

Earth Hour. Are you in?

This Earth Hour, let your support for clean energy shine

(NC)—Switch off your lights for WWF's Earth Hour on Saturday, March 26 from 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. to show your support for solutions on climate change. When you switch off your lights, you're joining WWF and over a billion people around the world who participate in WWF's Earth Hour to voice their support for the fight against climate change. Since it started in Sydney, Australia in 2007, Earth Hour has become the largest civil action in history, and a major world event.

You can celebrate WWF's Earth Hour with friends and family any way you want: with a candlelit dinner or a low-light hockey game, a visit to a participating restaurant or a star-gazing walking tour.

As we get ready to mark Earth Hour, WWF is calling on Canadians to think about how we use and produce energy in this country. Currently, Canada is one of the top 10 nations contributing to global climate change, but we don't have to be.

To create the best possible future for Canadians and for the planet, let's stop wasting energy, and generate what we need from clean, renewable sources like wind and solar. Canada can be a world leader in clean energy. But the longer we wait, the more it will cost – both in dollars and environmental impact.

The message of WWF's Earth Hour is simple: we created this problem, and by working together we can solve it. Let your voice be heard and pledge your support for WWF's Earth Hour at www.EarthHourCanada.org.
