CITY AND VICINITY.

LOST, beyond all hope, the January thaw. The ways of this winter are queer.

BOARD OF TRADE.—The annual meeting will be held in the City Council chamber to-morrow evening.

THE POST.—If after this you put a six cents postage stamp on your letters to the United States, you're a fool, that's all.

HURT.—Mr. Thomas Ewing, of Bedford, received a severe kick from a horse on Wednesday last, and fears are entertained for his recovery.

THE MAILS.—The British mail matter per Sarmatian was delivered in Kingston on Saturday evening. The steamer had a rough passage.

THE old month went out and the new one stepped in like the ugly old bears that they are. It snowed on Saturday, on Sunday, and on Monday.

MERCHANTS are complaining very much about money being "tight." Of course when it gets on high like it now is, it must be tight. But where are the police—the new policeman, anyway.

IN TIME.—And now the Orangemen of Brockville having taken time resolutely by the torelock, are making preparations for a big walk on the 12th of July. Nothing like being on time.

ZION CHURCH, PITTSBURG.—A tea meeting will be given in connection with this church on Wednesday evening, the 17th February, and the most attractive addresses and music are entered for it.

ST. PAUL'S CHURCH.—A meeting of the congregation is called for Thursday evening, in regard to the incumbency. The report that the Ven. Archdeacon Parnell was appointed to it is premature.

BARGAINS.—There is a genuine selling off at the store of A. B. Macpherson & Co., where $20,000 worth of goods lies ready for a sacrifice at the altar of "ready sales and quick returns." The stock was bought at bankrupt rates and is being sold accordingly.

BALL.—The Wolfe Island St. Patrick's Benevolent Society will give a grand ball on Wednesday evening, and have a programme prepared such as will do great credit to the managers, since the assembly cannot fail of success. The affair will be got up in the best style possible.

KINGSTON AND ABROAD.—Kingstonmen, and Queen's College students especially, make their mark in the world pretty generally. Mr. Duncan McMillan, the newly elected member in Middlesex, was once a Kingston law student and stands well as a graduate of our University.

LIKE IT.—"A thing of beauty is a joy for ever." So evidently think many of Kingston's householders, judging from the care they take to preserve intact the "beautiful snow," on the pavement in front of their premises. Such an inference, the police say, is not according to Hoyle always.

PERSONAL.—John Carruthers, Esq., left to-day for Ottawa and Montreal.—The Hon. R. J. Cartwright has returned to Ottawa.—Mr. W. C. Haven, of the Watertown Despatch, returned here for a week's visit to-day. We are very glad to hear of his success in a business point of view, for it is well deserved. The Despatch has advanced rapidly until it is now one of the exchanges always first to be read out of the batch.

MID-WINTER.—To-day is mid winter. November, December and January have passed away, and February, March and April are to come. The second half of a Canadian winter is pleasanter than the first, for the sun daily has more power, and the days daily become longer. To-morrow the bear comes out of his den, and should he see his shadow he goes back again for six weeks. Let us therefore hope that to-morrow will be cloudy.

EXPOSE.—The Toronto Bee-Hive is industrious in its searches for knowledge, and asks with a reckless disregard of merchants' feelings the following pertinence—good word:—

"The Editor will be glad to receive further information—confidential—with regard to the successful negociation on the part of a distinguished wholesale firm whereby they effected a lucrative stroke of business, in the sale of the corpse of their maid servant."

The "meanest man yet" will have to step down now.

THE ALARM.—Through some mysterious agency an alarm was struck from fire telegraph box No. 3, near St. Paul's Church, on Saturday afternoon. The bells rang out as if the sport was new to them, the steam engine and whole paraphernalia of the brigade was hauled out in quick time, an immense crowd gathered, and yet there was no fire to be seen in the locality of No. 3, or anywhere else. This was a big disappointment for there was a big gathering, and folks love excitement. The alarm is believed to have been struck by some of the fire committee magnates to test the brigade's efficiency. As a test it was a success, but the time was inopportune, as the streets were filled with farmers' sleighs and a panic might have been excited. Even as it was, a little boy was struck and shockingly cut on the forehead by a passing vehicle, and a sleigh collided with the engine.

Humbugging.

The County Council of Frontenac is playing a "Heathen Chinee" trick that is vain off on the Hon. John Crawford, Lieut.-Governor, whom it memorializes in reference to the publication of the quarterly list of convictions, representing that "by throwing the same open to public competition the expenses would be much reduced and the ratepayers relieved of a portion of the heavy burthen which has necessarily to be imposed upon them in the way of taxation." The effect of this plaintive appeal on behalf of the suffering taxpayers who are so heavily burthened is somewhat destroyed by the fact, to which we call His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor's attention, that the Council's own immediate printing is given out to one office without the slightest resort to the public competition above pleaded for, and the suffering taxpayers so heavily burthened are permitted to pay dearly for the blessings of a monopoly. When the County Council has proved by its actions the sincerity of its desire to relieve the poor taxpayers, it will be a suitable time to present that memorial. At present it is absurdly out of place. How many humbugs that ever-ready sympathy for the poor taxpayers has to father, to be sure!

The Beauport Asylum Fire.

ITS ORIGIN—A REVENGEFUL INMATE.

Quebec, Jan. 30.—One of the most fearful conflagrations on record occurred last night at the Beauport Lunatic Asylum. About 6.30 an alarm of fire was given, and it is supposed that the cell where it originated had been set on fire by one of the female patients, a woman of very vicious character named Marie Breton. Her conduct had been such that she had to be put in the cells, and she vowed, she would have her revenge out on the

as she termed the asylum. It is asserted that she was treated with the utmost kindness and consideration, but that at times her outbreaks were such that she had to be placed under the severest restriction. Whatever may have been the destructive designs she formed, it seems certain that she suffered a horrible fate in the flames she is supposed to have kindled. It is thought she laid a candle underneath the bed and then shut the cell door. This seems to have occurred when the inmates were at prayers. Dr. Roy instantly sent a mounted messenger to the city, and he with Dr. Vincellette and all the wardens did their utmost to combat the flames.

SAVING THE INMATES.

Unfortunately the amount of woodwork in the building was so great, and the flames had obtained such headway, that the only thing that could be done was to save those unfortunate and demented women who could but dimly comprehend their danger, and by the exertions of the managers, assistants and neighbors over 435 females were removed from the principal building, which has been such an ornament to the Montmorenci Road, to the male asylum, another large structure lying to the eastward of it. The suffocating smoke was sufficient to deter the boldest, but in spite of it all worked bravely to save life. The sight was pitiful in the extreme. Some rushed into corners and obstinately refused to be removed; others fled down the corridors into the darkest cellers and were found shivering with fear; others again ran up into the cupola and on the roof, and it was only with the greatest difficulty that they could be brought out. Both Dr. Roy and Mr. Vincellette were nearly asphyxiated by the pungent smoke in their devoted attempts to bring out all the women, and with the exception of three, who, if is conjectured, had been overcome by the fumes, they were successful.

EXCITEMENT INSIDE AND OUT.

The news of the catastrophe spread through the city like lightning, and carioles were chartered by the hundred to visit the scene. When the alarm was given Mde. Vincellette took it very coolly and notified her husband, who proceeded to remove some of the patients from the cells to the ward in the western side, but the smell of smoke acted upon some of them as that of blood upon a tiger, and they nerved themselves for the fight. They bit, tore and scratched, and became as refractory as possible. The fire was spreading with fearful rapidity, the corridors filling with smoke, and the unfortunates were noisy and intractable. They would not leave; they hid under beds, wrapped themselves up in blankets, and it required extraordinary strength to extricate them. The flames were dancing through the corridors, but still they hid, and despite efforts were made to save them, it is believed that

THREE INMATES PERISHED.

Three times Mr. Vincellette broke down under the load he was carrying, and each time was he resuscitated by faithful coadjutors. On the last occasion he fell from the 3rd to the 2nd story in endeavoring to save two women, cutting himself seriously and dislocating his right elbow. He was rescued at the point of suffocation by Hypolite Lazard and conveyed to the male ward. The three women who hid themselves and were suffocated were named Bazin, of Montreal, Prussian and Breton.

At an early hour His Worship the Mayor, Owen Murphy, and several aldermen and councillors arrived and rendered the utmost assistance they could to save lives and property. The police under charge of Major Voyer and Capt. Heighham did everything that was possible to be done, their chiefs being foremost in searching for those who, in the confusion of the moment, were supposed to have escaped, and to battle with the fire-fiend to the bitter end.

Unfortunately the wood work was so profuse in every direction that it gave the fire an opportunity of gaining ground that could not be regained. At half past seven two fire engines belonging to the Sappers and Naval Brigade had been hauled over the heavy snow to the spot. The Mayor seeing the possible chance of loss of property and life sent to Col. Reeve, of the 8th Battalion, for assistance, and his request was promptly answered by the appearance of that officer and one hundred men, who were of the greatest assistance in the salvage of furniture, bedding and other effects, which would have otherwise been consumed.

At half past ten news came from the Hon Premier, Mr. DeBoucherville, offering the accommodation the jail afforded in case the male branch of the establishment was not sufficient to give the unfortunate females room for the night. The Mayor supplemented this with an offer of the building lately purchased by him, known as the Laurie property, and which could shelter eighty persons with ease.

The fire continued to burn furiously till five o'clock this morning, when the whole of the main building was destroyed.

FURTHER PARTICULARS.

As seen from Quebec the conflagration had the appearance of a fiery cloud, which illuminated the heavens and lighted up the landscape. From behind this firecloud huge sheets of flame and smoke shot into the sky, increasing the fatal brilliancy which was in so great contrast to the surrounding darkness.

The appearance of the interior of the building which has been the pride of Quebec was saddening—the wrecked furniture, the rooms saturated with water, the remnants of finery, shattered pictures broken glass and ornaments which no one seemed to regard except as obstacles to be disposed of as soon as possible. Outside the snow covered ground was littered with chairs, tables, bedding, clothing, pictures, scenes from the asylum theatre, books, curtains, sidewards, cooking utensils, &c., in vast confusion.

A visit with Dr. Roy to the females who had been removed to the male ward, fortunately separated by a distance of a hundred yards from the blazing pile, revealed a pitying and heart-rending sight. Wonderful was the quietness and decorum that reigned throughout when it is considered that over 400 women had been hurried in wild alarm, riot and noise from the rooms that they had looked upon as their homes. It was astonishing to see the calmness and obedience displayed, and which would hardly have been expected from rational people. The scene is impossible to describe. The doctor, pale but courageous, with a kindly word for everyone, was instantly surrounded by women who seemed pleased to see him with them. Strangely enough, none referred to the fire, which could be seen distinctly through the uncurtained windows. Poor, ancient, withered mortals chatted as gaily as if it had been a festival; young girls laughed and danced in gleeful joy, and some old dames crooned in quavering voices ballads and songs of long ago.

At 11 o'clock the right wing of the building which had been smouldering for some time burst out into a perfect furnace of light and flame, which melted the snow and ice for yards around in pools of water. The appearance of the walls was as if they were lit up with gas jets, because of the little pieces of wood inserted between each stone. Every window on the three stories belched out in volumes of black smoke, which was followed by a burst of fire. Iron bars were twisted and melted. Stone cracked and wood was swallowed up in impetuous rush of the conflagration.

Among those who were foremost in assisting the firemen in their dangerous work was Alderman H. A. Murphy; stripped to the shirt he did all that mortal man could do to prevent the flames from entering the centre portion of the building, and especially tried to preserve the beautiful cupola and flat wood-work roof. Mr. Murphy, Capt. Heigham and another worked there until it became a perfect volcano, emitting hideous vapors and suffocating smoke.

There was a terrible scene in the west wing. By extraordinary exertions the female patients, who had been in the southeastern wing, had been conveyed through the corridors to the western, and there they were cooped up, several hundreds of them, until sufficient means could be found of conveying them to the outlying male department of the institution. In the craze of fright the poor creatures became almost rabid, and when they were huddled together, their frantic talk and hysteric shrieks were pitiable. They crowded around and begged to know if they were to be left to die in the flames, and when informed that they were to be removed to a place of safety, and that there was no danger, their joy knew no bounds; but it was only for a moment. The confusion and hysteria returned, and the sobbing and weeping and wild ejaculations filled the spacious room with the most agonizing sounds. This was about nine o'clock, the room as full as it could hold, and it required every exertion the nurses and guardians could make to maintain anything like quiet in the ward. Some were sobbing piteously; some silently swaying to and fro; some passionately weeping; some singing triumphant songs, and rejoicing in the work of destruction going on around them; some shrieking, howling and blaspheming, and some calm and collected, as if fully appreciating the danger impending over the building.

Strange to say one of the worst cases cases in the female ward entirely recovered her reason in the panic, and now is as sane as she could possibly be.

CURRENCY.

—J. B. Gough, the renowned temperance lecturer, is to deliver a lecture in St. Catharines on the 8th.

—Dividends of ten per cent. have been declared by the Agricultural and Watertown Insurance Companies.

—The average housekeeper will admit that it is no light matter to have the gas pipes frozen up at this season.

—Many persons find that when they take cold, it settles in the head. Is it because nature abhors a vaccuum?

—Corner loafers, who have been "on the ragged edge" for some time, rejoice at the faintest prospect of a thaw.

—"Change cars" is what a city boot-black said to a countryman the other day when he had finished blacking one of his brogans.

—"And you, sir," said Henry Erskine to a dilatory carpenter, "been commissioned to build the ark, we should not have had the flood yet."

—"Bonanza," the last word introduced into the English language from the mining districts, is said, liberally translated, to mean hunky-dory.

—"A man who fears the lord and can carry home an intoxicated member" is the kind of sergeant-at-arms they want in the Minnesota legislature.

—"Bring forth my fiery, untamed steed," said he, and the boy led out a slab-sided mule, that had to be stuffed to keep him from cutting the harness.

—A Cincinnati woman burned her husband's Sunday suit because he would not put on a buffalo robe and crawl round the back yard and play Santa Claus.

—A circuit preacher in Missouri prayed for rain one night at a farmer's house, and the farmer, who had a horse race arranged for next day, was so mad that he turned the good man out of doors.

—All the public night-schools in Philadelphia except one were closed last week for reason of insufficient appropriations. There were 42 of them, instructing over 13,000 pupils, and employing over 220 teachers.

—After recuperating from his fatigue, Stanley will start in search of the ten lost tribes of Israel. They haven't been seen for twenty-five centuries, and a good deal of well-grounded anxiety prevails in regard to them.

—The Rev. Alfred Newdegate, vicar of Kirk Hallam, Derbyshire, and until recently secretary of the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, in the diocese of Lichfield, has signified his intention to relinquish his living and join the Church of Rome.

—Some recent experiments with cats have proved that a full developed tabby can successfully evade the rapid approach of two bootjacks, a bar of castile soap, a pair of No. 10 boots, a gold watch, a blacking brush, and a horse pistol.

—The labors of Moody and Sanky in the British Islands have resulted in the conversion of not a few Roman Catholics. Thereupon Cardinal Cullen has directed prayers for those Catholics who have abandoned their church to become "followers of roving minstrels or speculative travellers."

—Here is a poet who says: "I'm sitting sadly on the strand, that stretches to the water's brink; and as the day slips slowly by, I idly fold my hands and think." Whilst he is sitting on the strand with idle folded hands, his family at home may be suffering for the necessaries of life. He should skirmish around for before the day slips slowly by, and secure a job at digging a cellar.

THE GREAT REMEDY FOR

which can be cured by a timely resort to this standard preparation, as has been proved by the hundreds of testimonials received by the proprietors. It is acknowledged by many prominent physicians to be the most reliable preparation ever introduced for the relief and cure of all Lung complaints, and is offered to the public sanctioned by the experience of over forty years. When resorted to in season it seldom fails to effect a speedy cure in the most severe cases of Coughs, Bronchitis, Croup, Whooping Cough, Influenza, Asthma, Colds, Sore Throat, Pains or Soreness in the Chest and Side, Liver Complaint, Bleeding at the Lungs, &c. Wistar's Balsam does not dry up a Cough, and leave the cause behind, as is the case with most preparations, but it loosens and cleanses the lungs, and allays irritation, thus removing the cause of the complaint.

PREPARED BY
SETH W. FOWLE & SONS, Boston, Mass.
And sold by Druggists and Dealers generally.
