FRIDAY EVEN'G, OCT. 12, 1878.

GOLD in New Yorkst 3 o'clock 103

Splendid Worstea Coats at $8; Beautiful Tweed Pants at $3; a handsome Blue Black or Brown Overcoat at $7 at A. A. LEVEY'S Clothing Emporium, Wellington Street.

CITY AND VICINITY

A black umbrella was left in the City Hall last evening. It can be had by the owner calling at the WHIG office.

TAKE out an Accident Insurance policy for a good round sum, and then promenade up and down Balaklava Street side walk. It would be a good investment.

K. & P. RR.—The train going on the K. & P. RR. excursion to-morrow will leave the ferry wharf at the foot of Brock street at 7:30 a.m.

MEDICAL COLLEGE.—The attendance of students of the Medical College is now over seventy. No school of medicine stands higher in public estimation.

SNODGRASS.—This gentleman will leave Montreal for Quebec, to-night, and on Saturday next he sails on the S. S. Circassian for his new charge in Scotland.

THEOLOGICAL LECTURES. — Rev. Dr. Bell, of Walkerton, will arrive here on the 6th of November, and commence on the following day his course of Theological lectures in Queen's College.

GARDEN ISLAND.—The Rine Committee are much encouraged by last evening's concert. Though the receipts may not be as large the entertainment on Garden Island on Monday evening is expected to be equally as successful.

ELOCUTION.—Mr. Mellville Bell being much occupied with the telephone, the invention of his son, Mr. D. C. Bell has been employed to deliver a series of lectures on elocution to the students of Queen's College during December.

PROBABILITIES for the next 24 hours: For the lower lake region, fresh winds, shifting towards the east by morning, fair weather, with light showers. For the St. Lawrence, brisk to high north easterly to north westerly winds, cloudy weather, with rain.

MARCH OUT.—This morning "A" Battery marched out, headed by the band. The men stepped out like veterans, but they couldn't very well step otherwise under the inspiration of such music as the band makes a business of producing.

SALE OF FANCY GOODS.—The public will bear in mind the announcement of the sale of plain and fancy work by the ladies of St. George's congregation in St. George's Hall on Wednesday next. We sincerely hope it will prove remunerative.

DECLINED.—There were fifteen clergymen invited to attend the Concert in favor of the Rine total abstinence movement. Only four accepted, the absence of two others can be accounted for, but as for the rest we cannot apologize for their decline of the compliments extended to them.

NEW CARRIAGE.—Mr. T. Rigney, of the City Hotel Livery, has improved his stock of very fine carriages by purchasing that of Mr. McSorley, which has been so much admired in Kingston. It is an elegant piece of work and has no superior in Kingston. Mr. G. W. Robinson imported it.

INDUCTION.—Rev. Alexander Macgillivray, who completed his theological students in Queen's University last session, was last week inducted into the pastoral charge of St. Andrew's Church, Williamstown, Glengarry. The Rev. D.H McLennan preached and presided. Rev. J.S. Mullen addressed the minister, and Rev. J.S. Burnett the people.

A CHANGE.—There is a possibility that Mr. Morrison, President of the Kingston Street Railway Company, will be called in the interests of the Company to another scene of activity. We cannot well spare so popular a citizen, late as he has settled amongst us, and we hope his associates will be able to supply his place in connection with the new enterprise.

THE SCHR. SWEDEN.—There are fears that the schooner Sweden, ashore at Port Stanley, may be lost. She laboured very hard, and has been opened to such an extent that it is said it may be impossible to pump her out. In this event her loss will be much felt, inasmuch as he is unifsured. She is owned, one half by Capt. J. Donnelly, one quarter by Messrs. Calvin & Breck, and one quarter by Capt. A.H. Malone.

MERCHANTS' BANK.—The economical "cramp" of the managing director has had its effect in the Kingston branch, as at other places. There have been removals, changes and promotions. Mr. Arthur Smith, discount clerk, has been appointed accountant at Prescott, a double step. Mr. H. Fasson Blogg, teller, has been made accountant in Mr. Joseph Rorke's place, he retiring after a long and faithful service, with every credit. Mr. Cook, of the Toronto office, will fill Mr. Blogg's place as teller.

A BEAUTIFUL INSTRUMENT.—M. A. H. Rackett, bandmaster of "A" Battery band, has just purchased a beautiful cornet, electro-plated, and the most highly finished and superb article of the kind we have ever seen. It is a four in one, since it can be played in the key of C, same as piano; in B flat and A for orchestra, and in E flat to lead a brass band. It is made by Messrs. Conn & Dupont, of Eckhart, of Indiana. The latter for a long time was a member of the celebrated firm of Diston & Co., London, England, and foreman of the workshops. Dupont is also inventor of the light piston valve. The instrument is beautifully engraved and gold mounted. It cost $70. Mr. Rackett has incurred the expense personally, but this should not be, since he has worn out his own cornet in the Government service. The cornet may be seen for a few days at McAuley's.

WIND WAFTS.

—The Rine Club are regular beavers to work up a concert.

—The late Dr. Mair's death will form the subject of the sermon on Sunday in Chalmers' Church.

—E. Sir Knight Thomas C. Chittenden, of Watertown, was elected Grand Generalissimo at the Grand Commandery in session at Troy, N.Y.

—The confirmation at Clark's Mills by Bishop Lewis, was attended by a great many people, and was of uncommon interest.

—Some people have an idea that anything in the temperance line is cheap and nasty. What do the public think of last night's concert, cheap as it was!

The boy stood on the burning deck,
And never budged an inch,
Until old Plumb began to speak,
And then he had to flinch.

—Prof. Gardner, the temperance advocate, who divided the proceeds of his lecture with whatever church he happened to speak in, is "catching it" all over N. Y. State for alleged immoralities. Although we do not like to cry mad dog when everybody is chasing a fugitive, we feel very much as if the Professor lately got a commendatory notice from the WHIG on false pretences.

—The Kingston and Napanee Road gravelling jobs have been let. John Allen received the contract for No. 1 section (from city limits to Cataraqui) at three dollars sixty per toise; J. Gorrie, section No. 2, at three dollars and thirty, cts., and Hugh Wallace, section No 4, at $2 per toise. We hope the printer won't put it "grovelling jobs," as he might be tempted to at such low competitive prices.

MARINE.

CHARTERS.—Stevens & Co, Toledo, report Jane C Woodruff, corn, to Kingston, 4½c, charters. At Chicago: To Kingston—Schooner Antelope, barley, at 8c.; schooner Two Friends, 20,000 bu of wheat on p. t. At Detroit, wheat to Kingston or Oswego, 5 to 5½c; to Montreal, 8½ to 9c.

PASSED THE WELLAND.—Schrs Oriental, Kingston, Toledo, light; Ayr, Colinsby, Pt Pelee, do; Kate Kelly, Ogdensburg, Cleveland, iron ore, Craftsman, Quebec, Pt Burnell, light; W J Suffel, Detroit, Kingston, wheat; barge Grimsby, Milwaukee, do, do; steambarge Clinton, do, do, do. There are fifty vessels in Port Colborne.

The Railway Outrage.

Last evening the police returned to the city with Kenneth Orser, Emanuel Orser and Charles Evans. These men, as we intimated last evening, are charged with pulling up ties and excavating under the track of the K. & P. RR. about eight miles from Kingston, with the intention apparently of causing some injury to a passing train. It seems that the track passes through the property of the Orsers, and that some difference has long existed between the prisoners and the Company as to the value of the land used by the latter, in the building of their line, and that one of them was heard to declare that he would yet be even with the Company. On Wednesday the track was tampered with, and when broached on the subject one of the prisoners admitted in a way his connection with the affair. They were brought before the Magistrate this morning, and remanded until the 20th, the company not being ready to prosecute.

New Magazines.

BALLOU'S MAGAZINE FOR NOVEMBER.—The November number of Ballou's Magazine is a marvel of beauty and interest. The first article is an illustrated subject on Chinese Life and Character, by the authors of "The Gold Hunters;" then follows some ten or fifteen stories of great interest, and several pieces of poetry of much merit. The humorous department, prepared by M. Quad, the wit of Michigan, is brilliant and attractive. This magazine is one of the cheapest publications of the kind in the country. Published by Thomas & Talbot, 23 Hawley Street, Boston.

PETERSON'S.—The ladies' magazine published by Peterson is considered one of the most popular of the day. Its last issue is bright and cheery.

THE MODEL SCHOOL.—The other day we stated that Dr. Agnew, County Inspector of Schools, had supervision of the Model School. A denial was conveyed to our contemporary and printed, of course. Having received our information from Dr. Agnew, we immediately communicated with that gentleman, but as he is on an inspection tour northward we have, so far, received no reply. Meanwhile, however, we may speak now and say that Dr. Agnew spoke of having legal jurisdiction over the school, but being desirous that Mr. Kidd should take charge he had repeatedly asked him to do so, and was not yet answered satisfactorily. Mr. Kidd, on the other hand, states that he has claimed throughout that the Public Act placed the school under his control, as geographically situated in his district; the County Inspector, a title to which a great technical meaning seems to attach itself, being in this instance the local or town inspector. When the two Inspectors have definitely settled the question of ownership we shall have pleasure in allowing our contemporary to put in its little oar.

DEATH OF DR. MAIR.—The Canada Casket (temperance) regrets to learn of the death of its esteemed friend, Dr. John Mair. It says: Dr. Mair was for over thirty years a total abstainer, and one of the most intelligent and earnest temperance workers we ever knew. The readers of the Casket have, during the past few years, been furnished with a number of very elaborate articles from his pen, which we have always most cheerfully published. A citizen, a scholar, a gentleman and a christian, Dr. Mair was highly respected by all who knew him. Few men devoted themselves more thoroughly and earnestly for the advancement of the cause of God and the well being of his fellow man than did our departed friend.

ENCORED.—Mr. J.K. Oldham, organist of St. George's Cathedal, was encored twice in his instrumental pieces at the Concert last evening. This is what seldom occurs. We never remember of it having occurred before.

RINE CONCERT.

A Complete and Gratifying Success.

The Concert in aid of the Rine movement took place in the City Hall last evening, and was crowned with complete success. The entertainment was attended by about five hundred persons, most or all of whom were in full sympathy with its object and interest. The Committee who arranged for the concert have but the members of the Woman's Temperance Association and a half dozen others to thank for any assistance whatever. The ladies rendered valuable service, and as long as they continue to encourage by kindly sentiments and persistent labor, we have hopes of achieving a triumph fully equal to the most sanguine expectations. In Toronto, Belleville, St. Catharines, Ottawa and Montreal Mr. Rine has been gladly welcomed and applauded in his noble work; in Kingston he has met with shabby treatment, and every effort which has been made by some to revive a warning cause, is chilled by the indirect opposition of persons and Associations whose claim for popularity lies in their benevolence and christian charity, but whose movements seem to be very much actuated by selfish considerations. We speak plainly, but the occasion requires it, and we speak as journalists who express the opinion of a large number of citizens. But we digress. The hall for the concert was very nicely decorated. At the back of the stage was a painting of the Queen, with flags (the Union Jack and Stars and Stripes) depending in graceful curves on each side. On the right hand were two silk temperance flags; on the left hand similar adornments; and along the top of the curved back of the platform were several names of distinguished temperance men, in prominent print: "Murphy, Mair, Gough, Neal Dow, Rine, Father Burke and Father Matthew." The effect was very pretty when under the illumination of gas. Mr. Samuel Woods occupied the chair, and made a neat and pointed opening speech. He spoke of the present temperance agitation in the country—of the rise and rolling of the Murphy wave—and of Rine's remarkable revivals at every point which he had visited. He alluded to Kingston's work, what had been accomplished and what it was hoped to accomplish, and then he referred to the nature of the concert, and what it was being held for; and in doing so he paid tribute to the press, the members of which had given, not only their time, but their substance (as seen in the programme, &c.,) to promote the work in which they had engaged. The first musical selection was the trio of Messrs. Byrns, Reyner and Greenwood, which was executed in good time and with considerable taste. Messrs. Galloway and Keeley's duet, 'Mother, can this the glory be?' shewed careful training and a correct expression of the piece. It is a difficult selection, but one to which they did justice, while they reflected credit upon themselves. Both these vocalists sang alone in the second part, Mr. Galloway contributing 'Hearts of Oak,' and Mr. Keeley 'Beautiful cup of good tea.' In the rendition of the latter there was much merriment, Mr. Keeley illustrating an occasional important line and round period by a sip from a cup which he flourished as the best characteristic of a character song. Miss Bates delighted the audience on the twice in which she appeared. Her first selection was Pinsuti's 'Follow me gaily,' a composition of very fine parts, and she sang it beautifully. It is unnecessary to say that she possesses a sweet but at the same time powerful voice, which she has under good control. Her singing was very acceptable; indeed her first effort was applauded so loudly that she supplemented it with 'Maggie's Secret.' Her 'Apart' was also highly appreciated. Prof. Oldham sustained his reputation as an instrumentalist. He played 'Fra Diavolo' on organ and piano in splendid style, and in order to do so he had to use his fingers, eyes and senses in the liveliest manner. He succeeded so well that he was recalled, and added a prettily played operatta. In the second part he played, as a piano solo, his own arrangement of the 'Blue Bells,' which did credit to author and performer. Mr. F. Sharpe sang in good tune and taste, 'Must we then meet as strangers?' and Mr. H. F. Jones made his debut in Kingston very favorably in Eulenstine's 'Give to me those early flowers.' The Rine Committee are under a debt of gratitude to the above gentlemen for aid otherwise than as vocalists. The Tandys have sang many times in this city, their native home, but they seemed to us to have never shone to greater advantage than they did last evening. Either alone is a pleasure to listen to at any time, but in duet they produce melody both rich and rare. 'The Fishermen' is not new, and yet it is not old. It can never become aged and past use when sung by these two, whose love of music, supported by natural abilities which cannot be too highly prized, have made for them a name far beyond local history and recognition. A perfect ovation was accorded them, and a response was inevitable. The encore piece, 'Flow Gentle Devan,' was as exquisite as the original. Mr. W. Tandy sang subsequently the descriptive song 'The Ship on Fire,' a grand selection given with a finish for which all the public performances of the contributor are proverbial. Mr. Oldham played the accompaniment. Miss S. Burton added much to the favor in which she has been held since she appeared as a public singer. She steps modestly upon the platform, and makes no pretensions by which to forestall flattery, but when her clear, ringing notes fill the room, and the listener wakes up to realize their quality, the result is doubly pleasing. Miss Burton sang 'The winds that waft my sighs to thee,' and as an encore, 'We'd better bide a wee,' the latter being as warmly applauded as the former. Mr. Woods and Mr. Taylor were very happy in their choice of readings. Mr. Woods' was an amusing narrative of 'The Scot Abroad,' and Mr. Taylor described 'A Railway Chase.' Both were well rendered, and both were cordially received. We must not omit mention of Mr. Cunningham, who gave his talents wherever required, tuning the instruments and playing several accompaniments. Perhaps no concert was better supplied with professional accompanyists, in the persons of Messrs. Oldham, Cunninghadh and Reyner. The organ used on the occasion was very kindly loaned by Mr. Purdy. The entertainment gave great satisfaction, and the Committee must feel grateful for the manner in which their labors have been publicly supported. The audience last evening was a most respectable and select one.

The Late Mr. Donnelly.

Yesterday morning the body of the late Robert J. Donnelly, third son of Capt. John Donnelly, of Garden Island, was found, and to-day it arrived here and was interred in the Wolfe Island burial ground. The accident which brought about the death of the young man will be long and much lamented. He was one of the crew of the schooner Sweden, one of the staunchest of the Garden Island fleet. In the gale of Tuesday last the vessel sprung a leak when off the harbour of Port Stanley, and Capt. Connors decided to run shoreward and come to anchor. He did so, but found that the vessel laboured so much in the heavy weather that to save her it was deemed advisable to beach her. It was while bringing the ship's head to the wind, preparatory to sailing her into the sand bank, that young Mr. Donnelly appeared on deck. The captain spoke to him, and suggested that he should remain in the cabin but he said he was then wet and would rather remain with the men. A moment after, and a huge wave washed over the schooner's deck, carrying young Donnelly with it. Assistance was at once called for, and a line thrown to him in the water. He caught it and was drawn near the vessel, but the water was too rough, and when his rescue was considered almost certain he was carried away, and realized that he must do battle for his life. Then he did what few men can do under similar circumstances, tho' they may be expert swimmers. He raised himself in the water and succeeded in relieving himself of the burden of his overalls and then he struck out heroically for shore. He swam well until he encountered the surf, through which he failed to force a passage, and, wearied and exhausted, he sank and passed from sight. Two days elapsed before his remains were found, and then his friends discovered their location by an arm and a part of the coat, all the rest of the body and clothing being buried in the sand on the beach about three miles and a half from where it disappeared. Across it lay the trunk of a tree which required the united strength of three men to raise. It is to be regretted that the young man, having before him such a promising future, thus met such an unfortunate and untimely end.

MR. COUNTER EXPLAINS.

Editor Newbury Reporter.

DEAR SIR,—You have lately seen fit through your columns and you have allowed your Kingston correspondent to attack my personal and political honor in such a dastardly manner that I can no longer refrain from correcting you in the wayward course you have seen proper to pursue. I have at all times endeavored to treat the editors in a most disingenuous manner, but now since you and your correspondent has vainly did your best to lessen the public's appreciation of my services, I must inform you that your puny efforts has been in vain. I stand to-day higher on the ladder of fame than I did before you and your husband took to slandering me. The officers of the WHIG newspaper have used me well. They have done all in their power to place me in the proper light in the public's eyes. In fact one of these gentlemen told me the other night that "I would live to stamp the impress of my genius on the destinies of my native city." They are gentlemen, and their treatment of me may be taken pattern of of you. Excuse me for plane speaking. I shall not be able to lecture in Newburgh this fall, but will try and be there before Christmas. I have to lecture to the gentlemen of the Medical College on Wednesday evening next. I do so as a favor in recognizability of some of their many acts of kindness towards me last winter when suffering from my old complaint. Now, as you are an old Kingston boy, I hope you will pardon this disinterested letter and in future spare me from the vile and contagious malignity of those who want to ruin my rising reputation.

Very truly, CHAS. COUNTER.
Kingston, Oct. 8, 1877

 We are happy to be in a position to assist in putting Mr. Counter right before the public by republishing his letter. Mr. Counter is often run upon—not literally as at Seeley's Bay—but sportively by people who do not admire genius when it is accompanied by eccentricity, an element which has had its share, though, in the composition of very many eminent men. Mr. Counter may have strong political views, but when a man is sincere he can be treated with respect on all sides, if not with admiration. We regret his difficulties with the public under such exasperating circumstances.

Local Items via Newburg.

Mr. Nicol, of Cataraqui, obtained a good number of prizes at the Guelph Central Fair last week. Good for Cataraqui nursery.

The new Albion Hotel is rapidly approaching completion, and will when finished be an ornament to Kingston and a credit to the workmanship of the artizans employed in its erection.

The Street Railway Company are having erected comfortable sleighs, to be ready for use when the snow prevents the cars from running.—Reporter.

The Albion will not only be a credit to the artizans, but also to the enterprise of Mr. Britton, who has done much for Kingston in the line of fine erections. He has done more for the city, indeed, than for his pocket in his real estate investments. He has sacrificed personal considerations to a generous taste and liberal style.

Cut this Out.

IT MAY SAVE YOUR LIFE.—There is no person living but what suffers more or less, with Lung Disease, Coughs, Colds or Consumption, yet some would die rather than pay 75 cents for a bottle of medicine that would cure them. Dr. A. Boschee's German Syrup has lately been introduced in this country from Germany, and its wonderous cures astonishes every one that try it. If you doubt what we say in print, cut this out and take it to your Druggists, Heath & Gunn, or Wade & Cornell, and get a sample bottle for 10 cents and try it, or a regular size for 75 cents.

—Mr. John Campbell, commercial editor of the Herald, who appeared before the Police Magistrate yesterday for alleged libeling of the City and District Savings Bank, and Father Dowd in a despatch to the New York Times says he is prepared to prove the truth of his assertions.

Rev. G. M. Grant.

One of the incidents of the Charlottetown Synod was the intimation given by the Rev. G. M. Grant that he had accepted the Principalship of Queen's College and University. He therefore resigned his place on the Hunter Church Building Fund, and he also intimated his intention to resign his place at the Board of Governors of Dalhousie College. The following resolution was moved by Dr. Burns, and seconded by Rev. A. M'L. Sinclair, and adopted by a standing vote:—

"In receiving Mr. Grant's notice of resignation, the Sonod desires heartily to thank him for the signal services rendered by him in various departments of our Church work, and its deep regret that we are henceforth to be deprived of these services in this portion of the field. The Synod would at the same time recognize the honour conferred on the Church in these Maritime Provinces in selecting one of its ministers for the office of Principal of Queen's University, and one whose distinguished talents and special aptitude for educational work peculiarly qualify him for its successful occupancy. In parting with our beloved brother we would assure him that he will be followed to his new sphere of labor by the warmest wishes and the fervent prayers of the members of this Synod."

Mr. Grant, in replying to this resolution, assured the Synod of his continued interest in this part of the Church. He spoke of the reality of the union effected in 1875, and how it had been brought about, first by co-operation in education work, and then in missionary work. Since the union there has never been a vote or a division, public or private, that indicates the old dividing lines. Three ministers of the Church of Scotland had removed from the bounds of the Maritime Synot since 1875, but eleven had entered the Synod since that date. He stated this to show that the union was indeed a reality. He spoke with deep emotion of his approaching separation from the Synod.—Halifax Herald.
