Passed Blood.

A Serious Case of Dysentery Where Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry Saved Life.

Diarrhoea, Dysentery and Summer Complaint are responsible for more deaths among people of all ages, during the summer months, than any other form of disease. These diseases are so serious that people should not take chances with any cheap substitutes for Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry, but should insist on getting the genuine remedy which has cured the very worst cases of Bowel Complaint, without a failure, in the half century of its existence.

This case of Mr. Traviss, of Fennels, P.O., Ont., is another evidence of the efficacy of this remedy in a bad case of "Bloody Flux."

Mrs. Traviss writes as follows: "My husband had Dysentery so bad that he was passing blood and could get nothing that would stop it. At last Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry was suggested and he started taking it. By the time he had taken a few doses he felt a great deal better and soon was perfectly well. He says that Fowler's Strawberry saved his life and he cannot speak of it too highly."

FRENCH AGGRESSIVENESS.

Le Journal, of Montreal, the new French conservative paper, has become very abusive because an official of the Intercolonial railway, Mr. Burpee, the chief engineer, returned a letter to another official, and requested him to write in English in place of French.

"This is the manner in which our friends of the province of Quebec," says the Journal, "are treated by the black guards whom Mr. Blair has placed at the head of the road at Moncton. It is useless to ask these individuals to understand French, but they should at least be intelligent enough to take the means to hide their ignorance in such an instance. We call the attention of the federal government to this case, and we wish to know whether our compatriots are no longer allowed to use their own language when dealing with government officers, and if, whenever they think proper to write in French, any Burpee has the right to send back their letters with the notice, 'write in English.' While dealing with this subject we shall make another remark. Why do not our compatriots who have any business with the federal employees always write in French? The French language is an official language in this country, and since those who seek official positions have not the good taste to learn it, let us force them to study it by writing to them in French only. That is a good way to teach them something against their will."

There is reason in all things, and there should be reason among the civil servants of the dominion. French is an official language and is used in the records of parliament to a certain extent. That is the notices are duplicated certain speeches are translated, and certain courtesies are extended to those who prefer the French, or who cannot freely use the English. But French is not so much in demand that it is to be used by all the departments in the dominion, and leastwise that railway heads are to conduct their correspondence in it.

Le Journal is insulting to the officials of the Intercolonial railway. The only language they can use is English. It is the language that goes into all their records and becomes the medium of communication between them. Mr. Burpee may have been able to avoid the incidence that inspired the Franco-phobia of the Journal, and he may not. In any event much ado has been made about nothing and in view of this fact it is to be regretted that Dalton McCarthy is not in public life to agitate for what may yet come to pass, namely the recognition of only one language, as the official and prevailing one, and it the language of a British colony.

THE C.P.R.'S THREAT.

The great railway corporation, which the Canadian people helped so generously, is having no real sympathy from them in its effort to bulldoze the government into a surrender to it. The C.P.R. has never liked the agreement with the Grand Trunk which has made the Intercolonial a competing line in the Maritime Provinces. It likes this agreement less now than ever, and threatens, if it is not cancelled, to make Boston instead of St. John its winter port. It is a fight of the railway company with the people, and it suggests these reflections on the part of the Toronto World:

"The threat of the C.P.R. to go to Boston is made for the express purpose of inducing the government to abandon the Intercolonial and to hand over the Maritime provinces to the two big railway corporations. Connection with Halifax is the one link which the C.P.R. finds essential for the completion of its system in the east. If it can secure that connection by taking over the part of the Intercolonial between St. John and Halifax it will complete its own system and render the Intercolonial an ineffective competitor in the Maritime provinces. Canada must decide to-day whether she believes in the Intercolonial as a regulator of traffic or whether she proposes to go out of the railway business entirely.

"If she accedes to the threat of the C.P.R. in this matter she virtually decides on abandoning all hope of ever being able to regulate passenger and freight rates on Canadian railways, for the Intercolonial once gone the country is completely at the mercy of the C.P.R. and Grand Trunk. The turn things have taken ought to convince the government and the people of Canada that instead of relinquishing in the least their grip on the Intercolonial they should strengthen it. The country must rise superior to the threat of a corporation of its own creation, that it will make the dominion dependent upon the United States for four or five months in the year. The policy of the government should be directed towards the extension of its railway system at both ends. In the west, the system should be extended to the Georgian Bay by way of Toronto. In the east, the government should make the permanency of the Intercolonial assured by starting the proposed fast Atlantic service itself, and operating it in connection with the railway.

"The dominion of Canada is under a moral obligation to bear its share of the burdens of imperial defence. Our contribution of men and money towards the South African war is the first instalment we have offered in the discharge of our obligation to the mother country. It is but a small instalment and a larger one is due in the near future. If Canada is to assist the mother country, she should, as far as possible, do so in such a way as will help the dominion at the same time as it helps Great Britain and the empire.

"The next contribution Canada should make to the empire should be the establishment of a fast Atlantic service, to be run in connection with the Intercolonial. Such a line will bind the mother country and her daughter colony more closely together than is possible by any other means; it will tend to make Great Britain less dependent upon foreign nations for her food supply by bringing Canada within five days of Liverpool; it will increase the efficiency of the imperial navy by placing at its disposal a fleet of four of five of the fastest boats in existence.

"If the Canadian government were to make the establishment of a fast Atlantic service an imperial issue it could no doubt induce the imperial government to take a financial interest in the project. With the Intercolonial extended to Toronto and Collingwood at one end, and complemented at the other end by a fast Atlantic service, the government project would become a formidable factor in the Canadian and transAtlantic transportation problem.

"In addition to establishing the permanency of the Canadian winter ports the government might further encourage trade via Canada as against the United States by limiting the preferential tariff to such goods as are exported directly from Great Britain to a Canadian port. A provision of this kind would of itself make the C.P.R. think twice before deserting St. John for Boston, and a great deal of the business now done by Portland would revert to Canadian ports."

The threat has not had the desired effect; indeed it is safe to conclude that Mr. Shaughnessy has made a mistake, and one he will live to regret.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

Hon. Mr. Sifton is hated because he is an able man and a capable administrator. Any other man would have fared as badly under similar circumstances. Mr. Sifton has been capable of defending himself, and, in the estimation of his opponents, is a very bad man.

Rev. F. H. Du Vernet, of Toronto Junction, favours municipal ownership of the electric light franchise, and has written to the council to protest against the handing over of the franchise to a private company. Mr. Du Vernet's head is level.

Hamilton has the worst pavements in Canada. The street railway company may be to blame, and it may not. But the fact remains that no other city can be found with whole streets torn up while the city and the street railway company are jawing over their responsibility.

Rockefeller, the oil king, has an income of $30,000,000 a year, which is more than the income of the sovereigns of Europe. And still he is not happy. He is denied the meals the poorest of the poor may enjoy. As a chronic dyspeptic he is obliged to live on bread and milk.

According to the last letter which Col. Hughes wrote he had asked relief from his commission, having vindicated his good name, and desired to return to Canada. "I hope to be home in August." So that the removal of his command would seem to have been at his own request.

The tories profess to admire the independence of the press—on the liberal side. When the Mail, some years ago, displayed its independence it was at once deprived of the party's favour and repudiated. It was not suppressed because the scheme to bring about that result failed. The Mail has not forgotten this.

Encouraging Conditions In India.

Bombay, Aug. 15.—The last of the cotton crop was sowed to-day. The food crops were all sowed by the first of the month. Here the crops are reported above the average. In Tonkan, in the Carnatic and in the Eastern Deccan they are promising. Elsewhere, south and north of Neerbudda, in Jugaral, Kathiawar and Barode, the rainfall has been insufficient. There has been little sowing except in a few places. In the Carnatic provinces excellent rains have prevailed lately. If the monsoon continues favorable within the cultivated area crops will fall short only at Hagpur and Chattisgard.

The prospects in Bedar are encouraging. In Rajputa the rainfall has generally been sufficient for agricultural purposes, save in a few sections where the heavy mortality of cattle has been felt. No distress is reported.

To Call Extra Session.

Frankfort, Ky., Aug. 15.— Governor Beckham is expected to call an extra session of the legislature at some date between now and September 1st, to amend the Goebel election law. It is understood that a bill already has been prepared for non-partisan election commissions in each of the counties to report to a non-partizan state commission with two representatives of each party on the state committee and on each of the county boards.

Colombia Legations Abolished.

Bogota, Colombia, Aug. 15.— The decree, issued by president Sanclemente, of this republic, abolishing all of the legations abroad except those of Paris, New York, Havre and Liverpool, went into effect to-day. About twenty consulates in the United States were affected. The saving by this action, which is for economy, will be great as each minister received a salary of $12,000 a year. A charge d'Affaires will be retained where the office of minister is abolished.

The last of the three trophy road races to have taken place this evening, will have to be postponed on account of the muddy condition of the roads. It will likely take place next Wednesday night, providing weather and roads are favorable. The riders who have won points so far have been hard at work practising for the last run. It will be a close and exciting race.

Louis Gibaud, Rochester, N.Y., the Frenchman who steered the steam pacing machine for Major Taylor at Chicago, when the "dusky cyclone" broke all world's records, is anxious to be reinstated as an amateur. As Gibaud rested his feet on coasters, and did no pedaling, simply steering the big machine for records only, no racing having been indulged in, his case is a peculiar one, and one that is puzzling the racing officials.

SECURED MEDALS.

Honors at Paris Exposition for the Noxon Company.

The Noxon company have been awarded upon their exhibit at the world's fair at Paris, France, the grand prix (highest award obtainable) and gold medal. That Canada possesses an industry capable of turning out a line of goods worthy of such an honor is a proud fact. There was predicted for this firm under its new management a brilliant future, but little thought that in so short a time its output would be raised to such a high point of excellence that in competition with the world's greatest manufacturers of agricultural implements the exhibit should have gained marked distinction, it being the only Canadian firm exhibiting to which this prize was given for the first time. The company has received a letter from the Canadian commissioner-general in Paris, congratulating upon the success achieved and thanks for contributing so, largely towards bringing Canada and her industries so prominently before the world. The exhibit represents machines in cultivating, seeding, hay-making and harvesting implements.

NAPANEE TIDINGS.

A Budget of News From a Western Town.

Napanee, Aug. 15.—A very large Sunday school excursion, numbering about 450, from Campbellford, came in yesterday by the steamer Merritt from Belleville and spent the day in the park and about the streets viewing the sights of our fair town. They were a very quiet and orderly crowd and greatly impressed the citizens by their behavior.

The cracked plate glass window in Detlor & Wallace's store was replaced yesterday. While removing the cracked pane it fell and broke into several pieces. The Lennox agricultural society will hold its show on 18th and 19th of September. The directors are using their best endeavors to make the show, as in former years, a success.

Mr. Flett, formerly foreman for the Gibbard furniture company, but now of Mount Forest, was in town for a day or two this week. Col. Clyde, Wilton, spent yesterday in town the guest of Dr. Ming, John street.

Miss Hypatia Fox has been accepted as a nurse-in-training in a hospital in Buffalo, N.Y. She will leave in a few days for her new undertaking. T. M. Henry, B.A., is quite ill for the past week.

Mrs. Samuel Gilpin and little daughter, of Cheboygan, Mich., are expected in town to-day, to visit her daughter, Mrs. M. D. Fralick, and brothers, Dr. and Herman Ming. M. Kouber, Hamilton, spent Sunday and Monday with his brother, V. Kouber, Mill street.

Hume Bissonnette and little brother, Roy, Stirling, accompanied by Miss Hume, came in with the Campbellford excursion yesterday and spent the day looking up their old acquaintances.

Charles B. Fox, Hamilton, is camping at Nicholson's point, near Bath, for the heated term.

The Crisis Passed.

Peterboro Examiner.

Mrs. James G. Potter (nee Thornton, of Kingston) passed the crisis of her illness yesterday and is considered by her physicians to be out of all danger. The utmost care is being exercised with regard to her comfort and nourishment. Drs. Corbett and Field, of Port Hope, who considered the case a most serious one from the beginning, because of complications, are delighted at the rapidity with which the disease yielded to treatment. It will be some time, however, before she has fully recovered.

EXCHANGED DRESSES.

Kansas Girls' Novel Plan to See the Fair.

Paris, Aug. 15.—The students of the Kansas state university who worked their way to the Paris exposition selling stereoptican views started on their return trip to-day. Another unique party from Kansas that is visiting the exposition is a party of Kansas girls from Reno county numbering about fifty. They comprise what is known as the Paris exposition club, and they themselves have raised the money necessary to take in the exposition. In May, two years ago, Mamie Davis called a meeting of her girl chums in the little town of Reno on the prairie of western Kansas. Miss Davis addressed the assembled girls as follows:

"Girls, we must go to the Paris exposition, and I have hit upon a plan to save enough money to enable us to go. We don't need a new dress every few weeks because our dresses don't wear out; it is just a change we want; isn't it? Now, let us change dresses with each other and save the dress money that our folks give us and put it in a common fund to spend on a trip to Paris."

The girls decided to form the club but kept it a profound secret. They called upon their parents for dress money just the same, but they never bought anything. They just changed dresses with each other. The only difficulty encountered was that Lydia Wilson was larger than any of the rest and it was hard to get any of the other girls' dresses that would fit her, but by altering them considerably, the difficulty was overcome. In this way each girl saved $250, which is sufficient to show them all the sights of the exposition.

Doing The World.

Paris, Aug. 15.—William A. Burden, the well-known Harvard football player and son of I. Townsend Burden, F. L. Higginson, the captain of the Harvard crew, who is just recovering from a broken leg; Augustus Jay, jr., and J. I. Salterstell, arrived from America to-day on a tour of the world.

The trip will be one of the most complete ever undertaken. They now intend to visit every country in Europe, South Africa, Japan and, if possible, the interior of China.

They will visit Australia and the South sea islands, the Philippines and return via San Francisco and will then take a run to Alaska, the northern gold fields and Canada. The young men are all sons of millionaires.

Miller's Granules are small; children will take them readily. Sold by E. C. Mitchell.

Picton will have a big go on labor day, September 3rd.
