CITY AND VICINITY

☞ GOLD in New York at 3 o'clock 116½.

ARRIVED.—The ss. "Phoenician" from Glasgow, via. Liverpool, passed Father Point at 6:10 a.m. to day.

SWIFTSURE.—S James calling, Corinthian from Montreal; Armenia from Hamilton; and Algerian from Hamilton.

THE trains passing to and from Ottawa are perfectly jammed with people, either going to or returning from the fair. The rush is mighty while it lasts.

DISBANDED.—Although the playing season is not yet closed, the Base Ball Club is virtually disbanded. A trio of the first nine have gone off for a ramble. The matches are closed until 1876.

MISTAKES.—'Tis hard to prevent a mistake sometimes, especially in type setting. And when it was said last night that the Philharmonic Club's Concert would take place on Friday evening it was a mistake; Tuesday was meant.

ACCIDENT.—A young man named Dodds, an apprentice in the Kingston Foundry, had his hand injured, by having it caught in a lathe at which he was employed. The accident necessitated the amputation of one finger.

THE PENITENTIARY.—An artist has been sketching the Penitentiary for the "Canadian Illustrated News," which this week prints several very fine views of outside and inside scenes of convict life. The cuts of the building are very truthful.

EXECUTIVE.—Mr. S. P. White has been elected an officer of the Executive Board of the Canada Baptist Missionary Society, which met in Convention at Montreal yesterday. The receipts for those missions during the past year have been $3,481.05, still leaving a deficit of $1.146.

ST. GEORGE'S HARMONICS.—The first weekly meeting will be held on Friday (to-morrow) evening, when an entertaining literary and musical programme will be presented. A pleasant time is anticipated—the first of a series of enjoyable evenings. New members will be received.

MATCH YESTERDAY.—The Junior Cricketers and the Grammar School boys played a cricket match yesterday afternoon. It was what players called a red hot game. The Juniors won easily. The Grammar School first scored 22; in the second innings 32. The other side made 46 in the first innings, and 42 in the second, with but four men out.

THE WOOD SUPPLY.—In response to advertisement four persons tendered for the wood supply for the City Buildings. The names of these and the amounts of their tenders were: Mr. Williams, $3.90 per cord; Messrs. R. C. Carter & Co., $3.49; Mr. James Campbell, $3.87½; Mr. James Tierney, $3.46. The last-named gentleman's contract being the lowest was accepted.

THE RUNAWAY.—Mary Jane Mackaleer, who was hurt by a runaway accident on King street west on Tuesday evening is not so ill as rumoured. Her injuries are remarkably light and her early recovery from the shock is expected. She was not run over as reported; but the wheel or some other hard substance gave her a very violent blow on the spine.

THE REPAIRS.—The men engaged in the repair of the City Buildings are pushing their work along vigorously. The Committee were certainly justified in recommending some of the repairs. They were very badly needed, as circumstances and appearances indicate the closer the investigations are made. One of the pillars or supports in the dome, taken out yesterday, was quite rotten.

PERISH THE THOUGHT!—The rumour is spreading that a young couple of the city were about eloping last evening—that the nice young man had got his would-be partner's trunk half out of the window when the old man came round the end of the house, thinking that some one had been making a raid upon his hen coop. Of course the young people then premeditated nothing rash. Perish the thought!

THE CANADIAN STYLE.—The Watertown Despatch adopts the Canadian Tory mode of reasoning anent the commercial situation:—"Wheat is down. Cheese is down. And still the Republican party claims that its management of the finances has been such as to entitle it to a renewed lease of power!" Though a joke, that is about as sensible as some of the complaints constantly being uttered by the Conservative press, headed by the Mail.

THE BELLEVILLE MARKET.—The grain buyers of the little "City on the Bay" are getting warmed up to business. The Intelligencer reports: "A speculative feeling and keen competition amongst buyers resulted in barley being run up to 90c yesterday, but very little was taken at that figure, and this morning 85c was paid for a few loads of No. 1, but this was an outside figure, the ruling rate being 80c for No. 1 bright, whilst for No. 2 stained not more than 75c was paid, buyers not caring to advance over 70c.

DISAPPOINTED.—Hamilton gets the Provincial Exhibition next year. Such was the decision of the Agricultural and Arts Board last evening, at which this was the principal item of business awaiting disposal. The first ballot settled the question, so far as Kingston was concerned, it standing so low and receiving such weak support that the delegation consented to allow it to drop out, and the competition was confined to Guelph and Hamilton, the latter winning by a large majority of votes. Thus Kingston has been again disappointed, but not owing, we feel assured, to inactivity on the part of the delegation pushing its claims.

FIRE THIS MORNING.

At 7:15 o'clock this morning the city bell struck an alarm of fire and instantly there was the usual rush and stampede, a number of hasty people galloping some distance before they really knew where they were going, not being acquainted with the new system of alarm. The fire was located in the large stone building at the foot of Brock street, in the apartment occupied by Messrs. Folger & Hanley as a shipping, freight and insurance office, and on the ground floor, and by Messrs. Moore & Richardson, grain buyers, up stairs. It was "nipped in the bud," if we may so speak, taken just in time to be prevented from spreading, and doing much damage. The origin of the fire is accounted for in this way: A number of Boys were lying against the stovepipe passing up through the floor in the chimney in the second story, they became ignited during the early part of the night, but rather smouldered and burned until this morning when the fire was communicated to the flooring and thence worked under it, and between it and the ceiling of the freight office. It was in an awkward place for an effectual attack by the firemen; but eventually they made an opening, and applied sufficient water to quench the "vital spark" and save the property from much damage. The fire brigade's promptness, and the handy supply of water (taken from the hydrant on Ontario street) were the means of suppressing what would otherwise have been a disastrous conflagration. The accident or misfortune will, of course, upset the occupants of the premises for a few days. Their business will suffer little by it, however. The damage is estimated at not more than $50 or $60.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.—Dr. Day, of Harrowsmith, left his home about 9 o'clock last evening to visit a patient, and when about a mile on the road his horse commenced to kick at the top of a steep hill. The horse kicked high, but the Doctor dodged back, and fortunately the horse's foot only grazed his right temple and ear; otherwise there would have been instant death. The Doctor then tried to get from the buggy, and in so doing was caught on the hind axle, between the wheel and box, and was carried some distance in this dangerous situation. He finally succeeded in freeing himself and dropped to the ground, when he found he had received a very severe contusion of the left thigh. Fortunately he was within a few rods of Mr. John Clow's, to whose house he made his way with a very painful effort. By the time Mr. Clow came to the door the Doctor was unable to walk, and had to be assisted into the house. Mr. Clow soon got his horse and buggy ready and drove the Doctor home. Although he is thought not to be dangerous, he will be for some time confined to his house. The horse was found a short distance from the scene of accident with one hind foot entirely separated from the ankle-joint, and only held by a small piece of integument. She was shot to end her misery.

THE BIGAMY TRIAL.—To-day the trial of R. I. Jordan, the famous bigamist, was to take place at Renfrew. A witness has been subpœnaed from here to give evidence in the case. A good story is told by a friend of ours in illustration of Jordan's cheek and deceitfulness. Happening to visit Renfrew just before R. I. "put up his last job," he met him in the reading room of the little eastern hotel, and bade him the time of day, calling him by his proper name. R. I. looked surprised, remarked that the Kingstonian must have made a mistake—that he was "Bud Garrick," of Toronto! The Kingstonian felt somewhat cheap it may be supposed; but rejoined quite deliberately that he thought he was right—that if he wasn't Jordan he was nobody. The hotel proprietor was shocked to learn that he was then a married man, knowing that R. I. was just then very sweet upon a lassie whom he subsequently made his wife. And by the way the Kingston police have not yet received the promised reward for his arrest. They have truly had a patient wait for it.

TWO ROBBERIES.—Two cases of robbery were reported at the Police Court this morning. One of them, the Cape Vincent case, in which a gentleman claims he was relieved of about $20 by one Alexander West, will receive preliminary investigation to-morrow. The other case is a queer one. David Craig, a not over intelligent person, charged McConnell, a hotel keeper, with snatching his pocket-book from him on Tuesday last, and when it was handed back the complainant states it was empty, and that McConnell took $11 which he holds it contained. The case is not just as clear as it might be; but the evidence given by Craig warranted the P.M. in sending the defendant up to a higher tribunal for trial. Bail was accepted.

NEWBURG.—The Reporter came along to day smiling. It tells us that the Stars of Newburg went to Harrowsmith last Friday to play the return match with the Harrowsmith Club. The five innings resulted: Stars 13, Harrowsmith 3. Bully little Stars! Three marriages in Newburgh last week. More shortly expected. Misery does company, we suppose. The Reporter man is excruciatingly appreciative: "Our gratitude is due a friend for some rich apples and a quantity of tomatoes."

APPOINTMENT.—Following the custom and practices of western places, the local grain merchants have appointed Mr. J. Johnston as Inspector of Grains. This will relieve the buyers of having to discriminate between qualities in receiving the grain from the farmers. The Inspector, who, it must be assumed, is a competent man, will place the brand upon each lot, his mark being accepted by the buyer and paid for accordingly.

CONFESION.—What a flurry people work themselves into at fires! Some are so unaccustomed to firemen's life that they labor under a heavy strain of excitement, and are really in the way when they undertake to do anything. Nothing but cool-headed people can make efficient members of a salvage corps.

YESTERDAY a game of base ball was played between two amateur clubs, the Young Americans and the Roses, resulting in a victory for the former by a score of 25 to 2.

POLICE COURT

There had been a little unpleasantness inside. Jim Wooten hadn't exactly done the square thing. He had of course made most of the fuss in the case. He had been the main bother in the seizure of property belonging to a man who wouldn't pay a fine, and the recompense had been paid to him without question or instruction, and it was quite natural that he should put the pense in his capacious pocket, made more for carrying rations than for money orders or postage stamps. He had 85c more than he wanted, and this sum he bequeathed to Carson. The Sergt.-Major had been present when Drum-Major Wooten was writing out the legal documents necessary in the case, and for this attention he expected a moiety, but he got nafy a cent. That nettled the Sergt.-Major; he went outside to "quaff the breezy air." It was while thus unemployed that the City Engineer and another scientific man—a physician—came along and entangled the Sergt.-Major in a discussion on architecture. Our reporter didn't hear all that was said; but he understood the officer to say that he had minutely examined the dome, and noticed that in order to rectify the rectangle, the triangle of the rectangle-triangle must be eased a shade on the apex of the portico, so as to make the proportions equal unto the given number. All of which was like so much Greek to the Doctor and the City Engineer, neither of whom had got so far in mathematical conundrums when they went to school. It takes a man like the Sergeant Major to take the starch out of those men who travel around with a string of big letters after their names. Both the above gents said the Sergeant-Major was right, and went their way unenlightened but unconcerned.

Again to-day the audience was light. The Court-room is too delightfully cool to be occupied. A pleasant time is in prospect, however; the Mayor has received wood tenders and accepted Tierney, who will toast the boys' shins this winter with his fiery maple

P. C. Stacey was quietly chatting with the market lessee about the next eclipse of the sun, when Lane called in stentorian voice "Soilence," and the P.M. took his seat with an air of serene contentment. The bill of fare was eight.

Zacharias Skyflier, usually called "Zache," rose, gave his pants an extra hitch, and was about coming nearer to the "mercy seat" when deterred by a grimace from the Sergeant-Major and a shake by the collar from Macaulay.

The P. M.—You and your daughter Susan had a spat last evening. How came that about?

Zache—Yes. Well, ye see, I was a sittin' with Matty, the wee one, on the dure step, and she sot on the dure step, and we sot on the dure-step thegither, if the truth must be towld.

The P.M.—No prevarication.

Zache—Divil the devarsion, yer honor. My arguments will be nothin' but surkumstances.

The P. M.—Proceed.

Zache—Yes sur. Well, it was at Matty's house. I was quietly sittin' on the dure, an' she kem an' sot on the dure too, an', as I towld ye, in the before-mentioned place we were sittin' thegither.

The P. M.—Get at the facts. What happened next?

Zache—Why, nothin' happened nixt. We was sittin' tregither on the dure—

The P.M.—Tut, tut, my eye! Make out your case.

Zache—Don't mix me. Understand me now. I was a sittin' in the dure—

The P.M.—Now let me hear no more about that "sittin'," or I'll settle heavy on you. What were you doing in Matilda's house? Tell me instantly.

Zache—That's just what I'm kummin at. You see there was Matty—

The P.M.—Splendid.

Zache—And Matty she was a sittin' in the dure—

The P.M.—Pshaw!

Zache—No; Shaw wasn't there; neither was Susan.

The P.M.—Do you mean to tell the Court that you didn't see the defendant at all?

Zache—Sartinly; but I hevn't got to that pint yit awhile. I'm takin' ye back to the beginnin; and as I was tellin' ye, we was a sittin' on the dure—

The P.M.—Sergt.-Major, take this man down stairs until he gets his senses. I'm not going to listen to such twaddle as he shoots off any longer.

And Zache was waltzed out as the peelers sang—

"Twas the leetle police band,
The leetle police band,
The people cry and say "Oh my!"
As we pass through the land.

Andrew West was accused of being too free with an American residing at Cape Vincent, from whom he is believed to have stolen $20. He will have a chance to rise and explain to-morrow.

John McConnell, who keeps a hotel, was also accused of undue freedom with other people's property. One Craig charged him with deliberately taking and keeping $10 belonging to complainant. Craig had been "smiling" when he lost the money. His statement of the case seemed a kind of loose when he laid the information, and to-day he gave a singular contradiction to some matters of detail connected with the alleged robbery. The complainant Craig seemed to be muddled; and the interference of a pair of lawyers served to mix him a little more. He insisted, however, that he had been robbed by the prisoner, by snatching his pocket book and extracting the $11, the weight of his wealth. This was enough to mistify the P. M. in committing McConnell for trial.

A man was fined $1 and costs ($4 26) for allowing his cow to run at large about the city without an attendant. He paid the penalty, and then escorted Peter Toland outside where they warmly, talked over personal matters, and each expressed the emphatic disgust their acquaintance had occasioned them. Mrs. Lowery was also to meet Peter in the sanctuary to-day, but the lady aforesaid not having called around Peter was quite satisfied that an adjournment should take place until to-morrow. Mrs. Lowery has a cow that takes a fiendish delight in bringing Peter and her owner closer together than they wish—in fact the cow persists in looking up Peter in order that he may impound her and make Mrs. Lowery shake herself. She always dabs at Peter as if he did his duty with malicious intent, and all who know the ancient poundman so long as we do know that he is the most innocent of citizens, excepting and only excepting the Sergt.-Major. He is as angelic in his disposition, and a man in his position or in that of Peter Toland's requires to be well filled with the milk of human kindness in order to stand public criticism and responsibility. But Mrs. Lowery and the world will not think so despite all we can say.

Garibaldi was the guest of the City Government of Civita Vecchia. The hotel keeper has presented a bill for 7,726 francs for a month's entertainment. Garibaldi must have lived sumptuously. For each dinner 100 francs charged, and for each supper 30 francs. The quantity of choice wine used was very large. The Municipal Council refuse to pay so large a bill, and it is said that the matter will go before the courts. The papers now say that Garibaldi is ill from over work.

AROUND HOME

—A Harvest Home was held in the new Methodist Church at McCrone's Corners last Friday. Notwithstanding the rain the edifice was filled. After dinner Mr. Britton, of the Reporter, was called to the chair. Speeches were delivered by Revs. J. Freshman, Stewart Peck and others.

—Mr. David Dowsley a few days ago shipped from Brockville a horse, buggy and harness as a present to his son, Mr. D. H. Dowsley, M.D., who has lately started practice in Clinton. Mr. Geo. C. Dowsley, M.D., has gone to Clinton, and intends locating in that section.

—A meeting of delegates from the several temperance organizations of Leeds County will assemble at Lansdowne station on Saturday evening, to celebrate the passing of the Dunkin By-law in the Townships of Yonge, Leeds, Escott, Elizabethtown, Lansdowne and village of Gananoque.—Recorder.

—A painter who has resided at Napanee for some time, "waltzed away all alone while the moonlight soineth," a night or two ago, leaving behind creditors who would like to see him about several little bills.

FREAKS OF A NEEDLE.—A few weeks since as the wife of a Mr. Thomas Anderson, of North Fredericksburg, was dressing she felt the prick of a sharp instrument in her arm above the elbow. The next day a sharp pain was felt which continued in intensity for five days, at the end of which time Dr. Ruttan was summoned. He found the arm swollen to double its ordinary size, and filled with a watery substance. He began cutting and probing, but failed thus to find the cause till an ordinary needle showed itself above the flesh. It was easily extracted, and now the arm is fast resuming its ordinary size.—Picton Times.

ROMANCE.—Fashionable circles in Toronto are excited over the reported elopement of a girl, yet in her teens, from a boarding school, with a clerk in one of the banks. It appears that the young man succeeded in carrying his treasure into the States, where they were married. Her parents, to make the best of a bad bargain, have made friends with him, and the runaway pair are expected back in the city in a day or two.

VANISHED.—A Quebec weekly sheet, called the Lance, in existence about four weeks, has come to a inglorious end. It had recently become obnoxious from the publication of low, vulgar personalities, and some individuals entered the place of publication at 3 a.m., and carried off the whole concern, type, presses and paper; the parties who did it are now unknown.

TIME IS MONEY.—Yesterday morning a Harrison avenue man who had started out to attend the funeral of a neighbour returned to the house and asked his wife where the whetstone was.

"Whetstone! What in mercy's name do you want of a whetstone at a funeral?" she exclaimed.

"Oh, I've been there before, and I know they'll fool around and fool around, and I might as well get a good edge—on my knife while they're waiting!"

AS GOOD AS ANY WAY.—A Detroit bachelor, not rich but industrious and respectable, entered the house of a widow on Baker street the other day and said:

"Mrs. Blank, I'll give you just three minutes to answer whether you'll be my wife or not?"

"I only want fifteen seconds—yes!" she answered, and they sat down and began to plan how many strawberries they would can this summer.

THE HORSE DISEASE.—Many—in fact nearly all—the horses in this city are affected by a distemper in some respects similar to the old epizootic. It is not so severe and seems to locate on the lungs instead of the throat. The same disease is reported from all parts of the State. There have been no fatal cases in the city; but it is said that some horses have died along the canal.—Oswego Palladium.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL and COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with Boiling Water or Milk.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, 48, Threadneedle street, and 170, Piccadilly, Works, Euston Road and Camden Town, London."
