A farce was performed in Bannister's time, under the title of "Fire and Water." 'I predict its fate,' said he. 'What fate?' whispered the anxious author at his side. 'What fate?' said Bannister, 'why, what can fire and water produce but a hiss,"

Some slanderer has said that paper makers are the greatest magicians in the world, inasmuch as they transfer beggars' rags into sheets for editors to lie on.

FEMALE COMPLAINTS.—Miss Edwards, of Yarmouth, Nova Scotia, aged 18, was for a long time in a very delicate states, the mother anxiously watched her daughter, and consulted many physicians in the hope of her being benefited, but she gradually grew worse, and was finally thrown on a bed of sickness. At this time, finding medical assistance unavailing, the mother boldly determined to have recourse to Holloway's Pills, which she commenced using,—after the first week, the improvement was so decided, that she determined to continue them, and by persevering for two months with the treatment laid down by Professor Holloway, the mother had the satisfaction of once more seeing her daughter restored to health, although her life had been previously despaired of. These celebrated Pills are a certain cure for dropsy, as well as stomach and liver complaints

[illegible] Dr. [illegible] Pills have been used for [illegible] years, and have never failed in curing the most inveterate cases of Fever and Ague, Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, and Costiveness. Numerous testimonials can be produced, and have been published in the Philadelphia Ledger, Philadelphia Sun, and City Press, Philadelphia, during the height of the epidemic of 1832. In cases of Diarrhœa, Cholera Morbus, Dysentery, Cholera Infantum, and Summer Complaints, it gives instant relief. A perfect cure is sure to ensue. It is mild and safe for children and adults.

A Blooming Complexion and a Good Appetite are never seen following the Use of Dr. McCombie's Alterative Syrup. It purifies the Blood, Eradicating Impure Humours, Scrofula, and the seeds of Consumption from the system, and leaving New Pure Healthy Blood; also his Dyspeptic Elixir, for Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Loss of Appetite, and all diseases incident to this complaint. It strengthens the stomach, assists digestion, creates a good appetite, and speedily restores to health the sufferer.

Delicate Lungs cannot safely be trifled with, and yet lives of thousands of our population are annually swept off by Pulmonary diseases, which in their incipiency a few doses of Dr. Jayne's McChlotock's Cord and cough mixture would have speedily cured. Colds and coughs lay the foundation of consumption and asthma, and where this has unfortunately been the case the patient is earnestly recommended to try Dr McClintock's Pectoral Syrup as the only means of present relief and prospective cure.

Dr McCintock's Medicines have this great merit—they strike at the root of disease. They do not merely alleviate the symptoms, but finally extinguish the complaint. Those who have tested his Fever and Ague Syrup, proclaim it to be the only and sure cure for that distressing complaint; and sufferers from Bilious affections who have tested his Antibilious Pills are equally enthusiastic in their praise. Sold by E. W. Palmer, [illegible], H. Price.

ORANGE ASSOCIATION B. N. A.

PROCLAMATION

By the Right Worshipful the Grand Master of British North America, JOHN FLANIGAN, Esq.,

TO HIS COMPANIONS AND BRETHREN, GREETING:—

AFTER mature deliberation and after consultation with his official Brethren, with whom he has taken a calm survey of events as they are now presented to the public, and in consideration of the proceedings had in high places, the Right Worshipful the Grand Master has resolved to convene a special meeting of the Right Worshipful the Grand Lodge.

Chief among the considerations that have induced the Right Worshipful the Grand Master to take this step is the conviction that every effort should be made to effect a union of the Brethren, and that all minor considerations should be laid aside to effect that great object. Inasmuch as the Brethren unhappily now in connection with the adverse Grand Lodge, will hold their annual meeting at a distance from the place at which the Grand Lodge will assemble, and as on that account all negotiations must meet with more or less interruption and embarrassment, it is deemed advisable that an emergent meeting should be held to devise means by which all such difficulties may be obviated, and the great object so much desired by all true Orangemen honorably accomplished.

In the opinion of the R. W. the Grand Master, no one can doubt the necessity that the double administration of affairs should cease. It has already been attended with serious evils, and, if continued, will render the institution itself perfectly inactive and inefficient. It is no period now for discussing who is right or who is wrong, but the welfare of the whole demands mutual and immediate concessions, such concessions as will convince the world that as a brotherhood, Orangemen have means by which to settle their unhappy differences. He who was for years the acknowledged head of your order, retired from the high position to which his Brethren had elected him, hoping thereby to bring us the blessings of peace and union, and the R. W., the Grand Master, hopes that the example so honorably set will be followed by the Brethren generally. For himself, the R. W., the Grand Master, declares he never had any desire to be placed where the too favorable opinion of his Brethren placed him. His only object was to serve and be useful to the order, and while now ready as ever to maintain the integrity and rights of the order with his property and his existence, he will cheerfully join with his Brethren in making any sacrifice consistent with the dignity of the association, which its general interests may demand.

Movements are afloat, which, more or less, must affect the Protestant constitution of the Association, and therefore in the opinion of the R. W., the Grand Master, it is necessary that the original position of the order should be restored and maintained in an energetic condition. It, after mature deliberation and consultation, the order is of opinion that the movements of the day are adverse to those great protestant principles, to maintain which the Brethren are bound together, then, in the opinion of the R. W., the Grand Master, the order should place itself in the front of battle and stoutly and resolutely oppose the same.

But if the convictions of the Brethren are such that they recognize in the movements of the day and in the questions propounded, support for those principles of civil and religious liberty which they are bound to maintain, and which, if impaired, must produce their ruin and overthrow, then, in the opinion of the R. W., the Grand Master, the brethren should endeavor by all constitutional means to carry out those undertakings by again placing themselves at the head of the movement.

It signifies nothing that a temporary cessation of aggressive movements be brought about—if danger really exists—if there be cause for action on the part of the order—if it be conceived that attempts are made or making to betray the interests and principles of the order to its opponents, then the emergency arises which must unite Orangemen to seek to obtain a voice where opinions tell and where principle must ultimately triumph. But distracted as the order now is before the public, although its members are perfectly convinced of each other's private sentiments, opinions, and feelings, they are incapable of effecting any good, and cannot resist the phalanx of their opponents. This disorder, this sad disorganization, requires speedy attention, unless it be desired that the gangrene should affect the permanent division of the order.

Dissimulation should never be employed by the order, nor does the R. W. the Grand Master mean to intimate that it has been, but he puts forward these statements that all may know that when Orangemen avow their undertakings they will stand by them, and whether affirming or opposing a principle, the resolution to succeed will be equally evident and clear, and he really and sincerely believes that on the reunion, re-modelling and re-organization under one head, the entire prosperity of the order depends. Straightforward and lofty principles will conduce to this desirable end, while selfishness and unworthy ambition must lead to ruin and defeat.

The R. W. the Grand Master begs to call the attention of the Brethren to the fact that the Grand Lodge has, ever since these deplorable differences arose, used its best endeavors to reconcile them, and has been always ready to lay aside any minor considerations of its own position to effect this object. Unfortunately their endeavors have hitherto been ineffectual, but the R. W. the Grand Master fondly hopes that the effort which he is desirous of making on the present occasion will be attended with happier results.

While thus expressing his convictions more immediately to those, who, as in duty bound, have faithfully adhered to what they believe to be the legitimate authority of the institution, the R. W. the Grand Master also earnestly appeals to that high sense of duty and honor which has always been characteristic of all true Orangemen, whether they have for the time being been in connection with the proper authorities of the institution or not, and he is confident that all who are sincerely desirous of maintaining intact the integrity and purity of the order, will, in the present emergency, heartily join with him in laying aside all minor differences and meeting any concessions that the Grand Lodge may be willing to make in the spirit in which they are offered, and will on their part have no hesitation in making such concessions as the mutual interest of all parties may require.

Wherefore in the opinion of the R. W. the Grand Master, much consultation in required to remove obstacles and embarrassments which stand in the way, and no better method can be devised to deal with them than such means as may be suggested at a special convocation of the R. W. the Grand Lodge; and it is that these matters may be all duly considered with moderation and caution, that in the opinion of the R. W. the Grand Master an early convocation of the R. W. the Grand Lodge should be held, and in order that the convenience of all may be consulted, an EMERGENCY MEETING of the R. W. the GRAND LODGE of BRITISH NORTH AMERICA will be held on the 5th June, 1856, in the City of Kingston, at the hour of 12 o'clock, noon.

By order of the R. W. the Grand Master.

(Signed)
