against them were overwhelming.

"The sensational charges against mismanagement in the Royal army hospital service have little foundation. Lord Roberts' medical service in the field is good—quite as good as soldiers could expect.

With Capt. Slocum came three other foreign military attaches—Capt. Hinaoka, of Japan; Capt. Trimmel, of Austria, and major Esteban, of Spain.

"When we left Pretoria in June," said major Esteban, "it seemed as if hostilities could not drag along beyond July 1st. Lord Roberts was of the opinion that the situation had resolved itself into a simple matter of police operations.

"The chief lesson learned from observation of British tactics has been derived from study of their splendid transport system, which compelled more admiration even than did their strategy or valor. Bloemfontein was a miserable location for a hospital.

"The air is unhealthful and the water polluted, while other local conditions render an epidemic of fever inevitable. When I passed through there on June 25th, enteric patients were dying at the rate of thirty and forty a day, and the hospitals were caring for 5,000 sick."

Boer Horses Worn Out.

New York, July 23.—I. N. Ford cables to the Tribune that the Boers' horses ought to be worn out by this time, and they cannot be sure of getting remounts or supplies; but their mobility is unceasing, and columns on the British side are unable to overtake, hunt down and capture the commandoes. Lord Roberts' friends assume that as soon as Gen. De Wet's forces are dispersed the campaign in the Transvaal will be rushed. The military theory is that lord Roberts does not wish to leave Pretoria, but that he aims to hold Gen. Botha's force near capital, while Gen. Hildyard's division with lord Dundonald's cavalry is sent across country through Ermelo to cut the Delagoa railway and station itself within striking distance of Koomatipoort.

Boers Will Not Emigrate.

New York, July 23.—Charles D. Pierce, trustee and treasurer of the Boer relief fund and consul-general of the Orange Free State, makes the following statement concerning Boer emigration to the United States:

"My attention having been called to the statement in various newspapers that 10,000 or more Boers are about to emigrate from the South African republic and the Orange Free State to the United States, I wish to state in the most emphatic language possible that there is not one word of truth in such statements."

Mine Owners Growing Nervous.

Cape Town, July 23.—The Rand mine owners, unwilling to contribute more than they consider their share toward the expenses of the war with the Boer republics, are asking a guarantee from the imperial government that the taxation on the mines shall not exceed that hitherto levied. Mr. Eckstein is about to visit Berlin to seek the co-operation of Germany to the same end.

Dewet's Cleverness.

London, July 24.—Commandant Dewet has again proved himself too clever for Gen. Roberts' commanders in the Orange River Colony, and opinion here, though disappointed and wearied by the prolonged and futile efforts to stop activity, does not withhold praise of his skill in taking advantage of the natural features of the country, and in acquainting himself with his enemy's movements.

The English correspondents frequently have reported his force as being utterly routed and dispersed, but these reports have almost invariably heralded some striking success obtained by the routed commandant. From July 8th to July 16th he was reported to be hemmed by Gens. Hunter and Rundle, but on July 19th he was "repulsed" near Lindley, and on July 21st he cut Gen. Roberts' communications and captured a supply train and 100 prisoners.

His whereabouts are now unknown, but it is supposed that he is moving north, and it is likely that unless his success begets carelessness he will keep the British generals on tender hooks indefinitely. While he is free and able to maintain his force intact there is little probability of the war ending.

Rounding Up the Boers.

Pretoria, July 23.—Gen. Pole-Carew made a reconnaissance to-day east of Donderhook. The Boers shelled Col. Henry's mounted infantry, but did no damage. The British guns replied. Gen. Hamilton, on the left, made a similar movement. The enemy was cleared out beyond Bronhorst Spruit.

A young Boer law student, at Grey's Inn, London, until January 20th, came to the British outpost bringing a letter from the foreign consuls. He declared that the Boers were determined to continue the war to the utmost limits. The total number of Transvaal burghers now in the field is believed to be 18,000 men.

Gen. Dewet, after burning a train, camped four miles from the railway. A number of persons, sympathizing with the Johannesburg conspirators, sang a volkslied when the prisoners passed through the street to the station. They were summarily arrested and bundled to a train and sent south.

The Boers are reported to be concentrating in the Rustenburg district and Bush veldt north of here.

Natives report that a large amount of money is still buried in Wolmeron's garden. They are busily digging for it in the hope of a reward.

Fire At An Early Hour.

University avenue came very near being the scene of a serious fire this morning. Shortly before four o'clock, a young son of Robert Meek was awakened by the suffocating fumes of smoke. He notified his father, who, on making an examination, found smoke arising from an annex and coming into the house through the open windows. He at once telephoned the fire station and by the time he was dressed the firemen were on the scene. In a short time the flames were extinguished. Considerable damage had, however, been done. Two wheels, one belonging to Mr. Meek's daughter and the other to Miss Stokes, were destroyed. A large quantity of winter clothing, packed in boxes, and most of the kitchen utensils, were destroyed. The building was also considerably injured. The fire is supposed to to have been due to spontaneous combustion. Mr. Meek speaks very highly of the celerity with which the brigade responded to his call, and the efficient manner in which they did their work.

Nothing To Impede Speed.

The Grand Trunk railway company will not allow any official or private cars to be attached to the flyer between Montreal and Toronto. Nothing will be allowed to interfere with the time of this fast train.

Sectionmen are still at work between Kingston junction and Rideau station raising the tracks. It will be several weeks yet before the work is completed.

A. S. Donaldson, Grand Trunk conductor, who replaced James Summerby on the local suburban train, and subsequently was crushed between cars and the platform in the local freight shed, has been appointed master of the Grand Trunk yards at Brockville. He was seriously injured as a result of his accident here and never fully recovered.

To prevent these dreadful diseases the kidneys should always be kept in perfect order by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. No other treatment for kidney derangements was ever so successful, and none has such an enormous sale as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. They are now used in the great majority of homes in Canada and the United States with most excellent and beneficial results, and frequently prescribed by physicians when ordinary treatments fail.

Such grateful, unsolicited testimony as is contained in the following letter is not given to remedies of ordinary qualities. It is the spontaneous, heartfelt praise of a man who was cured of painful and dangerous disease by using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. Wm. Giles, carpenter, Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., states:—"Unsolicited I write to tell you of the good qualities of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in curing urinary troubles. I do not write for your especial profit, but for the good of those afflicted as I have been. I have used eight boxes and do not now feel the old trouble in the least.

"I felt relief one hour after taking the first pill. It is a great source of comfort to me to know that there is a medicine to help my weak kidneys. Those wishing further particulars may address me as above."

A VETERAN KINGSTONIAN.

The Grand Old Man of Ontario Celebrates a Birthday.

Woodstock Sentinel-Review.

On Sunday Sir Oliver Mowat, lieutenant-governor of Ontario, became an octogenarian. He was born in Kingston, on July 22nd, 1820. He is now, therefore, probably the oldest, certainly one of the oldest native-born of our public men. Besides being a Canadian-born, he has been Canadian bred and educated. The whole of his education was acquired in Canadian schools and he lived all his life in Canada, and in the province of Ontario. No man has shed greater lustre upon his native land and upon Canadian institutions. His is the most luminous page that has been written in the history of Canadian liberalism, of honest administration and progressive legislation. As a law reformer, sound constitutional lawyer, and eminent jurist he has been the peer of any other Canadian. His successful defence of provincial rights, territorial and legislative, has fixed for all time the correct constitutional relations that should exist between the provincial and federal authorities, and has been of inestimable value in making permanent the confederation of the Canadian provinces as the dominion of Canada. He has been a tower of strength at all times in welding more firmly the relations between Canada and Great Britain and in bringing about just such a community of interest and action as has been so strikingly exemplified during the past year. Sir Oliver Mowat was the most skillful and uniformly successful leader that the liberal party in Canada has ever had, and he was equally skilled and successful as a parliamentary leader. He enjoys the unique distinction of having remained longer, without interruption, the premier of a British province than any other man in any part of the British empire. His friends, personal and political, may look back upon his distinguished career, public and private, with the deepest pride and with unalloyed pleasure. Both are without a stain, and what was the judgment of his friends upon the man and his work in the past will be the universal judgment of posterity in the future. The people of Ontario and indeed of all Canada will unite in wishing for the grand old man—of government house, who has now passed his four score years, the utmost comfort and happiness during the remaining period of his life, be that period short or long.
