London, July 8.—A large and enthusiastic meeting of the British Medical Sexity was held last evening to listen to the remarks of Prof. Fordice Barker on his presentation of his views obtained in America on the subject of puerperae fever. The address of Dr. Barker was characterized by concisenesss and force, and his statement of conclusions, which have been accepted in New York, produced profound impression. Many of the most eminent physicians participated in the discussion. Meeting is regarded as one of the most important and testing that has been held for a long time.

Cincinnati, July 8.—Recent heavy rains has so swollen streams in Southern Ohio that 9 bridges has been carried away on the Marietta & Cincinnatti RR. on the Portsmouth branch, and the track reported badly injured.

St. Louis, July 8.—The St. Louis, Kansas City & Northern RR. has been very badly damaged by the recent heavy rains. The track near Brunswick has submerged for several miles, and is washed out of the river at this place. Quite a height of water appeared in the street. East St. Louis had a rise of another foot or two, and will probably inundate part of the town.

Boston, July 8.—Tim O'Brien, who recently served a term in the State Prison on being convicted on the evidence of Police Officer J. W. Lewis, made an assault on that officer last night. He cut him with a knife several times, inflicting flesh wounds. The officer drew a revolver and fired four shots, two taking effect. O'Brien then attempted to cut his own throat, but was disarmed and sent to the Hospital. He is thought to be very dangerously hurt.

New York, July 8.—The Tribune says that Beecher, after giving his testimony yesterday, went with Dish, attorney, before the Grand Jury, and indictments were ordered immediately against Loeder and Price.

St. Louis, July 8.—Gen. Waddy Thompson passed through here yesterday en route to Memphis in charge of the Sheriff. Thompson is charged with horse stealing, perjury and larceny, but denies the charges.

Detroit, July 8.—There was a large attendance at the races yesterday. The first race for 2 27 horses was won by Grafton, Clementine 2nd, and Snowball 3rd, time 2.27, 2.24¾, 2.26; in the 2.44 race General Mack was the favorite and winner in three straight heats, Marion 2nd, Harmless 3rd, time 2.30½, 2.36½, 2.38½; in the 2.30 race four heats were trotted, Membrino Chief being a hot favorite; after two heats were won by Richard the driver of Warner changed and Basil won the next heat; Warner behaved badly under his new driver, and his own was substituted in the fourth heat, which was also won by Basil. It was trotted in the dusk and will be concluded to-morrow. Basil, Duke and Richard each have two heats, Membrino and Warner remain the favorites two to one. There is considerable jocking in this race. Time, 2.31½, 2.32½, 2.30½, 2.30¼

London, July 8, 12:30 p.m.—The Directors of the Bank of England at their meeting to-day fixed the minimum rate of discount at the bank at 3 per cent.

London, July 8, 3:30 p.m.—Specie in the Bank of England increased to 86,000 pounds during the past week. The rate of discount in open market for three months' bills is 3 per cent. which is the bank rate.

The proportion of bank reserve to liability which last week was 39 per cent. is now 42½ per cent.

The amount of bullion gone into the Bank of England to-day is 85,000 lbs.

Paris, July 8.—The specie in the Bank of France has decreased 16,144,000 francs during the past week. Rentes 63f. 95 c.

Whitehall, July 8.—A fire this morning in E. W. Hall's building was confined to the third story where it originated. Anderson Hall, O. Manville, druggist, Baker & Caraington, boot and shoe dealers and U. S. Custom House, occupants. Damaged to the extent of $10,000; fully insured.

London, July 8.—The letter received on the 6th inst. by Colonel Gildersleeve in relation to shooting by the American riflemen at Wimbledon was from Henry Parsons, Adjutant of the English eight. Parsons says the Council is not willing to admit another team to shoot with our three eights in the Elcho shield match, but they propose a match to take place on the 17th inst. for Lloyd's cup between the Americans and eight to be selected by the respective captains from the three British teams. At the same time the Council does not despair of a match between four eights, which may perhaps be managed for the Monday following the shooting at Wimbledon. In the meantime it hopes that the match proposed on the 17th inst. may be agreeable to the Americans.

Oswego, July 8.—A fire early this morning at Hannibal Centre, Oswego, destroyed the Croton Hotel, Reed's stone dwelling house, and three barns.

New York, July 8.—Joseph Boyle, indicted for the murder of Philip Sheridan by breaking his skull with a stone in April last, pleaded guilty yesterday and sentenced to twenty years in State Prison.

VERY LATEST.

London, July 8.—A special to the Daily News says that the Crown Prince of Germany has informed the Italian Crown Prince that the visit of Emperor William to King Victor Emanuel will not be postponed later than September next.

New York, July 8.—Mrs. Elizabeth R. Tilton this morning paid a visit to the office of District Attorney Britton and in company with that gentleman went before the grand jury, where it is stated that she gave testimony denying the accusations made in affidavits of Price and Loader.

In the Detroit despatch this morning it was stated Membrino Warner for Membrino Chief in the 2:30 race.

London, July 8.—To-day's Times contains a letter from Buda, Pesth, confirming the reports of a destructive character of the recent storms in that vicinity, but reducing the number of fatalities as first stated. It says that the bodies of 28 persons have been found and over 100 are known to be missing. It is reported that many of the poorer classes who are missing have not been reported. The loss of life is not accurately ascertainable. The destruction of property on Mountain slope was likewise fearful. None of the villages on the upper ground entered escaped. Hundreds of people are destitute and homeless. Subscriptions have been opened for their relief, and they are being liberally responded to.

A special to the Times from Calcutta states that Douglas Forsyth was not instructed by the British Government to demand the passage of British troops through Burmah. In his interview with the King he only intimated that a sufficient escort would be sent with any expedition to Western China to protect it against violence. The King replied that Burmah would protect any expedition, but troops must not be sent.

THE MEETING of Citizens in the City Council Chamber this evening at 7:30 in connection with the Canadian representation at the Philadelphia Centennial Exhibition.

The Irish Canadian goes into the public confessional and thus unburdens itself:—

"We confess that the course uniformly pursued by our co-religionists in the Lower Province, in the matter of Parliamentary representation, meets with our entire approbation."

That is a very singular confession for our amiable contemporary to make. It is eternally crying out for Irish Catholic representation in the Cabinets as indispensably necessary to the public good. But there is no Irish Catholic in the Quebec Cabinet and still the way they manage Parliamentary affairs down there meets with the Canadian's entire approbation. There is only one thing, as we have before said, as to which the Canadian is consistent. It has its own opinion of Sir John and habeas corpus.

To represent Mr. Foster's alleged success as an expression of confidence in the Pacific railway policy of the Mackenzie Government is as silly and stupid as to represent Sir Hugh Allan's failure as a reflection on the Government of that day. The Mail.

Neither is silly nor absurd. Sir Hugh failed for two reasons. The scheme he tried to float was impracticable, and had its origin in a political crime. The London capitalists refused to take up for these reasons. Their refusal was a reflection, and a very pointed one, on the government that devised it and then sold it for election moneys. For precisely the reverse reasons, Mr. Foster has been successful. The scheme he opened out to Lombard street was accepted as practicable. The honesty and ability of the Government in connection with it were of the admitted. The London capitalists in loaning the money approved the scheme, and, in the strongest possible manner voted confidence in the Pacific Railway policy of the Mackenzie Government. The case cannot be so coloured as to obscure these facts. The bankers of London would not touch the Allan scheme regarding it as rotten, and thus voting no-confidence in the late Macdonald government. They have risked their money on the Mackenzie scheme—the highest tribute they could pay to its practicability and suitability to the wants of the country.

The cable brings extracts from a violent article in the London Standard against America and American institutions, its text being the Fourth of July celebration in the English capital. The Standard is patriotically abusive and very unjust in some of its animadversions. There is no question but that the average condition, so far, of the American, is a flattering one. He is well educated, intelligent, and generally gets a livelihood without the fierce struggle often called for in the case of the European masses, though they have counterbalancing advantages in contentment and plain living that the restless Yankee knows little of. We are not sure that American institutions are to be credited with this, but rather the boundless resources of the continent, over which the people are as yet thinly spread. When they become crowded, as they are in England, then the tug and the strain, which Macaulay feared will commence, and may end in a collapse. The drift of public life there now is far from reassuring, and the Standard is by no means wholly wrong when it says:

"Among the Americans there are but a few now actually participating in the general system of plunder in their country, who would not joyfully exchange their institutions for the order, honesty, and loyalty of this empire, from which a century ago they made their insane revolt."

There is, no doubt, a striking contrast between the order, honesty and loyalty of Britain to the disorder, dishonesty and treason to the public good which characterize American politics. English public life is daily becoming purer and better; American public life is rotting and festering into corruption. One is a pledge of long life to monarchy; the other is the precursor of the ruin of republicanism. It is to be hoped that warning will be taken in time, as the destruction of republicanism in America would be a calamity. It has done the world great service; it now looks intent on doing self-murder, for it is sinking daily deeper in the bog of public corruption.

ECONOMICAL QUACKERY.

A correspondent of the Mail writes a priggish letter to that journal complaining that the Government is responsible for the present hard times, though all but crazy people know that Governments are generally as helpless in such matters as they are to interfere with the weather or the crops. But, says the particularly bright letter-writer, all the trouble was caused by Mr. Cartwright not giving us Protection when he amended the tariff. Says this fat-witted economist:—

"He had it in his power, by a sufficient increase of tariff on goods we make, and a decrease on material which we have not."

Now Mr. Cartwright's object in altering the tariff was to raise an imperatively needed three millions of additional taxes. If he had put such higher duties on "goods we make" as to stimulate their production here, he would have defeated the very purpose he had in view, for that instead of increasing would have diminished the revenue. And yet there are bedlamite croakers who utter such nonsensical complaints as the above—complaints that are as silly as they are unfair, bred both of ignorance and Party craze. Their childish foolishness is so apparent that it is hardly necessary to ask those who peddle them through the Press if Protection saved the United States from hard times? That country is the most protected on the face of the earth, and when the hard times squall struck it, it keeled over and has been on its beam ends for nigh two years, while at the worst, Canada is certain to right itself speedily, so calculated is its tariff system to bear it up in times of stringency. Where, then, in the name of common sense, is the reason for asking Canada to adopt a fiscal system which under our very noses has produced such mortifying results? It can only be on the homœopathic principle that that which will cause a panic which will cure it, but we are better without either pill or panic.

ELECTION NOTES.

The intelligence collected so far is not sufficient to allow of a concise statement of the result of the Quebec elections, but there is little doubt, as we ventured to predict yesterday, the Government have been substantially sustained. They have swept Montreal; their candidates Taillon and McGauvran in the East and West being returned by 450 majority each, and Mr. Ogilvie in the Centre by 61. The exchange of Mr. Alexander for Mr. Ogilvie is unfortunate, the former being an able public man, a blameless citizen, and altogether the superior of his successful opponent.

The North Perth election was held yesterday, Friday next being improperly previously stated as the date. The result was the return of the old member, Mr. Monteith, a Conservative, by ten votes. His last majority was 163. Our Tory friends are fond of dreaming about a "re-action," but some recent elections have shown that the re-action is in favour of Liberalism, and is shown by increased Reform or decreased Tory majorities. If there be any Tory re-action at all, it is confined to the cities where hard times not surprizingly make ignorant voters lay the blame on the powers that be, and wish for a change as calculated at least as impossible to make things worse. In the country, however, Liberalism appears to be getting stronger instead of weaker.

The hold it retains on the country is shewn in the Glengarry election, which also took place yesterday, and resulted in the return of Mr. McNab, the Government candidate, by the handsome majority of 286.

The Lincoln election trial is proceeding to-day, at St. Catherines. Of election trials there seems to be no end. The decision in the South Essex Local case has not yet been given.

Quebec.

Quebec, July 8.—A horse belonging to Mr. James Hossack bolted in Peter street when galloping at a furious rate. It brought itself and carriage into contact with the Street Railway Car, knocked down the driver, broke one of the windows and killed one of the horses. A gentleman seated in the car had a narrow escape.

On Tuesday morning two roughs were discovered in St. Roch maltreating a man from who they were endeavoring to extort money, under the pretence that they were detectives and would arrest him if the funds were not forthcoming.

OTTAWA.

Ottawa, July 8.—The Ontario Agriculture and Arts Board met in the Senate yesterday afternoon, but very little business of importance was transacted. Speaker Christie announced that the Government would defray all the expenses connected with the transport of articles to the Philadelphia Centennial Exhibition. It was decided to encourage a proper representation of our fish interests at the Exhibition; after which the members of the Board were invited to inspect the new Exhibition Building and grounds. They expressed themselves much pleased. The main building covers 50,000 superficial feet of ground.

THE LATE ALDERMAN BROPHY.—This morning a very long funeral attended the remains of the late Mr. Wm. Brophy to the Church and the grave. All classes joined in this last tribute of respect to the departed, illustrating the depth of his friendships, the breadth of his acquaintanceship, and the high esteem in which he was held socially and publicly. The City Council attended as a body, and mourned the loss of its most faithful member. The pall bearers were Messrs. M. Flanagan, D. Donoghue, P. Browne, P. Smith, Wm. Power and J. F. McDermott. At St. Mary's Cathedral, where a large congregation was present, a solemn requiem mass was said by the Rev. Father McWilliams of Loughboro, assisted by Messrs. Larkin and Cicolari as Deacon and sub-Deacon. A number of other clergymen were present in the sanctuary. After a most impressive service the body was taken to St. Mary's Cemetery and committed to its last resting place with fervent prayers for a bright eternity.

The Horticultural Show.

The principal attraction offered to the citizens yesterday was the Summer Exhibition of the Electoral Division Society, which was held in the Drill Shed in the afternoon and evening. Everything was in readiness for the reception of visitors at two p.m., but the attendance was very small. In the evening there was a large attendance, and the scene was enlivened by the presence and performance of the 14th P. W. O. Rifle Band. On entering the Drill Shed and passing the band stand we reached the Ladies' Work Department, designated Class E, which was well set out, thro' the manipulation of delicate, dainty and subtle fingers. Not being a connoisseur in this department, however, we will not attempt to particularize; in fact where all was so good it must have been a hard matter for the judges to select the best. In Class B there was a very small but fine display of summer fruits of which by far the most tempting was a collection of strawberries, from a Clergy street garden; they were the finest specimen of the famous "Triomphe le Grande," we have ever seen. The currants and gooseberries were remarkably large, considering the long drought they have come through. Immediately opposite the Ladies' Department was the Floral Show, which occupied the centre of the building. The display was large and creditable, and fully up to the standard of former exhibitions, Mr. M. Flanagan as usual taking off the lion's share of prizes in the class. Mr. C. Field had some splendid specimens of double petunias, which gained a well merited prize. Mr. J. L. Nicol displayed some very beautiful foliage plants. One in particular, called the chameleon, attracted our attention by its brilliant colors, uniting in its leaf all the tints of the rainbow. Mr. E. Baiden had a handsome collection of geraniums, on which he received an extra prize. The display of fuschias and hanging baskets was very attractive and deserves special mention.

In Class C., (vegetables, etc.) the assortment was unusually good. The articles which we think most worthy of mention were the collection of lettuce by Mr. C. George; cucumbers by Mr. F. Hora, of Pittsburg, the largest ever exhibited at the Summer Show of the Society, and Mr. T. England's first prize potatoes. The fine arts department is the next class to be "done," and altho' in point of number, the entries were not so large as they have been in former years. The lack of quantity was made up in the quality of the work displayed. Mr. Light, an old contributor to this department, again succeeded in carry off first in crayons, both plain and colored, and first in pen and ink drawing. In painting in oil colors, Mr. F. Hora exhibited a seacape, the subject being a large ship caught in a cyclone with all sail set, and another ship in the background with sails reefed, flying before the storm. The whole scene is so vivid that you almost imagine you can hear the rushing of the tempest as you gaze upon it. Another work by the same artist is a very picturesque representation of a banyan tree, or grove it might properly be called. Mr. Hora obtained first and second prizes in this section, also first and second in pencil drawing. Mr. R. Holder displayed some figures in pencil drawing, which were remarkable for their free and flowing outlines. A head by the same gentleman was universally admired, although the judges did not deem it worthy of a prize. There was a very good collection of photographs, both plain and colored, by Messrs. Henderson and Barrow, the former gentleman taking the first prize. The grand attraction of the evening was the poultry show, in which Messrs. Arthur Nichol and J. Metlalfe were the chief competitors. The decision of the judges in this class seemed to meet with general approbation. The last class is reached in Class G, which was not very largely filled, although there was ample room in the Drill Shed for a very large display of horticultural and agricultural implements. Mr. H. Wells exhibited a very neat and well finished single harness, and a gentleman's saddle and bridle, on all of which he obtained first prize. A collection of drain tiles and sewer pipes was shown by Mr. H. Bawden, who also exhibited ploughs, a harrow, a lawn mower and other implements. The prize list is:

CAPITALES.—This is not a rosy world for prisoners after all; hanging may be played out, as witness ten commutations of sentences lately, but escaping from prison is not in some places, and more particularly the Kingston Penitentiary. The five latest attempts, three quite recently, have been short and simple failures. This is very discouraging to discontented convicts. The prisoner who got away on Tuesday was captured by the Chief Keeper at Maitland's farm after only a couple of hours of ill-enjoyed liberty.

MONTREAL.

Montreal, July 8.—The Mayor, Dr. Hingston, has declined an invitation to be present at the International Banquet to be given in the Guild Hall, London, England. Circumstances of a private nature prevent his acceptance.

About 12 o'clock last night a fire broke out in the premises of A. Gianotti, sculptor, Nos. 23 and 25, Cloud street, doing damage to the amount of $1,000; insurance $2,000 in the Provincial. It is suspected that incendiaries have been at work, some people living opposite report having heard various noises immediately before the alarm of fire was given.

Toronto.

Toronto, July 8.—Capt. Ward, R. N., A. D. C. to the Governor-General, is in town.

The crack shots of the Grand Trunk brigade have joined the Tenth Royals.

The imports of coal at Toronto this season, compared with the same period of last year, show a falling off of 13,865 tons.

It is stated that the party of Mennonites who recently passed through here brought with them $70,000 in cash, besides miscellaneous effects, and a good many counterfeit bills are in circulation at present.

Yesterday while Mr. Burns, station master of the Northern railway, was selling tickets to a crowd some one handed him a four dollar Dominion; note for which he gave a ticket and some change. He discovered afterwards it to be a one dollar bill, but altered by pasting a figure over the one in all places except over the small figures in the corners which were left unchanged. Last night a man tendered a somewhat similar bill at Domville's saloon, corner of Simcoe and Queen streets, but his trick was discovered and he was handed over to the police.

FORTUNATE.—Fortune continues to smile on Lord Dudley. He has a beautiful wife, whom he adores; when a thief carries off her jewel case, with diamonds worth £60,000, he recovers it by making a little present; and now he has just won £5,000 on the turf. Just before the race for the Ascot gold cup Lord Dudley offered £10,000 to £5,000 on Doncaster, which animal he had inspected in his stable the previous evening. The bet was taken and split up among several sporting men in the ring, five thousand being too heavy a risk for one hand. The horse won very easily and Lord Dudley gets his five thousand. His luck is proverbial, and he boasts that his weekly settlements at Tattersall's never show a losing account—a very remarkable thing for any devotee of the turf. He laid £6,000 to £4,000 on Spinaway and Lady Love for the Oaks, and of course won.

THE BATTERY BAND.—The programme for this evening at seven o'clock at the Queen's Wharf is:—

6—Galop—Genlenipo—Van den Bogaerde.

God save the Queen.

A. H. RACKETT,
Bandmaster.

THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.—At a meeting of the teachers of the Public Schools called by the Inspector and held last evening in Johnson Street School, it was decided to have a public exhibition by the scholars in the City Hall on Wednesday evening next, to consist of recitations, dialogues, readings, and the general school work. The proceedings will be enlivened by singing, which Mr. J. W. Youmans has kindly consented to remain and oversee.

A GOOD OFFER.—The following singular advertisement appeared in the London Morning Post:—"A lady is anxious to find a home for a young lady, in whom she is deeply interested, as wife to man, with or without children. She has good health, good temper, cultivated mind, quiet and homely tastes, deep religious principles, devoted to children. A Plymouth Brother would be preferred. Any one who gets her will bless God for such a life companion. Address, &c., &c."

The Visit of the Prelates.

We are glad that the opportunity is now afforded us of filling in some of the incidents of the visit of the Papal Ab-Legate and party, which were but briefly referred to in our previous accounts, on account of pressure of other city matters. The distinguished party were met at the boat by the Revs. Fathers Corbett and Twohey, who conducted them to the Bishop's Palace. By arrangement of His Lordship Monsignor Roncetti said his mass at the Congregational Convent, while Dr. Ubaldi attended the Hotel Dieu and Dr McGlynn the House of Providence. The last gentleman very kindly consented to preach at the High Mass in the Cathedral. Those who were so happy as to hear him enjoyed an intellectual and religious treat, for his language, at once select and simple, is intelligible to young and old, being the outpouring of the heart unadorned by any attempt or show of oratory, and carrying conviction to the minds of his auditors.

In the afternoon the three illustrious visitors, attended by Father Twohey, repaired to the House of Providence where they were received in a most cordial manner, and appeared agreeably surprised, for the notice of their coming was so short that no one was able to make those demonstrations of respect which the dignity of the guests demanded and the feelings of all would suggest. On entering the hall, where the children and aged inmates of the Asylum were assembled, a grand march was played, and as soon as seated, the children greeted them with a joyous song of welcome. Master Jas. O'Reilly presented an address on behalf of those assembled, and a similar testimony of respect was also tendered on the part of the Sisterhood. In reply to both of these, the Ablegate, through his Interpreter, Dr. McGlynn, addressed them in a few words expressive of his gratitude for their kind wishes in his own regard, but espec
