COUNTESS' TRIBULATIONS.

CONTESSA DI TORRECUSA DEMANDS SEPARATION.

Nearer Romance Than Life — Daughter of Rich Building Contractor in Naples Persecuted Until Compelled to Marry Hated Admirer—Locked up in Cellar on Bread and Water.

New York, July 29. From the European edition of the Herald the following is taken:

Contessa di Torrecusa's suit before the ecclesiastical court for the annulment of her marriage is causing great sensation in Naples. The countess demands that the marriage be declared null and void because she was forced to go through the marriage ceremony against her will. She adds that she is a wife in name only.

The plaintiff is the daughter of signor Fiocca, the rich building contractor. When eighteen years old she was secretly affianced to a young doctor. Shortly afterward conte di Torrecusa made the acquaintance of the beautiful young heiress and sued for her hand.

Her father, flattered by the prospect of having a member of such a prominent family for son-in-law, agreed to the match. As his daughter refused to marry conte di Torrecusa he sent her to an out-of-the-way place in the Abruzzi, believing that exile would break down her opposition to the marriage. There signorina Fiocca was deprived of her jewelry and wardrobe, treated with great cruelty, and locked up in a cellar where she was limited to a bread and water diet. The poor girl's mother is dead, and her grandmother, her only female relative, behaved with even greater harshness than her father. Finally, being unable to support her martyrdom any longer, signorina Fiocca was wedded to conte di Torrecusa eighteen months ago.

She became of age about three months ago, and on the day she attained her majority applied to the civil court and to the ecclesiastical authorities for the annulment of her marriage. The civil court has, says the Berliner Borsen Courier, provisionally granted contessa Torrecusa "a separation mensa et thoro." The suit before the ecclesiastical authorities is being heard in public, although much unsavory testimony has to be investigated. Universal sympathy is felt for contessa Torrecusa, and it is hoped full release from her hateful matrimonial bonds will be granted to the unfortunate young woman.

FAIR DIRECTORS.

The Executive Entrusted With the Management.

A joint meeting of the directors of the three fair societies was held on Saturday afternoon, the mayor in the chair. The resignation of James H. Metcalfe, as manager, was accepted. The executive was authorized to make such improvements at the grounds as were necessary, over and above those made by the civic property committee, and was also entrusted with the management of the fair.

Immediately afterwards, the executive met, W. H. Macnee presiding. These committees were formed:

Grounds and sports—Alderman Carson, and Messrs. Chadwick, McLeod and Smith.

Horse races—Messrs. McParland and Spoor.

Attractions—Dr. Ryan and W. H. Macnee.

Advertising—R. Meek and D. E. Starr.

These committees will report at a meeting on Thursday afternoon.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The Kaid Very Near Us.

Kingston, July 29.—(To the Editor): Having noticed a recent letter in your paper from Toronto, in reference to Kaid Maclean, I would say, that the kaid is the son of Dr. Andrew Maclean, who was on the medical staff at Sandhurst, Eng. His grandfather was Donald Maclean, of Drimnin, writer to the Signet in Edinburgh, Scotland,—and was the last of the Macleans, of Drimnin, the estate passing out of the family in his time. His great-grandfather was killed on the field at Culloden with four of his sons, fighting for Bonnie prince Charlie. The kaid is a full cousin of Dr. Donald Maclean, of Detroit, Mrs. Browett and Mrs. J. O. Paterson, of Kingston, and a second cousin of the present laird of Lochbine Murdoch Maclaine.—ONE WHO KNOWS.

How's This, Umpire?

Circulars issued from the C. P. R. strikers' headquarters, Montreal, make these statements:

"A superintendent on the Kingston and Pembroke railroad hired a foreman and thirty men to work for the C. P. railroad. They were to receive more wages than the company were asked to pay by your committee, and were told that the strike had been settled. When advised to the contrary they refused to work."

"The Kingston and Pembroke officials have been hiring men to take our places; the officials of the Bay of Quinte road are dumping the men on the C. P. road who are of no use to them. One, named Wager, has been placed at Ivanhoe as foreman."

The explanation is easy, perhaps; the K. & P. is virtually part of the C.P.R. system and will be sold outright within a few months, or all signs fail in dry weather.

Scranton School Representatives.

J. C. Long, travelling representative for the International Correspondence schools, Scranton, Pa., is again in the city to help boom the work. He will shortly be transferred to Manitoba with Winnipeg as his headquarters. F. L. Grice, Hamilton, will fill Mr. Long's place in this section temporary. The permanent appointment goes to H. C. Brown, of St. John, N.B. F. W. Tresham, who has been representing the schools in Winnipeg, will come east again. He was formerly located in Kingston.

At a special meeting of the school of mining governors on Saturday, the resignation of Prof. DeKalb was accepted with great regret. Steps will be taken to advertise the vacancy.

TRIBULATION AND PATIENCE.

Thoughtful Sermon Delivered By Rev. Dr. Jones.

Rev. Dr. William D. Jones, Philadelphia, Pa., occupied the pulpit in Sydenham street Methodist church, at morning service, Sunday. He delivered a thoughtful sermon, full of force and vigor, and convincing in argument. Dr. Jones took as his text Romans v. 3: "Tribulation worketh patience." "This is not to be said of all, said Dr. Jones. Sometimes it does just the opposite, it worketh irritation, hostility, conflicting passion, but to the Christly soul it worketh patience. Now, no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous. Nevertheless, afterward it yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness to them that are exercised thereby.

Patience is not insensibility. Some are commended for their patience who should be condemned for stoicism—hard heartedness. Nor is it weakness. Some are praised for patience who lack the capacity for strong, intense feeling on any matter. It implies the most exquisite sensibility and the highest power, the power of reflection and endurance and self-control. For a strong-minded, high-mettled, earnest, intense nature to keep steady and sweet under strain means something. This patience tribulation is intended under divine grace to effect.

The preacher then proceeded to elaborate this thought and showed, (1st) that tribulation rightly endured lifts the soul into closer communion with God. When the earthly fades from our view, the heavenly looms up in all its importance and we are led to seek things that are above. (2nd) That tribulation rightly endured puts the highest honor upon us, numbering us among God's heroes, putting us where Noah, Abraham, Job, Joseph, Elijah and Paul have been; aye, more, admitting us to the fellowship of Christ's suffering, stamping us with the mark of God's courage; the seal of His acceptance; the badge of His soldiers; the cross of His sorrows; the crown of His triumph. (3rd) That tribulation endureth in the Christly spirit brings to us the best in the end. To him that overcometh is pledged the Tree of Life; safety from the second death; the white stone with the new name written thereon; the morning star; the white raiment; a pillar in the temple of God; a seat with the Saviour on His throne all to him that overcometh. But there can be no overcoming without an engagement; there must be a battle in order to gain a victory. Let us then gird on the armour and fight the good fight of faith that Eternal Life may be ours in the grand outcome.

Church Paragraphs.

Not in many years were the churches so slimly attended as last evening, the rain being responsible.

The Sunday school connected with Cooke's Presbyterian church will be closed during August, giving scholars and teachers a vacation.

The congregation of Cooke's Presbyterian church were treated to some splendid singing at last evening's service. Mrs. Daly, (formerly Miss Sophia Burton) rendered beautifully "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," and Mr. Barrow, Providence, R.I., a visitor in Kingston, sang with good effect a solo entitled "The Lord is My Shepherd." It is seventeen years ago since Mrs. Daly last sang in Kingston.

There was no lack of preachers at Chalmers church yesterday morning. No less than three entered the vestry ready to don the gown. Rev. Dr. Jordan was to have preached, but not having returned from England, until Sunday morning, it fell to Rev. Prof. Macnaughton or Rev. R. J. Craig, also supplying during the minister's absence, to occupy the pulpit, and hence the gathering in the vestry. Rev. Prof. Macnaughton preached at both services.

ECONOMY IN DRESS URGED.

Simplicity Now the Watchword — Follow Queen's Example.

London, July 29.—One virtue at least is making a strong appeal to the ladies of the British aristocracy. It is an eminently practical one—the virtue of economy.

A committee of prominent women has been formed whose object is the reduction of expenditure in dress. It comes into prominence just now because queen Alexandra has declined its presidency.

Her majesty expresses sympathy with the objects of the committee, which she considers laudable in view of the society's present craze for expensive attire, but she reminds her petitioners that they must not forget the benefit derived by shopkeepers "and others who are entitled to equal consideration."

It is well known that the queen herself adopts the utmost simplicity in her costumes, and in this she is being emulated by the duchess of Sutherland, the duchess of Portland, the duchess of Marlborough, the duchess of Somerset and other society leaders.

These latter are using cotton and tweed in their gowns, and are going to extremes in the cheapness and simplicity of the trimmings.

It has suddenly become the fashion to regard expensive dressing as the perquisite of the parvenu, and there are those who think that the gay and costly habilments of American women in London have some relation to this new view.

A bold burglary was committed at Clayton early on Saturday evening, when the rooms of James McWilliams, in the Johnson block, were entered and a purse containing $40 was taken. Jack Gibson, recently released after serving a term in prison for some similar offence, was arrested on suspicion. The money was recovered.

Some Belleville ruralists, off the steamer Varuna, walked about the streets this morning, with eyes dilated, and mouths expanded. They said it was a treat to get into an up-to-date place once in a while. The Bellevillians bought freely of buns and peanuts.

Swift's wharf: Sunday, steamers Kingston from Toronto; North King from Charlotte; steambarge Owen from Oswego. This morning, steamers Corsican, Hamilton to Montreal; Rideau Queen cleared for Ottawa.

HIS DAYS ARE AT AN END.

LAZIEST MAN ENDS LIFE WITHOUT ANY EXERTION.

Had Been Too Lazy to Work, Put on a Collar, Cut Wood or Cook His Own Food.

Central Village, Conn., July 29.—Joseph A. Bingham, of Andover, was buried yesterday. He enjoyed the unique reputation of being the laziest man in Connecticut. Bingham was fifty years old and never in the memory of any acquaintance had he done a stroke of work.

Born of well-to-do parents, he was supported by their wealth as long as they lived, then a legacy was left him in trust, which the selectman doled out to him. He boarded at Andover Inn for years, until his money was gone, then the scene shifted to a little house provided by the Selectman.

Here it was charged that he was too lazy to cut the wood given him, too lazy to draw water from the nearby well, too lazy to tie up his shoes. It was too much work to put on a collar, and as for cooking a meal with material all given him—well, he would starve rather than do it.

For the first time in twenty years he looked into a mirror on Friday last. What he saw there was his own reflection. He walked out and deliberately stood in front of an approaching train. It ended his life easily.

No exertion on his part was needed, as there would have been if he had used a pistol, rope or poison.

ENTIRE MAMMOTH FOUND.

Expedition at Irkoutsk Report Important Find.

New York, July 29.—The following is from the European edition of the Herald:

Highly interesting reading is a telegram which has just reached the St. Petersburg academy of science from Irkoutsk. It is sent by the successful body of explorers who have discovered an entire mammoth which they are bringing to St. Petersburg.

According to this telegram, the expedition arrived in Irkoutsk on June 1st, and eighteen days later it embarked on a further journey in a ship on the Alden (3,000 verets to Kolymsk), which is likely to last two and a half months. It proposes bringing the body of the mammoth as it is to St. Petersburg. It is the first example of an entire mammoth found.

TANNER HEYL

OF Worms, on the Rhine, Germany.

World known, and peerless in the production of Patent leather.

American tanneries have tried to supplant him, but even in their own market, with a heavy duty against it—Heyl's Patent Calfskin is the standard.

An American $5.00 or $6.00 Patent leather shoe, made from anything less than Heyl's would be ridiculed.

Imported direct from Germany into Canada by The Slater Shoe Makers, with 10 per cent. less duty against it than United States factories must pay.

This means better Patent leather shoes for the money in Canada, than can be had in the United States.

Every Patent leather Slater Shoe is now made of Heyl's—the best that money can buy. Goodyear Welted and stamped on the soles in a slate frame with the Makers' price.

CAUSE OF DROUGHT.

Destruction of Forests and Arid Lands Important Influences.

Washington, July 29.—"I do not know exactly what influence the presence or absence of forests has on the climate," said secretary of agriculture Wilson, "but I know this, that the devastation of the ranges is resulting in the growth of the arid lands of the west; that these arid lands can not be irrigated for lack of water and that the lack of water is partly due to the destruction of the forests at the source of the streams.

"I have sent experts into the western country and have directed that every source of information shall be utilized to obtain all the data possible concerning the hot wave, its causes and effects. I think we can safely promise some highly important and interesting information for our next monthly crop bulletin on August 10th."

Gifford Pinchot, chief of the forestry bureau, who has done much to arouse national interest in this subject, is now on a tour of inspection, but the acting head of the bureau gave it as his opinion that the hot spells of the middle west were undoubtedly due in part to the destruction of the forests and especially in Michigan and Minnesota, about the headwaters of the streams.

"If the people of the west continue to alter the face of nature," he said, "they must expect to change natural conditions."
