GRAND MILITARY RECEPTION

MILITARY OFFICERS EXTEND GREETINGS TO GEN. HUTTON.

A Gala Reception in the City Hall, Which Was a Veritable Bower of Beauty—Great Social Gathering Where Military and Civilians Join to Greet the New General Commanding the Militia—The Guests Present

Canada ever gives a royal welcome to England's loyal sons, commissioned here to govern and guard the future destinies of any of her national departments. To these distinguished leaders her portals are never closed, for though not wholly dependent upon England for there officials, she is confident that the motherland takes cognizance of the best welfare of the Alpha in her colonial possessions. The advent of these representatives set the dominion on the alert for a time, and when they are not engaged in official duties they are the chief guests at private and public social functions, where introductions are in order and the true Canadian hand of welcome is extended. Is it a matter of wonder then that those delegates who have conscientiously fulfilled their mission here regret the recall at the expiration of their terms? They are made to feel at home by the warm sympathy shown, and they soon learn that our officials do not perform their duties in a perfunctory manner.

Since his recent arrival Major Gen. Hutton has had ample opportunity to observe these qualities in the people of Canada, for not only has he been received auspiciously in military circles but the cities which he has visited have held brilliant receptions in his honor. A similar greeting awaited him on his visit to Kingston and the pleasure of publicly entertaining the general and Mrs Hutton rested with the genial officers of the 14th battalion, P.W.O. rifles. This social function took place last evening and, it can be safely stated, was never superseded by any former military reception held here.

The City and Ontario halls were used for the occasion and the interior of the two spacious public halls never presented a more charming sight, in their magnificent decorations of bunting and flags, which gave a bright trimming to the gold framed portraits that adorn the walls. The Ontario hall remained largely in the same decorative garb seen at the civic reception of lord and lady Aberdeen, only the dais on the west wall was missing, the hall being converted into a luxurious dining room elegantly equipped for the occasion. Drapings and streamers of fancy bunting rested gracefully overhead, these being embodened by rows of innumerable small flags and Chinese lanterns. Down the wall hung old England's flag artistically draped emblematical of unreserved loyalty to her, Britain's mother queen. Over the door hung another banner which indicated a thought for home, sometimes forgotten in the excitement attending the entertainment of visiting guests. The banner was a satin trophy, beautifully painted, bearing the form of the beaver and also the motto "Canada our Home." This unique flag is the property of city clerk Drennan, kindly loaned for the occasion. The short corridor running from hall to hall was walled by large union jacks, making a cheerful promenade corner. Towering above all were the decorations in the city hall, where the artist's taste excelled in beauty of arrangement. It is not often necessary to add to the permanent embellishment of these walls, the striking beauty of the many portraits hanging there being thought sufficient. But on this occasion the additional draperies rather enhanced their beauty and added a charm to the proceedings. Over the windows hung large union jacks, draped at one corner to resemble the curtain, while the same emblem appeared between the several portraits over the platform. Overhead, above the platform were large streamers of bunting and banners, one silken banner bearing the likeness of her majesty. Topping the entrance doors to the platform were stacks of rifles and military trophies of short arms arranged in circles and semi circles. The platform was prettily arranged in drawing room style while a wide carpeted stairway led from the main floor, the casings of which were draped with figured bunting. Along the front edge of the platform ran streamers of red, white and blue bunting. From the ceiling were suspended several cards bearing the number fourteen, indicating the hosts of the evening, while around the walls stood stacked rifles, giving the hall a decided military appearance, very appropriate in doing honor to the chief guests. An elevated stage in the corner left of the main entrance, very neatly marked out with fancy trimmings and military bayonet trophies, was reserved for the orchestra. The splendour of these decorations as the gas lights reflected on them and the gaily dressed guests tripping over the canvased floor was truly a perfect picture for the true artist, and veritably equalled in beauty Tennyson's imagined palace of art. The decorations were as complete as the detail arrangements of the reception, which were perfected with the quickness and despatch peculiar to the 14th officers.

Over four hundred invitations had been extended, including all the military officers in the city and families; the commanding officers in this district, and to Kingston's elite society. Shortly after nine o'clock the guests began to arrive. On passing into the hall they marched through files of 14th battalion men drawn up as a guard of honor for the general, and were received in front of the platform by Lieut.-Col. Skinner, Mrs. R. E. Kent and Mrs. R. W. Garrett. The arrival of the guests continued until nearly ten o'clock, when the hall was well filled with the daintiest collection of young ladies, elegantly attired in full evening costumes imaginable, while the various military uniforms added greatly to the charming group. At ten o'clock the general and Mrs. Hutton entered the hall, followed by Lieut. Col and Mrs. Kitson, Lieut. Col. and Miss Montizambert, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Smith, Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. Drury. As they marched in the guard of honor, in command of Capt. W. Hora, gave the salute with present arms, as trumpeter Burns sounded the same with the bugle. At the conclusion of the salute the 14th band struck up the regimental march, and when the strains of this lively tune died away the general complimented Lieut. Col. Skinner on the trim appearance of the guard of honor. Being a military man himself, he said, he very much appreciated the idea of being received with a guard of honor from the rifle battalion, especially when the men were dressed in the uniform so near like the uniform of the 60th regiment, with which he was connected. He thanked Capt. Hora and the men for turning out, and after a brief inspection by him, the soldier boys were marched back to the armory.

When the guests had each been introduced to the general and Mrs. Hutton the programme of twenty-one dances was opened. From that hour until half-past two o'clock this morning the city hall contained a happy throng of guests, filled with merriment and jest, moving in the graceful motion of the waltz or the more lively step of the lancers, while the full 14th band contributed that inspiring music so exclusively its own. It was, indeed, a charming sight to watch the rich colored military uniforms, contrasting so prettily with the civilian dress suits and the rich costumes of the fairer guests, mix in apparent general confusion, the wearers gliding here and there with becoming grace. The portraits of the city's forefathers never looked down in calm silence upon a gayer or happier assemblage.

Between the hours of eleven o'clock and midnight supper was served in Ontario hall, where caterer Doylin had choice edibles and fancy dishes prepared, as only an efficient caterer can. Along the eastern wall ran a long table bearing choice cakes, specially prepared fancy dishes and other light refreshments, while the table adornments in the battalions colors, tropical plants, especially imported for the occasion, displayed the artistic tastes of the wives of the officers commanding the battalion. These tables were partially hidden by rich Japanese screens. Arranged about the hall in free and easy style were numerous quartette tables, around which the fair partners sat, and were served. For a full two hours Ontario hall was enlivened by the clink of dishes and cutlery and the music of merry laughter. It was with a feeling of regret that the last dance was concluded, which closed one of the most successful social functions that has charmed Kingston's society.

A Few Of The Dresses Worn.

The costumes were exquisite productions of the dressmakers' needle, and it would be puzzling to make a choice. Owing to the great number of ladies being present a short description can only be given of the dresses worn by the wives of the officers commanding military corps.

Mrs Hutton was handsomely attired in turquoise blue velours, with diamond ornaments, magnificent in their brilliancy.

Mrs. Kitson's dress was of cream brocaded silk, with black chiffon and jet trimmings. She also wore sparkling diamond ornaments.

Mrs. Drury appeared in black satin with pearl ornaments.

Mrs. H. R. Smith looked charming in a pretty dress of pale blue brocaded satin profusely ornamented with pink roses.

Mrs W. H. Macnee was becomingly attired in a rich black brocaded satin dress with choice jet trimmings.

Mrs. R. E. Kent's dress was of pink satin with trimmings of fine Brussels lace.

Mrs. W. B. Skinner wore black silk, trimmed with black chiffon and jet ornaments.

Mrs. A. B. Cunningham was attired in white silk with cerise velvet trimmings.

Mrs. J. Herald was prettily robed in a grey and pink brocaded silk.

Mrs R. W. Garrett's dress was of pale blue and white silk.

Miss Montizambert was richly dressed in white satin trimmed with white chiffon and pearl ornaments.

Mrs (mayor) Livingston looked decidedly sweet in her dress of pale blue and white satin.

Reception Echoes

The caterer proved himself worthy of his hire, and he was roundly complimented on the excellent supper provided.

The redoubtable W. Shea was largely responsible for the splendid decorations in the halls.

Trumpeter Burns was complimented by Lieut.-Col Drury and Lieut. Col. Skinner on his exit work. He sounded the general salute and announced the dances.

The officers of the 14th battalion have the right to feel gratified with the successful issue of the reception, but to their wives is much of the credit due.

Mrs Capt Macnee and Mrs. Major Kent were very active in arranging and adorning the dining tables yesterday.

The flags used in the decorations were the best collection ever used in a Kingston building.

Some of the banners which graced the halls were the property of city clerk Drennan, kindly loaned for the occasion.

The guard of honor included forty four men and four sergeants of the 14th, the majority of them being connected with No. 3 company.

The police court room was used by the gentlemen for a coat room, while the ladies placed their wraps in the council chamber.

The set of honor in the first lancers comprised the following: Lieut.-Col. Skinner and Mrs. Hutton; Major-Gen. Hutton and Mrs. Kent; Lieut. Col Montizambert and Mrs. Garrett; Major Galloway and Miss Montizambert; Col. Forster and Mrs. Macnee; Lieut. Col. Smith and Mrs. Kitson; Lieut.-Col. Kitson and Mrs. Drury; Lieut.-Col. ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE CHLORODYNE is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.

CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.

CHLORODYNE effectually checks and arrests those too often fatal diseases: Diphtheria, Fever, Croup, Ague.

CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.

CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation and Spasms.

CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, etc.

From W. Vesalius Pettigrew, M.D., formerly Lecturer at St. George's Hospital, London—"I have no hesitation in stating that I have never met with any medicine so efficacious as an Anti-spasmodic and Sedative. I have used it in Consumption, Asthma, Diarrhœa, and other diseases; and am perfectly satisfied with the result."

"Earl Russell communicated to the College of Physicians that he received a despatch from Her Majesty's Consul at Manilla to the effect that cholera has been raging fearfully, and that the only REMEDY of any service was CHLORODYNE.—See Lancet, 1st December, 1864.

CAUTION—BEWARE OF PIRACY AND IMITATIONS.

CAUTION—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated that Dr. J. COLLIS BROWNE was undoubtedly the inventor of CHLORODYNE; that the whole story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, which he regretted to say had been sworn to.—See Times, July 13th, 1864.
