Weak, Nervous School Children.

The severe and ever increasing strain of competitive examinations, coming at a time when every boy and girl is undergoing trying physiological changes, does much toward making mental and physical wrecks of school children. A glance at the pale, weak and puny children which come from our public and high schools will make any thoughtful person consider seriously the advisability of sacrificing health and vigor for the trivial honor of standing high at examination time.

Hosts of boys and girls, young men and young women, are suffering from ills and irregularities resulting from exhausted nerve force. There is no treatment known to science that will so naturally and thoroughly restore strength and vitality to the nervous system and health to the whole body as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It makes parents happy by bringing back the color to the faces and the buoyancy and elasticity to the bodies of their pale, puny children.

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

SHAM FIGHT AT THE CAMP.

HONORS WERE ABOUT EQUALLY DIVIDED.

Good Work Done by Both the Attacking and Defensive Parties—Those Who Scored Best at the Rifle Ranges—Other Notes About Camp.

[illegible]

In The Hospital Tents.

The tent in which the measles patient was confined was disinfected last evening along with the clothing the man wore. The tent was situated out on the hospital lines.

It is gratifying to know how rapidly the men in hospital are recovering, now that camp is nearly over.

During the sham fight yesterday morning No. 2 field hospital company established a dressing station at Battleford and a field hospital at Cataraqui bridge, and provided two ambulance waggons for the defending company. For the attacking party a field hospital was stationed on the camp ground and a hospital farther down the road. One ambulance waggon was also furnished the attacking party. Sergt Trump, Harry Gamble, of the 3rd Dragoons, was thrown from his horse during the sham fight. He fell on a stone and received a wound in the left leg.

Musketry Results.

The following are the results of the company practices at the rifle ranges with the Morris rifle, under [illegible] of musketry instructor W. J. P. White, of the 14th regiment.

[illegible]

4th Hussars. Figure of merit, 117. First class shots, 88; second class shots, 63; third class shots, 13. Best shots: "A" squadron, Corpl Aiken, 145; "B" squadron, Tp. Carroll, 138; "C" squadron, Corpl Johnston, 153; "D" squadron, Tp. Burton, 148.

Capt. J. N. Carter, adjutant of the 16th regiment, Picton, is one of the most popular men in camp, as was exemplified yesterday afternoon when he was presented with a complimentary address by Staff Sergt. H. J. Sullivan, on behalf of officers and men of the regiment, while W. V. Pettit, ex-M.P., presented Capt. Carter with a handsome bouquet of flowers. Capt. Carter was very much surprised at this marked attention, but managed to reply suitably. Capt. Carter is solicitous on behalf of his men, and they thoroughly appreciate his kindness.

The divisional staff was photographed in a group by "Bob" Henderson yesterday. They were an exceptionally good looking lot of men.

Lieut.-Col. Hodgins, brigadier, has been ordered to accompany the minister of militia to the Pan American exposition. He left last night for Ottawa.

According to divisional orders, issued yesterday, the various regiments will leave for their respective headquarters at the following hours: 16th, per steamer North King, at 5 p.m., this (Friday) evening. 40th, per G.T.R., 8.30 a.m., Saturday; 42nd, per K. & P. and C.P.R., 11 a.m., Saturday. 45th, per G.T.R., 8 a.m., Saturday. 46th, G.T.R., 9.30 a.m., Saturday. 47th, G.T.R., 9.40 a.m., Saturday. 49th, G.T.R., 11 a.m., Saturday. 56th, G.T.R., 10.30 a.m., Saturday. 59th, G.T.R., 10 a.m., Saturday.

The blue ribbon for most effective work in connection with the sham fight Thursday, goes to the 45th regiment, Lieut.-Col. Samuel Hughes commanding. The regiment was placed in defence of Fort Henry, and so well were the men distributed and handled that not one was lost, but on the other hand, they took whole companies of the attacking force prisoners. Col. Hughes, in the handling of his regiment, showed the benefit of practical training.

With An Eye To Business.

Chicago Post.

The old man was smoking his pipe on the front porch as the young man left the house.

"Things have changed since I was a lad," suggested the old man.

"How so?" demanded the young man.

"In my day, when we went courting, we didn't burn one gas jet, let alone two."

"Possibly," suggested the young man, pointedly, "if you had fallen heir to some gas trust stock about that time it would have made a difference."

Thereupon the old man went into the house and told his daughter that when it came to a question of getting a real good business man in the family she could have his consent at any time.

LONDON SOCIETY ON SHOW.

IT COST GUINEAS TO ATTEND THE DUCHESS' FETE.

Funds go to the Lifeboat Institution—An Extra Guinea to See Stafford House Picture Gallery and Fifty Guineas to Sit Down With Countesses and Others at Supper.

London, June 27.—In behalf of the royal life boat institution, whose finances have suffered severely by the competition of the numberless war funds, king Edward sanctioned for the solitary social gathering of the London season.

The duchess of Sutherland gave a fete in aid of the fund, and throw the doors of the Stafford house open to any one who paid two guineas for a ticket. The guests included many hundreds who were anxious to shine in the reflected glory of duchesses and other members of the nobility. The duchess received her guests standing alongside the marble statue of Erin playing a harp, for which a former duchess is said to have sat.

For an extra guinea a visitor was entitled to sit in the magnificent picture gallery among the masterpieces of Titian, Van Dyck, Murillo and Velasquez and listen to a succession of artistes as distinguished as Melba, Vaballik and Dan Leno. Moreover, tickets for special supper tables were sold at fifty guineas apiece. Some of those were returned by the purchasers and resold, and all the proceeds gathered went to the lifeboat institution's treasury.

The patronesses included the best-known leaders of society, such as marchionesses of Londonderry, the countess of Dudley, the duchess of Portland and lady Tweedmouth, who helped the duchess of Sutherland more or less to convince the strangers within her gates that for once they were in society.

Neither the great banqueting hall nor the stately reception rooms were overcrowded either by members of the ancient aristocracy or ordinary two-guinea persons, though there was sufficient of both varieties to make an animated scene in palatially handsome setting. About forty young society beauties were inductions in the good cause of selling for a half guinea artistic souvenirs of the occasion.

The rule of half mourning on account of the death of queen Victoria was loyally observed, but this did not prevent the display of the handsomest black and white robes and the costliest jewels.

In the brilliantly illuminated gardens, which extend to the edge of St. James' park, Ben Greet's company of professional players, gave a performance of Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors" under a great chestnut tree. The perfect summer night induced many to linger in the grounds long past midnight, when the serious minded ticket holders were still studying the collection of pictures and artistic curios that are unrivalled in any private mansion in England. A number of Americans were noticed in the audience.

The concert programme included violincello solos by Hoffman, accompanied by Mrs. George Cornwallis-West.

Among the male onlookers at the fete were the duke of Devonshire, who represented politics, and Alfred Beit, the South African millionaire, who represented finance.

King Edward and queen Alexandra are patrons of the lifeboat institution, but neither they nor any members of the royal family departed from the rule forbidding attendance at any public festivity this year.

The Daily Chronicle says it understands that the fete realized about £4,000.

CRUSADE AGAINST CORSETS.

Pupils in Hungarian Schools Forbidden to Wear Them.

London Telegraph.

An active crusade against the wearing of corsets is being carried on at Buda-Pesth. The Hungarian minister for public instruction has issued an energetic order against their use, forbidding all girl pupils attending the public and private day schools in Hungary to wear them. Herr von Wlassics declares in his order that corsets prevent the full development of the bodily organs and stunts the growth. He desires a uniform blouse to be adopted in its stead. This order has been sympathetically received in educational circles, but regret is expressed that the female teachers have not been included in it, as it is thought their example may be prejudicial to their pupils.

Later On.

Pittsburg Chronicle Telegraph.

There'll be kicks about the heat,
Later on;
There'll be growls from all we meet,
Later on;
Every fellow will declare
That it's mighty hard to bear,
And will wish for chilly air,
Later on.

They will oft express regret,
Later on;
When their brows and cheeks are wet,
Later on;
That rude gibes they used to fling
At the backwardness of spring,
And they'll yearn for winds that sting,
Later on.

High the mercury will rise,
Later on;
And Old Sol blaze in the skies,
Later on;
All electric fans will whirz,
And the soda founts will fizz,
And the heat will fairly sizz,
Later on.

They'll be sorry that they growled,
Later on;
And at fuel dealers scowled,
Later on;
For the man who sells them ice,
Will exact a heavy price
For a measly little slice
Later on.

Bear in mind that 'twill be hot
Later on;
Comfort vainly will be sought,
Later on;
So when springtime days are cold
Don't about the weather scold,
For there'll be heat uncontrolled,
Later on.

MUSICAL NOTES.

What is Happening in the Musical World.

The fifth Bonn Chamber music festival, given in honor of Beethoven in the venerable old town of his birth, took place the third week in May. Ignace Jan Paderewski was the soloist, and played on every one of the five days of the festival. His name drew crowds, and the seats in the hall were completely sold out beforehand. Twelve hundred dollars was his fee for the festival, but he returned the cheque to the committee, saying, that the privilege of doing honor to a man like Beethoven, was ample compensation. The greatest chamber music composers: Beethoven, Haydn and Mozart, were taken up with the first day, then followed Schumann, Schubert, Brahms, and Chopin. The Marie Rogger Soldat quartette, composed of ladies, the cellist being an American, did most artistic work, Joachim, the old violinist, surpassed himself. He is unique in perhaps being the only man, who at the age of seventy can still appear before the public and do justice to himself. He and his associates took a large share in the programme.

The Kaltenborne orchestra has opened its third season at the St. Nicholas gardens, New York. Its popular concerts are given nightly. The programme of a recent week, including Sunday, contained compositions of Wagner, Meyerbeer, Strauss, Schumann, Massenet, Chopin, Mendelssohn, Rossini, and Rubenstein. Wagner night always attracts the largest audiences. It is to be regretted that the quartette did not keep its Canadian engagements last spring. Kaltenborne is a young man, and has made a name for himself in musical circles.

Mdme. Schumann-Heink, Lilian Blauvet, Mrs. Julia Wymans, Frances Davies and Evans Williams will sing at the Saengerfest, Buffalo, on Tuesday and Wednesday. A chorus and orchestra of 3,000 drawn from various other cities will take part in the festival.

Ivan Hallstrom, the Swedish composer, who died April 11th, wrote several operas, among them "Nyaga" for which Carmen Sylvia wrote the libretto. Mrs. Beach, the popular American composer, has just published a wedding cantata "Sylvania." The text the Musical Courier says, is freely adapted from the German by Frederick Bancroft, giving a solo each to a nightingale, a bridesmaid, a sibyl, a watchman, and a spirit of the night with choruses for brownies, students, church bells, forest trees and villages.

A curious musical effect has been discovered in connection with the ordinary lamp by which our streets are presently electrically lighted. By using a telephone transmitter and its coils of wire, tunes, especially when they are whistled in front of the telephone, although this may be at some considerable distance away, are perfectly reproduced at the lamp when lighted and can be heard as far off as twenty and thirty feet.

New To Him.

Chicago Tribune.

The distinguished personage who had been announced as the speaker of the evening was late in arriving and an effort had been made to entertain the audience in the meantime by vocal music and short impromptu speeches.

A dozen or more persons began calling lustily for "Goo-goo Eyes."

Somewhat perplexed, the professor of philosophy and belles-lettres, who was acting as chairman, arose.

"If Mr. Googoo Wise is in the audience," he said, "he will oblige by coming forward."

Tent Meetings Started.

Corkill had his foot badly hurt by stepping on a nail. The Free Methodists have started tent meetings on East Main street. Nearly all of "Our Boys" are attending camp. Edith Irwin and Arthur Lake are trying the entrance examinations at Sydenham.

Persistent Backache.

That constant gnawing pain in the small of the back, tells you the kidneys are out of order, are not filtering the poisons from the blood as they should. Don't neglect the warning. Cure the backache and correct the kidney trouble in time before Bright's disease or diabetes fasten their grip on the system.

There is no remedy so effectual in curing backache, and every form of kidney trouble of young or old as Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets. They contain specific ingredients not found in any other medicine.

Miss Irene Groucle, Water street, Peterborough, Ont., tells of her case as follows: "Since last May the trouble with my back and side has been persistent, and the side very sore. I got a bottle of Dr. Pitcher's Backache Kidney Tablets from Ormond & Walsh, druggists, and soon felt a big change for better. The soreness has all gone since taking the tablets, and I cannot say too much in praise of the medicine, as it succeeded when others had failed."
