OVER THE TEA CUPS.

Mrs. A. W. Cooke, and her daughters were "At Home" on Wednesday afternoon, and again on Thursday afternoon and evening, when the guilds of St. Luke's church, Williamsville, and of Christ church, Cataraqui, and a large number of friends from the city called to offer congratulations and to admire the array of beautiful wedding gifts which filled four sides of one of the rooms upstairs. Mrs. Cooke received, and Misses Constance and Mildred Cooke, in their pretty bridemaids' gowns, flitted about from drawing-room to tea-room, welcoming guests and doing all that falls to the part of assistant hostesses. The tea table was centred by a lamp with crimson shade, that being the only touch of color, for the flowers were all white carnations, as they were on the bride's table at the wedding breakfast. On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Norman Fraser, poured tea, and Miss Katie Cotter poured coffee. The ice cream table in the back drawing-room, was centred by the wedding cake, and ices were served by Miss Ada Bates, Miss Edith Straubenzee and Miss Fortescue. The flowers in the drawing-room were very beautiful, roses in great profusion, crimson, pink, and white, filled the house with their fragrance, and from the arch across the drawing-room window hung the marriage bell of white carnations, indicating the spot where the bride and groom stood to receive congratulations after the church ceremony. On both afternoons the teas were bright and informal, but, as always at a wedding tea, there was the sense of a blank, the feeling that the one who had hitherto been foremost in the home entertainments was not there, and that the turning over of this new page of her life meant that her place as eldest daughter of the house, must now be filled by another sister. In leaving Kingston for Hamilton, Mrs. Webster carries with her the good wishes of a host of Kingston friends. She is an undergraduate of Trinity university, where she matriculated with honors in Latin, French, and harmony; she is a capable musician playing the organ in her father's church before she was ten years old, and continuing in charge of the musical part of the church services up to the time of her marriage; as a pianist she is also well known in local circles, being one of the first members of the Ladies' Musical Club, and as she is as clever at house-keeping and needlework as at all her other accomplishments, her friends are justified in speaking of her as a thoroughly all round sort of girl. Dr. Webster too, is well liked and highly respected in Kingston, and congratulations follow him and his bride to their new home at "Orchard House," Hamilton.

On Wednesday afternoon, Mrs. Hubbell gave a tea in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Bernard W. Browne, Kincardine. Mrs. Hubbell, Mrs. Malloch and Mrs. Browne received the guests who numbered upwards of one hundred. The tea table was particularly effective, the color scheme being crimson. The handsome linen centre piece was embroidered in crimson carnations; large and small bunches of crimson carnations were arranged in dainty glass vases and placed about the table, and the cloth was outlined with sprays of smilax, caught at the corners with an inward trail. The tall silver candle sticks held lighted tapers, but the glow was softened to a becoming degree by jaunty shades of crimson crepe paper. Altogether the table looked very attractive and was admired by all who came near enough to see it. Mrs. Herbert Robinson and Mrs. D. Stewart Robertson poured tea and coffee, and Mrs. Grover served ice cream. Refreshments were passed about the room by Miss Mair, Miss Ethel Handry, Miss Bessie Smythe, and Miss Edith Drury.

The guests included Mrs. Yates, Mrs. Carruthers, Mrs. G. H. Ogilvie, Mrs. R. E. Kent, Mrs. Brownfield, Miss Brownfield, Mrs. Frank Strange, Mrs. Campbell Strange, Mrs. Pense, Mrs. Noel Kent, Mrs. Dalton, Mrs. Mudie, Miss Fowler, Mrs. Calvin, Miss Calvin, the Misses Low, Mrs. Swift, Mrs. Drury, Mrs. Harley, Mrs. Edward Higgins, Mrs. Garrett, Mrs. A. Folger, Miss Skinner, Mrs. Sears, Miss Sears, Miss Grace Sears, Miss Daly, Miss Kathleen Daly, Mrs. Wroughton (Regina), Miss Edith Folger, Mrs. Forster, Miss Frances Macaulay, Mrs. Norman Fraser, the Misses Muckleston, Mrs. McGill, Miss Bea McGill, Mrs. Irwin, Mrs. Eames, Miss Eames, Mrs. Fortescue, Miss Fortescue, Mrs. Buxton Smith, Mrs. Fortt, Miss McParland, Mrs. Simpson, Miss Martha Smith, Miss Lewis, Mrs. Hague, Mrs. Third, Miss Wilkinson, Miss Flaws, Miss Alice Moore, Mrs. Edsall, Mrs. T. Power and manyothers.

Last Saturday's Globe reproduced a picture of Major J. Charles Macdougall, R.C.R.I., who went to South Africa as adjutant, and who has lately been invalided home to Toronto. The African climate proved exceptionally severe upon his constitution, and after a period of illness in hospital he was obliged to abandon regimental duties and take up staff work. He entered the department of railway transport and within a very short time was advanced to be chief of that important department. He was graded as D.A.A.G. for railway transport; was responsible for the transport by rail of all troops, ordnance, animals, and supplies between the base and the army in the field; and was also responsible for the audit of the accounts between the war office and the railway, which is controlled by the government at Cape Colony. As those accounts averaged $600,000 a month, the post entailed financial as well as military responsibilities. The Globe's sketch of Major Macdougall's work illustrates how honorable a place was taken by this former Kingstonian, who, in his office at the historic castle in Cape Town, applied the principles learned in the staff course at the Royal Military College not long before the outbreak of the South African war.

Mrs. E. C. Mitchell, Earl street, gave a pink tea on Thursday afternoon. Mrs. Oldrieve and Mrs Madill poured tea and coffee, Mrs. Young served ice cream, and refreshments were handed around by Miss Birch, Miss Mackay, Miss Effie Robertson, Miss Oldrieve, Miss Grace Oldrieve, and Miss Edna Mitchell. The flowers were pink carnations; the pretty lace doileys, on which the specimen glasses stood, had a foundation of pink silk; the lace centre piece over pink silk held a silver candelabrum with pink shades, and the color scheme was further carried out in cakes, sweets, and ices. The girls who served were gowned in white or in light colors, and the general effect of the tea-room was charming. Mrs. Smith assisted the hostess in receiving. Amongst those present were: Mrs. Kilborn, Mrs. Fair, Mrs. Skinner, Miss Skinner, Mrs. Harley Chown, Miss Chown, Mrs. Smith, the Misses Smith, the Misses McIntyre, the Misses Shaw, Mrs. J. Craig, Mrs. Kearns, Mrs. W. T. Connell, Mrs. Felix Shaw, Miss Swales, Mrs. Birch, Miss Kidd, Mrs. Fenwick, Mrs. Hobart Dyde, Mrs. Elliott, Mrs. W. J. Renton, Mrs. Sands, Mrs. J. The ladies of the Home Association of St. Andrew's church, held a tea and musicale yesterday afternoon and evening at the residence of Mrs. John McIntyre. There was a large attendance both afternoon and evening, and the ladies were successful in disposing of their fancy work and home-made candy, while tea and cake were served in return for the admission fee. The musical programme in the evening was particularly good. Mr. Paul Hahn, of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, is in town for a visit at Mr. Harty's, and his fine 'cello playing charmed the audience at Mrs McIntyre's last night. Mr. Ferrer played a violin solo, and it is unnecessary to say that he delighted his audience and that they demanded an encore. His mastery of his instrument is perfect, and Kingston people never tire of hearing him play. The accompaniments were played by Miss Constance Tandy, and vocal solos were sung by Mr. Macgachen Mr. Harvey, and Miss Beatrice Tandy. Miss Doble played a piano solo and and the programme closed with God Save the Queen.

Unfinished Still.

Anon.

A baby's boot and skein of wool,
Faded and soiled and soft;
Odd things, you say, and I doubt you're right
Round a seaman's neck this stormy night,
Up in the yards aloft.

Most like its folly; but, mate, look here,
When first I went to sea,
A woman stood on yon far off strand,
With a wedding ring on the small soft hand
Which clung so close to me.

My wife—God bless her—the day before
She sat beside my foot;
And the sunlight kissed her yellow hair,
And the dainty fingers, deft and fair,
Knitted a baby's boot.

The voyage was over; I came ashore;
What think you, found I there?
A grave the daisies had sprinkled white,
A cottage empty and dark as night,
And this beside the chair.

The little boot, 'twas unfinished still,
The tangled skein lay near.
But the knitter had gone away to rest,
With the babe asleep on her quiet breast,
Down in the churchyard drear.

You're It.

Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

It you're sore
To the core,
With aching bones,
And husky tones
When you speak,
And you're weak,
In the knees,
And you sneeze,
And often cough
Your head near off,
And you note
That your throat
Feels quite raw,
And your jaw
Feels as if
You'd got a biff,
And dull pains
Vex your brains,
Then you've caught it,
You have got it—
It's the grip.

If you feel
The heat steal
Over your frame
Like a flame,
Till you burn
And you yearn
For chunks of ice
At any price,
Then like a flash
The shivers dash
From head to feet,
A chill complete,
And you shake,
And you quake,
And there's desire
For a fire
And something hot
Right on the spot
To quickly drink,
And you think
Right there and then
You'll never be warm again
Then you've caught it,
You have got it—
It's the grip.

It's in the air,
It's everywhere,
The microbe of the grip,
It's on another trip,
And up and down,
Through all the town,
By night and day
It seeks its prey,
And it's the fad,
And you are sad,
Or even mad,
Or if you sneeze,
Or cough or wheeze,
Or feel too warm,
Or chills alarm,
To wear a look of grim dismay
And hoarsely say:
"I've caught it,
I've got it—
It's the grip."

"77"

Board of Health Proclaims an Epidemic of Grip.

GRIP

Grip is here, but of a mild type. It still commences with Catarrhal symptoms, aching of the limbs, marked lassitude and a rise of temperature, resembling the commencing of Typhoid or Malaria.

The convalescents are apt to be troubled for a considerable period with weakness, a general want of physical tone—a condition to invite Pneumonia.

Paradoxical as it may appear, the light attacks of Grip are oftentimes more dangerous than the severe ones, as in the former instances the patients are more apt to be careless of themselves during the weak physical conditions that follow.

The use of Dr. Humphreys' Famous Specific "77" breaks up the Grip, while its tonicity sustains the flagging energies during and after the attack.
