Mrs. A. Poirier, Of Quebec,

Has Suffered for Years From Weakness, Anæmia and Womb Disease.

Three Physicians Had Unsuccessfully Attended to Her.

Cured by Dr. Ed. Morin's Cardinal Pills.

Mrs. A. Poirier, of Quebec, has suffered very long from weakness, anæmia and womb disease. She had used all remedies known for those illnesses, and it was of no avail; given up by three physicians. Mrs. Poirier put her trust into patent preparations. She, however, tried several without being relieved, and her sufferings continued unceasingly. Disheartened, hardly able to take care of the household, attending to the most necessary petty works with great difficulty, she one day received a visit of one of her best friends, after the usual salute, the conversation turned on her wretched state of health. Why, this friend said to her, do you not take for some time Dr. Ed. Morin's far-famed "CARDINAL PILLLS." They are invaluable for all female diseases,—and she added: I have tried them myself and derived great benefit from them.

The very same day, Mrs. Poirier bought a box of "CARDINAL PILLS," and commenced to take some according to the direction of the wrappers. The remarkable relief she got at the very beginning of the use of this powerful remedy, encouraged her to keep on using it. The illness was soon overpowered and the remedy conquered her weakness and the other diseases from which she was suffering.

Mrs. Poirier will always be grateful towards Dr. Ed. Morin's "CARDINAL PILLS," which in her case, have performed, thus to speak, a miracle.

A TRIBUTE TO TARTE.

"Events," of Ottawa, extols Mr. Tarte because he insisted in the railway committee that the Crow's Nest Pass company should supply the Canadian people with coal before it supplied foreigners, and at as low a price. The Toronto World argued that Mr. Tarte was standing in with the Canada Pacific railway company and fighting its battles. But "Events" does not see it in that light. "What Mr. Tarte was contending for," says our contemporary, "was the rights of the people, and my readers will remember that nearly three months ago I said he would take this stand, and, as I said then I now repeat, his stand is a proper one, and no one can oppose it without opposing the best interests of Canada." "Events" believes Mr. Tarte has no interest to serve but the publics. He alone, it is observed, of the members of parliament, has shown the true Canadian spirit, "and it is not the first time either." The conclusion is that "he may be abused to-day, but the day will come when he will be appreciated at his true worth." Toronto World and Hamilton Spectator will please copy.

COUNTING THE COST.

The budget address of Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, has been read by students of political economy with varying emotions. By an extremist it is declared to be so protective in its qualities as to have "startled the Cobdenites and other free-traders." The chancellor is not understood to have avowed the protective principle, yet adopts it, "in regard to coal, sugar, and other commodities."

The looked-for has not happened. The colonies, including Canada, expected a heavy duty on wheat and a discrimination in their favour. The West Indies had reason to expect what Mr. Millard, a conservative member of the commons, terms, "differentiation in favour of their sugars." Others say Sir Michael Hicks-Beach may be able to justify his action in this respect, and he certainly will speak upon the amendment to this tariff motion of which a notice has been given. One thing is very certain: That a grievance against the government will not grow out of its failure to add to the taxes on spirits and tobacco and to introduce the registration tax which some authorities predicted. Nor will fault be found in England with the incidental protection that has been offered to the producers of sugar, molasses and glucose. A critic, not too friendly, suggests that the West Indies will be seeking annexation with the United States. But that is a freak idea, and will not find an echo anywhere.

The need of revenue only warranted the export duty of a shilling a ton on coal. The Welsh and North Country colliers are angered beyond expression with this alleged interference with their trade. There is, however, something patriotic as well as practical in the tax. The Daily Mail, in a large and national sense, long since protested against the trade in coal which fed the foreign industries and hostile battleships, while at home, for want of cheap fuel in plentiful quantities, the steel and iron furnaces, and smaller works, were languishing or idle. The press of London had discussed the wisdom of an export duty in the interest of British manufactures, and Mr. Carnegie, the steel king, had hardly put his foot in the old land until he declared that the proceeding now resorted to was the only one that could be taken and help the steel industries along. The colliers are up in arms against the tax, and declare that it will be followed by the depression in trade and enforced idleness of thousands. But the manufacturers will rejoice, and even thank the fates that brought the change about.

After all these new taxes have been collected—and it is estimated that they will amount to £11,000,000—the deficit will be over £50,000,000. To meet it a new loan must be floated. The war in Africa has cost over $250,000,000, and the end is not yet. The expenditure in China has been £15,000,000, with a tendency to grow to immense proportions. The jingo spirit ignores the question of taxation, but it becomes less demonstrative as the chancellor of the exchequer tells the story of the year and counts the cost of maintaining Britain's prestige.

According to manager of the New York Times an export duty on pulpwood would put many of the American paper mills out of business. Supposing our law made it necessary to convert this pulpwood into paper in Canada? The American capitalists would have to comply with it as they have to comply with the law in regard to logs and lumber.

The New York state legislature has passed a good law. It requires every one who drives towards a railway crossing to "stop, look and listen," and accidents will be avoided. Good. Better than a signal man.

The faddest is still at work. The Toronto News thinks the popular school of the future will be a combination of the business and agricultural colleges, and should do, besides, the work of the public schools. Next!

Mr. Tarte had his way in the railway company and as a result there is to be no discrimination against Canadians by the C.P.R. and Crow's Nest Pass company in respect to coke and coal supplies. Score another for Israel!

Bernhardt Departs for France—Sousa's Sunday Concerts.

New York, April 20.—Bernhardt and Coquelin have departed for France. Their United States tour was not successful.

At the Criterion, Julia Marlowe is still a great favorite in "When Knighthood Was in Flower."

W. D. Howells in a review of the recent dramatic season in New York, finds in Clyde Fitch's play, "The Climbers," at the Bijou, the high water mark of the American playwright.

"Lovers Lane" is not to leave New York this season, although it is forced out of the Manhattan, through a change in lesseeship, after its one hundredth performance, April 26th. It will at once be removed to the theatre Republic.

Not since the days of Hoyt's merry "Trip to Chinatown" has the Madison Square theatre enjoyed such continued prosperity as it is now doing with William Collier in Augustus Thomas' delightful comedy, "On the Quiet."

The hearty welcome accorded John Philip Sousa and his band at the Metropolitan opera house last Sunday night was not only a tribute to the bandmaster personally, but also an appreciative indorsement of popular Sunday concerts as exemplified in a typical Sousa programme.

Connected With Main Line.

At both fire stations an improvement was made this week. The lighting has been connected with the main line, and at night when the gong sounds the stations are lit up simultaneously with the opening of the horse stall doors. Previously the lighting had to be done by hand lever.

Decrease In Receipts.

Monte Carlo, April 20.—The receipts of the Casino here, during 1900, were £053,200, a decrease of £3,000 as compared with those of 1899.

IN THE RELIGIOUS WORLD.

ARCHBISHOP OF CANTERBURY NEARLY EIGHTY YEARS.

But Still Active in Church Work—The Sultan and the Jews—Hebrew Community in London Opposing a Parliamentry Bill.

Rev. James Elliott, B.A., laid aside by ill-health, is recovering and will be able to resume his pulpit duties on May 12th.

Rev. Charles E. Bland, B.D., Westmount, will preach the anniversary sermons in Queen street Methodist church on May 5th.

The Presbyterians of Franktown purpose building a new church, and $3,000 has been subscribed. The church will cost $5,000.

Rev. Charles Lowe, Port Elmsley, is very ill. His condition was so serious that it was deemed advisable to remove him to St. Luke's hospital, Ottawa.

The choir of Christ church, Belleville, presented the retiring rector, Rev. C. J. Hutton, with an address, and twp pictures of the church nicely framed.

Archbishop Kohn, of Olmutz, who is of Jewish origin, and the papal nuncio in Vienna, archbishop Taliani, are said to be among the new cardinals to be chosen shortly.

Simple salvation work in Belgium and Holland has recently been brought into bold relief through the intense popular feeling pervading these countries on account of the war in South Africa.

Bonar Presbyterian church, Toronto, is being enlarged. Its minister is Rev. Alexander Macgillivray, brother of Revs M. Macgillivray, of this city, and he is giving one whole year's salary as his contribution to the building fund.

Speaking of the meeting of the London temperance hospital, the archbishop of Canterbury said that although he was close on eighty years of age he did as much work as ever, and he attributed his ability to do this to total abstinence.

The demolition of the old Catholic church, of Moorfields, London, opens up a beautiful view for the workers in the neighborhood. For the first time the cross and dome of St. Paul's can be observed from Liverpool street, towering up above the housetops, while many other lesser buildings of fame spring into view.

The latest statistics of the strength of the united Methodist churches in England, formed by an amalgamation of the Wesleyan association and the Wesleyan Reformers, is 439 ministers, 3,369 local preachers, and 83,000 church members. There are 1,592 chapels and preaching-rooms, and in the Sunday schools the scholars number over 198,000.

The Hebrew community are organizing for the purpose of having the Kingston-upon-Hull, Eng., corporation bill for this session thrown out, as the bill proposes to acquire the Jewish cemetery and remove some of the bodies. This is strictly forbidden by the Jewish ecclesiastical law, as a grave once closed must never be reopened.

The new bishop of London, in response to a letter from Gen. Booth, has written: "It's a great strength to me to know that I shall have your prayers and the prayers of your people." The Salvation army self-denial work was a financial success. London contributed £7,220, against £6,845 last year, Ireland, Scotland and Wales also made substantial increases.

The following announcements are made of the next episcopal visitation of bishop Mills to the deanery of Lennox: May 9th, Kingsford and Selby; May 10th, Strathcona; May 11th, Hinch Settlement; May 12th, Newburgh, Camden East and Yarker; May 13th and 14th, Tamworth; May 15th, Odessa and Bath; May 16th, Fredericksburgh and Adolphustown; May 17th, Gosport and Napanee; May 18th, Morven and Napanee; May 19th, Tyendinaga, and Deseronto.

The sultan of Turkey who has inspired the slaughter of thousands of his innocent subjects, whose only crime was their christian faith, lives in daily terror of assassination. He is afraid that the Jews in Palestine wish to establish a government of their own and is trying to strangle the growth of Zionism. For the moment the sultan has triumphed, but only for the moment. His hour is fixed by God, and when it sounds, the immigration will recommence, and so the ancient prophecies will be fulfilled.

A PLEA FOR MERCY.

Grave Robbery Case—Suspended Sentence May Result.

Peterboro, April 20.—William J. Patterson, the Queen's medical student, charged with taking the body of Margaret Sheehan from its grave in the Roman Catholic cemetery, near Peterboro, on Feb. 20th last, and with showing disrespect to the body by packing it in a trunk to convey it to Kingston for dissection, has been found guilty, but judge Weller has reserved judgment till Monday. The evidence was the same as that given at the preliminary examination in February.

In addressing the court on behalf of the prisoner, Mr. Dennistoun contended that the charge of robbing the grave was not proven, as Patterson was in Kingston at the time. He also held that there was nothing to show that the prisoner had offered an indignity to the body, or was unlawfully handling the same. There were no marks on the body which would indicate that there had been any violence used. Dead bodies were necessary at medical colleges. As to the manner of taking the body to Kingston, he held that it could in no way be construed into an act of indignity. Patterson did the matter openly, and not in a manner of a man who had committed a criminal offence. He felt that there was nothing criminal in having the body in his possession, and the possession of a body is evidence of no offence whatever known to our law.

Judge Weller, in summing up, said that it was impossible to find anything else than that the prisoner was guilty. It was wrong and contrary to law unless under very particular circumstances, and he would not like to think that such traffic could be carried on inside the county.

Mr. Wood, counsel for the defence, asked that sentence be pronounced, but Mr. Dennistoun made a strong plea for mercy. He reminded the court that perhaps never before in the Canadian courts had a like case been tried, and much valuable information had been brought out. He himself had great difficulty in looking up the law regarding such an offence, and is it any wonder that a medical student should be ignorant of the law? Mr. Dennistoun continuing, spoke of the prisoner having grown up in the town, and was known as a keen, sharp, clever, and in fact, brilliant student. He was in every respect a fine young man. He had committed the act unthinkingly, and had nothing whatever to do with robbing the grave. In view of this fact, would it not be well to temper justice with mercy and not blight a young life forever? How could he hold a place in society if his name could be held up as having served a term in jail? Allow him to go on suspended sentence on his own bail that if he ever should make a slip again, he could be brought up for sentence.

Mr. Wood pointed out the fact that a fine could be imposed if the court saw fit, but his honor reserved judgment until Monday. Bail in the meantime was increased.

NAPANEE BUDGET.

Personal Items—Grass a Foot High on the Prairies.

Napanee, April 20.—Mrs. J. Rud Perry has rented her residence, John street, to E. R. Checkley, of the Merchants' bank, who will remove there shortly.

The last couple of days rain has stopped the farmers with their seeding. In some places quite a few acres are already in the ground and this rain will be just what is needed to start growth.

J. W. Storms has returned from his trip to Calgary. He reports the season as well advanced, and grass a foot high on the prairie.

Mrs. Jeremiah Amey, Goderich, spent a few days this week with her niece, Mrs. James Hosey, Bridge street. Mrs. Amey is eighty-eight years of age and made the trip from Goderich in one day. She is on her way to Verona to spend her remaining years with Mrs. T. A. Quinn.

J. H. Madden was in Ottawa this week settling up the affairs of his brother-in-law, the late John Belfour, who died at Bath on Saturday last.

It is now authoritatively stated that Dr. Leonard has accepted the postmastership here and will assume the duties of office on the 1st of May.

J. G. Fennell is removing his hardware stock to the premises next to the Robinson company, Dundas street.

T. A. Cathro will remove shortly from Mill street to Mrs. James McCay's residence, Piety Hill.
