ENTHUSIASTIC CONVERTS.

There Are Thousands of Them Who Believe As This Woman Does.

Mrs. Ira Knoulton, of Butte, Montana, is a most enthusiastic convert to the virtues of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets as a cure for obstinate stomach trouble. She says: "I had poor digestion nearly all my life. It now seems to me that for years I never knew what it was to be hungry, to have a good natural appetite.

I was troubled with gas in stomach causing pressure on the heart with palpitation and short breath. Nearly everything I ate soured on my stomach, sometimes I had cramps in the stomach which almost resembled spasms.

Doctors told me I had catarrh of the stomach, but their medicines would not reach it and I would still be a sufferer had I not, in sheer desperation decided to try Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

I knew they were an advertised remedy and I didn't believe anything I read about them as I had no confidence in advertised remedies, but my sister living in Pittsburg wrote me last spring telling me how Stuart's Tablets had cured her and her little daughters of indigestion and loss of flesh and appetite and I hesitated no longer.

I bought a fifty cent box at my drug store and took two of the large tablets after each meal and found them delightful to take being as pleasant to the taste as caramel candy. Whenever during the day or night I felt any pain or uneasiness in the stomach or about the heart I took one of the small tablets and in three weeks it seemed to me as if I had never known what stomach trouble was.

I keep Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets in the house and every member of our family uses them occasionally after a hearty meal or when any of us have a pain or ache in the digestive organs."

E. H. Davis, of Hampton, Va., says: "I doctored for five years for dyspepsia, but in two months I got more benefit from Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets than in five years of the doctors treatment."

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is the safest as well as the simplest and most convenient remedy for any form of indigestion, catarrh of stomach, biliousness, sour stomach, bloating after meals, sympathetic heart trouble.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets is not a cheap cathartic but an active digestive remedy containing the pepsin and diastase which every weak stomach lacks and and they cure stomach troubles because they digest the food eaten and give the weak, abused overworked stomach a chance to rest and recuperate.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are sold in every drug store in the United States, Canada and Great Britain.

To the Egyptian Rheumatic Oil Co., Ltd., Halifax, N.S.:

My wife has been suffering with what the doctors called Rheumatism of the lungs, and by the free use of Egyptian Rheumatic Oil the pain has entirely left her, and all evidence of rheumatism in these parts has disappeared.

I also wish to say that I sprained my ankle so badly I could scarcely walk, but the pain and swelling were speedily removed by a few applications of your oil. I need not tell you that I shall ever continue to recommend this invaluable remedy.

Yours truly,

SOME FRATERNAL GREETINGS

WERE EXTENDED YESTERDAY TO KING'S DAUGHTERS.

A Good Company at the Session Tuesday Afternoon—The Reports Given and An Address of Mr. Ellis Followed by Discussion.

It was a quarter to one o'clock yesterday when the morning session was finished, but the majority of the delegates were in their places again at two o'clock, the hour appointed for the opening of the afternoon session. The presence of many who are not members of the Order indicated the interest that is already aroused in the work of the convention. After the opening exercises, Miss Annie Brown, read the minutes of the morning session, which were approved. Mrs. Savage presented the report of Toronto city union, and was heard with deep interest. Then followed the report of the provincial secretary, Mrs. Austen, who has so faithfully filled that responsible position for the past five years, and whose intimation of retirement this year has excited so much regret.

Mrs. Austen's report was highly satisfactory. Ten new circles have been formed since last year, and three hundred and forty-two new names have been added to the membership in Ontario. There are one hundred and sixteen circles in the province. The total membership numbers two thousand six hundred and fifty-eight, and of that number two thousand and forty-four have paid their membership fee leaving only six hundred and fourteen unpaid fees. Compared with the unpaid membership of last year the number shows a decided improvement.

Some idea of the duties of the provincial secretary may be gained when it is known that Mrs. Austen has received 721 letters and has written 828 letters and cards, during the past year, in connection with the work of the order. The financial statement for the year was $866.43 received. Balance now in hand, $193; expended $673.43.

Mrs Austen begged to suggest the matter of yearly conventions. The report was adopted and a vote of thanks for her valuable services as provincial secretary was moved by Miss Nichol, seconded by Miss Strange and carried by a standing vote.

Mrs. Davis made a laudatory speech regarding the feelings of the central council at New York towards the Ontario society. During the five years in office, Mrs. Austen has always showed love, sympathy and co-operation in her work with the central council and the members of that body have a very strong appreciation of Mrs. Austen's labors. Mrs. Revell endorsed all that Mrs. Davis said about Mrs. Austen.

A vocal solo by Miss Connelly of Cataraqui was followed by the introduction of sister societies and fraternal delegates. As each representative was introduced the audience arose, and after a short address of welcome to the delegates in the name of each society represented the leaders of those were given seats on the platform. During this part of the programme the pages, Miss Anna Lesslie and Miss Hague, were kept busy in arranging places on the platform for the visitors who were brought forward by Miss Nichol.

Mrs. Hugh Fraser was the first to be introduced, and she welcomed the delegates in the name of the International Council of Women and of The Victorian Order of Nurses.

Miss Muckleston, for the city relief, spoke of the good work done by The King's Daughters, making special mention of the value of the Fuel and Fuel club in connection with The Charity Circle.

Mrs. Shortt, for the Y.W.C.A., emphasized co-operation among women's societies.

Mrs. Lanceley represented the women's foreign missionary society of Sydenham street Methodist church.

Mrs. McFaul spoke on behalf of the church woman's aid of St. George's cathedral; Mrs. Snelling represented the women's christian temperance union, and Mrs. Drummond the ladies' musical club.

Mayor Minnes welcomed the delegates in the name of the city of Kingston and intimated that a drive had been arranged for their entertainment on Thursday afternoon.

Mr. Owens represented the christian endeavor societies of the city.

The address given by Mr. Ellis on "Home Making and Philanthropy," was full of practical suggestion, and, had time permitted it, the entire afternoon might profitably have been spent in discussing his remarks.

Mr. Ellis said that one who comes much into contact with young people, one who is given to pondering over the various phases of life, finds no lack of problems waiting for solution, and one of the gravest problems of to-day is the change that is gradually coming over home and family.

He did not attempt to discuss the economic phase of the problem, but merely its social side, and his idea was to point out our place as a unit in that organization of which we form a part. It is a curious anomoly that it should be possible to plead for adaptation and education for the coming generation to occupy a place to which in the natural course of events they must be called. But, with the democratic tendencies of the present time, the state is apt to be ignored and the family and home passed by. Our systems of education are just as wooden and just as inelastic as other institutions. If any reform is to be carried out it must have its impulse in the public opinion of those who have the administration of affairs. He pleaded for the broader education of women; an education that will make them more competent to deal with boys and girls than they are able to do now. He also stated that the home work to smaller children should be short lived. The evenings are taken up with lessons, so that there is no time left for social intercourse between parents and children. Regarding older children, he impressed the fact that too much miscellaneous reading was being done by them,—reading of a kind that might better be left undone. Some parents think if their children are reading the employment will benefit them, and take refuge behind that screen instead of coming into personal contact with their children, supervising their reading and supplementing what the teachers do in school. He pleaded for the cultivation of the true spirit of motherhood, that the boys might look to their mothers as to those who sympathized with their troubles, who appreciated their pleasures and who really understood their duties and amusements. This is the strongest link in the chain of good citizenship, and many bright instances can be given of the wonderful influence a good mother wields over the broad future of her son. The multitudious duties which modern civilization has thrust upon women may endanger the weakening of that affectionate understanding that it is so necessary to preserve between a mother and her boys. The mother who loses her hold upon her sons as they approach manhood, loses one of the most important factors towards good citizenship and the preservation of the state.

The chairwoman allowed ten minutes for the discussion of Mr. Ellis' address. The first speaker was Mrs. Macnaughton, of Cobourg, who endorsed all that Mr. Ellis had said. She dwelt particularly upon the importance of the spirit of camaraderie between mother and son. It was certainly one of the strongest influences in life.

Mrs. Brooker also endorsed the remarks of Mr. Ellis, dwelling especially upon the broader education of women and recommending every woman to read "Women and Economics," by Charlotte Stetson.

Mrs. Shortt followed with a clever little speech suggesting co-operative housekeeping, as one of the answers to the problem.

Miss Henry decried afternoon teas and social entertainments. She knew of many cases where mothers were so engrossed with society and societies that they had no time to devote to their children. She considered clubs and teas to be the bane of the age. Children were left to the care of servants while the mothers were taken up with society. Much might have been said by others on both sides of the question, but the time for discussion had passed all too quickly and the meeting was called to resume the programme.

This was the closing number, Mrs. Dickenson's heart to heart talk from the bible. She said she would have been loth to interrupt so interesting a discussion with any words of her own, but it was "from the bible," and for fifteen minutes the meeting listened intently as Mrs. Dickenson evolved a chain formed of texts bearing upon the words "In His name." It was full of beautiful suggestions, and the quiet half hour at the close of each afternoon will be anticipated with pleasure by all who heard Mrs. Dickenson's first "Heart to Heart" talk yesterday.

There was no business done in the evening as that had been set apart for a social reception.

A number of citizens were present, besides the visiting delegates and a large representation of the local members of the Order. Routley's orchestra played all evening and added much to the brightness of the reception. Refreshments were served from a daintily appointed table in charge of Mrs. Calvin, Mrs. Pense and Mrs. Campbell Strange.

A STABBING AFFRAY.

Albert Duff Wounds Thomas Thompson With a Knife.

A stabbing affray occurred at Inverary, Tuesday night, during a political meeting held by D. D. Rogers, M.P., in the Orange hall. While the meeting was in progress some persons outside commenced a disturbance. Among the troublers it is alleged was Albert Duff. Thomas Thompson, attending the meeting, went outside the hallway to ask the disturbers to leave the place. There were angry words, and Duff attacked Thompson, stabbing him in the cheek, and inflicting a wound an inch and a half long, from the corner of the mouth, and through to the jaw.

Dr. Edwards, at the meeting, was called to attend the wounded man. He had not sufficient appliances with him, but dressed the wound temporarily. Mr. Thompson was driven to the city, and Dr. Ryan stitched up the wound. The injured man was around this morning as usual.

Both Duff and Thompson are supporters of Mr. Calvin. The latter is one of the proprietors of the Inverary cheese factory.

Services Well Attended.

BABY FOODS

It is clear that doctors and mothers think more of special foods than they used to.

The reasons are: (1) both mothers and babies live less naturally than they used to; (2) mother's milk is not so plenty, and not so good, as it used to be; (3) Scott's emulsion of cod-liver oil is mother food as well as baby food—enables the mother to feed her baby naturally.

We'll send you a little to try if you like.

EFFECTIVE BLOCKING PLAY

AND NOVEL PLAN OF SCRIMMAGE BY QUEEN'S.

Manager Ferguson Did Not Get Notice—'Varsity Has Copied Queen's Old Mass Play—The Tigers Are Growling—Charges Against Ripley.

Granites and Queen's both excel in the blocking play.

The Montreal Herald agrees on Queen's for the intercollegiate championship.

Granites' season record after Saturday will be three games won and three lost. Not so bad.

Had Granites tried to win in Hamilton, they would be now a tie with the Argonauts.

When Queen's made their first score in Saturday's match, Varsity discarded their fancy signal play.

The Argonauts are talking big, just as they did last week. They will go home from Rosedale next Saturday in a hearse.

Boyd, formerly 'Varsity's star kicker, will be on the Rough Riders' half-back line next Saturday against the Argonauts.

Toronto Globe: Queen's team has evidently been practising American college tricks. They have a great system of interference.

"Fergie" Carr-Harris, of Queen's, is the cleverest scrimmager of the season. His play puzzles both the opposing team and the referee.

The Whig did not go wrong over Saturday's match, Cully. It predicted a win for Granites, but the Toronto sheets would not believe.

Queen's II. will be strengthened by "Joe" Ferguson as inside wing. Ferguson played two years ago on Queen's I, and has just returned to college.

The Limestones play Toronto II in Toronto on Saturday for the junior championship of Ontario, and will have a strong team to contest for the honor.

'Varsity has at last copied Queen's style of mass play for the past few years. This was originated by Guy Curtis, Canada's greatest football general.

Queen's I to play McGill in Montreal next Saturday will be the same fifteen that have played the last two matches. The players were all out for practice yesterday.

Manager Ferguson, of Queen's, maintains that he did not receive official notice of Limestone's protest, and did not know about the O.R.F.U. executive meeting until ten hours before it took place.

The Argonauts, according to a Toronto paper, may protest Saturday's match with the Granites, because they allege, Tobin played without a permit. Argonauts are sore over their defeat, and will resort to childish methods.

It seems funny, at first sight, that the charge of professionalism against Ripley, of the Argonauts, should be pressed by a Toronto man, "Cully" Robertson. Coming as it does from a supporter of the Toronto team, Ripley can have no ground of complaint as "Chaucer" Elliott had.

Hamilton Tigers are growling because the Rough Riders got last Saturday's match by default. The Tigers notified the Rough Riders early last week that they need not come. Then the O. R. F. U. executive refused to accept the Tigers' resignation. The Tigers then wired to Ottawa, stating their willingness to play, but it was too late, as Rough Riders had made other arrangements.

Toronto Telegram: After the game Joe Wright and Milo, the big Granite scrimmager, got talking, and the Kingston man remarked: "Well, Joe it was a nice game all the way, was it not?" "Yes," replied the other, "we didn't even get our hair ruffled." "That's all very well, but I don't see how I could get my hair ruffled," replied Milo, as he took off his hat, showing a head of the billiard-ball variety.

Toronto Star: Queen's introduced a novel method of scrimmaging and a remarkably effective interference play. They had a great knack of warding off low tackles with a downward movement of the arm. Etherington was the hardest man of the lot to catch. He wore a corduroy jacket. Weatherhead is an excellent general, and good in all other departments. Clarke, a very big man, is exceedingly hard to tackle on account of his size, and is a most capable interference player. Walken is the runner of the half back line.

RESISTED ARREST.

A Lively Scrap on Princess Street Last Night.

There was a lively time on Princess street last night, when a man tried to resist arrest by a policeman. Robert Kennedy, Johnston street, was walking up Princess street, when police constable Arniel laid his hand on Kennedy's shoulder and said, "Come along, I want you!" Now, Kennedy didn't feel like going along just then, and his bashfulness did not prevent him telling the policeman so, and at the same time giving him what he thought was advice. But the man who goes up against Arniel soon finds that he's against the "real thing." Kennedy tried to shake the policeman off. The next instant Campbell Bros.' plate glass window had a narrow escape from being broken by the weight of a man's body thrown violently against it. Arniel grappled his man and held him, until Sergt. Snodden and constable Aiken, who were keeping order in the theatre, arrived on the scene, and assisted in placing Kennedy safely in the police station.

There will be several charges against the prisoner. It appears that he visited Victoria public school yesterday, and is alleged to have taken one of the lady teacher's wheels. When she protested, he chased her away, and then followed the children into the school.

At the police court this morning Kennedy was charged with being drunk and creating a disturbance. He was remanded until to-morrow morning.

Provincial Secretary Coming.

W. H. Symonds, provincial secretary of the Y. M. C. associations, will arrive in the city at the latter part of this week, and will address the 4:15 p.m. men's meeting on Sunday at the association building. On Monday evening he will meet the board to discuss the preliminary arrangements for the convention of Y.M.C.A. workers, which is to convene here soon.

STRAUSS ORCHESTRA.

The Audience Pleased With the Compositions of the Conductor.

A splendid audience greeted Eduard Strauss in the city hall last night. The programme comprised nine numbers with five encores. The listeners went away with varied views as to the merits of the performance. All were convinced of the harmony, time and volume, the delicate shading and telling effects, but there was not a strong feeling that the concert was just what they had anticipated. There were no solos, nothing to break the ponderous tones that attracted the ears of the audience. The orchestra consists of over forty pieces, and a more perfect combination it would be difficult to get. Composed all of picked musicians, in technical skill, in balance of parts, and in beauty of tone, it was practically above criticism. The strings played as though one instrument. The French horns were exquisite and the piccalo unusually good.

It was programme No. 2 that Mr. Strauss offered, opening with an overture, "The Merry Wives of Windsor." The waltzes were captivating, warmed the listeners and encores were demanded and given. It was in the compositions of the conductor that both conductor and band achieved their triumph. The only piece he conducted from a score was the "Dream Scene from the opera Radcliff." All the others he conducted without music, and it is a fact that he is familiar with about 1800 pieces, and can conduct them from memory. His conducting is no more matter of form: it is sentiment, virile and inspiring. Mannerisms he has in plenty, but they are spontaneous to his natural personality, and do not mar his work, which always impresses one as being intensely sincere.

Mr. Strauss has had a brilliant career and has been much favored by royalty, and four years ago played several times at Windsor castle. He is an accomplished violinist and plays as well as conducting during the Strauss numbers. The name of Strauss is associated with all that is charming in dance music, and since 1825, when his father founded their orchestra, they have been important figures in the musical world. Mr. Strauss' son has now an orchestra of his own in Vienna.

N. T. Greenwood worked up a fine audience and it is hoped his work did not go unrewarded financially.

The Battery Will Turn Out.

Lieut. Col. Fages stated this afternoon that he would do all in his power to assist in welcoming the returning soldiers. He would like to turn out the battery, mounted. There are a number of the new horses, however, which might cause injury in a crowd. At any rate, he affirmed, the men would parade on foot. He has been endeavoring to secure bugles from Ottawa in time to enable him to turn out a bugle band to participate in this demonstration of appreciation and affection.

The Coal Situation.

Mr. McEathern, Syracuse, who represents a big coal concern, says that there is lots of coal moving into Toronto and Montreal just at present. There is an abundance of coal now going into Oswego, and Kingston merchants will be able to get all the coal they want if they can carry it fast enough. A great deal of coal is going to the big Canadian cities by train.

A Membership Barometer.

A membership barometer has been placed on the wall within the Y.M.C.A. building. It now shows a membership of 200, with a graduating scale reaching to 500. The design is very pretty and was the work of architect Ellis, who is an enthusiastic Y.M.C.A. worker. Great efforts will be made this fall and winter to raise the membership to 350 or 400.

A Triumphal Arch.

It is suggested that a triumphal arch of evergreen be erected at the G. T. R. depot, Johnston street, underneath which the returning soldiers might pass. The business places on Princess street will nearly all be decorated, if the day is fine, and it is expected that hundreds of citizens will display bunting, flags, etc., in honor of the boys of the first contingent.

Hopes For Recovery.

Word was sent from Renfrew Tuesday night that the doctors had now good hopes of the recovery of conductor Craig, mistaken for a deer near Madawaska by his cousin, John Haskins, and shot through the shoulder. Mrs. Craig is now at the hospital to nurse him.
