And Will Spend Fifteen Years In

And Will Spend Fourteen Years in Penitentiary.

Peterboro, Ont., March 28.— This morning justice Lount sentenced Alexander Sharpe, charged with the murder of William Hull, of Belmont, last month, to fifteen years imprisonment. The jury brought in a verdict of manslaughter last night.

Sharpe's crime was the outcome of domestic difficulties. Sharpe married a woman with whom Hull, his nephew, had previously been living and later Hull resumed his relations, taking Mrs. Sharpe to live with him. Sharpe tried to get the county constable to interfere in his behalf, and then taking matters in his own hands drove up to the boarding house where Hull and the woman were living, and shot the former dead with a Winchester. He was arrested next day. His trial took place at the assizes here yesterday, before justice Lount, occupying the whole day. F. D. Kerr defended the prisoner and Hugh O'Leary, Lindsay, was crown prosecutor.

The judge's charge was against the prisoner, but the jury after being out half an hour returned a verdict of manslaughter. Sharpe is about fifty years of age. His victim was thirty-eight.

RETREAT WAS A ROUT

An Engagement Described As Running Fight

SURPRISED THE BURGHERS

THE BRITISH CASUALTIES WERE NOT HEAVY.

A British Soldier Fired on as he Was Going to Aid of Wounded Boers—Babington Had a Lively Time and Slew Quite a Few Boers.

London, March 28.—A despatch from Thaba N'Chu district, of the Orange River Colony, dated Sunday, says that on Saturday night British troops, under Col. White, made a night march and surprised thirty Boers, capturing four and wounding one.

Dr. White, a British surgeon, while on his way to a farm to attend to some wounded Boers, was fired on. His horse and that of the orderly were shot and the orderly wounded.

On Sunday a detachment of Yeomanry, the Lancers and Remington's guides encountered 200 Boers under commandant Fourie. The Boers retreated. The British suffered no casualties.

In a despatch to the war office, dated March 27th, Gen. Kitchener reports that the British casualties in the recent action between Gen. Babington's command and the Boers were two killed and seven wounded. The Boers left twenty-two dead on the field. Thirty dead on their side have been accounted for. The pursuit being rapid, more casualties are likely. Gen. Kitchener describes the engagement as a running fight, which occurred on Saturday and Sunday, on which latter day the Boer retreat became a rout. The pursuit was continued until the British horses were exhausted.

Gen. Babington was assisted by Shekelton's column. The Boers, under Gen. Delarey, numbered 1,500. In addition to their dead, the Boers left thirty wounded on the field.

The operations of March 23rd drove the enemy north from their positions at Kaffir's Kraal. On March 27th the pursuit was continued by mounted men only. The enemy's rear guard was driven in by a combined movement on both flanks. Their convoy was then sighted at Leeuwfontein. The Greys, New Zealanders and Bushmen pushed on. The enemy attempted to take up a position, but the Greys and other troops rode down all opposition, and gave them no chance. The convoy was ridden into, and the enemy's retirement became a rout.

To Purchase More Horses.

Vienna, March 28.—An English cavalry commissioner is proceeding to Russia from this city with a view of purchasing more horses for service in the Transvaal. This commissioner has already expended $1,000,000 in Hungary for the same purpose. In all 16,000 animals were bought, the prices ranging from $30 to $100. The average life of the Hungarian horse in South Africa is but three weeks, owing to the practical impossibility of acclimatizing it.

THE PLAGUE SPREADING.

Several Cases are Reported Among British Troops.

Cape Town, March 27.—The bubonic plague is spreading. There is one case in the Queen's regiment at Simonstown, one in the 1st Bengal Royal Irish at the Green point camp, and one in the Royal garrison artillery at Castle, one of the suburbs of Cape Town.

Some of the Malays have offered considerable opposition to the removal of plague patients and also of the corpses of those of who have died of the disease. The government has informed these people that if this obstruction continues the Malay community will be isolated outside the city. Practically all the natives are getting into separate locations. There have been 216 cases of the plague here up to date. Fifty-seven persons afflicted were Europeans. There have been eighty-five deaths. A ferret that had been used here in catching rats died of the plague.

Twelve fresh cases of bubonic plague were officially reported to-day. Eight of the victims are Europeans and four colored persons. Two colored victims died to-day. The priests are helping the government to enforce sanitary regulations, although drastic measures may be necessary to impose precautions upon the irreconcilable.

Renewal Arranged.

St. John's, Nfld., March 28.— The Newfoundland cabinet has received a despatch from Mr. Chamberlain, colonial secretary, announcing that a lobster modus vivendi, respecting the French shore, had been concluded with France, to be in force from yesterday until Dec. 31st, 1901, thus removing all fear of conflict during the interim. This fact is evidence of the willingness of the French government to adopt a conciliatory policy, pending the final adjustment. The colonial legislature passed a bill last month giving effect to this convention, if the renewal were arranged.

Charles E. Hollibaugh and Eric Buntin, who were arrested two weeks ago, on the charge of having murdered Araphoe Brown, a wealthy stock man living near Aravida, N.Y., have confessed.

The Ophir, bearing the duke and duchess of Cornwall, sailed from Malta at midnight, conveyed by the British first-class cruiser Andromeda and a second-class cruiser Diana and storeship Tyne.

Mental and physical activity are purchased by Miller's Compound Iron Pills. Sold by E. C. Mitchell.

THE COOK INQUIRY.

The Senate Council Would Not Call Two Witnesses.

Ottawa, March 28.—When the Cook committee re-assembled at four o'clock Mr. Ritchie re-examined H. H. Cook and got him to say that S. C. Biggs was formerly his solicitor, but they were not now on friendly terms. He published the corrupt offer made to him, he explained, because prior to the elections he was attacked by Dr. Horsey, now member for North Grey in the dominion house.

The next witness was Frank G. Macdonald, who is a son-in-law of Mr. Cook, and associated with him in the lumber business. He swore that in April, 1897, he was at M. C. Cameron's house in Goderich, and expressed his opinion to that gentleman that the reform party had used Mr. Cook badly. According to the witness, Mr. Cameron replied, "You know all about it," and went on to say that if Mr. Cook had paid the $10,000 he would have got an appointment to the senate, and was very foolish not to have done so. Cross-examined by Mr. Blake, the witness could not say that Mr. Cook had not asked him to look Mr. Cameron up. He did not, however, tell Mr. Cook of his conversation with Mr. Cameron until some time later, probably in the ensuing fall, when Mr. Cook spoke to witness for the first time of the $10,000 offer.

Although subpoenaes had been served upon Messrs. W. T. R. Preston and S. C. Biggs by the committee's order, and both were in attendance, they were not called. Mr. Ritchie was supposed to be acting not as a prosecutor in the interest of any particular party but as counsel for the senate, and therefore supposedly desirous of getting the statements of any persons who could throw light on the matter at issue. He now assumed a rather novel position, and declared that he considered the case closed, and that he did not intend to call Messrs. Preston and Biggs. He was instructed that if these gentlemen would state what actually took place they would corroborate Mr. Cook's story, but that it was not likely they would do so. He had one more witness, he added, who had been summoned and would appear in the morning.

Mr. Blake urged that it was unfair to ask him to begin the case for the defence until all the evidence in Mr. Cook's behalf had been presented. He expressed surprise that Mr. Ritchie did not call Messrs. Preston and Biggs, as they had been subpoenaed by the committee. As for himself, he proposed to examine Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Sir Richard Cartwright, and to produce such other evidence as might be deemed reasonable.

Hon. Messrs. L. Melvin Jones and Dandurand reminded Mr. Ritchie that he was not there as prosecuting attorney, but to assist in getting at the facts, and in their opinion Messrs. Biggs and Preston should be called.

The committee, in deference to Mr. Blake, decided to adjourn until to-morrow and to hear Mr. Cook's other witness before calling upon the defence. It also determined that Messrs. Preston and Biggs should be examined.

At the opening of the proceedings A. H. Marsh, K.C., on behalf of Cook, said he saw that two gentlemen whose names had been mentioned by Mr. Cook as witness yesterday were in the room. He asked that in accordance with the usual practice these gentlemen be asked to retire.

Mr. Blake, K.C., said he did not desire to object, but thought it strange Mr. Marsh desired to exclude his own witnesses.

W. T. R. Preston and S. C. Biggs then retired from the room.

WILL ALL BE RECONSIDERED.

Assessment Law to Come up Next Year.

Toronto, March 28.—A good deal of progress was made with the business before the legislature yesterday, and the probability of a conclusion by Easter became more evident. During the discussion of his bill to amend the assessment act, which is designed to repeal the "scrap iron" assessment, the premier announced that on receipt of a full and complete report, embodying recommendations from the assessment commissioner next session, the legislature would reconsider the whole question of assessment in all its bearings. In the afternoon Mr. Wardell pressed for a second reading of his bill respecting the employment of alien labor in Ontario, and on a division it was defeated by thirty-nine to thirty.

AGGY IS CAUGHT.

He Is Now In Manila With His Staff.

Manila, March 28.—Gen. Funston, with the assistance of a number of Maccabebe scouts, has captured Aguinaldo in the country near Casiguaran, nine miles from Baler, on the north-west coast of the island of Luzon. The rebel leader, and his entire staff, are now in Manila. Gen. Funston employed a clever ruse to reach Aguinaldo. His plan worked successfully with the result that the head and front of the insurrection is now where he will do no more harm to American interests. The gun boat Vicksburg, with Funston and Aguinaldo on board arrived here this morning.

THE CIVIL SERVANTS.

Proposal to Make Their Salaries Attachable For Debts.

Ottawa, March 27.— The house this afternoon debated with some vigor Mr. Fortin's resolution in favor of making the salaries of civil servants attachable for debts. A vote had not been reached when the period devoted to the consideration of the motion expired, and the debate stood over. Before adjournment Sir Louis Davies announced that the intention of the government was to adjourn for Easter, at six o'clock on April 4th, until 3 p.m. on April 9th.

INTEGRITY OF CHINA.

Great Britain's Protest Against Further Complications.

CAN'T DEFINITELY DECIDE

WHETHER CHINA HAS REGRETTED THE CONVENTION.

But There is Every Likelihood That it Has—The Centre of Chinese Stability is Her Yang Tse Valley Provinces — Japan Can Look After Herself.

London, March 28.—The reports from various sources concerning China's attitude on the Manchuria treaty are so conflicting that it is impossible to determine here whether or not she has definitely rejected the convention. The Times says the reports of a definite rejection are acquiring great consistency. The extreme reticence maintained at Li Hung Chang's yamen points in the same direction. The movement against compliance with the isolated mandates of Russia, and in favor of an appeal therefrom to the concert of the powers, is gaining such strength and breadth that the court may consider the estranging of Russia a less evil than jeopardizing the authority of the throne, and perhaps, even the existence of the dynasty. The Yang Tse valley is again, as last summer proved, the centre of China's stability. The action of the viceroys of Wu Chang and Nanking is carrying the whole of the central and southern provinces with them.

Great Britain's Protest.

Washington, March 28.—A despatch from one of the foreign offices to its representatives, states that the British government had made a protest against China's negotiating a convention with any power touching territorial or financial affairs until the present troubles in China are settled. The protest was made through Sir Ernest Satow, British minister at Pekin. It is understood to have been made within the last day or two. The Russian agreement is not specifically referred to, but it is stated the British action is clearly directed against that agreement.

Can Look After Herself.

Yokohama, March 27.—Marquis Ito, the prime minister, at a meeting of his parliamentary supporters, to-day, made an address, in the course of which he said it was impossible to deny that Japan was influenced by the complications affecting her neighbor, or to ignore the clouds on the horizon. The nation, however, had attained a position which enabled it to protect its legitimate interests and to take whatever steps were necessitated by any situation.

PICKING UP DYNAMITE.

Woodstock People Live in Constant Fear.

Woodstock, March 28.—Since the snow has left the people of this city have had a chance to get an idea of how much of the dynamite spilled in the railroad wreck at the Grand Trunk railway station on Feb. 16th, was scattered around town. Daniel Miller found eight whole sticks of it in his front yard to-day. Someone had thrown it over the fence. Yesterday a pile of dynamite sticks was found just east of the town in the Grand Trunk railway track.

A lot of burned matches lying around showed that somebody had been trying to explode it. When a freight train pulled into the Grand Trunk railway station last night there was a loud explosion under the engine, which made everybody around strike for the open. It is supposed that a little lump of dynamite exploded.

Now that warm weather is near at hand real danger is threatened. Four tons of the dynamite on board the dynamite train was found to be missing when the remains of the wreck were gathered up. Not more than half of that has been found.

Thought Revolver Empty.

Ogdensburg, N.Y., March 28.—Walter Powell, aged forty, who resides near Black River, accidentally shot his wife yesterday. Mrs. Powell requested her husband to discharge the cartridges in a revolver that had been kept in the house, and taking the weapon into the yard, Powell fired several times, until he thought all were discharged. Then he started towards the house, snapping the revolver as he went. Mrs. Powell stepped to the door just as one remaining cartridge exploded, and received the bullet in the groin. Her recovery is doubtful. Mrs. Powell made an anti-mortem statement exonerating her husband from all blame.

To Have Municipal Saloons.

London, March 28.—"Municipal saloons," conducted to discourage the sale of intoxicating drink, are about to be established throughout the united kingdom. "The Public House Trust Company, Limited," under the direction of Earl Grey, lord lieutenant of the county of Northumberland, proposes to lease or purchase the existing saloons, acquire all the licenses and manage the properties so obtained for the benefit of the local communities. The company expects to return five per cent. interest on its capital, and to devote surplus earnings to constructions and maintenance of churches, schools, parks, theatres, libraries, hospitals and baths.

Plans are nearly completed, it is said, for the merging of the Canada Southern RR. into the Michigan Central RR. by the exchange of new three per cent. Michigan Central collateral trust bonds for Canada Southern shares.

RARE MALADY.

Raynaud's Disease Gradually Consuming Indiana Boy.

Portland, Ind., March 28.—A strange disease, which has attacked little Garnet Jones, of Winchester, three years old, is described by Dr. Milligan, the attending physician, as "Raynaud's disease." Only two cases have come to the knowledge of American physicians. Dr. Milligan in his statement says:

Garnet Jones was born May 16th, 1898, and has apparently been a healthy child, with the exception of the present affliction, which manifested itself last September. At first the disease resembled hives. Gradually the attacks became more severe than usual, and, instead of the usual eruption, the little fingers, then the third fingers, and at about the same time the toes, excepting the small one on each foot, turned white, then red, and in two or three days, purple, following the same course which the eruptions had previously taken. During this time the little patient suffered considerably with short sharp pains in the affected parts and right wrist. In five or six days the purple color of the fingers and toes began fading, and in a few days they assumed their natural color, with the exception of the two little fingers— the one on the right hand turning darker and darker and shrivelling back to the second joint, to which point it is now entirely dead and will in a short time drop off. The little finger of the left hand is dead only about one-third of the length of the finger nail.

"The theory of Raynaud's disease is that it is caused by a diseased spinal cord, causing contraction of the arteries, thus shutting off the circulation of the blood to the affected parts and causing their decay. The child still remains bright, happy and apparently contented, not realizing that death is slowly and surely closing around it."

WIFE AS FINANCIER.

She Was a Failure and Husband Took Control.

New York, March 28.—Hereafter James Watson, a sober, industrious and elderly mechanic, living at Second avenue and Twenty-eight street, will do the marketing and direct the financing of his home.

This was arranged by magistrate Brann in the Yorkville police court, where Wilson was arraigned upon his wife's charge for non-support.

"It's this way, your honor," explained the embarrassed prisoner, shifting uneasily. "We have been married twenty-one years and haven't got a cent. From the very start, judge, I handed over to my wife every penny of my earnings.

"I've worked right ahead like a horse for twenty-one years, and the other day when I asked my wife how much she had saved her answer floored me."

"'Not a cent, Jim,' said she. 'I had never a doubt that she had a rainy day nest-egg of close to $1,000 laid away.

"I thought I was about time to do some saving myself. So I just announced that in future I would keep the money and give her so much a day to run the house.

"She objected, judge, and then she had me arrested and here I am."

When satisfied that the prisoner had told a true story magistrate Brann discharged him. "Now a word to Mrs. Watson," said the magistrate to the wife, "you are entirely at fault. Your husband has been foolish for twenty-one years. By taking personal charge of the domestic finances he has displayed, at least, almost human intelligence.

"Now kiss and make up and be happy."

Mr. and Mrs. Watson clapped hands, rubbed noses spasmodically and walked out of court side by side.

To Guard His Majesty.

Berlin, March 28.—In consequence of the recent attack upon the emperor, at Bremen, new measures have been adopted for the protection of his majesty. Hereafter plain clothes police, instead of uniformed officers, will line the routes over which he passes. His bodyguard will wear ordinary police helmets, instead of plumed hats. Four bicyclists, quietly dressed, will accompany the escort, two on each side. These bicyclists are now seen daily, practising up and down Under Den Linden, where they ride at a fast pace.
