MISUSE OF FIREARMS.

The death of the king of Italy at the hands of an assassin is to be deplored. The man who did this act, who fired three revolver shots into the bosom of his majesty, with fatal effects, is probably some insane fellow who had a grievance and traced it to the king.

The wonder is that life is held as sacredly as it is and that shooting is not more common. The sale of firearms is unrestricted, and men and women are free to purchase them and commit the greatest of crimes. The government, too, by the use of free ammunition, is qualifying the people to be deadly in their shooting, the idea being that they will be the more effective in the national service and in combat with the common enemy. The individual carries his arms about with him for self-defence, but the while becomes immersed in a difficulty which he summarily proceeds to settle. The lunatic, influenced by some motion as wild as anything that can be imagined, menaces the heads of those who are high up in state and in power, and fancy they are doing the world a favor.

Sipido, a mere youth, attempted to kill the Prince of Wales in Belgium. The law protects his youth and the people cheer his indiscretion. One equally unbalanced mentally, stabs the Empress of Austria to death and is put away into unending darkness and isolation.

There is too much liberty, of a kind, and too much license of no kind, and they apply to the use and misuse of firearms. The people generally are the better without them, and a law restricting the possession of them to the military, or the persons licensed by the government, would reduce some crimes to a minimum.

Meanwhile the world laments the untimely removal of King Humbert. He was a monarch who ruled the people, who sought to make his government such as would promote the good and welfare of his people. Great national reforms followed his rule, and a peace that Italy had not before enjoyed.

A CHANGEABLE OPINION.

Dr. Albert Shaw, American editor of the Review of Reviews, betrays the changeable public opinion which now exists in the United States on the eve of an election.

Mr. Bryan is making anti-imperialism the issue of the campaign though he made the silver question the test of good standing with the democratic party at Kansas City. Mr. Bryan is expecting to profit by the cry against imperialism, though it is recalled that when the treaty of Paris was before the senate he appealed to his political friends to give it ratification. So that, as General Grosvener puts it in the North American Review, "the party whose great leader did this cannot afford, in 1900, to condemn the administration of the republican party for having entered upon this new field in its foreign policy." Both parties were committed to the treaty and imperialism, whatever one of them may think about it now.

Equally amusing is the dodging of the politicians on the Chinese question. The democrats are opposed, of course, to all territorial conquest. The republicans cannot afford to take any chances on a difference of opinion, so it is announced that the Americans and their interests are being protected by American troops in China. The American missionary has been the harbinger of good to the Celestials, "but if henceforth," writes Dr. Shaw, "in view of their deeply aroused bitterness against all foreigners the Chinese will not tolerate missionary work from any outside source it will not be the business of the United States government to propagate Christianity at the point of the sword." It was not the American missionary, however, who established the open door through which the United States has been pouring its commerce into China during recent years. That was the work of British diplomacy, backed by Britain's army and navy.

It may suit democrats and republicans to indulge in much shamming and shambling for the present, but the presidential election over the United States government, in any case, will be just as eager as that of any European power in maintaining its powess or seeking its division of the spoils. For the present the active politician across the way is an india rubber man, having neither form nor comeliness, nor plan nor purpose, nor policy, that is not subject to sudden revisions.

International Tennis

Hoboken, N.J., July 31.—The international tennis tournament opened here to-day, and the grounds where the games are being played are crowded with enthusiastic admirers of this class of refined sport from both sides of the ocean. British visitors are very much in evidence, and the best players they have turned out will compete for the prizes. Canada is represented by the largest delegation of any foreign country. France and Germany are also represented by small delegations of players.

EDITORIAL VIEWS.

Of the increased revenue during the last year, amounting to over $2,000,000, some $900,000 was collected from tobacco and spirits. These are the luxuries that will stand taxation.

What about the smelting works? Is the syndicate about ready for incorporation? People are asking for information, and they will probably get it when Meyers returns from England.

Was this question of prohibition not before the privy council some years ago, and did it not decide that the province had the power Manitoba is now exercising? If so what is the use of spending a large amount of money on a fresh appeal?

The Duke of Marlborough alleges that the Boers are holding out in the hope that if the democrats win in the November election the United States will come to their relief. Vain thought! Mr. Bryan will not be elected, and would not do them any good if he were.

Mr. Lount, Q.C., has disapproved of the action of certain friends in petitioning for his appointment to a judgeship. And he's right. A man of his standing in the profession has no need of wire-pulling in order to bring him reward and distinction. He can command both by his ability.

Mr. Frost, M.P., has been interviewing the government in the interest of a bridge which Kemptville desires. The promise of it is regarded as a bribe to the constituency. If it wasn't given there would be a grievance against Mr. Frost and Mr. Blair. It's impossible to please some people.

Mr. Boville, a correspondent of the Canadian press, is authority for the statement that the French government ordered the opening of the Canadian section at the exhibition on Sunday, and threatened to force an opening if it was not assented to. We do not believe that the Canadian commissioner would submit to this insult.

It would be an interesting subject of enquiry by the minister of militia and his deputy why so very few of the graduating class of the military college have accepted commissions in the British army, even refusing that former great prize, the Royal Engineers. It tells of a deep-rooted feeling against imperial officers. How did it come about? There is something wrong in some people's way of getting along.

The Spectator hereby is assured that the Whig is talking independently of politics anent the plot to rule Canada, made by a coterie of imperial officers. Nothing more offensive than the attitude of these men towards those "queer colonials" has been served out for many long years. Injustices to officers under them were numerous, unjust and unmanly. The Whig spoke out anent the governor-general many months since, long ere he is supposed to have had a lively tete-a-tete with Sir Wilfrid. The Spectator speaks out often independent of machine politics; cannot the Whig be permitted to do that same?

Kepler Conundrums.

Kepler, July 30.—Farmers in this section have nearly all finished haying, while some are well advanced in harvesting. The hay crop is not quite up to the average, but much better than in some neighborhoods. We are sorry to note the death of Frances, little daughter of T. F. Laurance, on Sunday, the 15th. The funeral, which was very large, took place on the Tuesday following. F. Aykroyd is marketing large quantities of potatoes just now. He has a very large yield this year. The Kepler boating club will run an excursion to Battersea on Thursday evening. A large crowd is expected. H. E. and F. Johnston wheeled to Gananoque on Saturday. They returned to-day, delighted with their trip. The Glenvale bicycle club seems to have a great attraction for our young men every Monday evening. Eddie Pugh, Kingston, spent Sunday at A. Townsend's. Miss Georgie Ramsay is spending her vacation with her cousin, Miss Alma Johnston. Dr. A. Knight, Ithica, N. Y., and Dr. L. Knight, Winnipeg, are visiting at J. Knight's.

Came Through Scathless.

London, July 30.—The duke of Marlborough had a most interesting experience in South Africa, and though participating in many fights and undergoing long marches, came through without a scratch or a day's illness. After leaving Bloemfontein, where he was attached to lord Robert's staff, the duke joined Gen. Ian Hamilton, acting as "galloper" for him during the hard fought progress toward Pretoria. The duke had several narrow escapes. He has returned home because Gen. Hamilton's staff has been broken up, Hamilton not needing his services longer. The duke says he is proud of his yeomanry, though he was with them but a short time. He was immensely struck with the Canadians, and perfectly satisfied that the British soldier, especially the infantryman, is as good as any in the world.

Americans Among The Bidders.

Montevideo, July 31.—The bids and specifications to be presented to the Hungarian government for consideration in connection with the extensive improvements in the harbor here, were closed to-day. Among those who have sent in bids for this work are several prominent American engineers and constructing corporations. The project contemplates the expenditure of $12,500,000. What is wanted at once is the construction of a canal port, and ante-port, up to at least seven and a half metres depth; docks, moles and breakwaters. The port revenues of Montevideo, amounting to a minimum of $1,500,000 gold payment of the contractors.

AN UNWISE LAW.

Fisheries Bill Discriminates Against Citizens of Ontario.

Fish dealers and fishermen—and in fact all classes of citizens over the province—are complaining about the new fish laws relating to bass, speckled trout and maskinonge. They discriminate against the Canadian to the benefit of the American. If a citizen does not get privileges in his own country he need expect them nowhere. The law in question is a bill entitled "An act respecting the fisheries of Ontario," read for the third time in the house on April 26th, 1900. Part two of section forty-four reads:

"Fish caught by any tourist or summer visitor, not exceeding the lawful catch of two days' angling, may be taken out of the province by such tourist or summer visitor when leaving the province."

Section forty-six reads:

"No person shall take, catch or kill in any of the waters of this province in one day by angling, or shall carry away a greater number than twelve bass, twenty pickerel or four maskinonge."

A Canadian can only catch twelve bass or the specified number of other fish and is not allowed to sell or export them until July 1st, 1903. The violation of this law brings upon him a large fine. But an American can come over and fish for two days and take his catch back with him, and sell it. Then, as he has "left the province," he has fulfilled the requirements of the law, and can return next day and repeat the act. But if the Canadian is caught taking one of these fish out of the country or caught selling it here, he is subject to pay a fine of not more than $50 for the first offence or $100 for the second offence.

It can at once be seen that the Ontarioan is discriminated against in a most uffair manner. It is no wonder that the people are protesting loudly against the law—a law which cannot be remedied any too soon. We give the Americans this privilege and in return our boys, who have secured positions in the republic, are deported because they are Canadians.

HE MET KING HUMBERT.

A Canadian's Strange Experience Which Led to an Introduction.

Toronto, July 31.—J. D. Allan, the well known furrier of Bay street, once had the honor of an introduction to the late king Humbert of Italy, and tells an amusing incident in connection therewith. On one of his visits to Rome Mr. Allan, on reaching his hotel, was considerably surprised and nonplussed by observing a great commotion among the guests and attendants of the hotel and was still further amazed to find that he was the centre of all the fuss, and for a few moments was the observed of all the observers. It so happened that Mr. Allan had driven up to the hotel at the exact time that prince Henry of Prussia was due to arrive in advance of the king of Italy himself, who was to arrive half an hour later. The mistake, of course, was soon discovered, but the incident afforded a good deal of merriment at the time and several days afterwards on the joke being related to the king, he expressed a desire to see the Canadian gentleman who for the first time in his life had received the honors intended for a royal personage. The interview took place and Mr. Allan found king Humbert one of the most genial and kindly spoken gentlemen he ever met.

Kaladar News.

Kaladar, July 30.—Haying is progressing slowly on account of so much rain. Charlie Morton returned from the drive on Saturday. O. H. Dunn has a little girl as a permanent visitor. Mr. and Mrs. George Wood, Waterown, N. Y., have been visiting his brother, Henry. Mrs. Lawrence Rolufs, died last week. She leaves a husband and six children, one of which is a baby about six weeks old. Mrs. Armstrong, Bracebridge and Mrs. Benn, Kingston, sisters of the deceased were in attendance at the funeral. Mrs. Orlen Benn has presented her husband with a little boy. John Cadman has returned home after an absence of two years in the west.

Another Miracle Reported.

Quebec, July 31.—Another miracle is reported from Ste. Anne de Beaupre. This time the person said to be cured is Miss Marguerite Lefebvre, 255 Quequechan street, Fall River, Mass. She visited St. Anne's a few weeks ago suffering with a very severe heart trouble, which rendered her almost helpless. On her return she found herself completely cured. Miss Lefebvre formerly lived at St. Anicet de Beauharnois, and has been in Fall River for eighteen years. She is twenty-nine years of age.

Death Of An Artist.

Oswego, N.Y., July 31.—Miss Emma E. Adams, an artist of ability, died suddenly at the home of her father in Oswego town, of hemorrhage of the brain. She was the originator of the "Columbian Dolls," and has acquired considerable fame and fortune in their manufacture.

The Belleville Intelligencer editor would willingly "bury" himself in Kingston for "a week or two" to run the Whig. He would be a lively corpse when his term was up. We will think about it especially as the Intelligencer wonders if we could "stand the excitement of living in a live town." We might get paralysis while idling in the bay city.

STARR AND SUTCLIFFE

DRY GOODS — S&S K — IMPORTERS.

KINGSTON'S LEADING DRY GOODS STORE.

Tuesday, July 31st.

WHY WE CALL THIS STORE NEWS.

We generally avoid the use of the word "advertisement," because in its later significance it savors of solicitation, and to solicit you to come or to buy are things we never do. We try to put the facts before you and leave the rest to you. We don't argue and we don't lie. Here's the store news of the day. If it interests you, you will come in. If it doesn't we are sorry. On this principle you can understand why we try to make the news as economically interesting as we possibly can. The facts must do their own talking, consequently they must be forcible. A bad bargain is the very worst thing we could give you for our own interests, so we make them good quite as much for our own benefit as for yours. This is part of the programme for to-morrow:

Flannelettes, 32 inches wide, in Pink, Blue and Grey Grounds, with Narrow and Wide White Stripes, 7c for 5c a yard.

Bleached Table Linen, 72 inches wide, assorted Floral Designs, Heavy Weight, 90c for 75c a yard.

There are stores that seldom take you into their confidence because they don't care to, and yet the way to make money is to tell the truth. If a thing is good enough to be sold its brave enough to tell the truth about. Words are sometimes used to conceal what's behind them instead of to reveal it. That's called shrewd advertising, it's cheating, and so it comes to pass that people think storekeepers are bad and general advertising not worth reading. We're working to create ground for confidence, trying to make ourselves and our methods known.

DISTRICT DASHES.

News of the District Condensed From the Whig's Exchanges.

On Saturday night, Miss Ethel Stagg, Brockville, and Frank W. Logan, G. T. R. engineer, were married.

Chief of police Ryan arrested a boy named Roy Sherman, on a charge of theft. Two years ago he was allowed his liberty by judge McDonald, Brockville, on a similar charge.

Irene Sauve, the little Brockville girl who was injured in the accident on the Grand Trunk railway Saturday, died in the St. Vincent de Paul hospital on Sunday. An inquest will be held.

Working His Passage.

Belleville Intelligencer:

On Sunday a police officer was called to meet the steamer Argyle upon her arrival here. It was ascertained that a man named Philip Thrasher had boarded the steamer at Kingston and desired to get to Belleville without paying his way, which he was unable to do as he had no money. Thrasher appeared content to remain upon the boat and work and he was allowed to continue upon the trip across the lake.

Enforce The Canadian Law.

Brockville Times:

Sir Wilfrid Laurier ought to protest vigorously against the action of the United States in compelling the Folgers, of Kingston, to dismiss, under the alien labor law, all Canadians serving on their boats. If a protest does no good the government ought to retaliate by the strict enforcement of the Canadian law.

The western fair opens at Brandon to-day.

HEAVY ENGAGEMENTS.

The Canadians Have Been Through Nine of Them.

Montreal Herald Special:

Kroonstadt, July 29.—The Canadian mounted rifles arrived here on the 6th inst. Since that time up to date they have been in nine heavy engagements. At the Klipriversberg engagement Capt. Stevens, of the 2nd battalion, was wounded, but he is now doing well. At Kemelfontein engagement, Pte. Frost "D" squadron, 2nd battalion, was killed by a shell. Capt. McDonnell, of "D" squadron, 2nd battalion, accidentally shot himself in the abdomen during the engagement, but is doing well.

"Lieut. Young and twelve Canadians of the 1st battalion captured two guns at Klipkop. The Canadians have had a miraculous escape throughout. They have done brilliant work and been highly complimented by the superior officers. In the Klipriversberg engagement they were selected to hold the enemy in check while the brigade retired, and did so in such a manner as to earn the highest praise from the brigade commander. The boys send greetings to all their friends in Canada.

Glenfield Facts.

Glenfield, July 28.—Farmers are busy with their hay, and report a very good crop. Rev. Mr. Coon gave an interesting sermon on Thursday evening. Mrs. H. Snider has returned home from her visit at Verona. Adam Grace is visiting at K. Hicks'.

The man who assassinated king Humbert of Italy avows his crime and declares that his only motive was his objection to monarchical institutions.
