MARRIAGE QUESTION.

The Hamilton Times is not quite satisfied that Mr. Gildersleeve, the issuer of licenses, is correct when he attributes non-marriage to an increased tendency towards bachelordom by the men, and to inordinate expectations on the part of the women. The Times theorizes that the trans-continental railways have had much to do with the changed experience, that the men are going west to grow up with the country, and that when they marry it is usually those whom they meet anew and not the friends of their childhood. "The Klondykes may be a good thing for the country," says our contemporary, "but they are a bad thing for the girls."

There is something in what the Times says, and yet Mr. Gildersleeve's philosophy pretty well covers the situation. The young people are harder to please as to their circumstances. They want the utmost comfort at the outstart, and they cannot always get it. Time was when the young people, satisfied that they were designed by God and nature for a life partnership, entered into it joyfully and co-operated in working for the conditions which they considered the ideal. The sooner this companionship is effected the better, and the sooner a beginning will be made upon the plans that lead to success.

If the inferences of some people based upon careful observation, be correct, the life that contributes to selfishness is being cultivated instead of that which contributes to unselfishness. The young man who marries early has not so much to spend upon himself, but he thinks the less about what he spends on others, and he gains the stimulation that aids him in his labors. Some men are what they are by virtue of the encouragement they have received from sympathetic wives. Some men have won distinction in political, in commercial, in professional life through the inspiration they have got from their "better halves." Some men, in their poverty, a la Poe, have made their mark in their sheer desperation to provide for those they love.

Sometimes the women simply fail to sympathize with the men in anything they do. They fail to connect the home with the shop, or factory, or office, and they become a positive drag instead of a help. These then frightened men out of matrimony, in the opinion of the license issuer. Their education is defective, likewise their judgment and common sense. Canada suffers on this account. This is a young country, in which most men and women must work together for the comforts they desire. The French idea, of marrying only when enough money has been made or inherited to maintain one in ease, is not to be cherished any more than the idea of non-productiveness which M. Zola attacks so vigorously in his new book, entitled "Fruitfulness."

CRITICISING THE CHURCH.

A local contemporary, upon second thought, appears to be somewhat reconciled to the church, and to be sorry that it said unkind things about it. The church is now regarded as a great institution, and the history of the last 1900 years is declared to be "nothing more or less than a history of the progress of the world under the influence of christianity." There is a singular confounding of the church with christianity here. But we let it pass.

The point with the Whig is that the church is accused of practically doing nothing for the good of the people, for the relief of the distressed and downtrodden; and when it is made to appear that this work is going on all the while, that committees are always at work, and that these committees are composed of church members, the critic is dumb.

Reference is made to the fraternal societies, and they are extolled at the expense of the church. Let it be understood that the most active workers in the fraternities are also the most active workers in the church, and that they do not find any ground for collision between them. The more one knows about these institutions the less he sees for difference between them, and this shows how absurd is the comparison in which our contemporary indulges. One order alone, he says, is doing more to relieve the distressed, help the needy, and soothe the suffering than all the churches in Canada. The order in question is doing a great deal, and it should be pleased with the praise it is receiving, but it is not desirous of credit where it is not due, and it is not surpassing the churches in the practice of general benevolence, and does not pretend to do it.

Our contemporary is assured, however, that the hypocrisy of some church members should not prevent honest and humble-minded people from putting themselves where they can get and do the most good. It did say that the hypocrisy of certain folks kept others out of the fold. Now it insists that "the fact that there are hypocrites in the church is no reason why men should remain aloof from it; it is a great mistake to do so; the church exercises its influence for good in spite of its unworthy members."

On the whole our friend the critic has not been fortunate in its discussion of the question. He reminds one of the fellow who, in speaking of a casual acquaintance, said: "Oh, she's a real nice girl, and her manners I very much admire. But she has big feet and hands, and a squint in the eye. Of course these are serious defects, but one forgets them in the music of her voice and the kindness of her heart. In spite of her appearance she is a very amiable and very worthy person."

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The attack on the Prince of Wales in Belgium was treated as a joke. It is possible to tolerate violence in this form until the lives of representative men everywhere are in danger.

What will anarchy gain from the death of any king? A constitutional monarch is simply the representative of the people, and their mouth-piece. He does as they tell him. How will society be benefitted by his slaughter?

The assassin who took the life of Humbert, of Italy, went from the United States, the appointee of an anarchist band. The United States has opened its doors to the outcasts of the world. Sooner or later it will be punished for its kindness.

The Hamilton Post has been timing the preachers, and finds that on a hot Sunday they averaged, in sermonizing, twenty-five minutes each. That's not long. The sinner that cannot stand a talking to of half an hour a week, and have it hot, had better cut the church altogether.

The Minto-Hutton plan was to send the Canadians to Africa in units of 125 each, and attached to the imperial regiments. The governor-general as a military man was committed to the mistake. That Canada was saved the humiliation is due to wiser counsels from other quarters.

The Toronto Telegram, is very savage with those papers that would let the C.P.R. president make it appear that he and the government are at war because the former cannot do as he likes. The Telegram says Shaughnessy may be a great railroad man, but he is a "blunder-headed dispatch-writer."

DISTRICT DASHES.

News of the District Condensed From the Whig's Exchanges.

A pleasing incident took place at the home of Philip Halladay, Elgin, Tuesday, the marriage of his eldest daughter to R. Hanna, of that place.

Mrs. Rowe, Big Island, Prince Edward county, died at Belleville hospital on Monday, from an attack of dropsy. Deceased was about forty-five years of age. Wellington Miller, Greenbush, was on Thursday thrown from a mower. The machine passed over him, breaking several ribs and injuring him in other ways.

Mrs. Johnston, wife of H. E. Johnston, hotel-keeper of Delta, was struck by lightning on Monday while sitting near the stove in the kitchen of the hotel. She is recovering.

Judge Fitzwilliam H. Chambers, Detroit, Mich., is dead, aged sixty-seven years. He was educated at Brockville, where he began the practice of law in 1855. In 1863 he formed a partnership with H. S. McDonald (now judge McDonald). This terminated in three years, when he removed to Detroit. In 1863 Mr. Chambers defeated J. L. Schofield in the election for member of legislative assembly.

Plea For Canadian Leaders.

Toronto News.

While the militia have been struggling under the rule of a whole array of big brass imported generals for years, we have, under common sense Canadians, built up a force second to none in the world, the North-west mounted police. And please note, it is managed entirely by Canadians. Do we imagine it would be the force it is if our various generals had been allowed to tinker with its organization? One of the chief arguments for the success of the Boer officers is their knowledge of their country and people. Our own officers should be more conversant with Canada and her people than any outsider.

Mothers In Conference.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—The national convention of the league of American mothers opened here to-day with the largest attendance that has ever gathered since the league was organized. The conference will continue four days and the time will be given up to the study and discussion of child training, and how to create right neighborhood conditions for the improvement of the young.

Went Mad At The Fire.

Ottawa, Aug. 1.—At the court yesterday, Mrs. C. Chapman, wife of a respectable laborer, was tried for insanity. She went raving mad the day her home was burned in the great fire. Yesterday in the cells she tore her clothes off and screamed till exhausted. She was committed to an insane asylum.

Free Refreshments.

New York, Aug. 1.—The remodeled Grand Central railroad station was thrown open to the public to-day without great ceremony. One of the features is that travelling women are served with tea, coffee and cakes free of charge in the tea room fitted up especially for that purpose.

Antis In Conference.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 1.—The conference of the American anti-imperialist league opened here to-day. Members of the league from New York, Chicago, Cleveland, Cincinnati, St. Louis and other cities are present to the number of about 2,000.

THE APPEAL SUSTAINED.

NAPANEE'S ASSESSMENT NOT TO BE LOWERED.

Napanee, Aug. 1.—The county council of the county of Lennox and Addington, at its last session, in equalizing the assessment of the various municipalities of of the county, raised the assessment of the town of Napanee to the sum of $100,000, and the town of Napanee appealed from this assessment, and the court, composed of T. A. Lazier, judge of the county of Hastings, W. H. Wilkison, judge of the county of Lennox and Addington, and S. Gibson, registrar of the county of Lennox and Addington, met on July 16th to hear the appeal. The court sat until July 28th and heard the evidence, both on behalf of the county and the various municipalities.

To-day the board made its report, and by this report the assessment of the township of Camden was increased from $1,790,046 to $1,890,000, and the township of Richmond has been increased from $945,473 to $985,000. The assessment of the town of Napanee remains at $800,000, the amount at which it was equalized by the county council. The assessments of the other municipalities remain as assessed by the county council.

The court directs the clerk of the county council to reduce the rates passed by the said by-law so that such rates will, calculated upon the finally revised and equalized assessment, produce the sum which said by-law intended to provide. The said court orders the costs incurred in the prosecution of said appeal to be borne by the parties thereto; each party to pay its own costs. John English appeared for the county; H. M. Deroche, Q. C., for the townships of Camden and Ernesttown; J. H. Madden for the township of Richmond; D. H. Preston, Q.C., for the town of Napanee; W. G. Wilson for the townships of North and South Fredericksburgh, Amherst Island and Adolphustown.

The fete at the park on Monday night was a decided success. The weather was just right for an affair of this kind. The races were run off first, after which a pleasant time chatting and walking about was enjoyed until the fireworks were displayed. W. K. Holland, Montreal, deserves especial credit for the fine display exhibited. The last one was the best. The word "Bobs" was plainly discernable in illuminated form. J. A. Shibley, our generous townsman, distributed 100 tickets to the small boys and young people of the town, who greatly appreciated the kind act. An excursion from Deseronto lent their presence to the occasion, and the Deseronto band discoursed sweet music in the park. A neat little sum was netted by the ladies of St. Mary Magdalene's church from the proceeds of the affair.

Charles M. Chambers, an aged resident of North Fredericksburg, died yesterday at the advanced age of eighty-two years, one month and twenty-four days. The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock from his late residence to the Eastern cemetery, Napanee.

DIED AT SYDENHAM.

A Successful Teacher Expires—Were Quietly Married.

Sydenham, July 31.—We are called upon to record the sudden death of Thomas Townsend, son of Mrs. Townsend, of this place. He was the principal of the Granby high school. Owing to ill health he was forced to resign, and came to Sydenham for rest. He went to Kingston and had an operation performed at the general hospital. On Saturday morning he was up and dressed. Later in the day he was forced to take to his bed again. That night he became much worse, and died early Sunday morning. He was buried Monday afternoon. A large number of friends followed the remains to the grave. Rev. Mr. Craig conducted service. The deceased belonged to one of the oldest families in this part. His quiet and unassuming manner made him the friend of all. In his profession he was a hard and conscientious worker. Only on Saturday evening he received word that one of his pupils had passed the examination. He leaves a wife and three children, who have the deepest sympathy.

We learn with regret that N. J. Flach, principal of the high school, is about to leave us. He has been appointed principal of the Napanee collegiate institute. We congratulate him upon his good fortune. Mr. Flach was an earnest worker, a good disciplinarian and was always deeply interested in the welfare of his pupils, who will be very sorry to learn of his departure. Last week John McConnel was quietly married to Miss Jessie, daughter of James Rutledge, living about two miles east of Sydenham. The groom is one of Sydenham's most popular young men. Rev. Mr. Shorey officiated. Only immediate relatives were present.

The service in St. Paul's church was last Sunday conducted by Rev. Mr. Bawden, Barriefield. We would wish to call the attention of the health inspector to some nauseating stenches which are in our town and whose causes should be instantly remedied. The work on the Hornerite church is being rapidly pushed ahead, under the management of Hindinery, Davy and William Guess. Several of our young people attended a party given by Mrs. John O'Reilly, Helleford. They report a most enjoyable evening. The youngest child of Fred. Bennett has been very ill, but is slowly improving. Thomas Harpell, Ottawa college, was a visitor in Sydenham this week.

HONOR TO WHOM HONOR.

A Tribute to Colonel Hughes From Africa.

One of the correspondents at the war for the London Times, and they are all skilled and discriminating writers, in an epistle from Prieska, at the end of April, reaching England rather late, spoke of the services of Lieut.-Col. Hughes, of Canada. He was in charge of the intelligence department and fifteen 'cyclist despatch riders, equipped by the Inns of Court, and serving under Gen. Settle. When major Orpen was despatched with the light horse to seize Upington, the force was preceded by Col. Hughes, three scouts and two 'cyclists, and the correspondent gives details of a seizure long since reported in brief by telegraph:

"The loan of this able officer is not the least amongst the services which Canada has rendered the mother country, and it is to be hoped in the interests of the empire that larger opportunities will be found for the qualities he has displayed throughout this expedition. One is often tempted to wonder whether our army might not make freer use of men whose experience has been gained in commercial organization. The besetting sin of British officers has been that they mistake the forms of business for its substance, whereas a man trained in the great commercial race, with shareholders to face and the tax-payer behind him, quickly learns that red tape spells ruin. But Col. Hughes is more than a business man and has seen service before. He has a way of appearing where people least expect him, and this, together with a certain gift of cross-examination, renders him invaluable as an intelligence officer. Moving with his usual rapidity in search of arms and information, he found himself a few miles from the pont connecting the town of Upington, with the south bank of the river. There he learned that the main body of rebels had quitted the town, leaving the pont intact. Whether they had dispersed or whether they would return and dispute the passage was uncertain. In the latter event, the crossing could have been effected only with heavy loss, for the river is completely commanded by the town, which stands on the edge of a plateau 100 feet above it. Acting on this information Col. Hughes resolved to rush the ferry. Extending his handful of men at long intervals he rapidly pushed through the belt of woods that line the southern bank and seized the pont, which was worked across by some Basutos, who are to a man enthusiastic loyalists. One shot skipped behind the pont, but the few rebels in the town, thinking the crossing had been captured by the advance party of a larger force, hastily retired, and five minutes later the British flag was floating over the residency. Maj. Orpen and his light horse arrived three days later. In the meantime Col. Hughes administered the town with characteristic energy."

OTHER ASSASSINATIONS.

Other Attempts, Many Successful, on Lives of Rulers.

By a Banker.

From 1848 to 1898 there were twenty-eight attempts, many of them successful, on the lives of royal personages and rulers.

Pietro Acciarito tried to kill king Humbert on April 22nd, 1897.

Four attempts were made to assassinate the great Napoleon.

Queen Victoria's life has been attempted three times.

Two efforts were made to kill the prince of Wales.

Napoleon III was frequently shot at, but died in bed.

The king of Prussia was twice fired at in 1851, but escaped injury.

King Victor Emmanuel of Italy narrowly escaped death at an assassin's hands in 1853.

King Ferdinand of Naples was stabbed by a soldier in 1856.

Queen Isabella of Spain was attacked by Fuentes in 1856.

The queen of Greece was shot by a student in 1862.

Abraham Lincoln, president of the United States, died on April 15th, 1865, from a bullet fired by Wilkes Booth, the night before.

One attempt on the life of the German emperor in 1873 and another in 1878.

King Alfonso of Spain was shot at in 1878.

Alexander II of Russia was assassinated on March 13th, 1881, in St. Petersburg. Unsuccessful attempts on his life had been made in St. Petersburg in 1866 and in Paris in 1867.

President James A. Garfield was shot by Charles J. Guiteau on July 2nd, 1881, and died on September 19th.

President Carnot of France was stabbed to death by Caserio Santo in Paris, June 24th, 1894.

A bomb was thrown at president Faure, of France, on June 13th, 1897.

ONLY EIGHTEEN YEARS OLD.

And Eight Years Tortured With Asthma—Kept in an Airtight Room For Months—Was Cured With Clarke's Kola Compound.

L. O. Leminous, C.P.R. engineer, Winnipeg, Man., writes: "My son, who is just eighteen years of age, has been a terrible sufferer from asthma for eight years. Hundreds of dollars I spent on doctors and remedies during these years only brought temporary relief. For months he was kept in an airtight room. About the 1st of September, 1898, we purchased some Clarke's Kola Compound. He took in all seven bottles and has since been completely cured. It has certainly been a blessing to him." Sold by J. B. McLeod, druggist. Enclose 6c. in stamps for free sample, to the Griffiths & Macpherson Co., limited, 121 Church street, Toronto.

Woodmen Celebrate.

Clinton, Mo., Aug. 1.—To-day is the occasion of the annual Woodmen of the world logrolling, and the largest crowd the city has ever seen is here. TRENTON TALES.

Thanked Their Teacher—Cause of Fire Still a Mystery.

Trenton, July 31.—The excursion from Trenton and Belleville to Glenora and Picton, on Wednesday under the auspices of the Salvation army, was a decided success. Steamer Varuna had the excursion, but it was found necessary to secure an additional boat at Belleville. The various girls who passed their entrance examination from principal Fairman's department, waited upon him at his residence on Thursday evening of last week, and made him a presentation, as an expression of their appreciation. It is needless to say that Mr. Fairman was much pleased and greatly surprised. On Thursday night of last week, between nine and ten o'clock, the fine residence of George Nolan, Shuter street, almost completed and ready for occupation, was destroyed by fire. The cause still remains a mystery, although it was no doubt due to incendiarism. Fire destroyed a new and nearly completed house for Mr. Nolan on the same site last winter. William Garson spent Sunday with friends in Belleville.

Miss Helen Hegle, Montreal, is spending a few days with her niece, Miss Ila Hegle. Miss Laura White is enjoying a few weeks with her grandmother, Mrs. Adams, Brighton. Mrs. Hyde and Miss Hyde, Harden, Mich., are visiting friends in town. Miss Kathleen Coyne, is spending a few days in Hastings. Mrs. Whitney, wife of J. P. Whitney, M. P. P., and Miss Whitney, are visiting Mr. Whitney, of the Molson's bank. M. McAuliffe, of the Weddell dredging company is in town.

The appearance of our town is being vastly improved by the excellent road-work and the laying of pavements along Front and Division streets. The new park on Division street is a step in the right direction. It is central, easy of access by all persons, and no doubt will be vastly enjoyed these fine evenings. The public library is an assured fact; all the newest books in fiction, biography, travel, etc., as well as the current magazines, are on hand. The river at present is jammed with logs and the river men are busy at work. The men at Gilmour's mill and box factory, are working overtime in order to fill the many orders.
