CONSERVATIVE LEADERS ADDRESS MEETING.

Lieut. Bickford Has Been Awarded a Medal for Saving Life — The Strike Situation Has Improved.

Toronto, May 28.—The conservative meeting in Massey hall last night was not as largely attended as had been expected, but it was certainly not wanting in enthusiasm. R. L. Borden, and his lieutenant, F. D. Monk, were received with great cordiality. There was little new matter in their speeches, and Mr. Borden excused himself from making a definite statement of policy on the ground of lack of time. The audience, however, thoroughly enjoyed their speeches and were not slow in expressing their approval. Mr. Borden spoke with his usual pleasant manner and absence of oratorical display. Mr. Monk, on the other hand, spoke with that vigorous eloquence that is so generous among the public speakers of Quebec. Mr. Whitney, who dealt with Ontario politics at some length, declared his fealty to Mr. Borden with great emphasis.

The committee of the Royal humane society has awarded a medal to Lieut. H. C. Bickford, 6th Dragoon Guards, for a rescue from drowning in South Africa. Lieut. Bickford is a son of the late E. H. Bickford, of Toronto.

News received this morning at the headquarters of the International machinists' union shows that the strike situation has improved. The Dunkirk locomotive works employing 1,500 men signed the agreement, granting shorter hours, higher wages, and recognition of the union. This is regarded as a most important settlement. In Boston seventy-five firms have signed leaving only eight out. In Toledo nineteen out of thirty-three firms have signed and more are expected to come in to-day. From other cities word was received of the signing of the agreement by sixty-eight firms, the list being: Jersey City, N. J., 8; Louisville, Ky., 2; Newark, N. J., 12; Elizabeth, N.J., 4; Springfield, Mass., 5; Belleville, Ill., 3; Milwaukee, 6; Syracuse, 11; Bay City, Mich., 1; Binghamton, N.Y., 5; Williamsport, Pa., 2; Lockport, N. Y., 2; Great Falls, Montana, 2; Dayton, Ohio, 5.

Barbers' Union Progressing.

The first regular meeting of the barbers' international union was held last night at union hall. An official pamphlet from headquarters was read, which stated that from Feb. 15th to May 15th, 1901, thirty-six new unions had come under the jurisdiction of the international, and that the total membership was now over ten thousand. This statement was received with applause. A vote of thanks was tendered to the longshoremen's union for the offering of their hall and the encouragement given to the journeymen barbers' union. One new member was admitted and two more applications read and referred to committee. The charter fee was allowed to stand for two weeks longer.

What Might Have Happened.

A sporty young gentleman of the city, who drives a dainty runabout, the envy of the other young men, when driving down street the other day nearly ran over a tall countryman. The latter caught the bit and sat the horse upon its haunches without apparent effort, and then complacently remarked to the driver: "Sonny, you had better be careful how you drive that doll buggy of your'n. If I hadn't collared this here horse you would a run that thing into me and smashed it all to kindling."

Death of Henry Barrett, Pittsburg

Henry Barrett, a resident farmer for over a quarter of a century in Pittsburg township, died at his home near Point Road on Tuesday morning, after an illness extending over six months. Deceased was born in Prescott seventy-one years ago. He married Miss Hickey, of Glenburnie, daughter of the late James Hickey. The surviving children are James, John, Edmund and Miss Frances, at home, and Dr. William in Dawson City. The funeral takes place on Thursday morning to St. Mary's cathedral, thence to the cemetery.

He is Investigating.

On Friday, mayor Buell, Brockville, telegraphed the minister of marine and fisheries, stating that the citizens of Brockville were anxious that the government should investigate the cause of the accident to the steamer Empire State. He received a reply that Capt. McIlhenny had been authorized to make a full and complete investigation. This morning Capt. McIlhenny arrived in the city for that purpose and made preliminary enquiries. To-morrow, when the steamer enters the government dry dock, he will complete his investigation.

A Successful Sale.

Yesterday J. H. Mills, auctioneer, sold the household effects of Weatherby Williams, Mack street, who is about to leave for England. There was a great crush at the sale and prices ruled high in some cases being from $1 to $3 above ordinary retail rates. Mr. Williams was so well pleased with the result that he presented auctioneer Mills with an extra $5.

A Great Success.

FORAKER LAW VALID.

The Points Made Plain by the Decisions.

Washington, May 28.—In the United States supreme court opinions were handed down in all but two of the cases before that court involving the relation of the United States to its insular possessions. The decisions make these points clear:

After Porto Rico was ceded to the United States by Spain that island was not foreign territory.

Until congress took action, as it did by passing the Foraker law, no duty could be collected by the United States upon imports from the island.

Congress has the power to impose duties upon imports from the insular possessions and the power to fix the method of collecting the duties. The same power is held in respect to exports from the United States to the insular possessions. Therefore the Foraker law is valid.

For the purposes of taxation the insular possessions are not a part of the United States under the clause of the constitution declaring that throughout of the United States all imports must be uniform.

For the purpose of foreign negotiations the insular possessions are a part of the United States.

Superstition in Korea.

The ceremony in Korea to release a spirit from hell is described in Leslie's Monthly for June. In the middle of the dense crowd filling the pavilion was a rectangular space. At each end stood a man with big folds of loose cloth in his arms. Beside each of them a woman stood. Around them ran the folds of the cloth, which also crossed the rectangle diagonally. On the folds were Chinese characters, and in the midst of them, in the open space, stood the sorceress, wearing a red shirt, with red bands over her shoulders, and long, loose sleeves flopping in the air. With her was an old woman beating big cymbals together. Before them were the widow and son of the man whose spirit was by this ceremony to be released from hell. At one side a woman beat a drum resembling two hour glasses, and behind her were three great tissue-paper figures suspended in the air and waving wildly. These represented spirits. The crowd shunned them awesomely. On the floor before the sorceress was a little table holding two peeled melons, one red, one yellow, some wine in a green bottle, and three green apples, which it was pleasant to think would surely give the little devils cholera morbus. The widow, an ugly, scarred-faced woman, poured out some wine and prostrated herself before the table several times. The son, a well-dressed fellow, did the same, while the sorceress, kneeling down, beat the cymbals to call the devils to the offering. The man had been dead four years; the devils had presumptive rights for three years, but the deceased could now be got off, provided the moutong woman was satisfied with her remuneration. When the performance lasted three days, it would often cost $100. The pieces of cloth would be burned to make a ladder for the spirit from hell to heaven. The surplus folds in the men's arms went to the sorceress.

Woman is All Right.

Spokane Review.

Take our girls. How far removed from the innocent girlhood of a bygone day is the pert precocity of our American misses!—Oregonian.

Take our girls? Excuse us—we don't want 'em. Spokane isn't suffering from any shortage of sweet, modest, pretty misses now, without importing. But is truly so bad, has "innocent girlhood of a bygone day" really vanished?

Isn't it a fact that if the girls of to-day attempted to imitate many of the customs and costumes of their great-grandmothers you would call them "coarse, bold creatures" and forbid your daughter to associate with them? Isn't it a fact that the kissing games and hugging dances in which even the demure country lasses engaged a century ago are now barred from the list of amusements of a self-respecting girl? Would you tolerate some of the old style "sparking" in your parlor or kitchen?

There were foolish girls and wicked women before the days of king Solomon; there are still the same to-day. But the young man of sterling merit, who is seeking a pure, loving and lovely woman to share his hopes and struggles, his joys and sorrows, need never fail to find her in this age. She may know more than his grandmother did in her girlhood; she may be more independent; she may insist that she shall be treated as her husband's equal, not his toy or servant; but does this make her less worthy to be a wife, less fit to be a mother, less deserving of the respect, the honor which the whole world must pay and is paying to the twentieth century woman of America?

The Man Behind the Pen.

Magenais Iveagh in Leslie's Weekly.

Morning, evening, early and late,
Rain, or sunshine, or snow,
Behold our friend of the fourth estate
In the hives of Newspaper Row!
Who so tireless day by day?
Who so modest of men?
Who so young, tho' his head be gray?—
The man behind the pen.

Headache, heartache, merry, or sad,
True to his chosen trust,
Recording the deeds of the good and the bad.
Gentle, generous, just,
Happy-go-lucky, fond of good-cheer,
Little to show for it when
He balances books at the end of a year—
The man behind the pen.

Popular idols! Children of fame!
Which of you pauses to think
That most of the glory, encircling your name
Was born of printer's ink?
Towns turn out—the people shout
With rapture ecstatic—ah, then
Remember the wizard who brought it about—
The man behind the pen.

Morning, evening, early and late,
Rain, or sunshine, or snow,
Behold our friend of the fourth estate—
Who so tireless day by day?
In the hives of Newspaper Row!
Who so modest of men?
Who so young, tho' his head be gray?—
The man behind the pen.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Church Temperance Work.

Orillia, May 27.—(To the Editor): In 1873 a work was begun in the diocese of Ontario which gave promise of more abundant results than have yet been attained. It was the inauguration of temperance work as a part of the machinery of the Church of England in Canada. In April of that year the late archbishop Lewis, presided at a public temperance meeting, in the temperance hall, Rideau street, Ottawa, and gave an address of which the English church of England Temperance Chronicle said: "The bishop's address was a masterpiece of eloquence and argument, and will well repay perusal." A full report, which appeared in the Ottawa Citizen was reproduced in the Lindsay Post, at the instance of the late Rev. Fr. Stafford, and in the Napanee Casket, edited by T. W. Casey, the only one of those mentioned who is still spared and Mr. Casey also jointly issued a large editon of the address in tract form. In the following June, the synod of Ontario appointed a temperance committee, of which the late Rev. F. W. Kirkpatrick, rector of St. James' parish, Kingston, was chairman. Its report will be found not inapplicable to the needs of the diocese even at this late day, and I venture to ask you to give it space."

"The committee to which was referred the letter of the presidents and secretaries of the Ontario and Quebec temperance and prohibitory leagues beg leave to report. They recommend that an acknowledgement of the receipt of the said communication be provided with an expression of sympathy, on the part of this synod, with all legitimate efforts for the suppression of the sin of intemperance. They would further beg leave to report that they are of opinion that the time has come when the church in this diocese may fitly take action in this matter, and they would strongly recommend that a society be established under the auspices of this synod, having in view the same objects as the newly established temperance society of the Church of England, so far, at least, as its prospectus is applicable to the somewhat different circumstances of this country. They woul beg leave to report, for the furtherance of this recommendation, that the following prospectus of objects be adopted for a society to be formed in connection with the church in this diocese:

"1. For the promotion of habits of temperance. 2. For the reformation of the intemperate. 3. For the removal of the causes which lead to intemperance. Special objects aimed at by the society: I.—1. The explaining and enforcing of existing laws. 2. The progressive dimunition of the number of taverns and saloons. 3. The enforcement of the law for the closing of taverns and saloons from Saturday evening to Monday morning. 4. The strengthening of the hands of the authorities in the exercise of their power in dealing with the sale of intoxicating liquors. 5. The promotion of temperance hotels, mechanics' institutes, and other counteractions to the ordinary taverns. 6. The discouragement of the present system of 'treating.' 7. The diffusion of correct and reliable information, by temperance literature, tracts, and other publications, and by missionary efforts in prisons and other places where the victims of intemperance are usually found. 8. The promotion of union for special prayer throughout the country for the divine blessing upon the temperance movement. II.—For abstainers from intoxicating drinks. 9. The establishment of parochial temperance societies, guilds, and bands of hope based on the principle of total abstinence, under the superintendence or with the sanction of the parochial clergy, as the proved and most effectual human means of bringing the intemperate under the teaching and power of the gospel, and so setting them free from the bondage of their sin, and of preserving others from the abounding temptations of the day.

"Deeply impressed with the need of definite action to meet a growing evil before its roots are too firmly set in the habits and customs of the country, your committee would strongly advise synodical action based upon the report now respectfully submitted."

Out of regard for "the exigencies of space," I forbear comment.—Yours faithfully, LIBRARIAN, C.E.T.S.

Yankee Flag Scarce.

Washington, May 28.—"Commerce and Navigation," 1900-1, issued by the United States treasury department, shows that United States shipping records were broken in one respect, viz., in the trade between the United States and Europe. During that entire period not one United States merchant vessel went to or came from Germany, Russia, Sweden, and Norway, Denmark, the Netherlands, Italy, Hungary, Austria, Greece or Turkey. Only two small United States vessels came from France, one from Belgium and three from the united kingdom. Eleven went from the United States to the united kingdom. The Yankee flag was never before such a rarity on the North Atlantic between the United States and Europe.

Large Emigration.

Berlin, May 28.—The Prussian railways are handling many emigrants, Ruthonian farmers, who are bound for the United States. Six thousand left Hamburg to-day.
