Burnett's Extracts
The superiority of these Extracts consists in their perfect purity and great strength. They are warranted free from the poisonous oils and acids which enter into the composition of many of the factitious fruit flavors now in the market. They are not only true to their names, but are prepared from fruits of the best quality, and are so highly concentrated that a comparatively small quantity only need be used.

Fire Proof Roofing.
THE BEST FIRE PROOF ROOFING ever introduced is said to be that of Mica, Soapstone and Plumbago, combined with other ingredients, which has been patented by the Brockville Mica and Plumbago Company, and which is now introduced into almost every city and town in this Province.
It is warranted to be perfectly proof against fire and also against frost as far as it has been tested during the last two years.
All parties wishing to get a good Fire Proof Roof are invited to my Foundry, corner of Union and Ontario Streets, in this city, where they can see for themselves the ravages made by fire close to my Moulding Shop, while strange to say, it came off comparatively unhurt from the flames.

THE BLESSED:

Paraphrased from Matt. V., 3 12.

By Wm. Murray.

Blessed are the faithful poor;
Heavenly wealth to them is sure.

Blessed they for sin that mourn
They to endless joy are born.

Blessed are the meek in spirit;
They shall all the Earth inherit.

Blessed they that thirst for truth;
They'll be filled through endless youth.

Blessed are the merciful;
They'll be judged by mercy's rule.

Blessed they of stainless hearts;
God to them Himself imparts.

Blessed they that peace advise;
They are God's own children wise.

Blessed they for truth that suffer
Persecution from the scoffer;
Their's beyond they tyrant's rod
Is the Kingdom of their God.

Blessed ye, when through the world
By vile persecution hurl'd;
Men their thirst for slander slake,
'Gainst you falsely for my sake.
Rejoice and be exceeding glad.
For, though ye now through sin are sad,
Your reward is great in Heaven,
Whence all sorrow shall be driven.
Present trials do but prove
Satan's power controlled by love.
All the prophets of the past
Suffered persecution's blast.
So must ye first bear earth's frown
Ere ye wear the Heavenly Crown.
Fear not though ye sometimes fall;
I and you will conquer all.

Hamilton Times

Indispensible.—There are some simple remedies indispensible in every family. Among these the experience of years assures us should be recorded Perry Davis' Pain Killer. For both internal and external application we have found it of great value; especially can we recommend it for colds, rheumatism, fresh wounds and bruises.—Christian Era.

History of a 'Courting Spell'

All might have passed off as the fog of a summer morning had it not been for too much humming and kissing. Jerry was profoundly convinced that:

'A man may drink and not be drunk;
A man may fight and not be slain;
A man may hug a bonnie lass,
And yet be welcomed back again.'

So he reached over the fence and enveloped Arminta in his brawny arms: he kissed her blushing cheek? he squeezed her to his bosom—or tried to—he squeezed her hard against the fence?—the sharp edge of a fence rail coming in contact with her ribs, she 'hollered.'

'Trusty, the bull-dog, heard her yell, and came to her rescue, not like Cupid, with bow and quiver; nor the policeman with his rattle: but, like a bull-dog, rather fierce and furious.

Before Jerry had time to get over the fence, or on the fence, or put himself on the defensive, his dogship struck him hard astern with all the vigor of a dozen furies.

Jerry anchored himself to the fence, and cried for help! help! help!

Arminta fled for a clump of goose-berry bushes near by, too badly scared to faint. She heard the old folks coming, and could see from her hiding place, Jerry's frantic efforts to scale the fence; and could hear the hoarse growls of the angry bull-dog as he fiercely assailed her lover's person. The old man approaches, as Minty hopes, to rescue—Jerry hopes so, too, for he imploses the man to drive the dog off! At this juncture the old woman hove in sight, wringing her hands, and crying; 'What's the matter! O, Lord! 'tis Jerry Short. Quick, old man, quick! drive the dog off, quick.' The old man, stern as fate and cold as ambition, replied, 'Huse yer sniveling, woman. None of yer nonsense round me! This is the sly fox I've been trying to trap for this many a day! Go for him Trusty! Seize him, my good fellow!—wool him, boy!' Here they had it rough and tumble, round and round, up and down. Just here Jerry's suspenders gave way, and making a frantic effort to save his breeches and bacon, he let go the fence, the dog bounded backward with all his might, and Jerry's feet flying from under him he fell forward on his face, and the dog skinned off his trousers like skinning an eel. He ran backward a few paces with the gentleman's apparel in his mouth, and Jerry finding himself free and unincumbered with dog or breeches, sprang to his feet and fled. His bare legs flashed like meteors in the moon shine, but his shirt-skirts were, happily, of more ample pattern than those sold at slop-shops.

The old man stood leaning over the fence, watching with philosophic and unctious complacency the flight of Jerry. The old woman gazed timidly in the same direction, while Trusty seated himself lazily on Jerry's pants and licked his chops and whined triumphantly as the strange figure of his fraught foe disappeared down the lane. The old man was the first to break the silence.

"Old woman, what's Minty?"

'La, child, I don't know! In bed I reckon.

'In bed, the dickens! come out from them bushes, Miss; come out I say.

'Arminta came looking 'all forlorn.' The moon, as if in sympathy with the poor girl, veiled herself in a passing cloud, and refused to shine upon her forlorn and tearful countenance. Arminta cried!

'Poor child, says the old woman, sympathetically. 'Poor child, this will well nigh break her poor heart; and it all comes of your stuck up notions 'bout her and them she likes! You've got precious little sense if you think you can make a gal love just who you please! Minty don't like anybody but Jerry Short; and Jerry is an honest, clever fellow; handsome enough, and plenty good for Minty, and if I had my way—

"But thank my stars, you have n't your own way, and won't have while I live—so jest dry up your sniveling! I am in no humor for a sarmount to-night and won't listen to none, neither. If I ever catch long legged Short on my premises again I'll break his neck, I will; and you Miss, if I ever catch you talking to him again, I'll whip you half to death, I will. Get you to bed now and mind what I say."

Long's old cow breakfasted next morning on breeches—all but the jack-knife and twist of tobacco. She had no stomach for these; and it's well for her she didn't have; for the breeches came very nigh being the death of her. Old Long said if the cow died he'd sue Jerry, and make him pay for her; but she got well; so did Jerry. But it was a long time before Jerry could 'set up,' though he was able to stroll round, and for many days after this mishap he was seen walking about, his hands crossed behind him under his coattail, singing:

"He that woos and runs away
Will live to woo another day;
But he that is in courtship slain
Will never live to court again."

Then his mind wanders away, into the future; he pictures to himself a life of future bliss, a cottage and a creeping vine etc., for he feels that he can wait; he feels that old Long will soon die, and the thought is calm to his wounded honor, and then he murmurs:

"Were Long to die I wouldn't cry,
But make a gay ding-dong of it;
For I am Short and he is Long,
And that's the Long and Short of it."

A Post Office Romance.

Mr. John H. Hallett, one of the oldest public servants in the New York Post Office, remembers that in 1835 a young woman used to call every week for a letter, addressed to "Miss Mary H. Russel, Post Office." The regularity of her visits and her apparent unwillingness to give any account of herself, elicited much curiosity among the clerks, but their inquisitiveness was never gratified. Years passed away, and grey hairs appeared on the woman's head, but she made her calls as regularly as ever, and the expected letter was always waiting for her. Nearly ten years had elapsed since her last visit, but the letters still come addressed to her name, although the intervals between them are longer than in the old time.—These letters have of course been opened, but they contain no clue to the identity of either the writer or recipient. Each contains $5, with a few lines of writing to say when the next remittance would be made. No address, or date, or signature. The handwriting is that apparently of a man feeble with age, and another letter, with the usual superscription, is, at present writing, lying unopened at the Post Office. Mary H. Russel, an elderly lady ten years ago, is probably dead. The letters with their contents are sent to Washington, but no one can guess who the anonymous writer is who so faithfully maintained his correspondence. Post Offices are essentially practical places, but little bits of romance may sometimes be found even in their history.—Evening Post.

—Some recent experiments with cats have proved that a full developed tabby can successfully evade the rapid approach of two bootjacks, a bar of castile soap, a pair of No. 10 boots, a gold watch, a blacking brush, and a horse pistol.

—The labors of Moody and Sanky in the British Islands have resulted in the conversion of not a few Roman Catholics. Thereupon Cardinal Cullen has directed prayers for those Catholics who have abandoned their church to become "followers of roving minstrels or speculative travellers."

Thousands have been changed by the use of the Compound Syrup (a protoxide of Iron) from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy and happy men and women, and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial. For Dyspepsia and Debility it is a specific.

Dr. Wheeler's Compound Elixir of Phosphates and Calisaya—a chemical food and nutritive tonic. This elegant and agreeable preparation is perfectly reliable in all cases of nervous prostration and general debility, arising from mental or physical exertion, intemperance, irregular habits, chronic wasting diseases, depending upon indigestion, and assimilation of food and impoverished blood. It is composed only of ingredients that enter into the formation of the system, and being purely physiological in its action, may be taken safely under all circumstances, as it builds up the constitution radically and permanently in the same manner as our daily food.

Save Your Hair.—If you wish to save your hair and keep it in a strong and healthy condition, use Burnett's Cocoaine. It will stimulate the roots of the hair, and restore natural action upon which its growth depends. Two years ago a single bottle saved a lady's hair in a desperate case, in which all other treatment had failed; and since that early success thousands of cases of Baldness, Dandruff, loss of hair and irritation of the scalp have yielded to the same remedy.

Consumption, so prevalent and fatal, is dreaded as the great scourge of our race, and yet in the formative stages, all pulmonary complaints may be readily controlled by using "Bryan's Pulmonic Wafers." They will relieve the worst cough in a few minutes, and have a most beneficial influence on the bronchial and pulmonary organs—but they must be used in time. Public speakers and singers will also derive great benefit by using them. Sold by all medicine dealers and country stores, at 25c per box.

Letter from Rev. J. Salmon, M.D.—Chipman Queen's County, N.B. Mr. Jas. I. Fellow—Sir—In the practice of medicine I have recommended your Compound Syrup of Hypophosphites, and have invariably the following results: Greater freedom in the action of the Lungs, increased and more easy expectoration in cases indicated by dry cough, and decided augmentation of tone to the whole nervous system. I can safely and consistently recommend your invaluable preparation in a variety of cases, especially for chest diseases, having successfully prescribed it in Bronchitis, Asthma, Debility from liver complaint, debility from impoverished blood. I am, sir, yours truly, JAMES SALMON, Practicing Physician and Surgeon.

Physicing Horses.—Many persons physic their horses frequently, especially every spring. This is a great error, and one which has caused the loss of many valuable horses, as physic as it is usually given often produces inflammation of the bowels, which generally proves fatal: it also weakens the horse and thus renders him more liable to disease, or less able to throw it off—what is required is a medicine which will operate gently upon the bowels, and act upon the liver and lungs, removing all obstructions therefrom, purifying the blood and enabling all the organs to do their work without overtasking any, which is accomplished by the use of "Darley's Condition Powders and Arabian Heave Remedy"—it is always safe and certain. Remember the name, and see that the signature of Hurd & Co. is on each package.—Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, Ont., proprietors for Canada. Sold by all medicine dealers.

ELECTRICITY!

Thomas' Excelsior Eclectric Oil.—Worth Ten Times its Weight in Gold.—"Pain cannot Stay where it is used."

It is the cheapest medicine ever made. One bottle does cure common sore throat. One bottle has cured Bronchitis. Fifty cents worth has cured an old standing Cough. It positively cures Catarrh Asthma and Croup. Fifty cents worth has cured Crick in the back and the same quantity Lame back of eighty years standing. The following are extracts from the few of the many letters that have been received from the different parts of Canada which we think should be sufficient to satisfy the most sceptical. J. G. Hard, of Sparta, Ontario, writes: Send me 6 doz of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, have sold all I had from you and want more now, its cures are truly wonderful." Wm Maguire of Franklin, writes "I have sold all the agent left, it acts like a charm it was slow first but takes splendidly now." M. Cole of Iona writes: "Please forward 6 doz. Thomas Eclectric Oil, I am near out; nothing equals it. It is highly recommended by those who have used." J. Bedford, Thamesville, writes, "send at once a further supply of Eclectric Oil. I have only one bottle left. I never saw any thing to sell so well and give such satisfaction." J. Thompson Woodford, writes: "Send me some more Eclectric Oil. I have entirely sold out. Nothing takes like it." Miller and Rye, Ulverton, P.Q., writes: "The Eclectric Oil is getting a great reputation here and is daily called for, send us a further supply without delay—Leymone, Gibb & Co., Buckingham, P.Q., writes: "send us one gross Eclectric Oil—we find it to take well."

PAIN-KILLER!

After thirty-five years' trial, it is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Physicians of the first respectability recommend it as a most effectual preparation for the extinction of pain. It is not only the best remedy ever known for bruises, cuts, burns, &c., but for dysentery, or cholera, or any sort of bowel complaint, it is a remedy unsurpassed for efficiency and rapidity of action. In the great cities of India, and other hot climates, it has become the standard medicine for all such complaints; as well as for dyspepsia, liver complaints, and other kindred disorders. For coughs and colds, canker, asthma and rheumatic difficulties, it has been proved by the most abundant and convincing testimony to be be an invaluable medicine. It is used internally and externally.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle. PERRY DAVIS & SON, Agents. Sole Proprietors.
