COUNTY COURT and General Sessions at the Court House open this morning.

ANNUAL MEETING of the Mechanics' Institute this evening at eight o'clock.

The Assembly on Wednesday.

After the presentation of petitions, Atty.-Gen. Macdonald introduced a Bill to organize a territorial district in Parry Sound.

The Committee on Standing Orders presented a report recommending an extension of time to railway bills.

A motion of Mr. Ferguson's respecting timber lands in road allowances of corporations was carried.

Mr. Blake moved the adoption of the report of the Select Committee on the Land Improvement Fund. The report simply dealt with the facts of the case, and expressed no opinion. The Attorney-General said that Government would be prepared to deal with the report and the resolutions of the hon. member after due consideration of the evidence; Messrs. Monteith, Hay, Sinclair, Scott (Grey), Lauder, Gow, and McDougall all spoke in favour of an early settlement of the claims involved, and Mr. Wood urging for delay before coming to a conclusion, the debate on the motion was adjourned.

The following Bills were read a third time and passed:

Peterboro' Debt.
Fair Ground of Oxford.
Bill to incorporate the Kingston and Madoc Railway—Mr. Strange.
Conveyance of Land, late Z. S. M. Hersey.
Re Survey of Chatham Toronto Sugar Refinery.
Amalgamation of the Coburg and Peterboro' Railway Company, and the Marmora Iron Company.
Ottawa Ladies' College.
Ontario Peat Company.
Wesleyan Female College.
Ottawa Literary and Scientific Society.
To facilitate the withdrawal of the Town of Perth from the County of Lanark.
Church Society of the Diocese of Huron.
Weston Church School.

To make further provision for carrying out the Law Reform Act of 1868.—Attorney-General Macdonald.

To amend the Act respecting County Courts.—Attorney-General Macdonald.

A discussion arose on Mr. Scott's (Grey) motion respecting the Collingwood harbor dues, it being objected that this was a matter for the Dominion and not the Provincial Government. The motion was ultimately withdrawn.

The following Bills were read a second time, and referred to appropriate Committees:—

Real Estate.
Religious Bodies.
To amend the Registration of Births &c. Act.
To amend the law respecting interpleading.
Solemn Declarations Bill.
Registration of Conveyances to Religious Institutions.

Mr. Boyd withdrew his Bill to prohibit the sale or gift of intoxicating liquors to persons in their minority, and others.

The following Bills were passed through Committee, reported and ordered for third reading.

Toronto and Nipissing Railway Company.
Port Credit Harbour Company.

To Mr. Ferguson's Tavern and Shop License Bill, Mr. Oliver moved the six months' hoist, but his amendment was defeated, yeas 29, nays 62, and the Bill was read a second time.

Atty.-Gen. Macdonald moved that the Bill to remunerate members of the Court of Error and Appeal, be referred back to the Committee of the Whole.

The House then went into Committee, amended it slightly and reported.

On the motion for a third reading, Boyd moved an amendment to omit the clause providing for the payment of the Judges in the Court of Error and Appeals (Judges' remuneration) Bill. On a division the amendment was rejected, the vote being yeas 24, nays 44.

The Bill was read a third time on the same division and passed.

The House adjourned at 10:30.

THE MOVEMENT OF THE INSURGENT

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 15.

A private letter just received from Pembina, gives the following information:—The rebels have placed Governor McTavish under close guard, on account of his recent proclamation advising them to lay down their arms and submit to the Government in the meantime the rebels continue to issue rations with a regularity which is making serious inroads upon the Hudson Bay Company's goods at Fort Garry and outposts.

Capt. Cameron, one of Gov. McDougall's party, attempted to go into Fort Garry, but was confronted at the gates by a sentinel, who, with the assistance of a sergeant, forced him back upon American soil, and, upon pain of being shot, he was forbidden to re-enter the lines of the insurgents.

Ottawa, Dec. 16.

The statement that the non-transfer of the territory is owing to a hitch in the negotiations in England, is erroneous. The delay has been occasioned by the action of the half-breeds in the territory itself, but the government is confident that any existing difficulties will be got over by the Hudson's Bay Company in a very short time and open the way for its speedy transfer to the Dominion.

County Court and General Sessions.

Thursday.

THE CITY OF KINGSTON WATER WORKS CO. VS. KENNEDY.—In this case which was tried yesterday, and which the Jury rendered a verdict for the defendant, Mr. A. S. Kirkpatrick was counsel for the plaintiff, and Mr. Macarow for the defendant.

WHYTE VS. DOBBIE.—This was an action brought by Mr. Whyte, Assignee of J. C. Franck & Co., of Montreal, against one Dobbie, a merchant doing business in Lanark. The action was brought to recover the amount of a promissory note for $96.88, made by the defendant in favor of J. C. Franck & Co. The defence was that the note was paid before the action was brought to J. C. Franck & Co. The plaintiff claims that the amount of the note should have been paid to him, and not to Franck & Co., as he, the plaintiff, as Assignee, was the only person lawfully entitled to receive the same, and that payment by defendant to J. C. Franck & Co. was bad. After very lengthy addresses from counsel on both sides, and a clear and lucid charge from the Judge, the Jury retired, and after two hours' absence returned to Court, with a verdict for the plaintiff, for amount of note and interest. Mr. Britton for plaintiff; Mr. Macarow for defendant.

In the Appeal case of Hysop, Appellant, and Gough, Respondent, and reported in a former issue of this paper, the conviction was confirmed with costs. Mr. J. McIntyre for Respondent.

McDONALD VS. CockBURN.—Plaintiff and defendant are both Plumbers, and this was an action of trover, to recover the value of a number of Plumber's tools. The defendant, who is also a Plumber, pleaded not guilty, and that the goods were not the plaintiff's, as alleged. The case was proceeding when our reporter left.

At half-past one o'clock the Grand Jury came into Court, and made the following

PRESENTMENT.

County of Frontenac, } The Grand Jurors of
TO WIT: } the General Sessions of the Peace for the County of Frontenac beg leave to report that they have examined the Gaol of the County, and are gratified at being able to state that they found it in a very perfect state of management and discipline. The apartments were perfectly clean, the bedding of most excellent quality and most admirably kept, and the provisions good and wholesome. The Grand Jury cannot neglect the opportunity of expressing their satisfaction with the manner in which Mr. Corbett, the Gaoler, discharges his duties. They have never before seen the Gaol in such a satisfactory condition. At the same time it is a matter of congratulation that the number of inmates are not so large as usual.

The Grand Jury would suggest the importance of some alteration in the mode of securing the attendance of witnesses in criminal cases. Much valuable time is lost from this cause, thus occasioning increased expense to the County. The system of summoning witnesses to appear does not seem to be sufficient of itself in but one or two instances were witnesses thus bound over to attend the Court. In consequence of this, one or two prisoners who were ready for trial with their own witnesses, had to be bound over to the next Court. The Grand Jury are of the unanimous opinion that the Sheriff and the officers of the Court generally should be supplied with a moderate allowance of stationery, etc. Much inconvenience has been experienced from the neglect of this at the present sitting of the Court.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

ALEX. COWAN,
Foreman.

Kingston, Dec. 16th, 1869.

His Honor, before discharging the Jury pro forma, thanked them for their address, and endorsed the opinions expressed in it, especially in regard to the gaol, which he had been happy at all times to find in a very satisfactory state of cleanliness and order. His Honor directed a copy of the presentment to be sent to the Hon. Atty.-General for Ontario and the Warden of the County.

The News

A London telegram states that secret political societies have been plotting insurrection in Russia.

The ship builders of New York are at Washington respecting the depressed condition of their trade, seeking to procure legislation that will relieve them.

The recent insult to the British flag in the Persian gulf has been apologized for. Colonel Pelly insisted on the Ayan bin Ghes, the ruler of Muscat making an apology. This was tendered on the quarter-deck of the Dalhousie.

The New York Sun declares that the Spaniards are effecting enlistments for Cuba in that city, and that the United States Government will not listen to the evidence of this fact.

The Brazilian Ministry, having in vain proved the continuance of the war with Paraguay, have tendered their resignations. This does not look as though the war was quite so near its close as late advices indicated.

The arrangements for the election of the Duke of Genoa to the sovereignty of Spain are progressing, and he will be proclaimed King soon after Christmas.

A second meeting of gentlemen connected with the Colonies took place in London on the 1st inst., when the views brought forward at a former meeting were proposed to be adopted in a series of resolutions. Several speeches were made, but nothing either in the resolutions or speeches was of a very definite or practical character.

A cable telegram just received states that a deputation had waited upon Earl Granville and presented an address asking for closer relations between the British Colonies and the Home Government. Earl Granville replied approving the request and declaring that he was opposed to colonial independence.

Advice to Young Men who wish to Appear in Public.

MY DEAR WILLIE,—

A feeling of deep affection for young men of my own age prompts me to publish a few words of advice to them upon the subject of appearing in public. My advice in this letter will be upon a young man's appearing as a public singer, and in my next as a public reader.

I must first assume that every young man to whom these remarks may apply, fancies himself a capital singer, and that nature has endowed him with such a fine voice and with such good taste in using it, that the very idea of taking lessons or cultivating his voice would be absurd.

The most frequent answer to the question "Why don't you sing in public?" is I haven't been asked. (the same answer is often given for your absence from a certain evening party) but a young man with any push about him should never require such an answer—there is nothing easier than to get yourself before the public.

If you hear that a concert is being got up for some charitable object, find out who the members of the committee are, and if you are acquainted, just make the casual remark that you hear a concert is being got up for a certain object, and that you hope, as you hear, your friend is a member of the committee, that it will be a success. Your friend who, no doubt, has heard you sing at some of your bachelor friends reunions, immediately remarks, "bye the bye. Tunney, you sing nicely, won't you favor us?" Your reply must certainly be in the stereotyped form, viz., that you object to sing in public, but considering the object of this concert you feel a kind of bound like to lend your humble efforts—in fact to do anything in your power which would be for the public good. Here then is your great object attained, and you are brought in the most prominent manner and without the slightest difficulty before the public.

And now that I have shewn you how to come before the public as a singer, perhaps you will bear with a few suggestions in regard to your choice for a song or songs.

Love perhaps is the most prolific musical stock known. All these Germans with long hair and dirty faces, write love songs; in fact, they seem to be so much taken up with the subject that common cleanliness is left in the lurch. I know when I was in love (I was about 14 at the time) I used to give myself an extra wash, soap my hair flat down, put on a clean collar, &c., but it just depends upon how a fellow has been brought up. I would therefore advise you to have nothing to do with love songs; besides the reason I have already given you, I have found them place a fellow very often in a false position. The next style in prominence is the deep melancholy; there are plenty of songs under this head; you can tell them generally by the picture on the cover. As for instance; a man is in a small room sitting at a table, with a bottle in front of him, a small window with iron bars behind him, and is usually represented as looking under the table for something—this man's complaint is evidently "fool's melancholy"—the word fools being used with reference to his looking under the table for what is on top of it; the iron bars and the fact of his being alone, suggest melancholy; but the favorite picture is that of a woman looking into an empty cradle weeping. Avoid these songs, they are only fit for side shows. The next style of music I might warn you against is that which arose from, and became prominent during the late American War. To illustrate my meaning I must quote a few of them. They appeal mostly to your parents—for instance: "Dear Mother I've come home to die," "John Brown," "Dixie," "Father, dear father, come home," "Just before the battle, Mother," "Don't forget me, Mother," "Mother, kiss me in my dream," "O Mother is there any more pie in the house, if so, where," and a host of others. These songs are only fit for consumptive looking persons. Fancy a stout healthy looking individual getting up to sing "Dear Mother, I've come home to die,"—it's absurd—or the impudence of using the words "O Father, dear Father come home," as if your father didn't know when to come home. The only song of those you might sing, is the pie one, as it appeals to one of the most tender passions of our nature.

And now to the point as to what you should sing. It is a comic song. It would be presumptuous in me to sugest any particular song, but the easiest thing for you to do is to go to some book store and buy a song book, in which, as the cover will tell you, will be found "The most complete selection of Comic Songs ever published in one volume, price ten cents." About choosing the particular song you intend singing.—I may be pardoned if I give you a hint or two,—get one if possible which, to a certain extent, suits your personal appearance. If you are bow-legged, (which I hope you are not), there is a very fine song called "Polly Perkins," one verse of which, I recollect, ends thus: "The bow-legged conductor of a two-penny buss." Or if you happen to have a wooden leg, (which I hope you have not), the song called the "Cork Leg" immediately suggests itself,—and so on, each peculiarity represented by its peculiar song. In your preparation for the Concert, if you sing your chosen piece over once or twice, it will be quite sufficient. And anent comic songs; I have found that one of the great benefits to be derived from singing one is this, if you happen to break down, the majority of the audience will think it was part of the performance, and the remarks "How clever," "What a comic young man he is," and "How well he imitates breaking down," will be elicited from the majority of them. You will have your friends of course amongst the audience, who, on your appearance, will rap loudly on the floor. Don't take any notice of this, as in in your attempt to acknowledge it by a low bow, something might give way, and though some might think the accident was part of the performance, yet the majority would, most likely consider it a little too comic. It might be well if you feel at all nervous about your success to feign some slight disagreement with your pianist, as in the event of a break down you may make him a scapegoat. Above all things be natural—if, however, you find during your performance that nature has played you a mean trick, and left you in the lurch, try and keep up appearances, or in other words, cheek it out. You need not repeat your song unless you are encored, but I suppose you know this. And, as a parting word, my dear friends, never forget this, that the longer your performance is the greater will be the relief both to the audience and to yourself when you have finished.

Hoping these remarks will be accepted with the same affectionate spirit in which they are offered, and that you will allow me in a future letter to speak about your reading in public,

I remain,
Your affectionate friend,
"CUSSY."

IRELAND.

The Tipperary Election.

Dublin, Nov. 27.

The election in the Co. Tipperary has resulted in the return of O'Donovan (Rossa.) Out of a total vote of more than 3,000, only 2,160 reached the polling booths. Of these 1,137 voted for Rossa, and 1,030 for Heron. The majority of the former is therefore 101. Hundreds refrained from taking any part in the elections, through fear, as large parties of young men scoured the county canvassing for Rossa, who threatened all who supported Heron with signal vengeance. Hundreds more who would have voted for Mr. Heron remained at home, under the conviction that all the votes recorded for Rossa would be null, and consequently that Mr. Heron would be the sitting member in any contingency.

The result has caused the most intense excitement throughout the country. The Tory press of Ireland is in ecstacies. The Evening Mail, Express, and even the Irish Times, are jubilant.

What will be the upshot of Thursday's vote in the "Premier County" is a matter of conjecture. The London Times asserts that "the election of a felon is indeed absolutely void," that the votes given to him are "thrown away," and that "Mr. Heron will be placed in his seat by the Election Judges." The Irish Times, on the other hand contends that "the Sheriff must make his return that O'Donovan Rossa has been duly elected," and that the decision of the premises "rests with the House of Commons." The electors of Middlesex thrice elected Mr. Wilkes, when the election had been thrice declared void. Under similar circumstances the people of Clare thrice returned Daniel O'Connell. Whatever may be the future decision, O'Donovan Rossa is, de facto, the elected of Tipperary.

In Cork an immense procession of over 20,000 paraded the streets in honor of Rossa's return. At the same time 10,000 men assembled on the Hill of Ballybricken to congratulate Tipperary. A chorus of 10,000 voices, sang "God Save Ireland."

It is announced by special telegraph this morning that strong reinforcements of troops are to be sent to Ireland. The proceeding has been promoted by the statement that it is intended to start Fenian candidates for Mallow, Longford, and the Queen's County, and that the presence of large bodies of military will be necessary to protect the moderate in recording their votes. There are at present in Ireland 24,000 troops of all sections of the army. Canadian Freeman.

A QUEER SPEECH.

A rather curious speech—for a person of the clerical order—was made at the Tipperary nomination. The Rev. Mr. Ryan, in proposing a gentleman who has since retired, said that the landlords were frightened out of their jackets because the people had given up the old system of taking revenge and were acting upon a new patent and successful principle, "to which he, being a man of peace, did not of course bind himself." This principle was that the tenant would not trust anybody with what he was going to do, but took his revolver, went out, and "humbled" his landlord.

A COLLISION.

The priest and the people were in collision in Dunfalk on Monday. A Tenant-right meeting was announced, and counter-placards were issued warning all persons not to attend it. However, about 30, comprising Lord Bellew, half a dozen priests, &c., got into the court-house by the back door. No speeches were made, for outside the front gate was a yelling mob of Fenians. The resolutions were proposed in globo, and just then the crowd heard that the Tenant-righters were at work inside. With a loud shout they burst in the doors and rushed in the body of the court, in spite of the efforts of a large force of armed police. Their cry was "release the prisoners" and the priests were very warmly denounced for joining in the land agitation until that for an amnesty had succeeded. They tried to sooth the people, but were only answered by jeers and insulting epithets. At last after the scene had continued for some time, the "meeting" had to take its departure by the back door, amid the derisive cheers of the assailants.

BREAKFAST.—EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL AND COMFORTING.—"The very agreeable character of this preparation has rendered it a general favorite. The Civil Service Gazette remarks:—"The singular success which Mr. Epps attained by his homœopathic preparation of cocoa has never been surpassed by any experimentalist.—By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavored beverage which may save us many heavy doctor's bills." Made simply with boiling water or milk. Sold by the Trade only in ½lb., ¼lb. lined packets, labelled—JAMES EPPS & CO., Homœopathic Chemists, London.
