CANADA CANNOT ACT.

No Means to Lengthen Term of Service of Canadians in Africa.

Ottawa, Aug. 31. It is the opinion of the authorities here that there is no means that can be employed by the Canadian government whereby the Canadian infantry in South Africa can be re-enlisted for two or three months as suggested by lord Roberts. They can be asked to volunteer for a longer time, or her majesty probably can issue a royal warrant, but they are outside Canadian jurisdiction.

A drowning accident occurred Thursday on the Madawaska river, about four miles west of Arnprior. The victim was Joseph Lesperance, a well-known river man of Douglas. He was engaged in separating timber, jammed on the river, when they suddenly gave way, precipitating Lesperance into the water. The deceased was a life long employee of Messrs. McLachlin Bros. Lesperance was thirty-six years of age.

Peter Smith, Stirling, is probably the oldest man in Hastings county. He was born in April, 1801, and is therefore an eye witness to the flight of a round century of years.

PROPOSALS TO STAND.

Not Likely The European Powers Will Oppose.

THE TERMS OF WASHINGTON

PEACE TERMS WITH THE EMPRESS DOWAGER.

Crimes That The World Must Leave Unpunished—An Attempt Frustrated to Sack the Tartar City of Canton — The Disturbance Was Quickly Quelled.

London, Aug. 31.—It is not likely the proposal of the Washington government regarding China will be seriously opposed by the European powers, except, possibly, Germany. It is recognized by England that the main work of the relief force already has been accomplished the envoys having been rescued and the dowager empress compelled to undergo the humiliation of hasty flight from the capital. It is not denied that further punishment is due, but unfortunately there are many crimes that the world is compelled to leave unpunished. It is impossible to pursue the dowager empress across China, and if that cannot be done the powers have no means of securing peace except on terms she will be willing to accept.

The Times, which has been printing articles against Li Hung Chang ever since the Chinese crisis occurred, has nothing to say this morning on the Washington development. All the other papers comment on it. While the consensus of opinion is that this was only the natural result, still there is deep chagrin of what appears to be a complete Russian success.

The Daily Mail, in an editorial, "Produce Them," says Russia with America and France no doubt hopes to form a triple alliance and dictate to the other powers a policy in the far east which will have but one aim, the consolidation of Russian power and influence in Northern China. Until the allies behold a stable government again in power it would be madness to withdraw the forces in Pekin. The surest way to secure this will be a joint refusal by the powers to accept intermediaries in the negotiations with the emperor and dowager.

The Standard says it recognizes that it would be hard to overrate the importance of the Washington decision. It adds that Russia and the United States each have strong motives for terminating the present crisis at the earliest possible moment. The powers have shown that they ask only for an open door for commerce, the security of the subjects and compensation for the past offences. It is the Chinese government which still acts as though it were its intention to force a more violent solution. The obscurities of the present may clear away in the immediate future but powers must retain their hold on the capital. The proposal of the United States government though not inconsistent with its own dignity is quite practicable; but not for others since a withdrawal from Pekin would be counted as a triumph of the anti-foreign party and be represented in all parts of the empire as due to European cowardice.

The Daily Telegraph says that Li Hung Chang seems to be once more master of the Chinese situation. Whatever may be thought of his character and career the usefulness of his diplomacy at the present juncture cannot be denied. The generals must be superseded by ambassadors in whose hands punishment of China and the future settlement with that country will rest.

A despatch to the Central News from Hong Kong, dated Tuesday, 3.35 p.m., states that on that morning an abortive attempt was made to sack the Tartar city section of Canton. It had been planned evidently to make the attack a big affair, but it failed at the crucial moment through the rioters' lack of co-operation. A mere handful of soldiers sufficed to quell the disturbances. Many prisoners were taken. Four houses in all were wrecked. Hatred of the foreigners is the explanation given for the outbreak.

How Legation Street Celebrated.

Pekin, Aug. 14, (by post via Tien Tsin).—A medal will be struck commemorating the siege of Pekin. It will bear the legend "Men, not walls, made a city."

In the grounds of the British legation where a handful of men withstood the millions of the Chinese capital for fifty-six days, a memorable celebration is in progress to-night in vindication of that principle. Missionaries assembled about Bell Tower are singing the doxology. Rockets are blazing. Soldiers and civilians of all nationalities are fraternizing. The women are applauding the sound of cannon that are smashing the yellow roofs of the forbidden city.

The tired Sikhs are planting their tents on the lawns and the American and Russian contingents are lighting campfires along the stretch of turf extending beyond the Tartar wall.

Through the ruins of the foreign settlement an eager, cosmopolitan crowd is jostling—Indians, Cossacks, legation ladies, diplomats, Americans from the Philippines, and French disciplinarians from Saigon, who kept discreetly to the rear while the fighting was in progress. Only the Japanese, who have earned the first place, are absent.

Resident foreigners welcome the luxury of walking about and immunity from bullets. The newcomers are anxious to inspect the evidences of an historic defense. These barricades are, after all, the most wonderful sight in Pekin. The barriers hedging the British legation are a marvel of stone and brick walls and earthworks. Sandbags shield every foot of space. The tops of the walls have nicks for the riflemen and the buildings, at their porticos and windows, have armor boxes, bags stuffed with dirt and pillows, too.

Back of the United States legation is a work named "Fort Myers," which the marines held, completely screening both sides of the walls, with steps leading to it. There is a loophole in the barrier across the wall which faces a similar Chinese work a few yards away. Another wall bars Legation street in front of the German legation, and, confronting the enemies' barricades within these limits are yet more walls, enabling the foreigners to contract the area of defense if pressed.

The tops of the American and British buildings were badly torn by the Chinese shells. The rest of the foreign settlement was almost demolished. Two thousand eight hundred shells fell there during the first three weeks of the bombardment, 400 in one day. Buckets full of bullets gathered in the grounds.

Four hundred and fourteen people lived in the compound through the greater part of the siege. Three hundred and four marines assisted by eighty-five volunteers commanded by the English captain Poole defended the place. Eleven civilians were killed and nineteen wounded. Fifty-four marines and sailors were killed and 112 wounded.

The Americans lost seven killed and eleven wounded.

Gilbert Reid, who was wounded in the feet, was the only American civilian injured. Two foreign ladies were injured.

The reception which the survivors gave the army was worth the hardships the troops had undergone. The entrance was not spectacular. Sir Alfred Gazelee, with his staff and a company of Sikhs, was tied upon a bed of seaweed in the canal under the Tartar wall. The besieged removed the barricades, and when the gates swung inward and the British colors appeared there arose a great continuous cheer on both sides.

Generals, soldiers and correspondents scrambled up the banks, choosing to be first. Men and women surrounded the rescuers and shook the hands of the Sikhs, patting them on the back. Everybody was hustled excitedly along into the legation grounds, where the colors were planted. The soldiers surrounded the well, which had been the salvation of the besieged.

The ministers and officers demanded the latest news on both sides.

An hour afterward Gen. Chaffee, riding at the head of the 14th United States infantry marched to the Tartar wall.

An American on top of the wall shouted: "You are just the man we want. We need you in our business."

"Where can we get in?"

"Through the British canal," was the response.

The American officer looked disappointed.

Although the Americans entered behind the last of the British forces their reception was just as enthusiastic as though first. When the stars and stripes emerged into view Mr. Tewsbury, the missionary, cried: "Americans, cheer your flag."

Ladies waved their handkerchiefs and the soldiers cheered the ladies.

On entering the grounds of the British legation the American troops stared in amazement and inquired if there was a lawn party in progress. They had expected to find the relieved in a worse condition than themselves, whereas the contrast between the appearance of the rescued and the rescuers was surprisingly in favor of the former.

The British minister, Sir Claude Macdonald, was shaven and dressed in immaculate tennis flannels. Mr. Conger, the United States minister, was equally presentable. The assemblage of ladies was fresh and bright in summer clothing. Only a few civilians were carrying arms.

The Russian Losses.

St. Petersburg, Aug. 31.—Despatches received here under yesterday's date report Gen. Veniersamp of the flying column, as pushing rapidly towards Tsitshar. The telegraph is working from Aguin to Mergen. The Russian losses during the advance were three officers and twenty two men killed, and five officers and seventy nine men wounded.

Let Ministers Move.

Vienna, Aug. 31. The Politische Correspondence publishes a despatch from St. Petersburg saying it is thought that there is no occasion for the envoys to make a long stay in Pekin. Now that the Chinese court and principal dignitaries have fled, it would be preferable for the foreign ministers to remove to another centre, probably Tien Tsin, where they would be under the protection of the combined forces.

Post Office Looted.

St. Joseph, Mich., Aug. 30.—Over $5,000 in cash, stamps and postal cards was stolen from the post-office Tuesday night, by professional cracksmen. The robbers entered the Federal building through a skylight, lowered themselves down the elevator shaft to the second storey and out through to the floor below. A hole was bored into the vault and the combination lock was forced. They cleaned the vault and for several hours there was a stamp famine in the city. There is no clue.

PRISONERS RELEASED.

They Are Marching To Join Lord Roberts.

PROMOTION OF COL. MAHON

HE TAKES THE COMMAND OF THE 12th LANCERS.

Mafeking Suffered From a Cyclone—More Damage Done Than by Seven Months' Bombardment—The Trial and Sentences of the Carter Ridge Rebels.

London, Aug. 31.—A despatch from Lorenzo Marques states that all the British prisoners at Nooitgedatcht have been released by the Boers and are marching to Watervalboven to join Gen. Roberts. President Kruger and other Transvaal officials are now at Nelspruit.

At the request of lord Roberts, the Cape government has sent its medical officer of health, Dr. George Turner, to Pretoria, to advise on the sanitary condition of the city.

The Gazette announces the promotion of major and brevet-Col. Bryan T. Mahon, D.S.O., from the 8th Hussars, to be lieutenant-colonel of the 12th Lancers, vice the earl of Airlie, killed in action, dated August 22nd, 1900. Col. Mahon was the leader of the column which relieved Mafeking.

Damage By Cyclone.

Mafeking, Aug. 30.—A cyclone that visited Mafeking last evening did more damage than the seven months' bombardment. It blew down or unroofed numerous buildings and levelled the military camp hospital, causing much suffering among the sick and wounded. One person was killed and two were injured. There were many narrow escapes.

Were Quite Lenient.

Kimberley, Aug. 30.—The trial of the Carters Ridge rebels, caught fighting, took place to-day. The two leaders of the band were fined £125 each, while the other prisoners were merely detained until the rising of the court. Considerable feeling has been aroused by the leniency of the sentence.

Goes Out Of Business.

New York, Aug. 31.—The Boer relief fund association and organization known as the American raad has decided to go out of business for lack of support.

A New Railway.

Cape Town, Aug. 30.—The military authorities are employing 10,000 Kaffirs in the construction of a railway direct from Johannesburg to the Vaal river. Therefore, if the Netherlands company prevented the use of their line by claiming arbitration, the new railway will provide an "all-red" route from Cape Town to Johannesburg.

No Extra Taxation.

Cape Town, Aug. 38.—Sir Gordon Sprigg introduced the budget at to-day's meeting of the legislative assembly. The deficit amounts to £65,000 but the premier expressed the confident opinion that there would be a great development of prosperity when South Africa shall have become united under the British flag. Sir J. Gordon Sprigg announced that it was not the intention of the government to ask for extra taxation.

Withdrew The Measure.

Cape Town, Aug. 30. The withdrawal of Mr. Sauriers' motion in the colonial assembly favouring the independence of the two South African republics, was due to the fact that it was certain of defeat if put to a vote. There is much comment on the wording of the motion which referred to the "late Orange Free State" instead of the "Orange River Colony," as it has been renamed by the British.

The treason bill is making rapid progress in committee. The eighth clause, constituting a special tribunal for the trial of those accused of treason, has passed.

REFUSED TO TESTIFY.

Bottles That Seemed to Have Held Carbolic Acid.

Toronto, Aug. 31.—Fanny Helpert and Meyer Shapero, charged with the murder by poisoning by Morris Goldstein, refused, under the advice of their counsel, to give evidence at the session of the inquest last night. No action was taken to compel them to testify. E. P. Johnson for Fanny Helpert and T. C. Robinette for Shapero, contended that the charge of murder relieved the prisoners of the necessity of giving evidence.

Half a dozen acquaintances of Goldstein said that he had told them of burning pains in his stomach. William Hearst told of finding about a dozen empty bottles in Goldstein's house on the day of the latter's death. None of them carried labels or marks, but some of them smelled of carbolic acid. They were now, he said, in the possession of the crown. The inquest was adjourned for a week.

Not Yet Identified.

Pontiac, Mich., Aug. 31.—In the inquest in the case of the man who registered as "R. C. Landis, Toronto," and who was found dead at the Hotel Hodgeson Tuesday evening, the jury found that Landis died from a drug administered by himself with suicidal intent. The body was not satisfactorily identified. The only further knowledge that can be learned concerning the man was that he was acquainted in Cleveland.

Making Hay.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 31.—It is the talk of republican circles here that senator Charles W. Fairbanks of Indiana is a "candidate for president to succeed Mc Kinley four years from now," and that his western trip next month is for no other purpose than to make acquaintances and to push his boom into view.

TAKING EVIDENCE

About a Collision—Major-General to Make a Tour.

Quebec, Aug. 31.—Capt. W. H. Smith, R.N.I., has arrived in town from Halifax. He is holding an investigation into the collision which occurred in the gulf of St. Lawrence between the SS. Rathlin Head and the government steamer Newfield. Yesterday he heard the evidence of the captain and officers of the Rathlin Head. Capt. Smith will now return to Halifax and take the evidence of the officers of the Newfield.

The numerous friends in Quebec of major J. A. G. Hudon, of the Royal Canadian artillery, hear with pleasure that he has been promoted to the brevet rank of lieutenant-colonel under the provisions of paragraph fifty-four, part one, regulations and orders for the militia, 1898. Lieut.-Col. Cotton becomes a full colonel.

Gen. O'Grady-Haly, the new commanding officer of the militia, is expected here next week. He will be in Montreal on Monday and Tuesday and will come on to Quebec and the lower provinces on a tour of inspection.

SHOOTING OF STRIDIRON.

Think it Was in a Quarrel Over Return of Lillian Hayes' Jewels.

New York, Aug. 31.—The police believe they have solved the mystery of the shooting of Harold S. Stridiron, Chicago, by John H. Eason, who at the same time he attempted to murder Stridiron shot and killed himself.

At the time of the tragedy a Miss Lillian Hayes, a friend of the dead man, claimed a package of valuable jewels had been taken by Eason and had completely disappeared. Yesterday it was found at the Delevan house and contained jewelery estimated to be worth $1,000.

The theory of the police seems to be that in some manner Stridiron became possessed of Miss Hayes' jewelery and that it was during a quarrel about the return of the articles that the shooting took place.

BURNED TO DEATH.

Man With His Wife and Child Perish in Their Home.

Vancouver, B.C., Aug. 31.—A. Rescoa, wife and child, were burned to death here. Their two-storey frame house was discovered on fire. As soon as the flames were partially extinguished the firemen entered and found the charred remains of Mrs. Rescoa on the lower floor.

Rescoa was in bed with the burning clothes wrapped around him, suffocated. The baby had rolled from the bed on to the floor in its agony.

The theory as to the cause of the fire is that the woman went downstairs to get a drink of water, and that the lamp exploded.

National Policy Did It.

Sidney, C.B., Aug. 31.—At a convention of the conservatives of Cape Breton county, held here yesterday Sir Charles Tupper and Hector F. McDougall were unanimously nominated to be the standard bearers for the conservative party at the coming elections. In his speech accepting the nomination Sir Charles reviewed at length his political career and the service he had done for party and country. He called particular attention to the record of the party in Nova Scotia, and claimed that the present boom in Sidney was due to the national policy which he said protected the coal industry in the days of its infancy. He said that the prospects for the return of the conservative party's were bright. Hector McDougall in his address advocated the building of a bridge across the straits of Canso.

Bloody Feud Between Rivals.

Winnipeg, Aug. 31.—A half-breed named Couillad has brought news of serious trouble in the Great Slave lake district between American and Canadian traders. Fifteen Americans, it was charged, smuggled large quantities of supplies in, and were thus enabled to undersell the Canadians. They also furnished whiskey to the Indians. Edmonton traders sent a committee to notify the Americans to retire. The latter declined and shooting followed. August Briese, Seattle, was fatally wounded and several of his companions were hurt.

Empty Rowboat Tells Of Tragedy.

Rochester, Aug. 31.—The captain of an excursion steamer reported yesterday having seen a rowboat five miles out in the lake, off Olcott, which contained a man and woman and later he saw the same boat and it was empty. Approaching the boat he found it contained nothing except a lady's pocketbook, handkerchief and a copy of the Ithaca Journal addressed G. N. Point, Point Breeze.
