CITY AND VICINITY

BELFORD BROS., Toronto, are the publishers of an interesting novel entitled "Norine's Revenge." It is written in attractive style.

INSPECTION.—Mr. R. W. Barker inspected several of the post offices in the county of Prince Edward this week. He found them in satisfactory condition.

ONTARIO PARLIAMENT.—The Parliament of Ontario has been called together for the despatch of business on Wednesday, the 24th day of November.

PERSONAL.—Mr. S. Cooper, the most popular man, travellers say, who does Uncle Sam's customs business, stepped over to day from Cape Vincent.

WOOD PILES are tempting things this weather. To keep them from disappearing too fast a good half dog should be tied to the end thereof.

BILL HEADS.—A fine stock of cheap bill heads, memorandum and note heads, as well as of Finie's finest, the latter a beautiful stock, may be seen at the BRITISH WHIG office. New styles of visiting cards.

PORTSMOUTH.—Already the fever heat of municipal election is on the people of this village, where the annual contests have a rare spice in them. Mr. W. R. Allen is announced as an opponent of Mr. Fisher, the present efficient Reeve.

REMOVAL.—Mr. Alfred Ayerst, the Secretary of the Kingston Masonic Relief Association, has resigned that office, in consequence of his contemplated removal to Newburg, to accept a position on the Newburg paper mills staff.

GONE HOME.—The Ottawa Free Press kindly informs us that Sergt. Bates has returned to his wife and family in the United States, resolved never to set out on a fool's message again. We are disappointed in not seeing him, but we rejoice that he is safe.

NEW MUSIC.—We are in receipt of a new song, published by S. Turner, Brockville, Ont., and entitled "Silver Grey." The words are very pretty, and so is the music. The piece promises to become very popular. It merits such distinction. Sent to any address for 10 cents.

POETIC.—The Rev. C. P. Mulvany (late a resident of Kingston, but now of Milford) is gaining distinction as a poet. His last production appears in the Kottabos, containing a collection of original poems published by Trinity College, Dublin. He is thinking of publishing a book of poems.

CAN BE ROPED IN.—The Bureau agents of Mr. Paul du Chaillu, the celebrated explorer, seek an engagement for him in Kingston on Tuesday, the 15th, of November, on his way to Montreal, where he appears on the 16th and 17th. Dr. Hayes, the Arctic explorer, would lecture in Kingston this month if engaged.

THE ENGINE WORKS.—One of the causes for the paucity of orders at the locomotive works is not a sequence of the dull times. The G.T.R. and G.W. Railways so very recently renewed their rolling stock, and have of late run so cautiously and free from accident, that no call exists for new cars. An ill wind may blow some good, but a good wind to the railroads blows ill towards industrial establishments.

BLIND TOM.—Again on Saturday evening the musical wonder had a good house and a charmed and enthusiastic audience. No performer ever succeeded half so well in pleasing his hearers. At the afternoon matinee he reproduced an exquisite piece played by Miss Dupuy immediately on hearing it and in the evening performed the same feat after Mr. Rocher's playing. Tom is 23 years old, did you guess right?

THE INVESTIGATION.—The departmental investigation held by Mr. J. G. Moylan, Inspector of Penitentiaries, relating to the escape of the two convicts recently, was brought to a close on Saturday evening. The matter is now in the hands of the Inspector, who will make his report to the Minister of Justice. It is very certain that Mr. McMahon will be reinstated, and Mr. Kennedy pensioned off, he being a very old man for active duty.

MARRIAGE.—The marriage question is such an absorbing topic of late in Toronto that on Sunday Rev. Mr. Mitchell made it the theme of his evening discourse, taking for his text "Marriage is honourable to all." He spoke favourably of it, remarking in the course of his sermon: "It is true—true physically as well in every other sense—that as the string is to the bow, so is a woman to a man; though she bend him yet she obeys him, useless, each without the other."

SHORTS.—The past two dull days remind one of Tom Hood's November. The epizootic has almost altogether disappeared.—Mr. Jimmy McEwen is once more to enter the blissful state. Mrs. English is to supply Nancy's place. They were "called" in St. Mary's yesterday.—The masons are proceeding rapidly with the work of reconstructing the north wall of the Tete de Pont Barracks.—The Rev. Mr. Johnson is in the city on another canvassing tour in connection with the endowment fund of Victoria College. Last time of calling.—By the kindness of an engineer the Palladium man was wheeled down to the Midland shops the other day, but whether in a barrow or a dog cart, our contemporary saith not.—Mr. Mahon, after making every preparation to appear in Brockville as an Italian Signor, vanished like a morning mist. The Recorder has its opinion of that Mahon.

Militia Orders

The money voted by the Dominion Parliament for the Militiamen of 1812-15 being nearly all appropriated, applications for pensions in the present year should be filed before the 15th November.

Communications in connection with the above are to be addressed by the applicant direct to the Minister of Militia and Defence.

Snider Enfield ball ammunition for extra practice will hereafter be sold to officers in command of corps at $17 per 1,000 rounds, providing the ammunition is received by the purchaser at the magazine and removed in boxes supplied at his expense.

An extra charge of $2 for 500 rounds will be made if Government boxes are issued with the ammunition.

ENTERTAINMENT.—On Saturday evening Old Sam's dining room held a very jolly company, composed of the officers and members of committee of the St. George's Society and a few friends, assembled by the invitation of a popular and hospitable pillar of that prosperous association. The old man spread several excellent courses, running the scale from the delicious bivaliculars, through the mazes of roasts and bakings, down to the dainties of dessert. Mr. S. H. Graffey occupied the chair, with Major Barrow, President, as croupier, and the Vice-Presidents, Messrs. Smythe and Nuttall, in support. A social round of toasts, song and sentiment gave an after spice to the dinner. The toasts of 'The Queen and Royal Family,' 'The Governor-General,' 'St. George and Merrie England' were honored with true Englishman's fervour. The health of the officers of the Society was proposed with a goodly measure of sincere compliment for the ability and energy exercised in bringing the Society to its present high state of organization and membership; Major Barrow responded. He then in fraternal spirit proposed 'The prosperity of our Sister Societies,' and Mr. John McIntyre, President of St. Andrew's Society, made a handsome acknowledgment of this fresh evidence of the cordial feeling of St. George's Society, adding congratulations on the rapid rise of the new body to a position of strength and great usefulness. Mr. Smythe proposed with an expression of the highest personal compliment the health of the host of the evening, a sentiment very warmly received and proudly acknowledged. A string of volunteer toasts was given, and responses were made by Dr. Evans for the Learned Professions, Messrs. Nuttall, Brand, Parsons and Scorah for the manufactures, Mr. Hitchins for the Powers that be, Major Barrow to a personal toast, Mr. Pense for the Press, and the venerable caterer for himself and family. An interesting episode was an appropriate presentation by the Hon. Leader of the Opposition to the officers, who with joy smoked them and there the pipe of peace. Songs were given by Messrs. Smythe, Nuttall and Graffey, and altogether a happy time was spent, just as happy as if the spread had not been a temperance one.

SABBATH TEMPERANCE MEETING.—It is encouraging to those who are working in the cause of temperance to see such an increasing interest taken in this meeting, and there is every prospect of good being done. The address of Mr. Clifford was in many points very good, but better adapted for a week evening meeting, when time could be more fully given to illustrate it. He referred to the severe punishment inflicted upon those who were guilty of the sin of drunkenness in the time of Moses, especially young men who would not obey their parents. They were stoned to death. He was thinking Kingston could supply a good many young men to be punished—enough to keep the authorities busy for some time. He showed that if not punished by men, God in various ways punishes them, which we see in the crimes that prevail in society, the homicides that are committed. Young men who are a terror to their parents through their dissipated habits are filling our prisons and ending their days, many of them, on the scaffold. There were several in the United States and the Dominion now under sentence of death—one for killing his father, another his mother because she would not give him money, and another killed the young lady who refused his addresses on account of his dissipated habits. She was a martyr to temperance, and it would be well for the country if every young lady would risk a martyrdom. The remarks of the speaker were listened to with marked attention, and if the ideas propounded by him and so ably explained and illustrated by evidence from the Word of God and the current reports of the press as to the direful effects of the use of intoxicating drinks, are only followed up by the friends of the cause and the youth of the country, it will need no great stretch of the imagination to predict the near approach, if not the final consummation, of the passage of a Bill in the Dominion Parliament for the prohibition of the liquor traffic.

THE POLICE BEATS.—Col. Hance, the Chief, has in operation a plan ensuring the activity and vigilance of his policemen. The police at night have regular beats, the greater part of them on the streets requiring surveillance the most, with stated hours for reaching certain points. They can be intercepted at some point or other every few minutes by the chief or sergeants, and have been constantly put to the test with a creditable record of their steadiness on duty. Two men are left in the station for steamboat and other calls. The patrol men have two hours on and two hours of rest from their rounds, which last from 8 p.m. till daylight. Every policeman gives 27 hours out of 43 to duty, and even this hard work does not supply the city's wants. Double the number of men are required for night duty, and the Police Commissioners would appoint them but for the inevitable howl of indignation from an economical and we'll-trust-in-Providence Council.

CRUELTY TO ANIMALS.—Butcher boys who keep their horses going at a 2:40 rate all day long, carters who overload, and cabmen who abuse their patient beasts, farmers and butchers who leave calves and sheep tied up by the legs for hours on the market, and other unfeeling people will be concerned to learn that a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals is shortly to be established in Kingston. Mr. W. J. Bird of Toronto, who takes a great interest in the humane work aimed at by these societies, is to visit here for the purpose of organizing the society and opening the crusade work. He has solicited the assistance of Dr. Yates and Mr. G. A. Kirkpatrick, and as soon as the arrangements for a public meeting are made we will announce them.

If a cat mew till late, has a man a right to mutilate that cat?—Free Press. Most certainly. A cat has no feline.—Herald. We see no purr pose in doing that.—Ingersoll Chronicle.

We do. We always like cat-astrophes.

POLICE COURT.

Terrence Jigget jigged about on his seat as restless as if there was tacks on the chair which jagged him. His physiognomy was a study for an artist. One cheek was nice and smooth; on the other side the bristles of his whiskers—two weeks' growth—resembled a scrubbing brush. Just why he should appear in this shape some may wonder, but the explanation is brief. On waking up this morning he came to the conclusion that a clean shave would make him more respectable to interview the P. M.—he hadn't time to clean up for several days; his appetite for liquid refreshments needed so much attention—and with the best intentions he sat down and commenced lather and shave. He had only cleaned one cheek when the P. M.'s bell summoned the prisoners to the upper sanctuary. The hurry being such Terry was hoisted up stairs before he had time to wipe the soap from his jaw. He gave his face a hasty rub on his coat sleeve as he passed along the corridor, but the bristled side retained some of the mixture. He carried the razor in one hand and a paper of buns and old clothes in the other. He has evidently been accustomed to camping out. The fact of the matter is his wife "am de boss ob de house," and when Terrence indulges in a bender, she provides him with traveling utensils and shows him out. Yesterday was his tenth day out. The personal appearances of the defendant, it may be presumed, were not very attractive. They were against him, and Terrence knew it, as he repeatedly rubbed him down, and arranged himself to look his prettiest.

The P.M.—Any excuse?

Terrence raised his hands and gave them a wave which spoke more eloquently than words. He had no excuse. It was a square drunk and he expected to pay for it like any other man.

The P.M.—$2.

And Terrance was escorted down stairs and plied the razor to the other cheek while he sent to Sarah for a little change and some fresh beef and biscuits.

Mick Flanders, who had dropped into a gentle dose while Terrence was running through the machine, snorted out something about the milk can, and kicked over the scuttle when Hoyle gave him a punch in the ribs to wake him up, the P.M. having called his case.

"Thry that no more if ye plase," he snapped, as he rubbed his eyes with one hand and held the other on his side and grumbled as sorrowfully as if he had been stabbed by a bayonet.

The P.M. thought he was referred to, and he looked up to take stock of the man who spoke in such a tone of authority. Then he spoke—The next time I'll not be so easy, let me tell you.

Mick—Bad cess to yees, de ye want to ind me; can't ye spake widout pounding a man wid thim sticks!

The P.M.—Your dreaming. But why did you assault John Walton?

Mick—He desarved all he got.

The P.M.—That's not law. If he offended you you should handle him with it.

Mick—It's not as handy as me fists, and ye see I couldn't handle him wid it whin I hadn't it wid me.

The P.M.—Did he ill-treat you.

Mick—He said I owed him two and six. I said I didn't. He said I was a liar, and thin I knocked him down. Not a haporth more tuk place.

The P.M.—That's plenty. You virtually convict yourself. $5.

It's not very clear to our perception what place in this busy world Isaac Hampstead was intended to fill. It was never intended that he should be everlastingly in gaol. He is certainly

"Not a man of dollars,
Not a man of deeds,
Not a man of cunning,
Not a man of creeds,"

but a man who is excessively fond of toddy and toadyism, the pursuit of which while out of the gloomy cells is the one great ambition of his useless life. He has returned to his old quarters for 30 days.

Henry Dickens is appointed another delegate to the Central Prison. Kings on is doing bravely. The vagrant population is not so numerous now as formerly. People can pass around the corners without stepping on them now. Those that are floating around fire up bar room stoves during their leisure between drinks.

The P.M.—How long have you been in the city?

Henry—A week.

The P.M.—It don't take long to get into the hang of your business, but the principle is the same, and its simplicity is greatly in its favour. Perhaps some one may miss you.

Henry—My wife—my dear Mary!

The P.M.—For the land's sake! She's to be pitied. But as I was remarking, some one may miss you, but it seems you're elected as the next delegate to Toronto. Your commission may not be personally profitable, but your absence will be of great service to the community. Luck be with you!

And Henry fell back exhausted or overcome with emotion. Honor had been heaped upon him often before, but not like this. There was a marked difference between 15 days and 6 months. He folded his arms and bowed his head meditatively, while the choir, led by the Sergt.-Major with his baton, sang in most affecting, melting strains:

"I'm bidding you a long farewell,
My Mary, kind and true;
But I'll not forget you, darling,
In the land I'm going to.
They say there's bread and work for all,
And there's stone piles always there;
But I'll not forget old Kingston,
Were it fifty times as fair."

UNFAIR.—Some busy bodies in Belleville or want attending to. For what reason it does not seem clear, but on several occasions during the past few months they have attempted to prejudice concert and variety managers against Kingston, by representing it, in answer to enquiries as a dull, unsympathetic, unappreciative place. We do not know the parties, but whoever they are they speak wide of the truth when they make such statements, unwarranted by facts. Anything of a meritorious nature will always be liberally supported; and the less encouragements, given the rubbishy organizations of the day so much the better for the public tastes. The manager of Blind Tom's piano recitals was informed in Belleville that he might expect poor success in Kingston. The large audiences at the evening performances and the matinee effectually disposed of the prediction. It is unfair for one place to run down another, and especially so without reason.

CAUGHT.—The thief who escaped lately from the Belleville gaol has been recaptured. The Intelligencer man feels easier. Now if some one would only relieve the prison officers by re-taking the convicts Smith and Butler!

A RAILWAY MAGNATE FALLEN

$12,500,000 FAILURE.

In our European telegraphic news of Saturday it is stated that Dr. Strousberg of Germany, has suspended payment, for twenty-five million guilders, $12,500,000. Our readers will doubtless ask "Who is Dr. Strousberg?" We answer he is the Sir Samuel Morton Peto of Germany and Russia,—the great King of Railway contractors on the continent of Europe. Some thirty years as Strousberg, a Jewish boy, came from Prussian Poland to Berlin; poor and friendless (the writer has this from his lips) to seek his fortune. He entered a money-broker's office in the capital as an errand boy, and subsequently rose by good conduct to be a clerk in the concern. He left that employment, and went as a time keeper on railway works. Being ambitious, he soon became a sub-conductor and then a conductor. His course was then upward and onward, until he had contracts all though Germany—north and south—and in Russia.

Having realised enormously, and being very rich, he purchased large estates in Austria and Prussia, with fine old baronial residences upon them. He made Berlin his head quarters, where his house in Wilhelmstrasse, close to Prince Bismarck's, was one of the most magnificent in the city. It was furnished in regal style, and his gallery of pictures alone were valued at over £150,000. About three years ago he formed a company for making a Grand Trunk railway through from Austria to Bucharest, the capital of Roumania, and not only invested largely in it but accepted the contract for the works. From that his trouble's begun. The German people—high and low, rich and poor, having the greatest confidence in the man invested their money in the project, thinking, from the specious promise put forth and past success at Strousberg, they were investing in an El Dorado. The were soon undeceived, however, as the country through which the rail was made was for hundreds of miles almost a desert, and the speculation turned out most disastrously. Strousberg, for full two years, has been realizing on his property to keep him going, but for all that it was considered that he must at length succumb. He was a most enterprising, bold and daring to a degree. He erected a cattle market with abattoirs, at Berlin, covering some 150 acres of land, the finest in the world. In two years after he finished the works, he sold out to the city corporation at a profit of $896,000.

When his financial troubles were accumulated he sold his house and its contents in Berlin, to Prince Puthus, for £350,000, and went to London to reside, as it was said at the time, to escape the importunity of his German creditors. It would appear that at last he has come to grief, and in his fall he will bring high heaven in Germany down with him. He is still a young man about 45 years of age, and possessed of great energy of character, and is sure to rise again to the surface. The title of Doctor is an honorary one conferred upon him by one of the German Universities for an act of munificence to its library.

THE UNITED ORDER OF GOOD TEMPLARS.—Under the above designation the Bethel Lodge of Good Templars in this city held its last meeting as a British North American Lodge, and its first meeting as a United Order Lodge, in its lodge room, Bethel Hall, on Thursday evening last. There was a large attendance, and the officers elect for the ensuing term were duly installed by Deputy Grand Worthy President E. Rose, who efficiently performed the duties of his office. The members of the Lodge were entertained by a very appropriate address from the new President, and by a song by Bro. Galloway, accompanied on the piano forte by Sis. Milo, after which the meeting closed and the Lodge started out on its career under the new regime. The following is the list of officers:—

Bro. C. J. Mitchell, President.
Sis. E. Macdonald, Vice President.
Bro. A. W. Clifford, Secretary.
" G. F. Wilson, Treasurer.
" Jas. Galloway, Lecturer.
" W. Coward, Councillor.
" Edwin Rose, Chaplain.
" T. D. Minnis, Financier.
Sis. J. Milo, Asst. Sec.
Bro. S. Gray, jr., Marshall.
Sis. E. Wilmot, Deputy Marshall.
Bro. W. Crawford, Guard.
" G. C. Kemp, Sentinel.
" S. H. Graffey, Past President.

With such a strong staff of most efficient officers there is hope of great success attending the future career of this Lodge. The usual sick, finance and other committees were appointed.

Y.M.C.A.—The meeting of the Y. M. C. Association in the Sons of Temperance Hall last night, was largely attended every seat being occupied. The chair was occupied by Mr. C. Tossell who delivered an impressive address on the parable of the "Lost sheep." The singing of gospel hymns formed a good part of the evening exercises. Mr. W. D. Hendry was called upon and made a few well chosen remarks on the influence of the christian in his daily life, exhorting those who professed christianity to see to it that their actions accord with their profession so that each individual's life would be a sermon to the ungodly. Mr. Hendry closed his remarks with an earnest appeal to the unconverted present, to accept Christ at once snowing the danger of delay, and the blessedness of life with Christ. A request for prayer was sent in by a young man after which Mr. Brokenshire led in prayer. The Secretary announced that special sermons to young men would be preached from the several pulpits next Sunday and a special collection would be taken up, at the regular meeting in the above place for the Y. M. C. A. International work. The meeting was closed with the benediction.

DROWNED.—While three boys were sliding on the ice near Schofield's Hill, Brockville, the ice gave away and two were drowned. The third, named Purdy, was taken out insensible and may recover. One of the bodies cannot be found. The name is unknown. The other boy's name is Harrison.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL and COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and a properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with Boiling Water or Milk—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & Co., Homœopathic Chemists, 48, Threadneedle street, and 170, Piccadilly, Works, Euston Road and Camden Town, London."

Some of the Testimonials

From Dr Duncan McCallum, Montreal:

I, the undersigned, have been suffering very much for the last two years from Rheumatism in the ankle joint, so much so that I was often prevented from attending to my calling, but three applications of Dr Birnbaum's Rheumatism and Gout Remedy gave me that relief from pain and stiffness which I did not experience for the last two years, and after eight days' use of this remedy I find myself entirely cured.

I owe this statement to the public, to the profession and to the merits of the genuine article. DUNCAN McCALLUM, M.D.

From Dr Munro, Prof Victoria University, Montreal:

From the trials I made in my practice with Dr Birnbaum's Rheumatism and Gout Remedy and from what I know about its composition, am convinced that its use will be highly beneficial for all the different purposes for which it is designed, even in such cases where internal medical treatment is required. It is well worthy the confidence of the profession, and I can strongly recommend it to the public, it being prompt, active and efficacious in exterminating pains and swellings.

P. MUNRO, Prof of Surgery and Clinical Surgery at the Hotel Dieu Hospital.
