Mrs. Howard Proctor (Carol), craft supervisor with York Manor, has now retired and is enroute to North Vancouver with her husband, also retired. Mrs. Proctor plans to spend some time visiting her two sons there.

Mrs. Proctor began her interest in handicrafts for the residents in the old building nearly 11 years ago. She was the co-convenor with Mrs. Laura Smith of the handicrafts. They included over the years leathercraft, knitting, sewing, crochet, rugging ,stone mosaic work, toys and artificial flowers. Some of the residents of 11 years ago are still at the Manor and still visit the handicraft room daily.

During Carol's term a daily hymn-sing was originated in the old building. The residents met in the chapel and Carol played the organ.

Still working in the craft room is John Carley, 86, and Mrs. Starkey, 87.

Mrs. Norman Waltho of Sharon has been assisting Carol for the past month and will take over completely now that Carol has retired. The Proctor farm has been sold.
