GOSCHEN'S RETICENCE.

He Refuses To Speak At Sheffield.

MAJOR MARCHAND AT CAIRO

IS PLEASED WITH KINDNESS OF BRITISH OFFICERS.

He Is Very Modest of His Doings—Russia's Foreign Minister, Opposed to the Disarmament Scheme, Would Like To See a Franco-British Conflict—The Chronicle Asks Questions—England Prepared To Face Any and All Hostile Developments.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Chronicle says it has received "a very grave story regarding Marchand's action on the upper Nile." The paper declines to guarantee the accuracy of the story, but declares that it has every appearance of trustworthiness. It adds that if the story is true it is calculated greatly to increase the tension between England and France, for which reason it refrains from making the assertion, but it appeals to the government, in the public interest, to answer the following questions:

"Does the government possess information concerning a communication from Marchand to the khalifa before the battle of Omdurman?

"If so, did the communication invite the khalifa to hoist the French flag with a view to becoming an ally of France, and so deterring the Anglo-Egyptian forces from attacking him?

"Have the communication, the flag, and the khalifa's reply fallen into the sirdar's hands?"

The Chronicle speaks mysteriously of knowledge that "the story is going further," and that it is "about to be published in a quarter of which we exercise no control." Horsman expresses the opinion that the government ought to deny the story if it is untrue.

England is watching with satisfaction, but without clearly understanding it, the daily increase in the number of warships placed in commission, the increase in the crews, the increase in the orders for watchfulness at all coast defences, and the qui vive throughout the empire. There is excellent reason to believe that those preparations are due to the expectation that France will raise the whole European question as an answer to England's claim to the Nile valley for Egypt alone. The government does not expect that France will succeed effectively in raising the question, but if she does, with Russia assisting her, it is probable England's policy will be to declare a protectorate over Egypt. It must not be forgotten that Russia's influence in Abyssinia gives her the appearance of having a locus standi in African affairs. Count Muravieff, the Russian foreign minister who was recently in Paris, is known to have advised France not to bring about a rupture with England over the Fashoda affair. Egypt is another matter. Count Muravieff is notoriously hostile to the czar's peace manifesto, and he might think that it would promote his favorite desire in the near and far east if a conflict, which Russia did not appear to originate, was precipitated between France and England.

It is significant that Sir Alfred Milner, governor of Cape Colony, has quietly but hurriedly left Cape Town for London. From 1889 to 1892 he was under secretary for finance in Egypt, and would be a most useful man here if the powers should resume the question of England's occupation of Egypt and her duties and achievements in that country.

Though secrecy is enjoined regarding the details of the British preparations, the government is her proofs that the world should know its determination to resist a contrary position from Egypt.

Goschen Could Not Attend.

George J. Goschen, first lord of the admiralty, who had accepted an invitation to attend the annual cutlers' feast at Sheffield last night, where he was to have responded to a toast to the government with a political speech, to-day sent the following telegram from the admiralty to the committee having the banquet in charge: "My continued presence is essential here. Sheffield will appreciate this. In the present state of affairs duty comes before pleasure."

Mr. Goschen's message intimates does not tend to lessen the significance which everyone attaches to the situation. The excuse of the first lord of the admiralty for not attending the banquet at Sheffield is regarded by the newspapers as being as eloquent as any direct utterance that he might have made there. However, there is nothing to jumble the view that the position has become worse. The people are content to wait until this evening when lord Salisbury is expected to make some plain declaration at the mansion house on the occasion of the lord mayor's banquet to Gen. lord Kitchener.

CAIRO, Nov. 4. Major Marchand, the commander of the French expedition, arrived here at seven o'clock last evening. He was met at the railroad station by the French officials and residents. The expedition looked thin and worried.

Directly the major appeared at the door of the train spectators rushed forward waving hats, sticks and handkerchiefs, and crying "Vive Marchand." The latter was much pleased and touched.

Only two Senegalese soldiers accompanied Marchand, whose future movements depend upon the instructions which Capt. Baratier brings him to-day. At the French agency it was formally announced that no one would be permitted to interview the French officer, as M. Pelleran, French minister of foreign affairs, and the marquis of Salisbury must be the first to receive all news which may contribute to the harmony of the two countries." The major reports that he left all his companions in good health and he adds that they had abundant provisions and a plentiful supply of ammunition. The French commander also expressed himself as being much gratified at the kindness shown him by the British officers during his journey to this place.

Major Marchand, who is extremely modest, makes light of his exploits. He is fond of explanation and is sorry there are no more routes to Kansas.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—An official note issued last evening says: "There is now good reason to hope that the political situation is ameliorating. It can be confidently stated that when the cause of irritation, which unfortunately existed in France and Great Britain and on the upper Nile, is removed, which is expected soon to be the case, the door will again be open for a resumption of those friendly negotiations which happily characterize the normal state of the relations between the two countries."

Prepared To Face Anything.

KINGSTON, JAM., Nov. 4.—The British naval authorities at Port Royal express the opinion that order for the mobilization of the British North American and West Indian squadron forms a part of a grand comprehensive scheme for a naval demonstration on the Pacific and Atlantic, intended to indicate Great Britain's preparedness to face any and all possible hostile developments.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—A cable to the Evening Post from London says: I am told on the highest authority that the Fashoda question has been settled and that a general and satisfactory arrangement has been reached with France. Consols are rising steadily. This confirms it.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The most reliable information from Paris confirms the earlier report that M. Dupuy, the premier, has decided to wash his hands of Fashoda and to recall major Marchand, for whose mission he is not responsible. This decision is to some extent due to a desire to allow nothing to interfere with the success of the exposition in 1900. Tuesday will be important in the history of the crisis. It is expected that baron De Courcel, the French ambassador, will impart the French decision to lord Salisbury, who will speak this evening at the banquet to be given to the sirdar, Gen. lord Kitchener.

LEGISLATION ASKED FOR.

An Influential Deputation Heard—Early Decision Promised.

OTTAWA, Nov. 4.—An influential and representative deputation waited upon a committee of council, composed of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir Richard Cartwright, Mr. Fisher, Mr. Felling and Mr. Sifton, yesterday, and based a request on the result of the plebiscite for the introduction at next session of parliament of a bill providing for the prohibition of the liquor traffic. The deputation spoke on behalf of the dominion alliance, including its several branches in the provinces of Canada, the Methodist, Congregational, Presbyterian and Baptist churches, the women's christian temperance union, the Sons of Temperance and the Royal Templars of Temperance.

The case of the prohibitionists was ably put by Rev. Dr. Carman, who introduced as speakers F. S. Spence, Toronto, secretary of the dominion alliance; major Boyd, Montreal, who spoke for Quebec; Dr. McLeod, New Brunswick; Furman McCurdy, M.P., Nova Scotia; Rev. Jas. Hogg, D.D., Manitoba; Mrs. Rutherford, Toronto, president of the dominion W.C.T.U., and D. J. O'Donoghue, Toronto.

The ministers gave a careful hearing to the representations made, after which Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied. He promised that the decision of the government would be announced at a early day.

Rev. Dr. Carman read a resolution which had been passed by the executive of the dominion alliance, after the plebiscite vote, to ask the government for a prohibitory law, and to urge a delegation to wait on the commission for the purpose. The resolution had been adopted at a meeting of the prohibitionists to-day.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier in reply acknowledged the representations of those who advocated prohibition, and concluded that the vote in favor of the principle had been pure and clear.

He explained the circumstances under which the plebiscite had been adopted by the liberal party. He discussed the Quebec vote and dissented from association of major Boyd that electoral frauds had been perpetrated.

He emphasized the temperate character of the people of Quebec, and said that the vote of that province must not stand alone, but must be considered with the vote of every other province.

FASHIONABLE WEDDING.

Marriage of Miss Grace Downey And George T. Clark.

OTTAWA, Nov. 3. One of the society events of the present season, was the marriage this evening of George T. Clark and Miss Grace Downey. The ceremony was performed at Christ Episcopal church by the Rev. T. N. Mackie, in the presence of invited guests, whose numbers crowded the capacity of the edifice. The bride entered the church on the arm of her father, Robert Downey, preceded by Miss Helen Pope, as maid of honor, and by her bridesmaids, Miss Marion Scott, Miss Murphy, Washington, D.C., the Misses Jackson, Scranton, Pa., and the Misses Nelson, Williamsport, Pa. The groom's best man was Ira Dentlinger, John Clark, New York and the others were Messrs John D. Higgins, George B. Simms, jun., John Downey, Norman L. Kaye and J. C. Churchill, jun. The bride is a daughter of Robert Downey, one of Ottawa's leading citizens, and is one of Ottawa's social favorites. Mr. Clark is a son of Mr. and Mrs. De C. C. P. Clark and is a prominent lawyer. After a wedding tour they will reside in West Fifth street.

BROKEN UP BY BULLETS.

Soldiers Attempting to Kill a Negro Shot by Police.

ATLANTA, GA., Nov. 4.—A negro named William Brannon, recently married Miss Minnie Walker, Wednesday. He was arrested and confined in jail. About 500 men, including a number of soldiers in camp here, formed in the hot pursuit, several blocks from the jail, during the night and marched to the jail, at which twenty policemen had been stationed, and surrounded the surrender of the negro.

Upon being told by police Collins that the jail would be defended, one of the attacking party shot at a negro woman holding a lantern. A general battle then followed. William Moore, a volunteer soldier on furlough, was shot through the head and will die. When he fell the attack was abandoned. None of the policemen were injured.

From the enormous disappearance of the visible supply of millions of bushels of wheat known to have been harvested this year, experts in New York market figure that a powerful effort is now in progress to corner that staple.

MYSTERY TO BE SOLVED

Mrs. Druce Will Open the Coffin.

STORY OF A DOUBLE LIFE.

THE DEATH AND BURIAL WERE DECEPTIONS.

The Late Thomas C. Druce, Says His Daughter-in-law, Was the Fifth Duke of Portland—Present Proceedings Taken in Behalf of Her Son, the Rightful Duke—Marriage Was Not Known—Brother Died Mysteriously.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—Mrs. Anna Marie Druce, daughter-in-law of the late Thomas C. Druce, who, she asserts, was in fact and in law the fifth duke of Portland, has obtained a final order in the high court of appeal directing the chancellor and faculty of the diocese of London to issue her a permit to open and inspect the coffin now in the vaults of Highgate cemetery, alleged to contain the remains of her father-in-law or of a man buried as Thomas Charles Druce.

Mrs. Anna Marie Druce claims that her father in law's alleged death and burial under the name of Druce were deceptions and that he lived and finally died, after having been under the care of Dr. Forbes Winslow, in a lunatic asylum. Her son, who, she asserts, is the rightful duke of Portland, and for whom her present proceedings are taken, is, or has been until recently, a domestic servant. He was last heard of in Australia.

According to Burke's Peerage William John Cavendish Scott Bentinck, fifth duke of Portland, died unmarried December 6th, 1879, and the dukedom passed to his cousin, William John Arthur Charles James, the de facto duke, who was born December 24th, 1857, and married Miss Winifred Dallas Yorke. Both he and his wife are very popular in Society circles and entertain lavishly at their numerous estates. A recently published estimate of the duke's rent roll placed it at something like £600,000 ($2,000,000) a year.

Mrs. Druce in her affidavits declares that Thomas C. Druce died not in December, 1861, as would appear from the official record, and that the coffin in Highgate cemetery, which she seeks to examine, does not contain and has never contained human remains.

According to her story, the marquis of Titchfield (her alleged father-in-law) and his brother, lord George Bentinck, were both in love with the same woman, but while the younger's suit received the approbation of the girl's father, the latter not only discouraged the desire of the eldest son, but treated him with insult. The climax of the quarrel between the brothers was reached September 21st, 1848, when lord George was found dead near Welbeck abbey—it was stated from a spasm of the heart.

Mrs. Druce says that her father-in-law suffered the keenest remorse and abject fear, and that, assuming the name of Thomas Charles Druce, he transferred to himself, as Druce, an immense property from himself as duke of Portland. Realizing the risk of exposure from his double existence, he determined to live his life as Druce and caused a coffin to be starved with his supposed remains. Even then his fears were not allayed, and he determined to assume a witness that, should he ever be accused of a crime, he might have the plea of insanity to fall back upon.

By the terms of Druce's will his estate was left in equal shares to his six children, of whom Walter Druce, the husband of the present applicant, was the youngest. In his affidavit the sworn clerk of the coffin-makers here before their parents were married. It was commonly believed by neighbors that her father-in-law did not die in Paris will, but he recognized and her son, the eldest son of the only legitimate son of Thomas Charles Druce, becomes entitled to the entire estate.

If she can show that the contention regarding the dual life of Druce, her son will become entitled to the title and estates now held by William, duke of Portland.

PRINCETON STUDENTS ANGRY.

Alleged Kidnapping of A Freshman Has Another All Class Spread.

NEW YORK, Nov. 4.—For miles about Princeton sixty-two freshmen and sixty sophs were scouring the country last night in the vicinity of C. Wilson Kilbridge, 1902, who had been chosen by his classmates to represent them in the tug of war. The weight teams of the annual freshman-sophomore class spread. Sophomores were some exponents, but such trifle when kidnapping was changed. There is little doubt that anyone connected of such kidnapping will leave Princeton forever, both by the dence of the faculty and the undergraduates. Moreover, the dean of the university said that if Kilbridge was not on hand to enter the ring at the appointed time the contest would not be held, and the faculty would prohibit all future class scraps, even though in so doing it would abolish one of the most ancient of Princeton's honored customs.

A Russian Colony to Triumph.

LONDON, Nov. 4.—The Constantinople correspondent of the Standard says: Emperor William's visit to Constantinople has resulted in agreement with the Sultan whereby the latter gives the kaiser permission to plant a large German colony along the whole frontier of Tripoli. This arrangement will protect the sultan against French encroachments upon the Tripoli Turk frontier and will avoid granting a concession to Asia Minor which would induce Russia to demand compensation.

A NOTE FROM CHAMBERLAIN.

He Calls The Attention Of The Government To This Outpost Of France.

QUEBEC, Nov. 4. Mr. Chamberlain has been warned by the threatening condition of the relations between France and Great Britain that it will be well to look sharply after the attempt now being made by France to establish a French station at the mouth of the St. Lawrence.

The attempts of M. Menier, the chocolate king, to establish a boycott upon everything English on the island of Anticosti may or may not have been the cause of the action of the imperial authorities, but certain is is that the colonial secretary has cabled to the governor general calling his attention to the condition of affairs at that important part of the gulf and the truth of the alleged story that there is danger of the establishment in Canada of a state within a state.

Lord Aberdeen has forwarded the enquiry, through his ministers, to attorney-general Archambault, of this province, who has been asked to make a complete report upon the whole matter and to state whether under the terms by which M. Menier has secured possession of the island there is any danger of Anticosti becoming the site of a French outpost in the St. Lawrence.

A GREAT I.O.F. BANQUET.

Tender a Dinner To Lord Aberdeen Before He Leaves.

QUEBEC, Nov. 4.—It is reported that the commandant and officers of the garrison will tender lord Aberdeen a dinner at the citadel previous to his departure for Europe.

Hon. Dr. Borden, minister of militia, has accepted the invitation to a dinner given here by the officers of this district at the Garrison club on the 12th inst. As that is the day upon which our new governor-general is to arrive in town Sir Wilfrid Laurier and several members of the federal cabinet will be in town and probably attend the dinner.

The members of the I.O.F. in Quebec are organizing a great banquet in honor of the high chief ranger of the province of Quebec, O. N. Bedard.

WANT THE CASH SYSTEM.

Brockville Cheesemen And the Failure of J. S. Warrington.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Nov. 4.—At the meeting of the Brockville cheese board yesterday an important resolution, arising largely out of the recent failure of the Warrington firm of cheese exporters, was passed. It provided for the appointment of a committee to make arrangements for the introduction next season of the cash system, whereby the cheese will be inspected here and paid for at the factory. Heretofore the cheese in this section has always been sold subject to weights and inspection at Montreal, which has caused a great deal of dissatisfaction.

A Sensational Charge.

OWEN SOUND, Nov. 4.—Joseph P. Raven, a private banker and candidate for the mayoralty of Owen Sound, is the complainant in a charge of felonious assault preferred against a woman named Race. Mr. Raven says he went to Race's home on business concerning a chattel mortgage and found Mrs. Race in bed. While speaking with her Mr. Race entered and at the point of a revolver compelled him to sign a cheque for $2.00 and take his oath to the effect that he had been guilty of improper conduct towards his wife. Race says Raven gave him the money to keep quiet, though at first he intended to shoot the banker. The case has created a great sensation.
