'Opifer per Orbem Dicor.'

CALLED TO ACCOUNT.

Mr. Gallagher received some attention from Hon. Mr. Stratton on Saturday, at the liberal meeting which was held in the Whig hall. Mr. Stratton read from the speech which Mr. Gallagher made at his nomination and to the effect that New Ontario was being developed by large portions of it being given away.

It was an unfortunate expression. It revived memories of the past, and of the struggle which the Ontario government had put forth in order to hold territory. The boundary line between this province and Manitoba and Quebec was in dispute, and the success of Ontario meant the preservation to it of a hundred thousand square miles of land, and all its riches in the way of timber and minerals. The success of Ontario meant more than this; it meant the defeat of the conservative government in the Dominion, and its rascally policy of parcelling out 50,000 square miles of the valuable territory aforesaid among its friends for sums averaging less than a cent an acre. The federal government fought the Ontario government, and practically fought for the distribution of New Ontario among its favourites.

Mr. Gallagher did not know about this when he said the government was developing the new division of the province by giving it away. It has given pulpwood concessions to several companies and other concessions to two railway companies. Mr Marter has been obliged to desert his party on the question, and Mr. Whitney deserted himself on the other, since after denouncing the Algoma railway grant as a robbery he supported the Manitoulin and North Shore railway grant, which, according to his reasoning, was even more obnoxious.

Perhaps Mr. Gallagher is not to be judged by his speeches. It is not his to frame politics—that is the work of his leader—but it is his to do as he is told, by Mr. Whitney, and he is one of the most obedient members of the opposition.

TRAINING THE HAND.

At the great educational convention in Detroit Dr. Grant, of Queen's university, is credited with disapproving of manual and technical training in children and students, who lack a sound education. The principal has been reflecting the views of many educationists and to the effect that the highest industrial life of a nation is only reached when the education of the people is developed to the fullest. The ideal of many persons is that up to a certain point nothing should interfere with the progress of education. The foundation for it should be laid broad and deep. The superstructure should be strong and enduring. Every young man and woman should aim at a university training. It rounds up the student life and fits the individual for any calling.

But the ideal is not attainable. A very small percentage of the children who enter the public schools reach the high schools, and a smaller percentage still reach the college. How to increase this percentage is the problem of the hour, and most assuredly the secret does not lie in the depreciation of manual and technical training. These develop the tastes of the pupils, and it cannot be discovered too early what they are. It does not do to wait until one has entered his college course to discover that he is not inclined towards literature, but has a genius for mechanics. The education of every one should be as liberal as possible, but it should be specially designed to bring out the student's power in usefulness.

The Germans are said to have been especially successful in industry and art because of the gymnasium and the influence it exerts through its graduates. "But," as a contemporary points out, "the German school boys are taught the rudiments of a trade, with the result that their inclinations are soon detected." The youth who has a taste for mechanics very soon develops it and "takes to it, as a duck takes to water. It is to be hoped the 'great want' will soon be generally supplied in Canada."

There are two sides to every question. The university men are quite right in expatiating upon the importance of a university career, but the boy who is not destined to reach it cannot be overlooked.

ADVICE TO TEACHERS.

Some teachers—and particularly those in high schools—take opportunity to formulate their opinions on current matters to the pupils and sometimes are treasonable in their utterances. The Toronto Telegram wisely advises teachers to this effect:

"A school teacher is not a government, and is therefore not bound to formulate a policy upon every question within the range of current human interests.

"School rooms are not dedicated to the manufacture of opinions which can be formed better from the newspapers. The opinions of the school teacher are his own and he should keep them to himself.

"A school teacher's technical knowledge is the main consideration which he gives in return for his salary, and the process of imparting this knowledge should not be encumbered by his guesses at the truth or falsity of Britain's foreign policy."

EDITORIAL TIPS.

A Philadelphia butcher thinks newspapers should devote less space to describing what people should wear and more to what they should eat. Fashionably dressed women don't know lamb from mutton, or a hen from a rooster. No wonder men have dyspepsia!

The Montreal Witness very promptly tells Hon. Mr. Chamberlain that there has never been any strong, open annexation movement towards the United States, in Canada, but that there has always been a strong imperial sentiment, which manifested itself in recent acts. That sentiment, to help old Britain, was not created in a year; it is inborn in the Canadian heart. There have been some annexationists, but they were few and without influence. Mr. Chamberlain is quite mistaken in saying that annexation was thirty years ago generally looked upon as inevitable by Canadians. He has not read Canadian history aright.

The Tory, a conservative publication, is led to reiterate Sir Mackenzie Bowell's charge that the party has a fine "nest of traitors." Listen:

"Before the present leaders can expect any large degree of support financially or otherwise, from the rank and file of the party in Ontario, they must give some greater evidence than they have shown up to the present time that they possess the energy, the intelligence and the vitality to carry the province in the face of the powerful influences opposed to them. The deadliest enemies of the conservative party to-day are not outside its party. They are a miserable crew of discredited politicians, who find a place within the party councils by virtue of no superior intelligence, but solely on account of historic associations."

The Band Is Popular.

Despite the fact that the members were detained at Long Island park until an hour too late to participate in the concert, the 14th regimental band rendered a delightful programme in Macdonald park last evening. Thousands of citizens gathered to listen to the music and at the same time be cooled by the refreshing and invigorating zephers that were wafted across lake Ontario. The new instruments recently purchased in England were heard for the first time and a noticeable improvement in the music was a result.

Fruit Very Scarce.

Boarding house keepers are not in the best of humor these days, and it is said that the cause of it all is the extraordinary high price of fruit this season. Some few of them cannot afford to touch cherries at all, while many boarders will never see raspberries or blueberries next winter, unless they happen to get an invitation out to tea on Sunday afternoon. Raspberries are obtainable at from 12½c. to 15c. a box, and blueberries at 10c. a box. The apple crop, it is hinted, will also be very small.

Should Leave Them Alone.

A reporter interviewed John McIntyre, K.C., chairman of the board of health, regarding the shad fly pest. Mr. McIntyre stated that the people should not sweep flies into heaps, but leave them to evaporate; there was no necessity for touching them. He admitted, however, that when the flies were raising a stench, it was the duty of the board of health to take action. Accordingly, he ordered the city scavenger to remove the obnoxious heaps from in front of the G.T.R office.

Public Spirited Board.

The annual report of the board of trade of St. Catharines is an imposing book of 114 pages, giving a review of every feature of the city, particulars of all institutions, views of public buildings, stores and residences, and notes every business and attraction. It will do a great work in advertising St. Catharines and gaining new friends and admirers. But everybody helps in this work up there.

FEELEY A FENIAN.

While a Member of Canadian Militia He Plotted Treason.

Toronto Star.

Dennis Carroll Feeley, the Rochester lawyer, who died there on Monday, was a traitor of the rankest kind to Canada. Feeley emigrated to Canada from Ireland when he was a young man, and received his earlier education in the Victoria college, at Cobourg, where his home was. He took his law course at the law school in Toronto, and went back to Cobourg, where he commenced to practice law. He joined the Cobourg battery of the garrison artillery, and made a great profession of loyalty to this country and to Great Britain. He was soon promoted to be sergeant-major of the battery, and was soon one of the best-liked men in the battery and in the town.

When the battery was ordered to Toronto, Feeley came here, and was quartered at the old fort. One day, as he was leaving the fort to come down town, he dropped a letter. This letter fell into the hands of other officers and was examined. It showed treachery of the rankest kind. Feeley was in correspondence with Gen. O'Neil, the commander of the Fenians, who were then making preparations to raid Canada. Feeley's quarters were searched and further evidence in the shape of a bundle of letters from Gen. O'Neil were discovered. The whole battery immediately turned out, and the city was searched for the traitor. In some manner he was warned and concealed himself. That night, in company with some men of the 16th regiment whom he had suborned, he stole a boat and made the trip across the lake. He took a prominent part in the raid, and after it was over made Rochester his home, but never summoned courage enough to put his foot on Canadian soil again.

DIAMOND COMMENTS.

Sullivan's Average is Higher Than Williams'

Forrie Weatherhead is credited with being a cracking baseball player.

Gananoque and Ogdensburg are to play on neutral ground for a purse. The match may be played in Kingston.

Sullivan's pitching average is .637, and Williams' .588. Sullivan has pitched twelve matches and Williams seventeen.

In the match against Hartford on Tuesday, Sullivan could not be touched at critical moments. He put them over so hard that the Hartford heavy batters could do nothing with them.

Kingston wants the Torontos to play here again. The Telegram says: "Last time the Torontos went there they presented Sullivan with a gold watch. Now that George has developed into such a twirler it's up to the people of Kingston to do the decent and lay in his supply of winter coal.

Manager Olson, of the Louisville, Ky., young women's baseball team, fell in love with his pitcher, Miss Clementia Brida, and the couple were married at Jeffersonville. The bride went into the box in the afternoon, and was hit for twenty-one runs. However, her own team made the same number.

The Toronto Telegram enquires: "Who was better fitted to pull a Canadian team of American hired men out of a hole than George Sullivan, Esq., a Canuck, bred and born, and he did it in royal fashion?" and adds: "When the directors of the Toronto club heard that Sully had won his game they could not contain themselves, and all went over to Yonge street and ordered new clothes on the strength of winning."

Burley Wins The Trophy.

The fourth and last road race, for the silver trophy donated by the Canada cycle and motor company, Toronto, was run off last evening. There was a very large crowd in Victoria park to see the start and finish. The two finishing racers were Burley and Buxton, each of whom had fourteen points to his credit before the final race. Burley was somewhat handicapped last night, inasmuch as at the last moment he discovered a puncture in his wheel and was obliged to ride another. The borrowed wheel was one geared to ninety-two, while his only was only seventy-seven and a half. Despite the fact, he came in from the ten mile course neck and neck with Buxton. The finish required a lap and a half around the park ring. Burley sprinted during the last 100 yards, and won the race. His time was thirty-one and a half minutes. He is a speedy little rider, who can sprint in fine fashion when necessary. Burley is employed as a baker with T. R. Carnovsky, Princess street.

Are Much Gratified.

Picton Gazette.

The many friends of the Rev. E. Loucks both in the country as well as in the town, will be gratified to learn that he has been promoted from the title of rural dean to that of canon. The office is an honorary one involving many duties. There are eight canons throughout the diocese of Ontario, and when the vacancy recently occurred by the death of the late canon Spencer, bishop Mills, through his wisdom conferred the honorable title to the Rev. E. Loucks as a recognition mark for his untiring work and services in the diocese. For the past forty-three years he has been an ardent worker in the diocese, twenty-seven of which have been spent in his present parish—he is now the oldest working clergyman in the diocese. His appointment makes him one of the cathedral clergy, and entitles him to a stall or seat in it also. During his period of service here he has always been found the same true, hard-working, large-hearted, out-spoken, man, never shirking his work or duty. Considering his advanced age he is remarkably active man and it is our sincere hope that he may long be spared to enjoy his new title.

Results Still Delayed.

Scores of children visit the board of education rooms each day, enquiring when the entrance examinations results will be announced. It is a proper question. How many weeks behind the county and all the neighboring towns is Kingston going to be? All the other names have been published except those of the Kingston pupils. There are four examiners in the city—inspector Kidd and principal Ellis; Miss Lovick, representing the public schools, and Miss Haggerty, representing the separate schools. Seventy-five cents is paid for the examination of each paper, and the four "whack it up" between them. If they did as is done in other places, they would appoint more examiners and get the work done in less time, though, of course, each examiner would make less money.

Where Breezes Never Enter.

These are pretty warm days, no matter how cool a spot you have to work or lay around in (the latter preferred). But there is perhaps—nay, for a certainty—no spot in the city so dingy, dull (except at times), dirty, dark and dangerous to work in (or loaf in, as some people say) as the post office. The breezes are afraid to enter the place, while the sun leaves many a corner unilluminated. The employees are to be pitied. Talk about abolishment of the sweating system! It prevails here, and there is no relief from it while the warm weather lasts. Before the close of the last session of parliament $1,100 was voted to repair and improve the office. What is the government and its local architect doing? If something is not done soon, the humane society should look after the employees.

ATTEMPTED BURGLARIES

At Napanee—Sales on The Cheese Board.

Napanee, July 18.—At the cheese board yesterday afternoon 1,200 boxes white and 365 boxes of coloured cheese was boarded; 250 sold at 9 1-16c., the balance refused at nine cents. The following buyers were present: Vanluven, Thompson, Alexander, Bissell, Ckall and Brenton.

Gertie Miller, nurse-in-training, New York, is spending holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. R. Miller. Miss Maggie Demorest, nurse in a New York hospital, is spending holidays with her sister, Dr. Demorest, John street.

E. McLaughlin and children are rusticating for a month in Bruce county.

Two of our Napanee collegiate institute pupils were successful at the normal examinations in Hamilton, F. C. Anderson and Miss Florence G. Hall. Mr. Anderson has accepted a position at Athens for the balance of the term.

Two or three attempts at burglary were reported yesterday, and in one case a loss of $2.46. One broke into Dr. Cowan's, but nothing was missed. A. J. Dunbar, living near by, reports the loss of $2.46, and Mr. Gibson, living on Centre street, surprised some one about four o'clock in the morning and chased the party quite a piece off. Nothing more serious seems to have been done than the attempt.

The past few days have been most terribly hot. The thermometer registered ninety-eight degrees yesterday at noon. The evening, however, was a little cooler. The steamer Reindeer met with an accident on Tuesday, breaking a pinion. The trouble is now adjusted.

Hit This Chip Off Please?

Kingston Freeman.

At Toronto, on 12th July, Robert Bermingham, big-gun Orangeman and late Ontario organizer of the conservative party, spoke of a great Orange demonstration in honor of the duke and duchess of York, at the same time making it a grand reception to viscount Crichton, eldest son of the earl of Erne, the Orange imperial grand master. The Orangemen threw a wet blanket over the visit of the prince of Wales, now king Edward, in 1860, and if Mr. Bermingham has his wish the same thing may occur again. Lord Minto, guided by the care of 1860, will likely dinkey-dink Orange loyalty and addresses on this occasion.

G.T.R. Tourist Book.

The Grand Trunk railway system has issued its summer tourist book, which gives an immense amount of useful information to those planning their summer trips. The book is entitled "Routes and Fares for Tours," and includes the different routes to the Pan-American exposition. In addition to this several pages deal with information of interest to the traveller, a list of side trips and steamer and steamboat connections. There is also embodied in the publication a complete and comprehensive map of the beautiful scenic districts in "The Highlands of Ontario," and of the system and its connections.

Married On Monday.

On Monday evening Sergt.-Inst. Slade, of the divisional staff, was united in marriage to Miss Sarah Rourke, at the home of her uncle, A. D. Pettigrew, Quebec street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. James Boyd, of Zion Presbyterian church. Sergt. Summers supported the groom, who is a native of Quebec. The young couple have many friends who wish them long life and happiness.

Recovered A Purse.

One of the lady tourists from Buffalo, who arrived in the city Tuesday evening, left her purse containing a large sum of money in the Grand Trunk suburban car. She did not miss it until she had reached the Frontenac hotel, but upon visiting the car the purse was found on one of the seats.
