CITY AND VICINITY

ILL.—Mr. Ald. Brophy is dangerously ill, his friends are grieved to hear.

POLICE COURT, Wednesday—(Before Mr. Strange, P.M.)—Thomas Anderson, drunk, $2 or 15 days in gaol.

THE Bishop of Kingston is at Belleville, and is a guest of Vicar-General Farrelly.

THE St. Lawrence is beginning to draw, its summer patrons from the Cities. Several families have already arrived at Cape Vincent.

WELCOME.—The Rev. Prof. McKerras, of this city, was a passenger from Liverpool in the SS. Nova Scotian, and is now in Montreal. His host of friends in Kingston will be rejoiced to see him.

THE HOME ATTRACTIONS on Dominion Day are being increased, as the yacht race is announced, and the Hook & Ladder Company propose a big display, towards the expenses of which the City Council has granted $200.

QUIETUS.—The Leader sets all doubt at rest by announcing "The old Adam is still alive." We're glad to hear it, exceedingly glad. We suppose from the ancient style of our contemporary, that he is running its Eve-ning edition.

TENDERS.—Mr. B. A. Booth has been awarded the contract for the supply of cloth for the Penitentiary, and Messrs. W. R. McRae & Co. have again secured that for the supply of groceries to the volunteer camp.

ADOPTED.—"Walkem on Mills" has been adopted by the law society as one of the text books. Students will, of course, make a note of the fact. Mr. R. T. Walkem of this city has thus another time had his works approved in that high quarter.

SCHOOL EXAMINATION.—To-morrow the Public School holiday and excursion to Stella Point per Rochester take place. Over 600 children are expected to go. There will be a spelling match on the trip, and games and amusements during the pic-nic.

THE DROP CURTAIN.—The City Solicitor is preparing a drop scene, a by-law to wipe out for ever the record of the Kingston and Madoc Railway project. The city by-law granting a bonus of $50,000 on conditions not fulfilled, has never been legally cancelled. The execution is being prepared.

THE ENGLISH STEAMER.—The mails per the Nova Scotian, which reached Quebec at noon yesterday, arrived her morning. Coming up the river the Nova Scotian grounded opposite Cocouna at dead low water and remained two hours and a half. She came off with the flood without damage and arrived in Quebec all well.

TEMPERANCE IN LEEDS.—A very successful temperance convention has lately been held at Mallorytown. All the townships but three in the County have arranged to agitate for the Dunkin By-law, adopted in the townships of Elizabethtown, Yonge Front, Escott, Landsdowne, Leeds, and the Town of Gananoque.

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO.—Yesterday the annual convocation took place and in the evening the annual dinner in connection followed in the dining-hall of the University. Mr. Thos. Moss, M.A., M.P., Vice-Chancellor of the University, occupied the Chair, and the vice Chairs were filled by Mr. A. F. Campbell, M.A., and Mr. Samuel Woods, M.A., of Kingston. There were present a number of the judges, professors, graduates, undergraduates and others, about a hundred in all. Mr. Woods, in neat fashion, proposed the toasts to the University and the honor men of the year.

COUNTY COURT AND GENERAL SESSIONS.—This morning Edward Gouldie, charged on two indictments with stealing—first a spirit level from W. Derry and a brush and two trowels from Stewart Siles at the Dockyard—pleaded not guilty to both and addressed the Judge eloquently. He was found guilty, however, and sentenced to imprisonment for three months in gaol. The attendance of legal gentlemen and the public in Court was very small all day. The Grand Jury was still on hand and looked happy over $1.50 per day and nothing to do. Mr. C. V. Price appeared in Court for the first time in years in the case of Lawrence vs. Allen, a township of Kingston case over a dispute involving about $50, over a certain undecided quantity of posts delivered.

'PRENTICE BOYS, B.A.—The annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of 'Prentice Boys took place here yesterday. After the general routine the election of officers took place with the following result:—

Bro. J. C. Hardy, Kingston, G.M., (re-elected).

Bro. W. D. Madden, Napanee, Senior D.G.M., (re-elected).

Bro. John Scott, Toronto, Junior D.G.M.

Bro. P. J. Howard, Amherst Island, Grand Chap., (re-elected).

Bro. S. Hooper, Newburg, Grand Sec., (re-elected).

Bro. R. Baird, Kingston, Grand Treas., (re-elected).

Bro. Jas. D. P. Meredith, Toronto, Grand Lecturer.

Bro. N. F. Paisley, Napanee, G.D. of C.

The officers elect were then installed by the G.M., after which the Grand Lodge adjourned, to meet again in the city of Toronto on the second Tuesday of June, 1876. It was decided by the Grand Lodge to celebrate the opening of the gates of Derry on the 12th August by a grand demonstration, to be held in the city of Kingston. A cordial invitation is extended to all sister societies. The past year has been one of the most successful ones for the P.B.'s; they have granted seven new warrants for the holding of lodges and added nearly 400 to their roll.

The O'Connell Centenary.

Last evening the St. Patrick's Hall was densely crowded by members of the different Irish Societies to make arrangements to celebrate the national festival of that great Irishman—Daniel O'Connell. The meeting was opened by Mr. P. Dougherty, President of the St. Patrick Society, who gave a brief but interesting sketch of the life and doings of the Irish Liberator and was followed by Messrs. T. H. McGuire, P. Harty, P. Jennings, Welsh, Delaney and others. It was decided to have one of the grandest demonstrations that was ever held in Kingston. A procession will take place in the morning with bands and banners, flags and other regalias. In the afternoon a great Irish pic-nic will be held in the Crystal Palace grounds (if the grounds can be conveniently secured), the proceeds to be devoted to one of the most charitable objects the Irish were ever known to contribute to in this city, that is, to erect a monument to the memory of those Irish emigrants that died with the immigrant fever some years ago, and were buried near the Kingston Hospital and now only recognizable by a large mountain of clay. This is truly a benevolent action, and one which deserves the greatest support from every Irish citizen in the city. We hope to see on the Pic-Nic grounds on that day the largest assemblage ever known to be together in Kingston on such occasions. The arrangements for the day was left to a Committee (two delegates from each Society.) The meeting is adjourned until next Friday evening.

CANADIAN ITEMS.

—The A. F. & A. Masons of Ogdensburg will make an excursion to the St. Lawrence Park on St. John's day, the 24th of June.

—Eugene Martineau, ex-Mayor of Ottawa, is reported to be out of his mind. The disease is attributed to supposed financial difficulties.

—The St. Patrick's Literary Association, Ottawa, offer a gold medal for the best poem on O'Connel, the poem not to be received by the Secretary later than the 5th of August.

—The St. Thomas father boasts of a boy fifteen years old who never smoked or chewed tobacco, or told a lie, and a girl of thirteen years who never used musk or chewed gum.

—Two miles north of Hammond workmen are engaged in laying rails on the Morristown and Black river Railway. As the track is graded almost into the village of Morristown, the road may be in running order in a few months.

—Two of the stockholders of the Addington Reporter are blacksmiths, who have been engaged as fighting editors, so it is likely that very few persons will ask to see the man "who wrote that piece." Another of the stockholders is a lawyer who will conduct the libel suits.

—It is again reported that the Princess Louise and the Marquis of Lorne, will visit Canada and the United States this summer. The correspondent who sends the above also intimates that it is whispered in England that the Marquis of Lorne will come to canada as the successor of His Excellency the Earl of Dufferin.

—At the Brontford Methodist Conference, the Revs. S. D. Ricé, D. D., and G. R. Sanderson were appointed members of the Board of Examiners for probationers that attend the Victoria College.

THINGS IN GENERAL.

—Baron Rothschild has just given $30,000 for a French race horse.

—Epidemic Measles is stated to have caused the death of fifty thousand Fijians.

—King Alfonso is not to be married to a German princess. The report was unfounded. Does he want to be congratulated.

—All land lying contiguous to the Mississippi, within 12 miles of the river, has been reserved by the United States Government for military purposes.

—The Manager of the Termont Opera House at Galveston, Texas, has been fined $500 for refusing two colored women admission to the parquette of the Opera House.

—The New York Graphic makes an announcement that Mr. Charles O'Connor has in view a plan by which the large sums stolen by the "Ring" can be recovered to the city.

—A Presbyterian International Council is to be held in London on the 1st of July next looking towards a closer union between Presbyterian and Reformed Churches.

—Mrs. Rousby sailed for Europe on Saturday. She will return in August to rehearse a new play from Boucicault, written expressly for her. It will be produced at Booth's Theatre.

—The Bank of England has about 800 clerks. They usually enter at between 18 and 25 years of age, their salary being about $400 of our currency. From this they advance, until by the time they are 41 or 44 they get $1,800 a year, after which they can ordinarily hope for no increase.

—Fire was lately discovered in a berth on a steamboat in England which had originated in the heat of the sun—one of the glass "deadlights" concentrating the rays directly on the spot and acting as a burning glass. How many vessels at sea may have been fired in that way.

THE INSPECTOR OF ARTILLERY, Lieutenant-Colonel Strange, has issued a circular making an appeal which we hope will meet with a hearty response. Napoleon said that modern battles were won by artillery a dictum which has been universally accepted—and it is therefore important, if we engage in military training at all, that we should attend to its most important branch. It is therefore proposed to establish a Dominion Artillery Association, on a somewhat similar basis to the Dominion Rifle Association, and with a somewhat similar object for artillery to that so successfully accomplished for the infantry i.e., the development of gunnery skill and the dissemination of artillery knowledge throughout the Dominion of Canada. The Governer-General and the Lieutenant Governors, with the Minister of Militia and others, are to be patrons. The hope is expressed that, as in the Dominion Rifle Association, the sympathy and support of many of many of our countrymen who are not in the militia service will be freely accorded. We trust Colonel Strange will meet with a hearty response.

DECIDEDLY NOVEL.—The exceedingly popular form of bank burglary, which consists in waking and gagging the cashier and compelling him to unlock the vault, has received a disastrous check in Great Barrington, Massachusetts. The cashier of the Moharic National Bank of that place was taken from his bed a few nights since, conveyed to the bank by a couple of stalwart thieves and ordered to unlock the safe. The lock however was what is known as a 'chronometer lock' and the cashier briefly explained to his captors that neither he nor any other officer of the bank could open it until the time set for its opening came round. Having satisfied themselves by listening to the ticking of the machinery that the cashier's story was plausible the burglars left; but they will probably be haunted for a long time by a suspicion that the cashier 'played it' on them by locking up a common Seth "Thomas" in the vault over night.

A Mournful Dream.

Last December my friend Keyser dreamed one night that he would die on the 13th of January. So strongly was he assured of the fact that the vision would prove true that he began at once to make preparations for his departure. He got measured for a burial suit, he drew up his will, he picked out a nice lot in the cemetery and had it fenced in, he joined the Methodist church, and selected six of the deacons as his pall-bearers; he also requested the choir to sing at his funeral, and he got them to run over a favorite hymn of his, to see how it would sound. Then he got Toombs, the undertaker to knock together a burial casket, with silver-plated handles, and cushions inside, and he instructed the undertaker to rush out his best hearse, and to buy fifty pairs of black gloves to be distributed among the mourners. He had some trouble deciding upon a tombstone. The man at the marble yard wanted to shove off on him a second-hand one with a stubby nose angel weeping over a kind of flower pot; but Keyser finally selected one with a design representing a rose bud with a broken stem, and legend, "Not lost, but gone before."

Then he got the village newspaper to put a good obituary notice of him in type, and he told his wife that he would be gratified if she would come out in the spring and plant violets on his grave. He said it was hard to leave her and the children, but she must try and bear up under it. He said that these afflictions were for her good, and when he was an angel he would come and watch over her and keep his eye on her. He said she might marry again if she wanted to, for although the mere thought of it nearly broke his heart, he wished her above all to be happy, and have some one to love and protect her from the storms of the rude world. Then he, and Mrs. Keyser, and the children cried, and Keyser, as a closing word of counsel, advised her not to plow for corn before the middle of March.

On the night of the 12th of January there was a flood in the creek, and Keyser got up at four o'clock in the morning of the 13th, and worked until night trying to save his buildings and his wood-pile. He was so busy that he forgot all about its being the day of his death, and as he was very tired, he went to bed early and slept soundly all night.

About six o'clock on the morning of the 14th there was a ring at the door bell. Keyser jumped out of bed threw up the front window, and exclaimed:

'Whoos the e?'

'It's me—coombs,' said the undertaker.

'What in the mischief do you want at this time of the morning?' demanded Keyser.

'Want?' said Toombs, not recognizing Keyser. 'Why, I've brought around the ice to pack Keyser in, so's he'll keep until the funeral. The corpse'd spoil this kinder weather if we didn't.'

Then Keyser remembered, and it actually made him feel mad when he thought how the day had passed and left him still alive, and how he had made a fool of himself. So the corpse said:

'Well, you can just skeer around home again with the ice; the corpse is not yet dead. You're just a leetle too anxious, it strikes me; you're not going to check me into a sepulchre yet, even if you have got everything ready. So you can haul off and unload.'

About half-past ten this morning the deacons came around with crape on their hats and gloom in their faces to carry the body to the grave, and while they were on the front steps the marble-yard man drove up with the rosebud tombstone, and stepped in to ask the widow how deep she wanted the grave dug. Just then the choir arrived with the minister, and the company was assembled in the parlor when Keyser came in from the stable, where he had been dosing a horse with patent medicine and warm mash for the glanders. He was surprised, but he proceeded to explain that there had been a mistake somehow. He was also pained to find that everybody seemed to be a good deal disappointed, particularly the tombstone man, who went away mad declaring that such an old fraud ought to be rammed into the ground anyhow, dead or alive. Just as the deacons left in a huff, the tailor's boy arrived with the burial suit, and before Keyser could kick him off the steps, the paper-carrier flung into the door the Morning Argus, in which that obituary notice occupied a prominent place.

Anybody who wants a good, reliable tombstone that has a broken rosebud on it and that has never been used, can buy one of that kind at a sacrifice from Keyser. He has not yet begun to watch over his wife in the character of an angle; but several times since he has thrown flat irons and scuttlers at her, when she scolded him for chewing tobacco in the house. He has made up his mind now to die without getting ready when his time comes; and he has informed one of those deacons confidentially, that he thinks that bad dream must have been caused by eating too much sausage at supper.—Mac Adelet.
