THE SECOND EDITION.

BRITISH-AMERICA MINERALS CO.

Organization Was Finally Perfected At Last Night's Meeting.

The second meeting of the British-America minerals company (limited) was held in the Hotel Frontenac last evening, with Allan Chadwick, of the local board of trade, in the chair. After some discussion the name given above was selected for the organization.

R. J. Carson was chosen provisional treasurer, and the organization of the company was completed. The capital stock was fixed at $25,000, in 5,000 shares of $5 each, and it was decided to issue $5,000 worth of stock, the stock sheets to be placed in circulation immediately. The object for which the company has been formed is to prospect for and develop mining locations, and, provided the desired amount of stock be taken, three prospecting parties will start the work on May 1st. Two of these will proceed to British Columbia, and the third to the Rainy River district. J. W. Wells, R. B. Magee and F. J. Pope, of the Kingston school of mining, will have charge of these parties. They will have the services of Prof. Miller, of the school of mining, as consulting geologist and mineralogist. Prof. Miller is one of the most prominent experts in Canada, having taken a post-graduate course at a German university, and having proved his competency on many occasions.

The company, which is composed entirely of local men, starts out with the brightest prospects of success.

Central For Six Months.

A. McIlroy and C. O'Toole, charged with the theft of a caddy of tobacco from a waggon being driven along Montreal street by a Pittsburg farmer, and who have been remanded several times, came up before police magistrate Duff this morning and asked for "a chance." The magistrate answered that they had been given too many "chances." They had been allowed out on suspended sentence several times and had failed to profit by the forbearance shown them. There remained nothing for him to do but to punish them for this offence, and he thereupon sentenced them each to six months in the Central prison, Toronto.

Easter Requisities.

Young ladies and gentlemen at this time of the year are generally looking for the new styles in wearing apparel. To the house wife we would say you can save time and money by going to the Golden Lion for your Easter meats. McRae Bros. have made preparations for Easter, which it is not possible for any other firm in the city to do. For instance: Fearman's choice hams, 12½c. a lb.; Fearman's breakfast bacon, 12½c. a lb.; Fearman's roll bacon, 10c. a lb.; nice small picnic hams, 10c. a lb. Those are the choicest meats that have arrived in the city.

Aldermen Cannot Sit.

According to a new law aldermen are no longer to sit as members of the court of revision in cities. The court shall in cities other than Toronto hereafter be composed of one member chosen by the council, one by the mayor and one by the sheriff of the county. In cities of 30,000 and less than 100,000 the members of the court may be paid a sum not exceeding $300, and in cities with a less population any sum which the council may by by-law direct.

Laporte is a conservative candidate, and he says "an enemy hath done this."

PROBABLY FATAL ACCIDENT.

Mrs. Doran, Seventy-Five Years Old, Suffers Dangerous Injuries.

On Wednesday Mrs. Doran, who for ten years past has attended to the work of "cleaning up" the offices of Kirkpatrick & Rogers on Ontario street, met with an accident which will in all probability prove fatal.

Shortly after six o'clock Mrs. Doran, in company with a young woman named Esford, went to the offices to perform her regular duties. In the course of her work she went down stairs and out into the yard, at the rear of the premises, to empty a pailful of rubbish. Her assistant continued her work for some time when she noted the unusually protracted absence of the older woman, and listening for her footsteps, she heard a scream proceeding from the rear of the building. She ran down stairs and out to the yard and on her way to the "dust heap" she saw Mrs. Doran lying at the bottom of the area, which is between six and eight feet deep, and the walls of which are built of stone. She at once ran to the front door of the office and secured the assistance of a passer-by. Returning, it was found that Mrs. Doran was quite helpless and that further aid would have to be secured to extricate her. Reid's ambulance was summoned and the old woman was lifted out of the area and into the conveyance and was conveyed to the general hospital. There, an examination showed that her left leg had sustained a compound fracture near the thigh. The fracture was reduced, but owing to the age of the patient—seventy-five years—there are few, if any, hopes of her recovery.

Two years ago, on the day of the Harty-Smythe election, Mrs. Doran's husband was pushed off the sidewalk on the street, suffering a severe fracture of the leg, from which he died.

Big Price For A Terrier.

BOSTON, Mass., April 15.—Dr. W. G. Kendall has sold the noted blue-ribbon Boston terrier Squanto, the pride of the Squanto kennels, to a prominent Philadelphia lawyer for $2,000. Larger prices have been paid for imported dogs, but Squanto's price is said to be the largest ever received for a dog of American breeding.

FRONTENAC CHEESE BOARD.

Annual Meeting Held To-day—Officers Elected.

The annual meeting of the Frontenac cheese board was held in Congress hall Thursday, there being a fair attendance of members. C. Langwith, in the absence of the president, presided.

The secretary-treasurer read his annual statement, the finances being in the same condition as reported last fall, there being a balance on hand of $8.27. Only two factories had not paid their fee. George Lake moved that a vote of thanks be tendered the retiring officers. Carried unanimously.

The election of officers resulted thus: President, P. McCallum, Pittsburg; first vice-president, George Lake, Godfrey; second vice-president, J. Creamer, Glenvale; secretary-treasurer, W. McGarvey, Glenburnie. The newly elected officers thanked the members for the honor conferred upon them.

Mr. Creamer said he hoped soon to see the buyers allowed to sit at the board without paying the annual fee.

Mr. Duff suggested that upon the appointment of an inspector he be instructed to begin his inspection on May 1st. Mr. Langwith suggested that a rule be established cutting off so much of the inspector's salary for each factory not visited. Mr. Gallagher informed the board that last year's inspector, Mr. Bensley, Warkworth, had been engaged. It was moved and adopted that the board pay the inspector $200 for his services when completed. It was pointed out that the inspector was ready to begin his rounds as soon as the factories opened.

Mr. Langwith said he did not have faith in inspectors as instructors. Better cheese was made twenty years ago than is being turned out now. Mr. Reynolds suggested thrt the factories be taxed so much a visit for the services of the inspector. It was decided to leave the matter open until it was ascertained how many factories would register.

Mr. Whitton, Belleville, of the dairymen's association, was glad to see the board taking hold of the inspector question. If the members of the board continued to progress as in the past there was no doubt but that the quality of their cheese would be advanced.

President McCallum asked for an expression of opinion as to which variety of cheese it would be better start in on, white or colored. It was pointed out that both varieties were required and factories making either should continue so for the present. It was decided to meet again on the first Thursday in May.

Mr. Cranston said that there should be some rule established touching the weighing of cheese before shipment. There was some dissatisfaction here last year from short weights having to be made good. It was pointed out that the Peterboro board compelled makers to allow a half pound over-weight to allow for shrinkage.

THE WAR NEWS.

What Has Transpired During the Past Fleeting Hours.

ATHENS, April 15.—The Greek insurgents, according to despatches from the front, have sustained considerable losses and are retreating, having to fight superior forces. While occupying Baltino the Greeks burned most of the houses of that place.

LONDON, April 15.—There is no truth in Turkish reports that the Greek irregulars have been driven out of Macedonia. A few of the irregulars who formed part of this expedition army forces have returned into Greek territory, but these are men who for some reason have been unable to keep up with the main body of the Greeks, and consequently have retreated across the frontier.

The report of the capture of Kipuri, north of Baltino, by the Greeks is confirmed and in addition the main forces of the irregulars of the expeditionary force have advanced as far as Pigagitza, where there is an important bridge across a mountain torrent.

The main body of irregulars is continuing its successful operations against the Turks, with the view of cutting the Turkish lines of communication, getting in the rear of the Turks, and raising the Macedonians against the rule of the sultan.

The Russian ambassador at Constantinople has addressed a circular to the Russian consuls in Epirus and Macedonia counselling all christians, in the name of the czar, to observe prudence and to disregard instructions hazardous to their welfare.

Gen. Grumbloff, the well-known German military tactician, is going to Elassona to inspect the Turkish artillery, and admiral Kalay, of the German fleet, has gone to the Dardanelles to inspect the Turkish squadron and flotilla.

Russia and Germany are in favor of the Turkish invasion of Greece.

LONDON, April 15.—The Daily Chronicle's Athens correspondent, Henry Norman, says: "I have had an audience with King George. He spoke without much hope, but finally like a man who can only do his duty and leave the rest to heaven. More than once he said: 'If Greece had been a great power and had walked into Crete long ago, her action would have been welcomed by the powers as well as by the rest of the world as a blessing, but she is only a small power and seems unable to do anything that will satisfy the great powers.'"

WAS WILFULLY POISONED.

An Indian Guide The Victim of a Hunter's Draught.

QUEBEC, April 15.—It appears that Indian guide Sioui, who is reported to have died in the bush ninety miles north of Quebec while accompanying Mr. Roche, land surveyor, on a trip of exploration, was wilfully poisoned by a hunter and trapper named Fournier. It appears that Fournier was making a great slaughter of deer and cariboos out of season when Mr. Roche and Sioui preventing him from continuing the onslaught by bringing him to their shanty. Fournier was left in charge of Sioui, he offered the latter a drink which Sioui accepted. When Mr. Roche returned to the shanty he found his Indian guide suffering intensely. After begging Mr. Roche for a drink of water he reeled over and fell on his face dead. A warrant has been issued for Fournier's arrest. Four Indian guides left Borette to-day to bring back Sioui's body from the bush.

A Terrible Tragedy.

ST. JOHN, N.B., April 15.—A double tragedy is reported from Westmoreland. Rev. T. L. Williams, pastor of the Methodist church at Point De Bute, and Richard Carter, a well-known citizen, went gunning yesterday, starting from Aulaio in a boat. This morning the boat came ashore with the body of Rev. Mr. Williams. He was then alive, but unconscious, and lived only a short time. No trace has been found of Mr. Carter, who is believed to have been drowned. The boat was on the Bay of Fundy all night, and the clergyman, no doubt, died of fatigue and exposure, being unable to reach the shore alone against the strong currents.

AN ASSOCIATE OF RHODES.

THE THRILLING EXPERIENCE OF A FORMER TRENTONIAN.

His Name Is Dr. William M. Ireland.—He Is A Physician Of Cecil Rhodes.—Crippled For Life By A Kaffir Bullet.

The New York World, in its edition of March 28, publishes the following sketch of a former resident of Trenton, Dr. Ireland, a gentleman known in this city, together with a most entertaining interview.

He walks painfully with the aid of crutches. He is a cripple for life, this quiet soldier-doctor. He is only thirty years old, yet his hair is almost white. It was brown before he went to Mashonaland, he says. He is Dr. William M. Ireland, of Durban, South Africa, private physician to Cecil Rhodes. With his wife and four-year-old son he arrived on Sunday on the American line steamship St. Paul. The party is at the Stevens house.

Dr. Ireland is a native of Trenton, Ontario. After graduating in medicine, he practised in San Francisco, and was so successful that at the end of four years he had accumulated a fortune. His health failing, he started on a trip around the world. He stopped at Durban, in Natal, intending to remain but a few days.

Dr. Ireland's specialty was that of the eye and ear. There was no such specialist in Durban, and the day after his arrival there he performed an operation in ophthalmia. The operation was successful. Under protest, Dr. Ireland consented to take one or two more cases. The citizens of Durban came to him and requested him to remain. Finally he consented. That was three years ago.

Then came the war and Dr. Ireland accompanied the Natal volunteers on their march to the interior to put down the rebellion of June last.

Fort Salisbury, he said yesterday, is 750 miles from the coast. Judge Vincent, who is administrator of the South African company there, wanted a band of Mashonas punished for the massacre of some white men in a gold mine. Forty-eight of the Natal volunteers were selected for the purpose. A Canadian, named Capt. Turner commanded them. I accompanied them. Two hundred and fifty miles from Fort Salisbury we found the gold mine where the poor fellows had been murdered. One of them was an American from Colorado. Their bodies were terribly mutilated and thrown down a sixty-foot shaft.

Two days later we came upon the Mashonas. We surprised and killed a good many of them with our maxim guns. They retreated towards the mountains. Captain Turner and all our fellows were flushed with their success. They thought killing Kaffirs was an easy business. They did not realize that intrenched in those very same mountains was chief Mashinombe with 7,000 men.

Early one Sunday morning the natives suddenly surrounded us in a dongo, or ravine. The cliffs on both sides of the ravine were literally black with Kaffirs. All of them carried rifles and we made easy targets. We managed to kill a few of them, but we realized that unless we got out of the place within a few minutes none of our friends in Natal would ever even know that we had died. Capt. Turner ordered a rush up the only path leading out of the ravine. Just as we reached the high ground a bullet from an elephant gun struck me in my left thigh.

I fell to the ground and the whole command passed by me thinking I was dead. As I lay there with my left side temporarily paralyzed, unable to move hand or foot, I heard a low whinning at my side. It was my faithful horse that had seen me fall and had come to my assistance. How I did it I don't know to this day, but I managed to get on his back and ride to the company. They carried me on a lumber wagon during that awful retreat to Fort Salisbury, where there was a military hospital.

The one surgeon, Dr. Fleming, was compelled to accompany the troops to the front, so that three days after the bullet had been extracted from my leg I was placed in charge of a hospital. Although I was suffering great agony at the time I managed to hobble around on crutches, and during the following month superintended more than two hundred operations.

Then Cecil Rhodes came to Fort Salisbury and with him came peace. Mr. Rhodes' enemies in England ought to have seen the wonderful moral effect his mere presence caused upon the Mashonas. The Mashonas, you know, tortured all their prisoners and shot down men who carried flags of truce. Yet when Rhodes simply walked out to meet their chief and held up his bony right hand and said, "I am Cecil Rhodes," they fell down on their faces in front of him and only asked on what terms he wished them to surrender. No one who has ever seen Rhodes can understand his wonderful personal force. He is a great man, perhaps the greatest in the world to-day.

When my work at the hospital was over I accompanied Mr. Rhodes, at his request, from Beira to Fort Elizabeth. He is very careless and neglectful in his dress, and almost insignificant looking. At Durban the whole town turned out to give him a great reception, for which preparations had been making for weeks.

Rhodes appeared on the platform in a soiled white tweed suit and flannel shirt without a collar, but he talked about the unification of South Africa, in a way that set the audience wild with enthusiasm.

Rhodes is very frank in confessing his sympathies with the objects of Dr. Jameson's raid. He admits that he did all in his power for Dr. Jameson and the leaders of the raid, and he would do it again if he had the chance.

Must Pay Damages.

MONTREAL, Que., April 15.—Judge Pagnuelo this morning condemned W. C. McDonald to pay the aged parents of the late Alphonsine Thibeaudeau $1,999 damages. The girl had been employed and working in the McDonald tobacco factory in the spring of 1895, when the great fire broke out. She had been one of those who, in the panic, had thrown herself from one of the fourth story windows, her injuries from her fall proving fatal. The court held that Mr. McDonald was civilly responsible. Messrs. Macmaster & Maclennan, Mr. McDonald's attorneys, have given notice of appeal.
