CITY AND VICINITY

SOME Lully "Sun" skits on first page.

Mr. Nicholas F. Davin

HIDEOUS.—Great heavens! the fiends are already at work arranging a base ball tournament for next summer. This is no base bawl.

Will deliver his

DIED.—In Picton this week, Mrs. Mary A Skuse, aged 73 years. At her time of life she could without much regret or diffidence beg to be ex-Skused.

Celebrated Oration

FOREARMED.—The Toronto Tribune is rushing the season. It is a present reminder of coming joys in that it has already launched out on its Christmas story.

On O'Connell

THESE anti-tobacconists are not only taking to lecturing folks, but actually propose to impose a license on all smokers. They will get no more puffs in this quarter.

In the City Hall

THE CHURCHES.—The Ven. Archdeacon Parnell, of Kingston, will preach in St. Mary Magdalene Church, Napanee, both morning and evening next Sunday, and in the Selby Church in the afternoon.

On Friday Evening, 26th inst.

INSTALLATION.—This evening at the Masonic Hall, the annual meeting for the installation of officers in Ancient Frontenac Chapter will be held, and following it will come the customary supper of the companions and their guests.

Tickets 25 Cents. May

THE TOBACCO LECTURE.—The address of Dr. McCammon on Tobacco has ended in smoke, as all such lectures do end, but through a misrepresentation of what he said being unintentionally given in our admiring contemporary he has received one puff too many. He will explain this matter in a letter this evening in print.

Be had at the Bookstores.

LET HER SLIDE, NEVER!—What about the skating rink this winter? It is hoped that the young citizens and citizenesses will not let this healthy exercise pass without a movement to reopen the public open air rink. This Kingston of ours ought not to have to depend on early ice in the gutters for its skatorial indulgences.

Secure them early.

BALLOT BOXES.—The question arose as to whether the ballot boxes lately used here for legislative elections would be available for service in the municipal elections close at hand. The Attorney General was appealed to by the Clerk of Pittsburg, Mr. Belwa, and he permits the use of the boxes, provided it does not interfere with Provincial or Dominion election requirements.

MR DAVIN'S LECTURE AN ERROR.—In the paragraph in the WHIG of last evening regarding Mr. Davin's lecture on O'Connell, a sentence inadvertently became "mixed" in setting, which should have read as follows: "It was received with intense enthusiasm at Ottawa, and is described as brilliant from a literary standpoint, politically moderate, whilst the manner of delivery, which is an all-important point, is represented as captivating."

FIRST OF THE SEASON.—The Elocution Association of Queen's College will make its public bow to-morrow (Friday) evening at St. Andrew's Hall for the first time this season. Last year it entertained a great many people; this year it has in its ranks gentlemen as fully capable of amusing and instructing as those of last year. Besides a number of old stagers there are new comers on the stage, and to-morrow evening one or two of them will appear. A capital programme is out.

GAGE'S NEW OPENING.—Mr. Gage has not only taken people by surprise with his elegant new shop front; he is opening their eyes to hundreds of elegancies inside those new cases. His new stock of watches, jewellery, and bronzed ornaments are very fine, and what is wanted there style can be supplied by order, since he has added the manufacture of jewellry to his business, securing such facilities as will enable him to execute the best work most promptly.

NEAR AT HAND.—Time slips by with astonishing rapidity. In twelve days St. Andrew's Day will be here; after that the holidays soon make their appearance, and that opens the year 1876. Everybody knows how rapidly the months go after the corner of the new year is turned. So the Centennial Show and Dominion Day are near at hand, and then comes Fair time, and then Thanksgiving. "Why, it don't seem longer ago than yesterday!"

THE MEETING.—This evening the public meeting will be held in the Council Chamber, at which it is proposed to form a society for the prevention of cruelty to animals, the preliminaries being made comparatively easy by the presence and aid of Mr. Bird, of Toronto, a gentleman who takes a deep interest in anything respectful of the feelings of the dumb creation, and especially of the more serviceable of our animals. We hope the meeting will be a success.

FOR BRITISH COLUMBIA.—Yesterday Mr. George Wilson, builder, left here for Victoria, British Columbia, where, we understand, he has a fair field and good prospect of success open to him. His departure reminds us of the number of Kingstonians who have within late years taken up their abode in that new and far distant country, and the general prosperity of such enterprising persons. It is a long journey from here to there at this season of the year.

THE CHATHAM ENGINE.

When the city purchased the Merryweather steam engine some considerable correspondence passed between the manufacturers of the Chatham engine and the City Council, and the opinion was expressed that home manufactures should be fostered and supported, all other things be equal. Now that the question of a second purchase is mooted, Mr. Ronald, of the Chatham Engine Works, again puts forth his claim for patronage, not on the grounds of Canadian production alone, for he contends that during the past two or three years the Chatham steam engines have proven themselves to be the best on the continent; in competition with English or American makers they have come out victorious on all public occasions." The Council here now seem disposed to give the Chatham engine a preference, if as good can be manufactured from that quarter as from elsewhere, which Mr. Ronald says he guarantees to do on approved sale." The manufacturer also claims superiority of finish and material used in its construction as well as stability and durability in active service. The following extracts from western exchanges, refer to recent tests, in which the Chatham came out successful.

"The town of Oshawa has last week been greatly excited over steam fire engine trials between the Silsby and the Chatham engines. The Chatham engine was the most powerful and did by far the most work, ran perfectly cool, giving great satisfaction to the people. Rousing cheers were given at the stopping of this engine, and a torchlight procession for the success of this Canadian enterprise. In accordance with the report of the judges, the Council bought it and it is now the property of the town. The Silsby engine was moved away."—Mail Oct. 9th, 1875.

"On Tuesday and Wednesday of last week, according to previous arrangement, a trial of steam fire engines, to enable our townspeople to decide what would best suit their wants, came off on Broadway and First streets. Two engines came forward, one a "Silsby," manufactured on the rotary principle, the second built on the piston principle by Hyslop & Ronald, of Chatham, Ont. Both engines were required to play through 1,000 feet of hose for two hours. This proved rather too much for the American engine, as after an hour and a half working, owing to heating, work was stopped, we suppose for the purpose of cooling off the heated machinery. The other engine accomplished the test with less steam, and throw a stream of water some 20 to 30 feet farther than the Silsby. The next test was as to what height water could be thrown by the respective engines. And in this trial the Canadian engine proved victorious even more decisively than in the former competition. Both engines were set to work to play on the Wesleyan Methodist Church spire, the Chatham engine far outstripping its American competitor, both as to the height and steadiness of the stream thrown. The Chatham engine was afterwards shipped from here to Owen Sound, where it has since been sold for $4,200 to the Corporation there. The Mayor and Reeve of Owen Sound witnessed the engine competition here, and their decision may be judged from the purchase since made. There is not the least doubt as to the merits of the two engines, and it only remains for the townspeople to decide whether they will purchase one or not. We need not urge the necessity of having an engine and an efficient fire organization; fire is a "good servant but a bad master," the truth of which time-worn adage recent fires have only too plainly demonstrated."—Orangeville Sun, July 7.

It may be added that wherever the Chatham engines are in use they are well liked, and give satisfaction.—[ADV.

APPROPRIATE.—The St. Catharines Times, in a very pious proof to many Canadian clergymen on their removal from Canada to the United States, under the temptation of better pay and positions, admits the main evil, that it is quite evident that the "Yankees see us and go one better." A hardened sinner at our elbow says that it is a gambling expression, and therefore we are horrified to see the danger threatening the morals of the Press when the editor of the Times a local preacher and deacon, can so beautifully and pointedly dovetail religion and Satan.

MR DAVIN ON O'CONNELL.—Friday evening of next week has been selected by Mr. Davin for the delivery of his address on O'Connell. The tickets will be a uniform price—twenty-five cents. The public of Kingston know by a late experience that Mr. Davin is well worthy of being heard. The humorous side of the great Irishman's career will be touched upon as fully as time will permit. The oration is pronounced a masterpiece of eloquence, moderate in sentiment, and a fitting tribute to the distinguished abilities of one of Ireland's greatest sons.

INQUIRING MIND.—"The Kingston Whig with pure malice, calls attention to the fact that last Thursday was the anniversary of the battle of Chrysler's Farm. Speaking of battles, when was Ridgeway fought?" The Palladium man is actually guilty of this innocence and gush. But his mind is hankering after enquiry, and as Ridgeway is the cause of wrory, he is kindly referred to the Oswego veterans of that famous skirmish, and second Bull's run. We are satisfied the Palladium didn't run or he couldn't be so 'tarnal innocent.

FANCY DISH.—Pembroke people must have quicker stomachs to be tickled with "flop-doodle," a dish of which the Standard says the Observer served up last week, and it was the most interesting food that it has been the good fortune of many to taste for some time past. We have heard a deal about this flop-doodle, but we don't hanker for any, thank you. We stick to our haggis and tay and toast.

ACKNOWLEDGMENT.—Mrs. Machar thankfully acknowledges, on behalf of the Poor Relief Association, the sum of $37.75, being the amount of the collection taken up at the United Presbyterian service and Thanksgiving Day, for the benefit of the poor of the city.

IN ENGLAND.—Mr. J. B. Carruthers and Miss Carruthers, of Kingston, are registered in the Globe's list of Canadians at present visiting England.

BALL.—Something like old times was revived last evening by the holding of an officers' ball in the Fete du Pont Barracks. It was a fancy dress, and a most successful affair.

POLICE COURT

Harriet Sinclair is one of those kind of girls we read about in the half dime novels which we find scattered so plentifully about town. She cut it as heavy, too, as if she had been attending the office a'bal, and despite the serious nature of her office and situation, she insisted against cracking her heels against the partition wall, and upon giving the nabobs who daily assemble at the station a sample of her waltzing. It was good—of the kind. She swung around as gracefully as a hollyhock when the gentle zephyrs are floating promiscuously about, and stuffed her feet over the floor as if measuring distances, and calculating the number of planks she could cover at each step and whirl. She finished up with a combination of the highland fling and Mulligan lancers, whereupon she bowed benignly and asked the Sergeant-Major "How is that for high?" fetching her foot down with an emphasis that hastened the officer's decision, and brought a smile and a compliment out which even the dancers of the Black Fiend and all the little imps might be proud. Then she expressed a desire to retire, and was shown down into the spare room by Sergt. Macaulay, and the last seen of her she was pulling a cigarette and calmly perusing the hand bill announcing Charley Comiter's lecture on "Women's Rights." It is understood that her sentiments were in perfect accord with those of the learned lecturer. We surely can counter in on the discourse. She only came to the station for lodgings and this morning she took a walk uptown. We expect her around again. There is a vacant chair in the gaol which it is thought probably she will accept.

Edward Laundry's wife presented him with a bouncing baby boy, and he felt so tickled with the prospect of solid comfort during the winter nights that he went around the corner to jubilate. He came around late, and stole softly into the house but didn't stay long. The music of the new member of the household prompted him to go and jubilate some more, leaving the house in the possession of a bench of neighboring women, who seemed perfectly content to sit around and blow so long as the groceries hung out well. He paid the $2 like a brick, and asked if the boys wouldn't take a nip on the head of the thing, but the P.M., on behalf of the company, assured him that they hadn't time—much obliged all the same.

Tom Green and Richard Farrel bet on the horse races, which came off yesterday between Billy Wilson's "Tom Thumb" and Conroy's "Lady Emma." Some one who professed to be in "the ring" gave them a hint as to which way to go and be sure to win. Both staked $5 a piece on the result, but they were so confused by something—probably by the excitement—that they didn't exactly understand which was which, and as luck or fate would have it they both bet the one way. They made the same mistake regarding the horses, and when "Tom Thumb" came scouring around of the track on the winning heat both made application for the stakes simultaneously. Both could not have the money, though. Green plainly intimated that unless he got the $10 he would be cheated, while Farrel declared he should have all or nothing and would take the $10 out of some chap's hide. As Green thought this remark applied to him he was impulsive enough to knock his partner down, and it was at this juncture that Stacey and Hinde captured the combatants and conveyed them to the cells, the men holding the $10 taking passage for Napanee Fined $5 respectively. Thus they lose $10 each by the day's outings and amusement, the motto of the pair as they produced the spondulicks being,

Look at this and think of me,
Think of one that thinks of thee.

If tobacco consumption be a sin, for which the users will be called to account at the final day, as a lecturer recently put it, then Seamus O'Brien, who squirts the juice around like a small pocket syringe, will have a reckoning to make which will trouble his generally easy going mind. He is a professional cheaper, and has a reputation for being a good judge of "Susan's mixture," cloves and sich. $2.

Henry Harris wore a military cap and leather collar. He says he once belonged to the Home Guards, but now he's attached to the scouts and advance skirmishers. His movements are watched as closely as those of the squirrels when they are preparing for winter. When Starns is seen "heading low" the police raise the steam signal, and lay low for squalls. He is nicely provided for 60 days. He is very useful around a soup kitchen—any place where there's plenty to eat, and where his appetite won't be measured and governed by the economical nurse or lady manager of any hashery.

Silbert Colbert, a fantastic fancy baker and cook, was engaged to cast the little pesky doughnuts, and stuff the geese for the usual Christmas feed at the County gaol. As there are a good many mouths as well as geese to stuff, Silbert's engagement will occupy some time. He will stay up now for 60 days, when the hash season will have set in.

With this the Court adjourned, and the members of the police force were requested to try on a new overcoat which will be only worn on special occasions, and is calculated to fit any size and style of a man. It is made good and long so that the smallest or the biggest man can take a turn out of it with equal ease and comfort. It will be duplicated when the times improve.

WEATHER PREDICTIONS.—Which of the following predictions are likely to be true:—One says—This autumn is to be the finest that we have had in many years, with no freeze-up of any consequence until the 20th of December, and then nothing to make glad the heart of the ice dealer. A fine Indian summer in January, with only a few cold days. More rain than snow during the winter and little or no sleighing. A few cold days in February, just for a change, with a dry, cloudy and warm March. Variable in April, to be followed by a dry May. Whilst the following is the opinion of an old country gentleman, who correctly predicted the severe season last winter:—"From Dec. 1st, through the entire winter, it will be cold, cold, cold, cold, and, worse than that, there will be no spring, (very much like last year), and you will find your fires comfortable till the 1st of June.

EPPS'S COCOA.—GRATEFUL and COMFORTING.—"By a thorough knowledge of the natural laws which govern the operations of digestion and nutrition, and by a careful application of the fine properties of well-selected Cocoa, Mr. Epps has provided our breakfast tables with a delicately flavoured beverage which may save us many heavy doctors' bills. It is by the judicious use of such articles of diet that a constitution may be gradually built up until strong enough to resist every tendency to disease. Hundreds of subtle maladies are floating around us ready to attack wherever there is a weak point. We may escape many a fatal shaft by keeping ourselves well fortified with pure blood and properly nourished frame."—Civil Service Gazette. Made simply with Boiling Water or Milk.—Sold only in packets labelled—"JAMES EPPS & CO. Homœopathic Chemists, 48, Threadneedle Street, and 17, Piccadilly, Works, Euston Road and Camden Town, London."
