CITY AND VICINITY

THE GENUS LOAFER.—It is respectfully suggested to the "sun fish" and "corner statues" that they get up a spelling match to make the thing interesting.

LAUREATION.—The annual convocation and laureation of graduates will take place on Thursday afternoon and is expected to be of unusual interest.

THE PORT.—The steamer Maud, neat and prim, is out to-day running to the Island. The busy season is very close at hand.

GLAD TO HEAR IT.—The Royal Opera House Company of Toronto, under Mrs. Morrison's (nee Charlotte Nicholson) direction, is to pay Kingston a visit about the middle of May.

THERE was no spelling school around where the City Bird's Eye View was engraved, or 'Penetentiary" and 'Assylum' were recognized innovations on old established customs.

THIS is a glorious spring day. To deserve it, we must have taken the late winter weather pretty uncomplainingly after all. All the world and his wife were enticed out for an airing this afternoon.

IMPROVING.—The City Council is growing more christian-like daily. Last night the worst expr ssions used were "a d—d swindle" and "kissing the devil through a hair sieve." What a beauteous thing piety is!

THIS was not much of a year for spring floods, but either every body's cellar has been overflowed or the drain fever has usurped the legitimate place of the spelling mania. The City Council has its hands full of applications for new sewers.

BELLEVILLE ASSIZES.—The trial of Charles Manard, for the murder of his brother's wife near Tweed in heartless cold blood, has been proceeding at Belleville yesterday and to-day, with Mr. Britton prosecuting for the crown, and Mr. O'Reilly defending the prisoner.

"SIN AND THE JUDGMENT."—We have received a pamphlet copy of a sermon preached in Christ Church, Ottawa, on the third Sunday in Lent, by the Rev. J. May, M. A., and published by request, with a title as above. We trust the receipt of it is not personal, for the reading may kind of unsettle us.

THE HARBOR.—The ice passed out of the inner parts of the port last night into the river, down and out for ever, let us hope. This morning a clear harbor was seen from Nine Miles Point down. The ce is now coming in from the Ducks, and passing "tranquilly" down the river. A clear passage to the lakes is expected before Saturday.

THE LICENSES.—The City Council last night, on the recommendation of its license committee, refused to reduce the amount of the increased liquor license fees as imposed by the Police Commissioners and petitioned against by the Licensed Victuallers. They, however, condemned the reduction in the number of licenses issued.

A FIRE.—On Sunday the brick dwelling of Mr. Shaughnessy, in the township of Kingston, in rear of St. Mary's Cemetery, was burned with most of its contents. The parents were not in the house when the fire started, but arrived just in time to save the life of their young child, whom they had left at home alone. Its escape was very narrow.

THE VOLUNTEER CAMPS.—Those corps which did not complete their annual drill last year may do so up to the 30th June, and pay will be issued therefor, but corps availing themselves of this privilege are ineligible for the annual paid drill for the present year. The period of drill in brigade camps is to be twelve days for cavalry and infantry, and sixteen days for artillery.

PUNISHED.—A woman was arrested in Toronto yesterday for stealing a hat. If the policeman has an aptitude for detecting hat purloiners we could find him a steady occupation in Kingston. We can give him the addresses of four gentlemen whose hats were stolen while they were cheering St. George and Merry England on Friday at the dinner. The waiting room door was not tyled.

A FINE SERMON.—The sermon preached in Knox Church, Hamilton, on Sunday to the Oddfellows on the occasion of their anniversary service, by the Rev. W. W. Carson, late of Kingston, is very highly spoken of. One writer suggests its publication in pamphlet form. He adds: "The impressiveness of the discourse and the beautiful imagery portrayed therein, deserve something more than the ephemeral notice of a newspaper."

ANNIVERSARY OF ODD FELLOWSHIP.—The members of Kingston Lodge and their friends spent a very pleasant time last evening at their Lodge Room. The meeting was opened by N. G. Perry, assisted by V. G. McIver. After the Grand Sire's Proclamation was read, the following programme was discussed: An address by Rev. Bro. Porter; singing by the Rossiter Glee Club; readings by Bros. Dr. Jarvis and W. Perry, an organ solo by Bro. C. Mee; recitations by Bro. W.T.C. Bethel. The meeting was closed by the singing of the National Anthem. The instrument used on the occasion was from the organ factory of Mr. C. Mee & Co.

Murder in New York.

A YOUNG GERMAN WOMAN SHOT IN THE HEAD BY A REJECTED LOVER.

(Herald.)

The Fourth ward was the scene of murder last night, the victim being being a young and interesting German girl, scarcely twenty years of age, whose sole offence appears to be the refusal to return the love of a half insane admirer, the persistent affections of whom have repeatedly met with decided rebuffs at her hands and those of her parents. It would seem that the murderer's design had long been contemplated and that the young lady lived in constant dread of assassination at the hands of her fierce lover.

At about half past eight o'clock Lizzie Seidenward, aged twenty years, residing with her parents at No 10 City Hall place, accompanied by a young lady friend named Annie Thomas, who lives in the same house, and a gentleman named Isaac J Brown, a boarder in her family, started to go to a meeting of a singing s ciety in avenue B. The party walked to Chatham street, and, at the corner of Roosevelt street stopped to await the arrival of a car. They had been standing about three minutes when Lizzie advanced a few steps, remarking, 'Here comes our car.' Just at this moment Jacob Stouderman, a rejected lover of the young lady, sprang out of a doorway close by, where he had been concealed, and pointing a seven shooter close to Miss Seidenward's head, fired, the ball entering one and a half inches above the young lady's left temple, fracturing her skull and penetrating, it is thought, her brains. So quick was the murderer in his movements that Mr Brown, the male escort of the unfortunate young girl, had not time to interfere before the deadly shot was fired. Almost instantly afterwards, however, he caught Stouderman's hand, and endeavoured to wrench the revolver from it. In the struggle that ensued Mr Brown felt the muzzle of the pistol on his neck, and gasped out, 'don't shoot me.' The murderer replied coolly, 'No, I will not.' Officer Mullery, of the Fourth precinct, who was patrolling his beat, hearing the shot and noticing the gathering crowd, hastened to the scene of the murder and came to the assistance of Brown. On the arrival of the policeman Stouderman ceased resisting and quietly submitted to arrest. The attention of those present was when directed to the wounded girl, who had fallen to the sidewalk. She was placed in the care of two other policemen, who had arrived, and was taken to the Park Hospital. While the officer was walking towards the station house, holding his prisoner, the latter suddenly sprang aside, unloosing the officer's grasp, and ran up Chatham street, pursued by Mullery, who succeeded in catching him, after a chase of about two blocks. Stouderman, however, did not yield without a struggle, and the officer was forced to fell him to the ground with his club. He then tamely submitted to be handcuffed and marched to the Oak street station house. On arrival there he gave his age as twenty-nine years; his occupation is that of a shoemaker. His residence, he said, is No. 143 Third avenue. The pistol, with one chamber discharged, was found in his pocket. When asked what he had to say about the shooting, he sententiously replied, in broken English,

"I SHOOTS GOR LOVE."

Further than that he would not say. He was then locked up in the cells.

The writer visited the house of the unfortunate Miss Seidenward late last night. The young woman then lay in a dying condition. Her mother, who was labouring under great excitement, made the following statement:—"About a year and a half ago Jacob Stouderman rented of my husband a small shoe shop next door, and shortly afterward he attempted to pay attention to my daughter Lizzie, but neither she nor any of us liked him. He frequently came to the house to see us, but we never gave him the slighest encouragement. In the neighbourhood of two months ago he met Lizzie at a ball, and that is the last time of which I know that communication has directly taken place between them. Lizzie always disliked him. Three or four days ago Stouderman called at the house and asked for Lizzie, but I told him he could not see her. He then became abusive, and said he would shoot her if she did not marry him. My husband came in shortly afterward, and seeing him, ordered him out of the house. He left after repeating his threats. I have always looked unto his attentions to my daughter as but the ravings of a man who was a little insane.

Isaac J. Brown, the man who accompanied the young lady and who first grappled with the murderer, states that he had heard from various sources during the last few days that Stouderman had made threats against the life of Miss Siesdenward; but, knowing the man, he (Brown) thought nothing of them.

The young lady was conscious up to a late hour last night, but the physicians had grave doubts of her living until morning, as repeated probings had failed to find the bullet.

THE FIRE ALARM.—Under the Fire Alarm Telegraph system, new alarm nubers were necessary, and last evening the City Council adopted them on recommendation of the Fire, Water & Gas Committee. The plan is similar to that in vogue in other cities. St. Lawrence ward will be recognized by one stroke and Ontario ward by two, as these wards are too near the engine house to require boxes. The source of alarms in all other parts of the city may be found in future by consulting the following table, after hearing the number struck on the City bell:—

No. 3,	corner Queen and Montreal sts.
4,	North and Montreal
5,	All Saints' Church.
6,	Newlands' House, Princess Street.
7,	Barrie and Princess sts.
8,	Earl and Barrie Streets.
9,	Queen's College Gate.
12,	Downing's Brewery, King Street.
13,	Dr. Strange's, King st.

Circulars are about to be issued, giving directions to the public as to the manner of striking an alarm and also giving these numbers for general guidance.

SPELL "TRANQUILLITY."—Last evening, awaiting the arrival of laggard members at the City Council Chamber; the Mayor, Aldermen, press and spectators joined in an impromptu spelling class. The spelling of words was tossed off with a daring and recklessness you see displayed sometimes in the actions of the City Council, but the end came. Every mother's son in the class went down, down, down, before the simple work "tranquillity," which each in turn with a confidence that added to the effect of his discomfiture, measured with an English ell too short. The Aldermen can, after that, profitably swap their new Bird's Eye views of the city for some cheap dictionary.

QUEEN'S UNIVERSITY.—The most ample preparations are being made for the graduates reception and banquet on Wednesday evening. The attendance of alumne and learned men from a distance is expected to be large, and includes the Rt. Hon. Sir. John Macdonald, the Hon. O. Mowat, Principal Cavan of Knox Colleges, and the Rev. Professor Murray. The spread is expected to be very fine and the flow of reason and feast of soul still more elaborate.

DEMISE.—The Hon. Edward Hale died in Quebec yesterday. He was Chancellor of the University of Bishop's College, Secretary to the Governor-General of India from 1823 to 1828, and a member of the Special Council of Lower Canada in 1839 and 1840. He sat for Sherbrooke in the Legislative Assembly of Canada from 1841 to 184., and was called to the Legislative Council of the Province of Quebec in 186. He was brother of Mr G. C. Hale of Kingston, whose friends will sorrow with him in his bereavement.

ACCEPTED.—The Dry Goods employees of Brockville have accepted the spelling challenge issued by the Grocery hands. With what fiendish delight the two factions will hurl trade names at one another. The dry goods men may be able to measure the syllables better, but the grocers can go a long weigh ahead in other respects, or Brockville is not like Kingston, that's all.

THE RIGHT OF MIGHT.—The German Minister of War has just issued an order that gives some idea of the thorough and systematic plan and the extensive scale on which the strengthening of the fortresses of the empire is now being pushed forward. The order is to the effect that if the land necessary for the extension of certain fortresses cannot be acquired for friendly purchase, it must be at once compulsorily acquired in virtue of the law of Military Expropriation. The fortresses affected by the order in question are Cologne, Coblentz, Spandau, Kilstrin, Posen, Thorn, Danzig, Konigsburg, Glogau, Neisse, Memei, Pillau, Colberg, Sminemunde, Straisund, Frederichsort, Sonderburg, Dieppel, Wilhelmshaven, and the strong places on the lower Weser and the lower Elbe.
