THE GOVERNOR GENERAL'S GRAND BALL AT THE ACADEMY OF MUSIC — DAZZLING ARRAY OF HANDSOME WOMEN—QUEBEC IN A BLAZE OF LIGHT AND GLORY—AMERICAN REPRESENTATIVES, ETC.

Quebec, July 22nd.

The Grand Citizens' Ball, given last evening at the Academy of Music in honor of His Excellency Sir John and Lady Young, Governor General of the New Dominion, was perhaps one of the most pleasant and brilliant affairs of the kind ever witnessed in Canada, and was throughout a splendid success. For some two or three weeks past this Ball has caused no little excitement and interest among the fashionable community, not only in Canada, but at Saratoga Springs, Niagara Falls and other fashionable resorts in the States. The scenes and incidents in and about the St. Louis Hotel all day yesterday and last evening were of the most exciting character. Hairdressers, dress makers, and the like necessary assistants on such occasions as this, could be seen moving about the hotel with great rapidity, and indeed by the appearance of things in the locality, one would suppose it was evacuation day instead of a grand ball. The Academy of Music had been profusely trimmed and decorated for the occasion, and it is said by old votaries of such occasions, that it never looked more gay and brilliant than it did last evening. Buntings and streamers were profuse, evergreen arches and devices conspicuous, and bouquets and pots of natural flowers plentifully distributed. The stage was very beautifully decorated, and approached by a long and easy flight of stairs, covered with red baize. On the front of it was a tastely arranged fountain of Eau de Cologne, whilst at the back was a well prepared medallion transparency of Her Majesty the Queen, and H.R.H. the Prince of Wales. Colored lights, and lanterns of the Chinese pattern were placed in conspicuous points and added much to the appearance of the scene. Around the balcony was arranged various banners of societies, &c., and immediately over the dais, occupied by the Representative of the Sovereign, was the Royal Arms of the United Kingdom, supported on each side by the banners of France and the United States, the latter looking unusually brilliant and neat. The music was furnished by the Bands of the 69th and the Royal Artillery, the former occupying the Governor's box over the main entrance, and the latter the left hand gallery at the upper end of the hall. Their productions were of an unequalled sweetness of sound, whilst the time was unimpeacheable. The Governor and suite arrived at about 10.15, and shortly after the dancing commenced. The scene of the floor from the gallery or stage, was one of unusual splendor. The gorgeously dressed ladies, and tastily attired gentlemen, with the gaudy uniform of the military officers intermingled, made up a scene of rare attraction and splendor. The programme of dances was well arranged, producing fast and slow dance alternatively, consisting of quadrilles, valses, lancers, and galops, which could but please all. The anti-room, back of the main entrance, was used for the light refreshments of the evening, and were resorted to, after a brilliant set, by the gay votaries of the terpsichorian art. But the grand event was the supper. The Souper Froid —— was one of the most extensive and elaborate ever produced in Canada. The tables were splendidly arranged with flowers, fruits, &c., besides the viands, of more a substantial nature. The prevailing color of dress with the ladies was white, usually in muslin. Many expensive silk and satin costumes were also displayed, conspicuous amongst which was a delicate tinted green satin dress, cut with long train, and decorated with heavy point lace, over-shirt and cape; also, a corlie silk made, a la pompadour, with point lace flounces. The gentlemen, of course, wore the customary black broadcloth, with swallow-tail coat, white tie and gloves, and some with white vests. A white Turkish vest was worn by a New York gentleman, which was much admired by the noble ones of the company. The entire affair, throughout, was a complete, unlimited success, and highly enjoyed by all. The efficient services of Mr. O. A. Russell, of the St. Louis Hotel, in the arrangements on the part of the house, supper, &c., were most complete and highly appreciated, whilst the highest possible praise was unanimously awarded to the committee of arrangements by all present, for the complete manner in which every detail has been attended in the getting up of the Grand Citizens' Ball. There were many Americans sojourning at the St. Louis Hotel, who received invitations to attend, with the compliments of the committee of arrangements, and the fair and fashionable daughters and noble sons of our cousins across the river made up a bright and interesting portion of the company. Of course many, being tourists, were not prepared to appear in full dress, but for all this, the States were well and favorably represented. The weather at present is very agreeable, and hosts of visitors are arriving from the towns on the lakes, who make the voyage down river through the Thousand Islands and Rapids of the St. Lawrence.

Yours, &c.,

The Races.

There was a time when Kingston had its Summer and its Autumn Races every year; when good Horses were entered and ran, and when good Purses were offered as inducements for owners and breeders to bring them here. But that day passed away; a spirit of fanaticism pervaded the community; it was not accounted good ton for ladies to be seen at them, and Races became a thing of the past. This was chiefly owing to some rascally chicanery practiced at some of the Meetings of the Turfites, by which honest gentlemen were defrauded and hindered from coming again to Kingston, and thus the Race Course was ploughed over.

A change has taken place since those days; a new Course within the limits of the Crystal Palace Grounds has been laid out, under the management of two good men, Mr. Wm. Murray and Mr. Louis Geraldi; an excellent body of gentlemen have consented to act as Stewards and Judges; Subscriptions have been generous; and a spirit to patronize the revived Kingston Races is manifested by every lover of a good horse. As to the Purses offered, and for other particulars, we refer our readers to the Race Advertisement in to-day's issue.

DROWNING AT MONTREAL.—A telegram states that two of the Hussars left St. Helen's Island in a skiff, and when about the middle of the river the boat upset. One was drowned, and the other hung on to the boat and drifted for three hours, when he was rescued at Longueiul. He was conveyed to the Military Hospital, and is reported to be dying.

The End of an Elopement.

The following Toronto correspondence of a St. Catharines paper furnishes a sequel to a case of absconding and elopement in metropolitan circles, reported a couple of months ago, and doubtless remembered by some of our readers:—

Some months since considerable excitement was created by the elopement of a young married man named McKim, a coal dealer by occupation, with a good looking girl of the period, known by the sobriquet of "French Alice." The happy couple left for the Western States, the man leaving a number of sorrowing creditors, to whom his indebtedness amounted to $4,000, and a disconsolate wife to whom he had been only married about a year. Shortly afterwards the injured woman also left the city, and the affair rapidly faded into oblivion. A few days ago, however, Alice returned here and took up her abode in the same haunt of vice from which she had fled with her guilty companion. She reported that the wronged wife had followed them incessantly wherever they went, with an amount of resolution and determination rarely to be met with in the weaker sex. They had gone from State to State, and from city to city, now hiding amid the teeming populations of Chicago and St. Louis, hoping to escape her vigilant pursuit, and then settling in some frontier village on the outskirts of civilization; and it was all in vain—wherever they went she dogged their steps like a sleuth-hound, and confronted her guilty spouse and his partner in vice. She made no threats and offered no violence, but pleaded with him with all a woman's tenderness and affection, to return to her and discard her rival. At length, after repeated interviews, she prevailed, and succeeded in inducing her erring husband to restore her to her lost place in his affections—if that term can be applied to the feelings of such a miscreant. They remained in the far west; while the wanton who was so largely the cause of breaking up a once happy home, returned to this city, and is doubtless as ready as ever to mislead any new victims who may offer.

ENGLISH CROPS.—The English harvest will be about three weeks later this year, compared with the unusually early one of last year; but, it is thought that the gross total production of food (animal and vegetable) will probably exceed that of last year. Wheat may be less in quantity, quality, and weight; but peas, beans, oats, potatoes, and perhaps barley, will be in excess especially peas and beans. Abundant grass and other vegetable products will, however, have a happy influence on the quantity and price of home-grown meat, milk, butter, cheese, and vegetables.

EUROPE.

By the Atlantic Cable.

London, July 22.

The compromise on the Irish Church bill was the result of fear on the part of the Peers of the consequence threatened by a collision of the two Houses of Parliament. Last night the Tory Lords held a large meeting at a private residence and resolved to repudiate the Marquis of Salisbury and put themselves under the head of Lord Cairns. The latter was authorized to make peace with the Ministry, expressing the willingness of the Peers to yield. To-day Lord Cairns sought an interview with Earl Granville, and gave in the submission of the Peers, whereupon the cabinet agree to the compromise announced to-night. The prompt and loud expression of popular indignation terrified the Lords, and thus has been postponed for a while the threatened agitation.

THE IRISH CHURCH BILL.

London, July 23.

There was a full attendance in the House of Commons this evening. When Mr. Gladstone rose to speak he was greeted with great cheering. Under a heavy sense of responsibility, but with profound satisfaction he moved that the house agree to the re-amended Church Bill without exception or reservation.—The re-insertion of the date of 1871 was not taken as a token of victory, but as an indication of the joint and harmonious working of the two Houses. He reviewed the amendments which had met with objections, and said the substance of the Government proposals has remained virtually unaltered. He asked the House to discard every word that might have been uttered tending to embetter the question, and he apologized for any warmth of feeling which he might have shown. He congratulated the House on the satisfactory settlements which had been arrived at, and praised the ability and moderation with which the debates had been conducted by Earl Granville and Lord Cairns. He hoped that the disestablished church would develope within her the qualities by which a great career would be marked out for her, and that God would speed her in her new career.

Sir Roundell Palmer, approved of the course which had been taken. It was honorable and fair to both sides. The point agreed upon was which all must accept. In the case of an adverse decision, we must bow to the superior force of those who control events, and when the time has come, it is folly to refuse to see and acknowledge.

Mr. Disraeli said that when the difference between the Houses was only in a matter of detail he felt that delay in the settlement was only a doubtful advantage, and might result in disasters and difficulties of no inconsiderable kind. Compromise was not unconditional surrender. The most essential points in the amendments had been assented to, and he thought that the House and country would deem the compromise fair and just. All would hail with satisfaction, and ratify with pleasure, the sentiment arrived at, which was satisfactory and statesmanlike. After the conclusion of Mr. Disraeli's speech the amendments were agreed to without a discussion. The result was received with great cheering.

QUEBEC.

CITIZENS' BALL TO THE GOV.-GENERAL.

Quebec, July 22.

The citizens' ball to the Gov.-General last night was eminently successful, and reflects great credit upon the committee of management.

Sir John and Lady Young entered the ball-room about 10 o'clock, accompanied by the members of the committee and his suite. Lady Young was dressed in pink silk, trimmed with deep Maltese lace, and seemed to enjoy herself remarkably well, if frequent dancing can be looked on as a proof. The ladies in waiting were the Mesdames Chauveau, Duval, Caron, Taschereau, Stuart, Irvine, C. E. Levey, Rae, Derey, Dunkin, and Dobell.

Sir Francis Hincks was present and looked as lively as a cricket. Hon. Joseph Howe had a large number of admirers, and took part in nearly every dance. Sir A. T. Galt made his first appearance since his receiving the order of Knighthood.

Hon. Mr. Chauveau had the honor of Lady Young's hand in the first quadrille of the evening, while Sir John led Lady Belleau through the same set.

The ball with all its success is going to prove a cause of grievance. The Mayor was completely snuffed out by the committee, and did not receive any invitation in his official capacity. This conduct is generally denounced here. It was a ball given in the name of the citizens and he, being the first citizen and their representative, ought to have been invited in that capacity. It is said the insult was intentional, as some of the members of the committee were not on terms of friendship with him. The ball was also remarkable for the absence of English ladies. At last three-fourths of those present were of French Canadian origin, while three fourths of the subscribers were English, and foot the bill. This was the general cry the next day in the ball room.

SHIP LABORERS' ASSOCIATION.

Quebec, July 23.

The Ship Laborers' Benevolent Society marched in procession, four deep, this a. m., through the principal streets of the city, with banners, bands of music, and regalia. They were twenty-eight minutes passing one given point at a quick march. The number was set down at 3,000. It is probably the largest organization of men in the Dominion. Every ship in the harbor is lying idle to-day, and labor generally suspended. This is the anniversary of the society, and they always celebrate it with a public procession. Everything was conducted in an orderly and peaceably manner. It is one of the society's standing orders that any member taking part in the procession under the influence of liquor has to pay a fine, which is deducted from his week's wages; and should he refuse to disburse, he is expelled from the union, and prohibited from again working on board ship.

Cobourg.

PERPETRATION OF A HUGE JOKE.

Coburg, July 20.

On Wednesday last a sailor belonging to the schooner Jessie McDonald, being slightly under the influence of liquor, and wishing to perpetrate a joke on the Cobourg people, pretended to fall into the the harbor, but instead of going in himself threw in a piece of the far famed iron ore accompanied by his old plug hat and a screech of agony. All was extitement and rumors of foul play, &c., were heard in this usually quiet town. Drags were made and the harbor was searched from end to end for days, but without success. As a last resort the immense cannon sent here for the volunteer artillery was brought alongside of where it was supposed the sailor had fallen in and the hat passed round for a collection to buy powder to raise the body. An old artilleryman was hired, under the superintendency of Captain Stanton, to fire the gun, and after shaking the town to its foundation for three days they gave it up as a bad job, supposing that the revolutions of one of the steam fleet had carried the body out into the lake. It since turns out that the sailor, after throwing in the ore and his hat, made off in the direction of Colborne, where he has been spreeing ever since on the strength of his own joke, to the utter disgust of several coroners who were perched on the dock night and day waiting for the body to make its appearance.
