The decree concerning the conduct of the clergy gives universal satisfaction. It calls upon the Bishops to report what steps they have taken to restrain such disloyalty, and to furnish the Government with the names of the conspirators. The Bishops are required to issue to their pastorals, requiring obedience to the law within eight days.

CAPTURED AND SHOT.

Balanceotquita, a Carlist chieftain, after making desperate resistance has been captured, tried by court martial and shot.

CONSUL HAGGERTY—THE FENIAN.

London, Aug. 16.

The Telegraph (liberal) yesterday contained an editorial on the case of Haggerty, who was appointed American consul at Glasgow. The writer, justifies the refusal of the British government to grant the exquatur to Haggerty. President Grant had no notice of the record of Mr. Haggerty, and under the circumstances the government had no option but to refuse to acknowledge him, and the justice of refusal would doubtless be acknowledged at Washington.

SPAIN AND CUBA.

London, August 10.

The Times, in an article on the relations between Spain and Cuba, says:—"Between the military punctilio of the former and the patriotic fanatism of the latter the interests of both are likely to suffer, especially when the questions at issue should be brought under the controls of sound reason, and their discussion kept free from the influence of impulse and passion. If it can be proved that the separation of the colony from the mother country is unavoidable and not a remote contingency, it seems the height of madness to carry on hostilities fraught with ruin to either side." After inquiring into the causes of the rising in Cuba the Times says:—"The most fanatical of oppositionists are aware that Spain can only temporarily crush the rebellious spirit in the colony. Were Spain quit of the colony without compensation, thanksgivings for a happy riddance might well be sung throughout the peninsula; but if a large sum of money is received, into the bargain the Spaniards cannot be too thankful. The last French campaign in Mexico ought to have made it manifest that there is neither honor nor profit to gain for the powers of the old Continent by meddling with the affairs of the new."

TELEGRAPH CABLE IN CHINA.

London, Aug. 10.

James Milliken, of Philadelphia, has obtained Lord Clarendon's sanction for instructions to be issued by the Admiralty to the British fleet, in the waters of China, to cooperate with the squadron of the United States, in laying and protecting a telegraphic cable along the coast of China. This is an American enterprise in which some English capitalists have also invested.

The Provincial Exhibition.

The regular weekly meeting of the members of the Local Exhibition Committee took place at London on Saturday afternoon, Jas. Johnson, Esq., presiding. Present, Messrs. Cousins, Anderson, Partridge, jr., Campbell, Glackmeyer, Stewart, Wheaton and His Worship the Mayor.

A communication from Mr. Christie, contractor, was read, which stated that the Chairman of the Building Committee had given orders to cease work on certain buildings in the palace.

Mr. Glackmeyer explained to the meeting that he thought paying certain parties by the day was a very expensive way of working, and he deemed it advisable to stop some of the work until a meeting was convened.

After a slight discussion as to whether it would be prudent to have the work contracted, the matter was referred to the Building Committee, with power.

Mr. Glackmeyer stated that he had let the whitewashing of the stables for the sum of $20. The price allowed had been placed at $30, thereby insuring a saving of $10.

His Worship the Mayor stated, with reference to the several sheds, &c., required to be erected, that there was already on hand a sum of $2,660.

Moved by Mr. Campbell, seconded by Mr. Cousins, that a deputation, consisting of Messrs. Johnson, McBride and Stewart, wait upon the Council on Monday evening for the purpose of soliciting the sum of $500 for the erection of the Agricultural Hall. Carried.

Mr. Cousins informed the meeting that it was very likely that the Great Western Railway Company would require the use of the exhibition grounds for their pic-nic, and remarked that he had informed the person making application that the grounds could be had for $50.

The City Engineer was heard upon the poultry shed now being put up. He stated that he did not understand that he was to superintend the work. He was instructed to see that the building was put up in a good, substantial manner.

The meeting then adjourned till next Saturday.

FIGHT BETWEEN A SHIP'S CREW AND A BABOON.—An English steamer, which arrived at Liverpool from Africa a short time since, had on board three giant chacmas or baboons, two crocodiles, several monkeys, and other specimens of the natural history of the country. The baboons were very ferocious and possessed of giant strength. For their safe custody a strong den with iron bars was provided and placed near the forecastle, so that they could be constantly under the eye of the crew. All went well until the morning of the second day out, when a crash was heard, and in an instant the large chacma had wrenched several bars off, and the next instant was on the forecastle, armed with the bars with which he had been confined. Here his majesty paused for a moment, and in a dignified manner surveyed his captors. A rope having been got, a noose was formed and cast over his head, and he struggled hard to extricate himself, but without avail. He then attacked one of the seamen, whom he seized by the arm, and, notwithstanding that several of the men belabored him with weapons, the brute would not relinquish his hold until he had torn the flesh from above the elbow to near the wrist, and had been rendered insensible, when he was carried to his den.

Men or Monkeys,

WHICH?

The papers by the last Indian mail contain two long letters from a gentleman in Calcutta named Cameron, proposing a scientific expedition to Borneo, in search of tailed men and women, who he believes are to be found in the forests of that island. Mr. Cameron (who avows himself "a firm believer in the Mosaic revelation") says: "When I was in Sarawak, I met now and then with traders who had been in the Kyan country to the north-west of the Northern Peninsula or projection of Borneo, who gave me detailed and definite accounts of a race of men (not the orang utan) who dwell among dense forests, living up trees (which are of gigantic size) with their wives and children, with their bows and arrows and other rude implements, whatever they may be. They lived entirely by hunting, and had no sort of agriculture. I do not recollect now, after the lapse of such a long period, whether I was informed that they made use of fire, or whether they cooked at all. They went, of course, entirely naked. They had no intercourse with any other people, and spoke a gibberish of their own. It was only now and then that Kyans, Malays, or Dyaks, ever came upon their leafy habitations, when of course a speedy retreat used to be beat by the strangers. These accounts by people who had been in that part of the country were confirmed by other Dyak tribes and by Malays. I find no great difficulty in believing this story. Science, in one sense, almost requires it. And in Borneo the monkey tribe has received almost its highest development; and why may not man be found in his primeval and untrodden forests existing in his initial state of progress? We have lately heard of a story coming from Africa, that there is a race of men with tails far away in the interior of the great continent, and it is noteworthy that the centre of Africa, like Borneo, is just under the line, and that in Africa also we find the monkey race in a high state of development, and the lowest race of man, the negroes, living side by side with them. Mr. Cameron thinks that if only the Asiatic Society, or the authorities of the Indian Museum, will assist him in raising the funds necessary to defray the cost of an expedition, that 'the missing link' will at last be brought to light, and that Borneo will supply the means of enabling man to form acquaintance with his primeval ancestor.

Here is a chance for the English theorists who believe in a gorilla or monkey origin of the race.

TWO STEAMSHIPS LOST ON THE NEWFOUNDLAND COAST.

The steamship Germania, from New York for Hamburg, was lost near Trepassey, on Saturday. The passengers and crew were successfully landed there. A tug has gone to their assistance.

New York, Aug. 10.

The steamship Germania, from New York on the 3rd for Hamburg, was lost at sea on Saturday. She is a total loss. The crew and passengers are saved and probably the mails also. No particulars have been received. She had on board $75,000 in specie.

St. John's, Nfld., Aug. 19, 3:31 p.m.

To Keenhardt & Co., N. Y.:—The passengers and crew are still at the scene of the wreck. A tug boat left this morning to bring what she can carry here.

(Signed) R. H. PROWSE.

[The Germania is a vessel belonging to the German line trading between Hamburg and New York, and the Cleopatra is one of a line plying between Montreal and London. The Germania was on her outward passage, having left New York on the 3rd, while the Cleopatra was on her way to England. According to one of the despatches both vessels were wrecked at the same place, near Trepassey, while another despatch says that the Germania was lost at sea. Fortunately in both cases the passengers and crew were saved, and we will be spared those details which often make the story of a wreck so melancholy and painful. No mention is made of the cause of the wrecks, but they were both probably owing to the fog which so often prevails on the Newfoundland coast.]

The Colenzo Case.

THE BISHOP HAS THE UPPER HAND.

Another chapter in the history of that most unhappy part of the Colonial Church, the Diocese of Natal, has just been brought to a close. The Bishop of Capetown, as Metropolitan of South Africa, had claimed the possession of full rights of custody over the land and buildings belonging to the Cathedral of the diocese of Natal at Pietromaritzburg, and in virtue of this claim had kept forcible and adverse possession of the said Cathedral. This claim and the possessory rights founded upon it had been disallowed by the Supreme Court of the Colony of Natal, whose judgment or order had declared that the Cathedral of Pietromaritzburg was vested in Dr. Colenso as Bishop of Natal. Against this decision the Bishop of Capetown appealed to the Judicial Committee of the Privy Council. The appeal was in vain, for after a lengthened and elaborate argument of the case by Sir Roundell Palmer, on behalf of Bishop Gray, the Lords of the Judicial Committee unanimously gave judgment in favour of Bishop Colenso; thereby confirming the decision of the Supreme Court of the Colony, and establishing the Bishop of Natal in the full enjoyment of the rights conferred upon him over the Cathedral of his own Diocese in the Letters Patent under which the See was created in 1863, the Bishop of Capetown, being in possession, as Metropolitan, of no title or title as trustee or otherwise and having no right whatever to interfere; nor any jurisdiction coercive or consensual over the Bishop of Natal.

We also see that upon the publication of the judgement by the Supreme Court of the Colony, Dr. Colenso had refused to recognize any longer the Rev. Mr. Green as Dean of Natal, because that dignitary declined to admit that Bishop Colenso had any claim on his canonical obedience, after his deposition by the Bishop of Capetown. The Rev. Robert Gray, formerly of St. Helena, has been appointed to the vacant Deanery. On the opposite side, the so called "Orthodox Bishop of Natal" (Mr. Macrorie) has appointed an archdeacon of his Diocese in the person of the Rev. F. S. Robinson, of St. John's College, Cambridge.—Gazette.

A BAND OF MURDERERS.

St. Louis, Aug. 9.

Recent events have disclosed the fact that a gang of murderers have for a long time made their rendezvous at Ironside in this State, and that a number of citizens of that place have been murdered. Several arrests have been made. Writs were issued for other parties, but in an attempt to serve them the Sheriff and posse were met with organized resistance. After a desperate fight they were forced to retire with a man killed and several wounded.

Export.

PETROLEUM LOOKING UP!

A few weeks ago, and there was not a barrel of oil shipped for outside consumption. What was made was for the home market, and the article burned here was not first-rate. It was good enough for us, because it was cheap, and we fortified our olfactories against the pungency of its odour. It burned well and cost little; and that was enough. But the noses of the outside world would not be governed by those of the Canadians, and the eye, too, must be pleased by an oil limpid and brilliant at the purest spring water. And who can blame them? They had been educated to it by the use of the "American Standard White," and if oil from Canada failed in any essential particular it was not wanted. If it stunk—and to Liverpool nasals it did stink—it was not called for. If it was of a dull yellow—and to Liverpool eyes it was yellow—it was not wanted. Now, however, the case is entirely altered. The oil is as sweet to the nostrils as it is grateful to the eye, and hence export of it can be made. At a period of a few weeks since none was going out; now one thousand barrels a week find an exit. The oil trade shouts, "Eureka!" and straightway in goes the crude oil into the stills; up go the fires under them; off fly the volatile particles which form the oil, and fuller's earth, lead and acid do the rest. Yet, if one thousand can be exported every week, why not two thousand? why not four thousand? There is no reason except this, that things are being made ready to export four thousand weekly, a bulk which before another year, certainly before another eclipse, may have mounted up to ten thousand weekly. As there is no reasonable limit to the consumption, and none, so far, to the supply of the raw material, petroleum, so there need be none to the manufacture of the oil into a merchantable condition. More stills, more coopers, more petroleum, more wells, more steam-engines and boilers, more expansion and progress; not this time upon the contracted market that Canada alone supplies, but on an export that includes Europe, Asia, and the West India Islands in its scope.—London Free Press.

A Dublin telegram reports another outrage—happily not a murder. A surveyor, who went on Thursday evening on the lands of Lisobehare, near the town of Tipperary, to mark the boundaries of two estates, was pounced upon by four men, armed with revolvers, who searched him, took away his papers, and, firing shots, told him if he did not at once quit the land they would shoot him. They supposed he was making a survey to increase the rents. A large police force was sent to the spot, but no arrests were made.

A discovery of a remarkable nature has just been made in the old church of Saint Germain, Paris. Some persons who were repairing the wood work at one of the sides in the left of the nave discovered a secret door, giving access to a small chapel, hitherto not known, the walls of which are entirely covered with excellent paintings in the Renaissance style, in good preservation. This church is extremely rich in artistic relics, possessing, among other things, a fine Albert Durer and a remarkable Perugino, besides some stained glass of Jean Cousin, the father of the French school of the sixteenth, seventeenth, and eighteenth centuries.

The tunnel under the Straits of Dover, which has been so long discussed, appears to be given up. It is stated that the engineers of France and of England have just now pronounced definitely against the scheme. They all agree, indeed, that the tunnel is quite feasible; but then they add that the cost of it would be £10,000,000, which puts it quite out of question, unless the Governments of France and of England should, in the interest of international amity, think it right to proceed with the works, regardless of expense. To pay, such a tunnel would require 20,000 passengers a day, at 5s. a piece. Nobody looks forward to such a large traffic between the two countries.

NOBLE ACTION BY THE CROWN PRINCESS OF PRUSSIA.—A fire lately broke out at Potsdam in an old wooden building, the property of a poor day labourer. The grandmother, though an infirm old woman, rushed into the shed in the hope of saving some of the goods, and had really succeeded in dragging out part of a bed when a piece of burning wood fell on her clothes and set them on fire. Though assistance was immediately rendered, her back was severely burned. Just at this moment their Royal Highnesses the Crown Prince and Princess arrived at the scene of misfortune. The old woman was carried to a place of safety, where the princess, who had accompanied her, dressed her wounds with her own hands, and attended her with the greatest care and gentleness till a medical man arrived. By her command the children were then taken to the palace, and washed and furnished with new clothes. The fire burned out without causing any further damage.

HOW A GOOD TEMPLAR IS MADE.

The victim for initiation is first blind folded, bound hand and foot, and then thrown into a cider-press and squeezed for five or ten minutes. This is done for the purpose of clearing the system of all 'old drinks.' He is then taken out of the cider press, and by means of a force-pump gorged with cistern water, after which a sealing plaster is put over his mouth, and he is rolled in a barrel four or five times across the room, the choir at the same time singing the cold water song. He is then taken out of the barrel and hung up by the heels until the water runs out through his ears; then he is cut down and a beautiful lady hands him a glass of ice water. A water bath is then furnished him, after which he is showered with cistern water. He is then made to read aloud the articles of incorporation and by-laws of the water company, ten times, drinking a glass of cistern water between each reading; after which 'The Old Oaken Bucket' is sung and hung around his neck, while fifteen sisters with squirt guns delugue him with cistern water. He is then forced to eat two pounds of ice cream, while his brothers fill his ears with broken ice. Then he is run through a patent clothes wringer, after which he is handed a glass of water his boots are filled with the same, and he is laid away in a refrigerator. After laying in the refrigerator half an hour he is taken out, run through a clothes wringer, takes the whole lodge down to some soda fountain, stands treat and becomes a Good Templar.

A Court Scene.

LAWYERS DISAGREE AND INDULGE IN PERSONALITIES.

The Montreal Star's police report says:

A charge of assault preferred against Nelson Vosburg by Alfred Isaacson was now heard.

Mr. John Monk stated that he appeared for the defence, and desired to plead guilty and have the case disposed of.

Mr. Clark, Q.C., said he appeared for the prosecutor, and objected to have the case disposed of before the particulars were heard.

Mr. Monk—This is only a quarrel between young men, and there will be no further trouble about it.

Mr. Clark—I don't know about that. If a gentleman is to be assaulted by a young blackguard like the prisoner, he has a right to give his evidence.

Mr. Monk—Oh! yes! It is always the case here! The fact is, that the man (inferentially Mr. Clark,) who has made use of that language, is a blackguard himself, and nothing less.

Mr. Clarke—I of course take no notice of those remarks. No person thinks anything of remarks made by a man who should be in a "straight jacket."

Mr. Monk—It is all very well. I know how much weight is attached to the words of a man who should be in the Penitentiary.

The Court—Gentlemen! I cannot allow these personalities to go on. The case is not on the books at present, but it will be entered, and will then be proceeded with in order.

Subsequently the defendant was fined $10 and costs.

Distinct Vision.

THE CELEBRATED

Pantescopic Spectacles

ARE constructed in accordance with the philosophy of Nature, in the form of a

CONCAVE-CONVEX ELLIPSIS.

They are admirably adapted to the Organs of Sight, and afford the best artificial help to the human vision ever invented. A peculiar and important feature in these Spectacles is witnessed where people have been obliged to resort to Glasses from physical debility having temporarily affected their vision. In such cases the eye regains its healthy powers, and the Glasses can be laid aside without injury; while other kinds of Spectacles, when once worn, cannot be dispensed with.
