CITY AND VICINITY

☞ GOLD in New York at 3 o'clock 116¾

ARRIVED.—The Canadian ss. "Manitoban" arrived at Quebec this morning at 6:38 o'clock. The 'Polynesian' with mails and passengers arrived about the same time.

EVENING OF SONG.—The usual monthly Service of Song will be held at the Y. M.C.A. rooms this evening at 8 o'clock. Young men are heartily invited to be present.

THIEVING.—A recently released Penitentiary bird stole a horse, buggy and harness at Brighton a couple of weeks. The thief and the property are still missing.

WISE.—Dealers in wood and coal are now busy in getting in their winter supplies. Consumers should be doing likewise. Sneak thieves are about. If you want a new overcoat leave your old one in the hall.

THIS WEEK'S SHOW.—The Guelph Central Exhibition will commence on Tuesday and continue four days. The entries are said to be more numerous than last year, and the show promises to be mighty successful.

VIOLENT.—The gale which blew yesterday from the south shore was very violent. On the lake it was exceedingly rough—too rough for safe sailing except before the wind. Two or three steamers bound up remained in this port until an abatement set in. The waves washed over some of the wharves.

COBOURG REGATTA.—It will take place on Wednesday over a course of 32 miles, about the same course as that sailed over in previous years. For first class yachts two prizes are offered—$100 to first and $50 to second; and for second class yachts two prizes—$40 to first and $10 to second.

SWINDLER.—A young man of religious professions—possibly the same who recently visited Kingston—is operating around St. Thomas. The Home Journal does not wish the young man any harm, but it says a cell is awaiting him in Kingston, and it is not an overly comfortable one either.

WATCHING.—A crowd of persons anxiously kept watch all yesterday afternoon for the return of the base ball excursion party. The delay of the steamer occasioned a long wait for some of them. Perhaps there were fully four hundred at Carruthers' dock when the "Norseman" arrived and the party disembarked.

HEAVY VOTE.—They have every reason to call Prince Edward a model county. The two days' voting on the Dunkin Bill has resulted in a majority of over six hundred votes for the measure. As drinking habits and crime are inseparable, it is plain to be seen partly how it is that Prince Edward criminal courts have rarely anything to do.

ACCIDENT.—Yesterday a son of Mr. J. Reid, cabinet maker, of Princess street, three years and a half old, was kicked by a vicious horse while playing in the yard. A fracture of an inch and a half was sustained in the back of the head and the child laid unconscious and insensible till this morning, when it spoke and is improving, though feverish and in great danger.

PROPER.—Tennessee's new school law provides that for like services of male and female teachers like salaries shall be paid. Yet Ontario will hold her head up and cry out that she is more advanced towards modern civilization than Tennessee, although she pays her women teachers little more than half the salary she offers to men who do no better work. There are young ladies—several of them—teaching in Kingston for under $150 a year.

Y.I.C.B.A.—The annual Provincial Convention in connection with the Young Irishmen's Catholic Benevolent Association will be held here to-morrow. The delegates from the Societies of Toronto, St. Catharines, Hamilton, London, etc., will arrive on the train at 2:30 o'clock, at which hour the Convention will open. The levee, to be given under the auspices of the local Society in the evening in the City Hall, will be a pleasant affair.

Y.M.C.A.—The open air meeting in the Park yesterday was conducted by the President, Mr. Macalister, and addressed by the Rev. Mr. Allan. The audience was not so large as usual, owing to the cool state of the weather. It is the intention of the Association to discontinue these meetings as soon as the weather is cool enough to resume the evening meetings in the Sons of Temperance Hall. The open air meeting on Bay Street and the one held in the Village Sabbath School were also well attended.

"AMERICAN GROCER."—We are in receipt of a copy of the regular semi-annual, extra edition of the "American Grocer," a 32 page trade journal, published weekly at 141 Chambers street, New York. The "American Grocer" has won a high place by the fullness and accuracy of its market reports and prices-current, embracing all kinds of merchandise and country produce, as well as for its bold and successful advocacy of trade reforms in the interest of honesty and fair dealing among merchants.

FLICKERED OUT.—The Toronto Sun passed under a perpetual eclipse on Friday; it published its valedictory, confessed hard times, and stepped down and out, with a credit behind it of a goodly reputation. Friday was its last day out as well as Mr. Crooks', and fortunes seem to have changed in these cases most singularly. Probably Mr. Crooks' election robbed the Skitter of half his stock-in-trade—took away the essence of life. He had not as many days out as he deserved. The Sun will be missed.

BASE BALL.

—The ambition in this quarter is not dead, only sleeping. There will be more matches this week here.

—Why don't we have some female base ballists? They would easily make game of the young men.

—The Live Oaks of Lynn, Mass., are now on a tour through New York State. They beat the Herkimer 36 to 1, and the Ilians 16 to 7.

—A match was played last week at Picton, the Times and New Nation Printers vs. Tailors and Hardware Clerks. The clerks did toss that ball lively, making a show of 28 runs in one innings. The Merrickville Club will therefore resign the heavy weight championship which we accorded them. Their score of the week before last is nowhere, though considered most remarkable at the time, beside this last from Picton. Read the record of a five innings match, and cry out, "Beat that":—

	1	2	3	4	5
Clerks	28	9	12	3	4	—56
Printers	4	5	4	1	8	—22

SABBATH TEMPERANCE MEETING.—The Rev. J. Elliott said that there was an object in assembling every Sabbath, and one of the mottoes that met his view was, "We strive to elevate." The question arose here, was man's condition such or had alcoholic drink placed him in that position that it was necessary to come to his relief?—We have only to look around on society and take a view of the votaries of drink, and what do we behold? Is it possible that man made in the image of God can become so degraded, so offensive that his society is shunned as if he was infected with some leathsome disease. Therefore the object of these meetings is an important one, and while we are striving to restore the helpless, and to raise the fallen to sobriety and to a position where they can become useful members of society and a mind open to receive the impressions of Divine grace, at the same time there is a benefit and a help to those who are in the path of temperance, for it can hardly be said when we are safe from the wiles of the tempter. We have the sanction of the Redeemer of mankind, for his grand scheme of salvation is to elevate and raise man up from what he lost by the fall. We are therefore in unison with the Divine mind while engaged in this work. Unceasing effort and great patience are necessary, for when the habit of strong drink takes hold of a man it becomes almost an impossibility to save him, except by Divine power. Go on in your work and God will bless it. The chairman, Mr. E. Stacey, announced that that Rev. Mr. Graffley would speak next Sabbath. There was a large and respectable audience.

REASONABLE.—The Cobourg defenders of the base ball jockey trick are becoming reasonable at last. The Sentinel goes so far as to doubt its first position by saying: "But if those who acted so very shabby a part towards the Cobourg Club in 1874 are members of the new organization of 1875, we hold that Kingston must still bear the onus, and ask that the members of the Cobourg Club be relieved of the imputation of unfair dealing in the case under consideration." The managers of the St. Lawrence Club of seventy-four have nothing to do with it this year, much less acting as its back bone; they are not even friendly to the present officers, and are now indifferent to the club's career. Only one of the old players is on the nine of to-day, and he acts independently of any old club connections. The Sentinel ought to be satisfied.

BABY SHOW.—The appointed judges of the Picton baby wrangle were three doctors—Morden, Lake and Platt. The last named failed to show up his courage not being equal to the dangerous task. The two martyrs who did act, after completing their work in fear and trembling, have since moped about Picton like so many haunted souls, dodging evil spirits. They are endeavoring to learn about some country fit to emigrate to. The fitness consists in its having no babies. The Picton show produced 20 babies; the Kingston show called for 48th popsy-wopsy duckems.

THE TEMPERANCE EXCURSION.—The Picton New Nation says on behalf of the Temperance party of that place which recently visited Kingston:—

"All expressed themselves pleased with the courteous attentions of the Captain and other officers of the boat, and the fraternal greetings of the Kingston brethren, the hope being expressed that they may next summer have the opportunity of returning the latter's civilities, and showing them that Prince Edward people are not behind others in hospitalities."

THAT YACHT.—The following telegram shows that the sail-boat which was seen on the lake by the steamer Corinthian and other vessels and was reported to be the Surprise, has drifted ashore and is still a mystery:

Duffin's Creek, Sept. 11.—A small yacht was found near Frenchman's Bay yesterday on its side. There was no name on it. Some clothing was found on board. The yacht had evidently been upset.

THE REGATTA.—To-day again Messrs. Geo. Offord and Jas. Wilson are procuring subscribers to the Regatta fund. They have undertaken a very thankless task, but one for which the public are indebted to them. This evening the leading local yachtsmen will meet and make arrangements for the coming races.

POCKET PICKED.—On Saturday afternoon one of the Kingston visitors to Toronto, Mr. Lewis Le Richeux, while looking at the base-ball match in the ground, had a silver watch worth $60 picked from his pocket. The thief was not found.

THE GUIBORD CASE.—To-day's telegrams report the neighborhood of the protestant cemetery so quiet that the guards placed on Guibord's remains are to be withdrawn. The Bishop of Montreal has issued pastoral, and condemned the ground about Guibord's intended grave.

RIBBONS.—The show at Alexr. Ross's and the prices also are recommended to all who desire to be well suited. The silks are selling off cheaply.

EARLY DEATHS.—The telegraph to-day reports the suicide of a boy aged 13 years at Brockville, and of another aged 12, by hanging in Indiana.

GOLD is on the rise—It closed at 116¾.

Kingston vs. Guelph.

THE B. B. MATCH IN TORONTO.

On Saturday the Kingston Base Ball Club met the Guelph Maple Leafs at Toronto, for a match, which if not for the championship, would have been considered, as important, so far as the result affected the standing of the respective Clubs. It is to be regretted, however, that by what was bad judgement, to say the least of it, on the part of the umpire, M. Moore, of London, dissatisfaction led to dispute, and the game was dropped when but little over half finished. We should not accept all the rumours that are afloat respecting the influences that was used in bringing about this regretable issue; but it is the opinion of one and all that the umpire if not prejudiced, was so manifestly unfair as to justify the course pursued by the Kingston players. From the beginning the Maple Leafs were favoured; indeed on the authority of disinterested gentlemen, well posted in base ball, and close critics of the play as it progressed it was up hill work for our team from the outstart, while the Guelph's had it pretty easy. They made their runs at the expense of the Kingston Club. The final difference of opinion arose in this way: Dinnen was making his second base. He saw that to succeed required an extra exertion, and just as the ball was received by the baseman, Dinnen jumped, struck the base with his feet, but fell backwards. The baseman was knocked out of his place, and Dinnen being the smarter of the two recovered himself first. The umpire was referred to. At first he pronounced in favour of Kingston, but subsequently, after an interview with a few of the Guelph men, Mr. Moore, contrary to rules, reversed his decision and gave Dinnen out. It must be remembered that the ball had in no way touched him in the tumble at the base. Had this been the only questionable point which had been raised but little unbrage would have been taken; but it is claimed that this was the fifth time in which Kingston had suffered, and, as a consequence, play ceased while the members of the respective clubs discussed the matter. Guelph, of course, had no reason to grumble, having got the benefit of the erroneous umpiring from the beginning; but the Kingston boys declined to proceed further unless the umpire were changed. This request being conceded Dinnen was willing to "give out," and thus end the dispute. The Guelph men refused to make the desired change, and as the only alternative the St. Lawrence team left the field. Mr. Moore, we understand, thereupon decided the match to be won by the Maple Leafs. This, however, is a matter of small consequence, for if the St. Lawrence Club choose they may appeal, stating their reasons for so doing, to the New York Clipper, which has the authority to give opinions as binding as they are decisive. And should an appeal be made the Kingston players would receive justice, which they appeared to have been cheated of in some way which it is rather difficult to explain. Only one error having been made in the six innings by the team representing this city is evidence of the fact that the play was as correct as it was vigorous on their part. The boys took the bat, and made a very encouraging beginning, one that portended success had the match been finished. The feeling of the crowd on the ground was largely in favour of Kingston, and when the game ended in dispute enthusiasm ran high, and the cheering indicated to our boys that they had the sympathy of the majority of the spectators. It must be said of the Guelph Club that they are not responsible for the unsatisfactory result of the match. If the umpire was biased he was acting independently of them or their influence; but having a reputation at stake they naturally felt intensely anxious, if possible, to win. It would have been much better had they consented to allow the game to be finished, by adopting another western man as umpire. One would think they had really nothing to fear. After all nothing has been gained by the contest. Irrespective of the umpire's decision the Guelphs cannot claim the game, and hence the Clubs must reply upon past laurels and await some other opportunity to meet on equal footing, when it is hoped there will be a better and happier ending to the match. Before closing we may remark that it looks unfriendly, if nothing more, to see Kingstonians, aye, and persons professing attachment for the Club, betting against the team not only here but in Toronto. The conduct of some of these persons created auspicion in the minds of many, and to them is attributed, whether rightly or wrongly we cannot say, the unappreciative ending of the game. The base ball match offered a fair field for speculation by betting, but too much, one-sided, and suspicion must follow.

The excursionists spent a comparatively nice time in the Queen City. They arrived there on time, 7:30 on Saturday morning, the night previous having been one of incident as well as weariness. Leaving here the berths on the steamer were all occupied, hence the excursionists, as sleep overcome them, resorted to tactics of a more or less ingenious nature to kill time, take rest and be refreshed. The time was duly killed; but we can say little for the rest and refreshment. There wasn't much of it aboard. A few closed their eyes in slumber, but the larger class being in tolerably good humour, engaged in such pastimes as kept them in excellent spirits throughout the trip. The return was not so pleasant. In the first place the "Norseman" was detained in her arrival at Toronto from Charlotte, and instead of leaving the former place at 9 o'clock p.m., for here, as intended, it was 1:30 a.m. Owing to the violence of the gale, the passage home and down the lake was exceedingly rough. Sea-sickness followed, and was a general thing all around; and as a consequence the feelings as well as the appearance of the party suggested discomfort. Better accommodation was procured on this steamer, the whole sleeping compartments being open to use. The officers of the boat did everything to make the sail as fair as they could; but, notwithstanding all their kindness and attention, the party were glad indeed when they landed here. They seemed worn-out and haggard, and rejoiced when they set foot on terra firma. We might narrate numerous anecdotes of the excursion, but space forbids. The landing here was made at 6:30 o'clock at Carruther's wharf.

While in Toronto the excursionists saw the grand lacrosse match for the championship of the Province, and the torch light procession in honour of the election of Hon. Mr. Crooks.

The score stood:

Maple Leafs	2	0	1	0	1	0	—4
St. Lawrence	2	1	0	0	0	0	—3

POLICE COURT.

"Take the book," said the P.M. to a sentimental looking chap who wanted to make complaint against a neighbor for hurting his feelings by an insulting speech. "The evidence you should give touching the matter in question should be truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth, so help you—"

The Sergt.-Major—Wait a bit. He objects to make the oath.

The P.M.—Confound—the what! and he adjusted his eye glass and cast a withering glance at the new customer.

John Sarchley, the man in question, straightened up and in a voice scarcely audible informed the P.M. that he had conscientious scruples against kissing the book.

The P.M.—Scruples be hanged. Respect this Court sir, or I'll make the room warm for you.

John—In the News I perceive that in a late case in England a witness declined kissing the book, his objections being based on an ancient but perfectly good statute.

The P.M.—And do you think this Court is going to be knocked endways by anything the News says? Not much; you'll do just as I say or I'm not myself at all. Raising that paw of yours won't do; kiss the book, sir.

Seeing that there was little possibility of departing from the custom of this judiciary John went through the ceremony in the good old way, and departed, whereupon the P.M. said some sarcastic things about the smartness of those Americans, in which the Chief and the Sergt.-Major signified their coincidence by alternate nods of the head.

Tim Lane and Grey fyled their appearance. They had been to Toronto on the base ball excursion. Tim looked pretty fresh and trim, and seemed if he could have stood another day's tossing about on the lake; but Grey was weary and wan and generally used up. Things had gone hard with him, and no one felt more miserable than he must have felt in the gale of yesterday. The narrative of their experience must have interested the boys.

Underneath the tall tower of the Tribune office in New York there is a little lager beer saloon. Of course there is no imitation, but lately a little drinking parlour has been fired beneath the dome of the City Buildings. It is under control of that truly good man, the Sergt.-Major, who distributes the stimulant to friendly and favoured persons. Why it has been so secretly conducted none need question—it is unlicensed and Tom Conley is one of the proprietors. As we latter entered the station he and the Sergt.-Major exchanged sentiments and winks, and one of the city officials intimated that he felt a kind of dry. "Are you," blandly replies the Sergt.-Major as he unlocked something like a book case, and produced a bottle containing something stronger than soda pop. It smelled queerly, however, and the dry man didn't taste any, whereupon the flask was returned to its place. Our reporter wasn't asked as much as if he "had a mouth upon him." Hence this breach of secrecy. Now let the Licensed Victuallers Association spout.

Preceded by the "anthem" commencing "If we can—if we can—if we couldn't," Sarah Farmer flounced to the front—as brassy as a sewing machine agent.

The P.M.—Vagrancy.

Sarah—No, thank you, none of that on my plate, if you please. I'm a prima donna—a vocalist, but I'm dead broke—I want an engagement. Do you want to hire me for the new band?

The P.M.—What say you, Wooton?

P. C. Wooton—No, no, she's not heavy enough for police service. She's pretty fair on ballad, but in Ontario's she's nowhere.

The P.M.—That settles it. You may be somebody Sarah, but something tells me—intuition's the word—that you are a downright fraud. You had better go west; there's enough music among the musicians now a days; if you stayed here there'd be a mutiny, sure. Skip away, miss.

Francis Lerean and Malcolm McMillan, drunk, were fined $2 each or 15 days. Both had the stamps and paid the fees demanded by the Court.

David Noble is too envious altogether. While loafing around Mrs. Davis' yesterday he took a fancy to coats and several other traps, and in a sly and thievish manner walked off with them. He was committed to show cause why he took them before Judge Burrowes.

Peter Toland and Mrs. Lowry had a set too yesterday and a lively time they had to themselves. The difficulty may be easily explained. Mrs. Lowry's geese were impounded by Toland, who had also imprisoned a flock owned by a third party. In releasing the last named, one of Mrs. Lowry's goslings was taken away—a kind of mistaken identity. Mrs. Lowry discovered her loss, and went to Toland to see about it, but Peter could give no explanation and Mrs. Lowry was bound to have one. Both are very wordy when warmed up, but Mrs. Lowry became so slanderous that Peter was obliged to stop her mouth with a summons. But for the skilful manner in which the case was handled, there was likley to be a collision in Court. Mrs. Lowry promised Peter peace in future, and on that condition the case was dismissed or rather withdrawn.

STEAM ROLLER.—Hamilton is boasting of a steam street roller which is expected to revolutionize the state of its streets. It can be run with about 40 lbs. of steam, and is declared to be a success. The Americans import their rollers from England, but Hamilton has built her own, under the superintendence of Mr. Francis Tutton, formerly superintendent of the Kingston Locomotive Works, and now manager of Mr. Killey's works. The whole machine weighs fourteen tons, and crushes at a stroke eight feet of street.

TOURNAMENT.—The St. Lawrence Club have a meeting to-night, at which they will decide whether or not they will enter for the Rome tournament, which will be held this week. A movement is also on foot to have a tournament here during the fair week. It should be quite an attraction.

PERSONAL.—The Hon. R. J. Cartwright arrived here on Saturday, and to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock will address his constituents at Napanee, on the public questions of the day. It is understood that the Hon. gentleman sails for England on Sept. 28th.

TO THE RESCUE.

DEAR WHIG:—There appears to be some mistake as to there being no distinct associations connected with the flags of the First Frontenac Militia. I beg to say that on more than one occasion men followed them to the front when our rights as British subjects were wont to be trampled upon. For instance, on that memorable occasion when the Prince of Wales didn't land in Kingston. I was one of thousands who marched under these flags to do battle for our rights; and on a more recent occasion, when Gen. Johnson of Ballykilbeg was here, there was bloodshed in the "storming" of an archway, which was demolished, and which, on being removed, was found to have killed one who is dear to every regiment—an apple vendor.

Yours, ONE OF THE BRAVES.

Sept. 13th.

A SAD FATE.—We have all read frequent lamentations from American humorists upon what they denominate the 'mother-in-law' nuisance, and, indeed, if we were to credit the scene protrayed by the Danbury Newsman, or the Detroit Free Press, it would seem as if the fact that mothers-in-law survived the wedding of their daughters was one of the crying evils of the age. The following incident, however, shows that the enmity to those female relations is not confined to the humourous press:

A man, 30 years of age a platelayer on the Settle and Carlisle Railway, in England, hung himself on a post in a public playground at Carlisle the other morning. Before doing so he wrote with a piece of chalk on a neighboring wall the following message: 'I take the pleasure of writing these few lines if it will be a warning to all young men, and never live with a mother-in-law. Now I end my miserable life.'

UNLUCKY SURE.—Prince Leiningen must be pronounced a most unlucky man. He was shortly to resign the command of the "Alberia" yacht to take the rank of Admiral, and although the sad mishap on the Solent has not been traced to his negligence, his name henceforth can hardly fail to be coupled with it. Nor is this the first naval accident with which he had been associated. He was on board the "Magician" in 1862 when she went ashore on the Pirens.

NAPANEE.—Napanee, Sept. 11.—Last night Mr. G. W. Ross, M.P., the leader of the Prohibitory movement in the House of Commons, addressed a mass meeting in the Methodist church here on Prohibition. Later in the evening he was entertained by the Mayor and a number of the leading men of the town to a complimentary supper.

A HINT.—When you go visiting your country relations at this season of the year, and drop in to see a farmer, remember to close the garden gate after you, or you will have a case of consequential damages to settle. No matter how good the pasture is, all beasts have a penchant for garden truck.
