The Great Wall of China.

The great wall of China was measured in many places by Mr. Unthank, an American Engineer, lately engaged on a survey for a Chinese railway. His measurment gave the height at eighteen feet and a width on the top of fifteen feet. Every few hundred yards there is a tower twenty-four feet square and from twenty to forty-five high. The foundation of the wall is of solid granite. Mr. Unthank brought with him a brick from the wall which is supposed to have been made two-hundred years before the time of Christ. In building this immense stone fence to keep out Tarters, the builders never attempted to avoid mountains or chasms to save expense. For one thousand three hundred miles the wall goes over plain and mountain, and every foot of the wall is of solid granite, and the rest of the structure solid masonry. In some places the wall is built smooth up against the bank of canons, or precipices, of which there is sheer descent of one thousand feet. Small streams are arched over but in larger streams the wall runs to the water's edge, and a tower is built on each side. On the top of the wall therejare breast works, or defences, facing in and out, so the defending forces can pass from one tower to another without being exposed to an enemy from either side. To calculate time of building or cost of this wall is beyond human skill. So far as the magnitude of the work is concerned it surpasses everything in ancient or modern times of which there is any trace. The pyramids of Egypt are nothing compared to it.

A Case of Thirty Years' Standing.

East Aurora, N. Y., May 22, 1872.
Messrs. Seth W. Fowle & Sons:

Gentlemen—I was troubled with dyspepsia for thirty years, and tried several medicines advertised for the cure of this distressing complaint without deriving any benefit from them. About a year ago I commenced taking the PERUVIAN SYRUP, and after using altogether twelve bottles I find myself entirely cured. I consider my case one of the worst I ever heard of, and I take great pleasure in recommending the PERUVIAN SYRUP to all dyspeptics, believing that it will be sure to cure them.

Yours respectfully, J. T. BOWEN.
Sold by all druggists.

BELEAGUERED PLEVNA.—An English surgeon has published in the London Times an account of his experiences a few days in the beleagured city of Plevna. His letter is dated Oct 22; and although the Russians had not then cut off every source of supplies, as they have since done, there was hardly the material left at that time for a week's rations. All the circumstances seem to have combined to intensify the horrible sufferings of the beseiged Turks. The soldiers moved about with difficulty through seas of mud; they mounted guard in apparel pitiably thin and ragged; they slept in trenches already occupied by the unburied corpses of the dead; and pestilence and disease added more rapidly to the death-roll than the constant breaking of the enemy's deadly shells, and the almost daily struggles with beseigers bent upon closing tighter and tighter around the ill-fated garrison.

A CARD.

TO all who are suffering from the errors and indiscretions of youth, nervous weakness, early decay, loss of manhood, &c., I wil send a receipt that will cure you, FREE OF CHARGE. The great remedy was discovered by a missionary in South America. Send a self-addressed envelope to the Rev. Joseph T. Ienan, Station D, Bible House, New York City

Very Sensible—Horse dealers who are supposed to know what affects their own interests purchase Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy by the dozen, and feed it to their horses for the purpose of improving their condition, which it always does—others should profit by their example. Remember and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package. Sold by all medicine dealers.

"PROF. EGAN has earned for himself a high public reputation and has testimonials of the highest character to his scientific abilities.—Whitby Chronicle.

The press of this Province speaks in the highest terms of his talents and capabilities. He is a practical man in his treatment of nervous complaints, having devoted considerable time to their study, and acquired great experience from the number and variety of his patients.—Orangeville Sun.

Parties consulting Prof. Egan, of Toronto, will find him perfectly reliable and trustworthy in every particular.—Brockville Recorder.

We candidly recommend the afflicted to apply to him for relief, he is strictly honorable and confidential in his transactions.—Napanee Beaver.

He is a gentleman deserving of all confidence and thoroughly reliable.—Arnprior Review.
