STARTS WITH A COLD.

Catarrh is a Lingering Cold Which Refuses to Yield to Ordinary Treatment.

Catarrh usually starts with a cold in the head and if left unchecked in this climate, rarely gets well of itself.

As fresh cold is taken the disease spreads, getting deeper and deeper, creeping along the mucous membranes from nose to throat, from throat to windpipe, from windpipe to bronchial tubes and from bronchial tubes to lung cells.

The mucous membranes all connect, one with another. Hence it is easy to spread from one part to another lined with this same membrane. This is why catarrh in the head soon effects the throat and finally the stomach itself, bringing on chronic catarrh of the stomach, which is a most obstinate form of dyspepsia.

Everybody is now well agreed that catarrh is a blood disease and not a local one, and the attempt to cure by local applications simply gives temporary relief from the purely local symptoms without the remotest effect in staying the progress of the disease.

There is a new preparation recently offered to the public that is apparently destined to do away with every other form of catarrh treatment.

This new remedy is not a secret patent medicine, but is a large, pleasant tasting tablet composed of Sanguinaria, Eucalyptol, Guaiacol, Hydrastin and other valuable and harmless specifics, which are taken internally and seem to have a remarkably beneficial effect upon the blood and mucous membranes, apparently eliminating the catarrhal poison from the whole system.

These tablets while being pleasant, convenient and absolutely safe to use have made cures in long standing cases of catarrh that are little short of marvelous. They are sold by druggists under name of Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, and any catarrh sufferer who has tried inhalers, lotions, ointments, salves, etc., and realized their inconvenience and uselessness, will fully appreciate the difference between a mere palliative and a permanent cure after giving Stuart's Catarrh Tablets an impartial trial.

All druggists sell them at 50c. for full sized package and no matter where the catarrh is located, in the head, throat, lungs or stomach, Stuart's Catarrh Tablets will surprise you with the effective results of even a few days use.

WHAT THE DOCTORS CALLED IT!

Upper Stewiacke, March 20th.
To the Egyptian Rheumatic Oil Co., Ltd., Halifax, N.S.:

My wife has been suffering with what the doctors called Rheumatism of the lungs, and by the free use of Egyptian Rheumatic Oil the pain has entirely left her, and all evidence of rheumatism in these parts has disappeared.

I also wish to say that I sprained my ankle so badly I could scarcely walk, but the pain and swelling were speedily removed by a few applications of your oil. I need not tell you that I shall ever continue to recommend this invaluable remedy.

Yours truly,

MISS C. BRITTON MARRIED

A FASHIONABLE WEDDING IN QUEEN STREET CHURCH.

A Finely Dressed Company Witnessed the Charming Event—Reception at the Home—Departure of the Couple.

A fashionable wedding took place at eleven o'clock this morning in Queen street Methodist church, when Clara Maud Britton, fifth daughter of Mr. Byron M. Britton, Q.C., of this city, was married to Mr. Louis Herbert May, of Brooklyn, N.Y. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Duncan C. Macphail, of St. Andrew's church, Picton, assisted by the Rev. James Elliott. The ushers were Messrs. Arthur Britton, Ernest Cunningham, Harold Rathbun, (Deseronto), Holton Learmont, Montreal. Guests numbered upwards of ninety, and their handsome toilettes were criticized and admired by a large crowd of interested spectators until the arrival of the bride's party when the three sisters were the cynosure of all eyes as they proceeded down the aisle. First came the bridesmaids, Misses Elizabeth and Mildred Britton, gowned alike in pale grey crepe de chine trimmed with white embroidered chiffon and grey velvet ribbon, with fichus of grey crepe de chine, yokes and sleeves of white silk all-over embroidery. They wore black velvet picture hats with black plumes, and carried shower bouquets of crimson roses tied with long streamers of crimson ribbon. Both maids looked very lovely, the one petite and dark, and the other tall and fair, the dainty toilettes were equally becoming to each, and the necessary amount of color was introduced in their bouquets of rich crimson. The most attractive figure in the party was the bride herself. Always bright and gay, always looking as if she had seen only the sunny side of life, Miss Clara Britton on her wedding morning was a fair type of youthful beauty and happiness. Her white satin gown had a long full train, and three broad pieces of chiffon were braided together and reached down the left side of her skirt where the soft plait was fastened above the hem with a spray of orange blossoms. The back of the bodice was laid in diagonal folds of satin and finished about the decolletage with handsome white lace, caught at the corsage with orange blossoms. The transparent yoke and sleeves, were of fine liberty chiffon in tiny tucks, and on each space between the tucks was applique a narrow insertion of Honiton braid. A wreath of orange blossoms crowned her pretty yellow hair, and the soft folds of a brussels net veil added the regulation finish to her wedding robes. Her shower bouquet was of white roses. The bride was given away by her father. The groomsman was Mr. George Coit, of New York.

Miss Singleton presided at the organ and played softly throughout the service, merging into Mendelssohn's wedding march as the bride and groom left the building.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 3 Sydenham street, where Mr. and Mrs. May received the congratulations of the wedding guests. Telegrams were received from many out-of-town friends, who were present in spirit although distance divided them from the happy gathering.

Dejeuner was served in the dining room and in the library. In the latter room the flowers were especially beautiful, the tops of the book cases, which line the walls, being fairly banked with potted plants and studded with cut flowers. The flowers on the bride's table were white roses, and the vase on top of the handsome wedding cake was one that is now attaining a local historical prominence since this is the fourteenth time that it has done service at a wedding breakfast. The wedding gifts were arranged in the sitting room upstairs and the display was very beautiful. It is usual to speak of the popularity of the bride, in connection with the large number of gifts, but in this instance it is not too much to say that she is undoubtedly one of the most popular girls in Kingston. Her going away gown of navy blue camel's hair cloth was tailor-made and under the stylish little coat she wore a navy blue taffeta blouse with white stitching. Her toque was sapphire blue panne velvet with white lace insertion, black breast and steel ornaments.

A large party accompanied the bride and groom to the Grand Trunk station, where they took the train for the east, followed by the good wishes of a host of friends and relatives.

The bride's mother wore an elegant gown of violet silk moire with a pattern of teal old black lace applique on skirt and bodice. Her bonnet was a darker shade of violet trimmed with white ospreys and dresden panne velvet in white and violet.

Mrs. Philip H. Gilbert, Montreal, wore grey silk bengaline with bolero of grey brocade and trimmings of black panne velvet and white accordeon pleated chiffon; French toque of grey panne velvet with black and silver trimmings and white wings. Shower bouquet of red carnations.

Mrs. Donald Macphail, Picton, wore navy blue voile, over black silk, with trimmings of white embroidered chiffon. Plack velvet hat with plumes.

Little Miss Mary Macphail wore a pretty white silk empire frock and leghorn poke bonnet trimmed with white chiffon and tied with white chiffon strings.

Miss Katie Reford, of Montreal, wore blue voile over heliotrope with sequin toque in pastel shades.

Miss Seline Savage, of Montreal, wore fawn voile with cream insertion and black velvet hat.

Amongst those present were Mr. and Mrs. P. H. Gilbert, Mr. Holton Learmont, Miss Alice Sutherland, Mr. Andrew Reford, Miss Katie Reford, Miss Seline Savage, Mr. Archie Russel, of Montreal; Rev. D. G. and Mrs. Macphail, Miss Mary Macphail, of Picton; Miss Durie, Miss Montizambert, of Ottawa; Mrs. Miller (sister of the groom), Bristol, Rhode Island; Miss Steers, of New York; Mr. Harold Rathbun, Miss Jessie Rathbun, of Deseronto; Mrs. Atkinson, Miss Florence Atkinson, Mrs. C. E. Britton, Miss Britton; Miss Cowan, of Gananoque; Miss Breden, Mrs. W. B. Carey, Mrs. Arthur B. Cunningham, Miss Florence Cunningham, Miss Clements, Mr. George Dalton, Mr. E. H. Britton, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. C. Dobbs, Rev. James Elliott and Mrs. Elliott; Mr. and Mrs. Howard S. Folger, Miss Edith Folger, Miss Kathleen Harty, Mr. Willie Harty, Miss Ethel Hendry, Miss Irene Henderson, Miss Rose Kirkpatrick, Miss Gertrude Low, Mr. Folger, Miss Macliment, Quebec; Miss Lorraine Lesslie, Miss Macnee, Mr. F. Macnee, Miss McGill, Mr. and Mrs. McIntyre, Miss Etta Macpherson, Mr. and Mrs. Martin, Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. Montizambert, the Misses Montizambert, Mr. and Mrs. William F. Nickle, Miss Constance Norton-Taylor, Miss Ida Price, Mrs. Reeves, Miss Margaret Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. W. B. REPORTED FOR ROUGH PLAY

THREE ROUGH RIDERS DID VERY BRUTAL WORK.

Something About the Hired Man—Comments by Hamilton Papers—McGill a Lucky Team—Gleason to Play With Argonauts.

Argonauts and Tigers play in Hamilton to-morrow.

The gate receipts at Hamilton amounted to $257.

Granites have not yet had a practice since Saturday's match.

The O.R.F.U. championship will be won by the Ottawa Rough Riders, as also will the Canadian rugby championship. Who will deny that?

The Hamilton Herald says: "Manager Jack Elliott, of the Granites, offered to bet $100 that the Rough Riders will defeat the Tigers on the local grounds. Well, maybe they will."

Times: Whale Milo was in the scrimmage his great reach bothered McCarthy considerably, and he had some success in breaking up the Hamilton scrimmage.

It might be in order to ask how much the Argonauts are paying Gleason for turning out with them. Certainly he's not worth much now in cash or on a football field.

Herald: Although Hamilton scored five times and the Granites failed to get near scoring at any time there was no department of the game at which the Tigers very greatly outclassed their opponents.

In Hamilton they say that Nick Hinch shaved off his moustache in the vain hope that he would not be recognized. Exactly! He needed to be purified after associating with Counsell's paid men.

Toronto Mail-Empire: "The Kingston Granites are the season's disappointment. In the three games they have played they have only scored four points." And yet the Granites have defeated the team which the Toronto Argonauts failed to do last Saturday.

Here's the way the Hamilton Times reasons it out: "The advance talk about the Granites having a weak team was somewhat of a bluff. Any team that can carry a man like Nick Hinch as a spare man is not weak or else a mistake is being made in placing the players."

Langton and Love, of the Argonauts, are out of the game for the season, and Kent, Darling and Ardagh are badly used up as the result of Saturday's match. To help the team, Gleason has consented to get into the game, and will now be the Argonauts' centre half-back.

An effort will be made to get Dr. McConville to again play half-back with the Granites next Saturday. He signified his intention some time ago of quitting the game, as it takes up too much time. "Mull" has been on the gridiron for eight years, and has made a splendid record.

"Chancer" Elliott, the Granites hired man, is one of the very best half-backs in the country," is the way the Hamilton Herald refers to the ex-Queen's captain. The hired man is generally very poorly paid, and "Chancer" is even paid less than that. His salary on the Granite team is nit.

Manager Douglass, of 'Varsity, says that McGill is the luckiest team on earth. They were outplayed at all points by the local students, and had no license to win. Armstrong was three times held over McGill's line and then showed back, the referee refusing to allow a score, although the rule states that "a try is when a player makes a touch-down or is fairly held in his opponent's goal."

Referee W. J. Morrison, in his official statement to the Ontario union of the game played on Saturday between the Rough Riders and the Argonauts, has reported J. McGee, Jory and Buckham, of the Ottawa team, for brutal work in the field. He accuses them of deliberately charging and jumping on members of the opposing team when prostrate on the ground. Jory, it is alleged, dropped on Ardagh with both knees after the latter had been tackled and thrown. Pafford, he points out, though not as great an offender as the trio mentioned, was also guilty of conduct unworthy of a gentleman playing in a gentleman's game.

Grocers Made Happy.

Kingston, Oct. 16.—(To the Editor:) First night of early closing of grocery stores is over and with the exception of one or two small stores the law was strictly obeyed. The citizens are in sympathy with the movement and hustled around and got their wants supplied before seven, many declaring that they would not buy from the law breakers who wanted to fish after hours. The clerks are going to form a vigilance committee and aid the police in having the by-law honored. The names of ladies who buy after hours will be handed in and brought up as witnesses. Every grocer was happy and free last night. Some went home to their family, some went a wheeling, others went to church or down to the political meetings. One grocer felt so happy he burst out in song on his way home. He sang "When far from the store I take my way, I take my way, through streets delighted here I stray, yes, here I stray I laugh and caval full of glee, like captive bird from cage set free, etc.—ANTI-SLAVERY.

Archbishop Lewis, metropolitan of Canada, arrived in the city Tuesday morning per the SS. Numidian. A Breakwater That Didn't Break.

Marine men say the breakwater being constructed at Cape Vincent, N.Y., will be of little, if any, good. The work will soon be completed, but it will afford vessels small protection, no matter which way the wind is blowing. Yesterday the waves rolled unconcernedly over the breakwater and made matters very lively for the vessels tied up at the wharf or riding at anchor within the protecting wall.

Mr. Calvin Failed To Go.

It was intended to run the steamer Pierrepont over to Wolfe Island at seven o'clock last evening to take H. A. Calvin and friends over to attend D. D. Rogers' political meeting. Everything was in readiness at seven o'clock to start, but the conservative candidate didn't come. It was nearly 8 p.m. before he sent word to the captain that he would not go. The steamer remained at her dock, and Mr. Calvin failed to meet his political opponent on the island platform.

Salada Tea.

There is a greater demand in the country districts of Canada for green tea than black tea, Japan teas being used in the greater proportion. With black tea drinkers the better and purer teas of Ceylon and India have almost entirely displaced those of China, but Japan tea drinkers have had to be content with the notoriously adulterated article, all Japan teas being more or less doctored with Prussian blue, asbofoirnf, and other adulterants; this fact has been recognized but so long as there was no redress, toleration has been given.

But a strong and formidable rival to the Japanese product has appeared upon the scene in the form of the new natural leaf pure uncolored green tea of Ceylon and India, a tea that is cleanly prepared by modern machinery methods, instead of the dirty hand labor of the Japanese article, a tea, while of a light liquor, similar in flavor to Japan is infinitely more tasteful and delicious, and certainly one-third stronger than the finest Japan tea ever grown, therefore very economical in use. One trial will convert the most pronounced lover of Japan teas that ever lived.

The "Salada" tea company are now offering this new tea in their regulation sealed lead packets.

AROUND THE Y.M.C.A.

Work Getting Into Shape—Social Evenings—Other Notes.

The Y.M.C.A. provincial annual conference to consider boys' work will meet in Peterboro on Thursday and Friday of this week. It is unlikely that the local association will be represented, as they are this year behind in their regular work.

In the Y.M.C.A. hall is to be seen a notice drawn on a blackboard, inviting young men to the social time that will be enjoyed in the building on Thanksgiving evening. The lettering, ancient, but very attractive and unique, was done by architect Arthur Ellis.

The first meeting this season of the boys' junior class for gymnasium work was held last night. About twenty were in attendance and the season opens under very promising conditions. This class is for working boys, who cannot attend in the afternoon.

Mr. Page, the new secretary, is the "right man in the right place." He is very friendly and courteous, and every inch a gentleman. As a Bible student, he would be hard to surpass. He illustrates each lesson by his own drawing which lends additional interest to the subject. Bible classes are held at 3 p.m. each Sunday.

It is intended to make each Thursday evening during the winter a social evening. Debates will be arranged, addresses will be delivered by prominent clergymen and others, and other ways of profitable entertainment will be afforded. The secretary's scheme is a commendable one.

A DETERMINED WOMEN.

Finally Found a Food That Cured Her.

"When I first read of the remarkable effects of Grape-Nuts food, I determined to secure some," says Mrs. C. W. Aldridge, of Salisbury, Mo. "At that time there was none kept in this town, but my husband ordered some from a Chicago traveller.

"I had been greatly afflicted with sudden attacks of cramps, nausea and vomiting. Tried all sorts of remedies and physicians, but obtained only temporary relief. As soon as I began to use the new food the cramps disappeared and have never re-appeared.

"My old attacks of sick stomach were a little slower to yield, but by continuing the food, that trouble has disappeared entirely. I am to-day perfectly well, can eat anything and everything I wish, without paying the penalty that I used to. We could not, and would not, keep house without Grape-Nuts.

"My husband was so delighted with the benefits I received that he has been recommending Grape-Nuts to his customers and has built up a very large trade in the food. He sells them by the case to most of the leading physicians of the county, who prescribe Grape-Nuts very generally. There is some satisfaction in using a really scientifically prepared food."

QUEEN'S FORMAL OPENING

KINGSTON HAS COVERED ITSELF WITH HONOR.

By Its Magnificent Gift to the University—Mayor Minnes Announces the Result—The Replies of Sir Sandford Fleming and Principal Grant.

The formal opening of the sixtieth session of Queen's university took place in convocation hall last evening at eight o'clock. A large assembly was present, and the gallery was filled to over-flowing by the students, who sang, howled and tooted upon horns and bugles of every description. The procession of university dignitaries, headed by Sir Sandford Fleming, was "played" to the platform by the gallery music. Besides principal Grant and the professors, there were also on the platform, mayor Minnes and Rev. James Carmichael, Strange, Ont.

After the introductory prayer by Rev. Dr. Jordan, the chancellor called upon mayor Minnes to announce the result of the by-law. The mayor was lustily cheered when he arose to speak. "It gives me great pleasure," he said, "to announce to you that the citizens of Kingston have shown their appreciation of Queen's by passing the by-law, granting $50,000, by the magnificent majority of 543. (Loud cheers.) Mr. Chancellor, I feel sure that the city of Kingston will never regret their act of to-day, and they will have the joy of knowing that Queen's will now remain forever anchored on the old Ontario strand." (Applause.)

The chancellor responded to the announcement of the mayor, whom, he said, had indeed brought joyful tidings. The trustees would be called together immediately to decide upon what action should be taken regarding the new buildings. The chancellor expressed thanks to the city of Kingston and the city council for the gift bestowed as a result of the by-law vote. It was more than sixty years ago since happy relations were established between Kingston and the university. The result of the by-law vote showed that the attachment of the citizens was as strong and mutual as it ever had been. The gift by the city was noble and wise. Future generations will regard it as provident and patriotic.

The action of Kingston, the chancellor said, was almost unique, and in the whole range of history it was hard to find a parallel. In 1582, the town council of Edinburgh established the great Edinburgh university, and that city has never regretted it. The Scottish people were lifted from a primitive condition to their present state of affluence and influence in the British empire. There is great wisdom in the policy followed by Kingston. How narrow and unpatriotic are those who say there should only be one university centre in Canada. Kingston has adopted an enlightened policy and will never have the slightest cause to regret what she has done.

All honor to the people of Kingston, said the chancellor. Their timely act will materially contribute to the success of a great educational institution which is doing such a great work for the country. This gift is a formal recognition of the good opinion of Queen's. It is the best evidence that Queen's is a true university, open to all creeds, and where rich and poor stand on the same plane. This act of the city shows that no one values the institution the less because it was founded and nurtured by the Presbyterian church. It shows that the university is regarded with affection by all denominations. It is a graceful consummation of the anniversary of the day when her majesty gave the university her royal charter. I rejoice to see the bonds joining the city and the university drawn more closely together. (Loud applause.)

Principal Grant: was glad that the significant act was taken during mayor Minnes' term of office. If he had been opposed to the grant, the principal said it would never have been brought before the people. Principal Grant thanked the citizens of Kingston with all his heart. He thanked the mayor personally, for it was mainly due to him that the university had received the gift. He also thanked the civic fin and committee and council, the loyal graduates in Kingston, and those not graduates, who had worked for the passage of the by-law; he thanked the press for its united support, and the clergy for their efforts.

"We can say," continued the principal, that the college is backed by all the religious, intellectual and moral forces of the community. The whole city is united. The spirit of the people is shown, and this delights me. It is a blessing to feel that we are living in a united and intelligent community, which is the first in Canada and America to make such a gift to a university. I was shocked when I read an article in one Toronto paper, which expressed the hope that the citizens of Kingston would oppose the Queen's by-law. But with all the intelligent people, rich and poor, on our side we can well afford the opposition of the world, the flesh and the devil. (Laughter and applause.) It rejoices that the good old limestone city has covered itself with honor." (Loud and continued applause.)

The presentation of scholarships and prizes then took place. The chancellor announced that Hiram A. Calvin had donated a prize of twenty five dollars to the student who passed the best spring examination on senior Latin. The proceedings concluded with the national anthem.

The Storm At Cape Vincent.

Yesterday's wind was badly felt at Cape Vincent, N.Y., the new breakwater, most of which is already built, affording little or no protection. The steamer New Island Wanderer found some difficulty in landing, but Capt. "Bob" Carnagie knows how to handle his craft. The steambarge Ringleader had to be towed into a place of safety. The Remington pounded against the dock, smashing some of her side-work. The steambarge Augustus rolled so heavily that she was scuttled; she can be pumped out, however, in a short time. A very heavy sea prevailed there all day.

WHAT PEOPLE SAY.

Is Not What Makes a Remedy Valuable.

Testimonials are good things and we are always glad to get them, but we don't make our remedy any better because Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are because they do good because they cure.

Testimonials simply prove that the tablets have helped other people. It's yourself your are most interested in, and whether they will cure you is the question.

It is very easy to find out—try them. A full package costs but fifty cents at your druggist's. They are worth it if they only help you a little bit, and the chance is worth taking at the price.

We put it on that basis because we don't know about the tablets. We know as much about them as you would have complete confidence in this advertising would be impossible. We have seen them cure the worst cases of stomach trouble. Cases of long standing and obstinacy, cases that other medicines and even high priced doctors have failed to subdue.

Here are some testimonials. If you care to read them we have thousands of them:

Rev. J. R. Hoag, of Wymore, Nebraska, writes: For six years I have been troubled with dyspepsia. Last year I became very much alarmed at symptoms of heart trouble and I believe that there was a sympathetic relation between the two diseases, or rather, that the stomach trouble was the cause of the heart disturbance. I hit upon Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets for a remedy and invested a dollar and a half for three boxes which lasted me three months and I can eat anything I food I want and have a good healthy appetite. Although I am seventy years old, I now feel perfectly well and without being requested to do so, I make this statement as a complete tribute to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Mrs. Lydia Bartram, of Alpena, Mich., writes: I have suffered from stomach trouble for ten years and tried different doctors gave me little or no lasting relief. A Mr. E. R. Page advised me to try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I used four boxes and the more I used them the better I felt than all the doctors I had seen. I have ever taken.

We honestly believe that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are the best medicine ever made for the cure of stomach troubles.

Don't mistake our meaning. We don't claim them to cure anything but dyspepsia and stomachic disorders. But the one thing is what they are for, but that one thing is the cause and the starting point of nearly all sickness in the world.

Use Stuart's Tablets regularly and your stomach right, and you can't be sick.
