WHERE SOLOMON MINED.

DR. CARL PETERS HAS FOUND IDENTICAL REGION.

Egypt Civilized Dark Continent—Her Influence on The Zambesi Traced Back 2,500 Years Before Christ.

London, Aug. 3.—Dr. Carl Peters, German explorer, states that the investigations just completed by himself in Central Africa add a new and important chapter to the world's definite history.

"I return to England," he said, "prepared to prove to the satisfaction of the most exacting students that the territory about the Zambesi was held for many centuries by the Egyptians.

"From discoveries already made in Egypt we know that the people of that country penetrated far into Central Africa twenty-five hundred years before Christ.

"My present discoveries show that they were still there sixteen hundred years B.C., but had been deported eleven hundred years B.C. In other words, we now know that the Egyptians built up civilization in Central Africa and maintained it for centuries against all opposition.

"My evidence consists of relics and hieroglyphics. I have unearthed an Egyptian goddess, Isis, bearing an inscription making the identity indisputable. I have found numbers of bushmen's paintings and statues faithfully reproducing the Egyptian style among the rocks of the Zambesi, and have brought to light carvings representing an Egyptian ship which bore an expedition south, and on the arms of natives have discovered a survival of the system of tatooing which prevailed in Egypt.

"I shall distribute my relics between the Louvre and the British museum and record the fruits of my explorations in books. Remember that Livingston was nonplussed on finding traces of Egyptian art in Central Africa. Before archaeologists get through those regions I expect to see them straighten out many historical and ethnological tangles. Egypt herself has many precious secrets to reveal."

Dr. Peters' book will be entitled "Explorations in Ophir." He is contending that a district on the left bank of the Zambesi is the identical region whence Solomon took gold for his temple.

A Double Tempest.

The nurses of the infants' home must thank the highly interested gentleman who volunteered his services, in hearty manner, to act as mediator between mother and child at the home, last night. He made himself known by pounding upon the door in a manner that betokened anything but the spirit of a charitably disposed person. However, his kindness was duly appreciated by the fine robust lad of about three years, who had crept out of his cot and refused to return, with lusty protest. His cry, however, was hushed in amazement over the thundering voice of the visitor ringing through the hall. The very kind gentleman thought he had stood for half an hour listening to the cries while in reality they had only lasted for less than four minutes, but it was raining, no doubt, making him irritable. The child was not whipped or punished in any way before or after the visit.

The Police Are Watchful.

Recently four desperate criminals escaped from Lucas county jail at Toledo, Ohio, by holding up the turnkey. The sheriff of that county offers $800 reward for their arrest. Chief of police Baillie is in receipt of a circular giving their photographs and descriptions. One is J. B. Evans, aged thirty years, height, 5 ft., 6½ in., weight, 150 pounds; Thomas Stewart, aged twenty-seven years, 6 ft., 2 in., weight, 200 pounds; Thomas Keegan, aged twenty-five years, 5 ft., 8 in., weight, 140 pounds; David Morgan, aged twenty-four, years, 5 ft., 8 in., weight, 180 pounds.

A Precedent For Kingston.

In Belleville assessor Hume and inspector Downs take the dog census at different times, so that what one misses the other gets. As a result many families who in the first instance hid their dogs, were caught on the second round and were summoned before the magistrate and fined $1 and costs.

Back From Camp.

A portion of the boys' brigade of Queen street Methodist church, camping for the past week at Sibett's farm, below Barriefield, returned to the city this morning. As very few of the boys turned out, no drilling could be done. Those who were out, greatly enjoyed the camp.

Swift's wharf.—Steamers Corsican and Hamilton, from Montreal; Toronto, from Toronto; Rideau Queen, from Ottawa.

The steamer Pierrepont went to Belleville last evening to carry cattle to Cape Vincent.

The steamer Bigelow left Davis' dry dock last night, completely repaired, and cleared for Alexandria Bay. She arrives here on Monday morning with a party for a trip up the Rideau.

It is reported that the Rathbun company will likely buy the hull of the late steamer Hero. E. Charles, of the Thousand Island steamboat company, has gone to Deseronto to make an examination of the hull for the Rathbuns.

Capt. G. E. Atkinson, of Chicago, who sailed the steamer Northwestern through the St. Lawrence river both going and coming from Europe, says that his boat registered a depth of only thirteen feet nine inches coming through the river, and that bottom was felt several times. Capt. C. E. Ross, who made the initial trip in the Northman to Europe and return, said his boat was not drawing fourteen feet of water, and that bottom was touched more times than he kept account of. These captains say there is not a safe fourteen-foot channel throughout the season between Montreal and Kingston.

THE DUKE'S RECEPTION.

The Manner of it—Leave The Arches Alone.

The citizens, as a class, are opposed to expenditure upon arches for the reception of the duke and duchess, or as Canadians prefer it, the prince and princess. It will lead to a lot of expense and already people are eager to get the jobs, showing that there is quite a chance for speculation. Let the front of the city hall be handsomely decorated as the city's share of the reception. If there be an arch, let it be erected by the labor union of Kingston, as an offering. The builders' branch could erect one that would be much more creditable than any the city could pay for by contract, and every workingman in town would be proud of it.

The decorations should be a matter of private concern. Let every shopkeeper and householder do his best and the past has shown that a most creditable effect can be secured. Those who remember the Oddfellows' demonstration are certain that Kingston has looked better under private than under public effort, and the people can hardly afford to do both well. But the shopkeepers must put them in a position to do this. They must import flags and bunting more freely than has been done in gala times generally. People should not have to send out of town for these goods.

An Enjoyable Time (?).

Last evening a young clerk employed in a Princess street fruit store, accompanied by two young ladies, wheeled to Kingston Mills, where they visited friends in camp at that place. On the road down one of the young ladies wheeled off the road and down into a ditch, but escaped without injury. Shortly after the same young lady frightened a horse by the ringing of her bicycle bell. The animal ran away, throwing the occupants of the buggy out and slightly injuring one of them, a young lady resident of the Mills. On the return trip the party were overtaken by the rain and stood for shelter for about an hour on the "shady" side of a house. One of the party also had the misfortune to break the front rim of their wheel. They reached the city shortly after midnight.

Kingston's Fine Stores.

A Kingstonian returned from the west, after several years' residence there, says that the Kingston jewellery stores are fully as well known as are the large stores in Montreal and Toronto. Now this shows that if Kingston merchants will exercise care in ordering goods and a little enterprise in holding them, they will reap the results. Orders come from east and west freely to Kingston jewellers.

Longed For Something Sweet.

The small grocery store of Mrs. Charlotte Graves, Chatham street, was relieved of some candies and other toothsome dainties night before last. The matter was yesterday made known to the police, who believe that a couple of small boys were the offenders. A window was broken, and through it an entrance was found. The lads took only a small quantity of the sweet edibles.

Married At St. George's.

Driver A. Tompkins, of "A" field battery, was united in marriage last evening to Miss Lettia Babcock, daughter of Henry Babcock, Cherry street. Driver Silver, of the battery, supported his comrade, while Miss Mary Babcock, sister of the bride, performed the services of bridesmaid. The ceremony was performed in St. George's cathedral by dean Smith.

John A. Flett, vice-president of the trades and labor congress of Canada, made the statement in Montreal that the arbitration and conciliation act of the Dominion government is useless.

There was a splendid market to-day, and the attendance was very large. New potatoes, green corn, tomatoes, and other new fruit were quite plentiful.

BUT A FEW BRIEF WEEKS

TO FLAUNT HER GLORIES TO THE BREEZES.

Tinted Lace a High Note in the Latest Creations — The Silk Coat is Out for Use—The Bead Chain Craze Coming.

New York, Aug. 3.—One hardly would judge by the number of thin gowns now under the course of construction that the summer woman has but a few weeks more to flaunt her glories to the breezes and delight the artistic eye of the exquisiteness of her frocks.

The embroidered muslins and batistes are quite as chic and extensively worn as any of the thin materials. A feature in dress trimmings which has proved very destructive in connection with the latter is the motif of white taffeta. In mulls the favored design is a cluster of tiny pink rosebuds upon a background of cream white, pale blue or pure white. The more expensive patterns have embroidered black silk dots alternating with the sprays of rosebuds. To be distinctly modish the embroidery is done to order and arranged according to the style of the gown. One elaborate model has three rows of lace insertion set in the skirt above a lace flounce, and the embroidery in the front of the bodice extends around the back in trailing vines bolero in form, rounding up the back.

Lightness both in effect and weight is the essential point to be considered when purchasing materials for summer gowns. Heavy fabrics or materials which are stiff have no part in the season's scheme of dress.

It is surprising the number of new trimmings which are being displayed at this time. Tinted lace is a high note in the latest creations of the rulers in the world of dress. It is an extravagance, to be sure, this tinted lace, fit for the women of dreaming empires. For, once dyed, it is necessary to use it only with the hue to which it has been turned. One of the merits of real lace has been that its neutrality of tint made it desirable for the luxurious use of generations of fine women.

Black velvet ribbon is so persistently used now that it must become monotonous beyond all precedent if it finds any further means of presenting its charms. But there is always a shift in any whim of fashion when it becomes common, so in spite of all predictions to the contrary, autumn may bring the downfall of this especial style of trimming.

Speaking of autumn it may be said that the first hint in the matter of advance styles has already been made known. It is to the effect that the most approved jacket will be the very short one—a happy medium between the ship jacket and the Eton. It will be made from broadtail, seal or Persian lamb and will be double-breasted, with facings of ermine appliqued with lace and peau de soie.

Another hint from Europe that we are coming to is the silk coat in Directoire style to wear with lace and embroidered mull skirts. In many instances the coat is collarless. It is made of black satin or flowered silk with a white ground, but in either case there is some lace used in the finish, if only on the sleeves, falling in a deep frill below an elbow cuff. One very stunning costume in yellow and white lace just imported is crowned with a coat of white taffeta patterned with pale yellow roses. This particular coat has a plaited tail back, fits the figure closely and is finished with a lace frill on the sleeves and a plait at the back.

Not unlike its silk rival shape is the little lace coat which is a feature of the thin gown for evening wear. It is quite short in front, however, finished with draped revers and has no collar. It has the plaited tail just the same and is decorated at the waist line in the back with two handsome buttons, studded with real jewels, if you can afford them.

Very odd are the effects brought in the latest variety of lace gowns which themselves are quite swagger. Insertions of black Cluny trim one kind of white lace gown which has a puff of black silk mousseline over the elbows, the lace sleeve above this falling in a little frill partly over the puff. Yellow lace in a deep ochre shade combined with white lace is another union of tints which is very effective in lace. White may form the upper portion of the skirt inset with flounce of yellow lace. In this case yellow lace medallions above a the lower part of the bodice is of the white lace with yoke and sleeves of yellow.

The bead chain has not yet reached in America the same vogue that it has enjoyed for the past six months in London and Paris, but the craze seems likely to be seen here before next winter. Already there are few girls who have not chains to match particular costumes and the summer piazza leisure has given a decided impetus to the fad.

As it is, the beads have been imported by the dealers in nearly every conceivable shade. They come in warm tints of terra cotta, and there are bright yellows as well as the more usual tints. It must be a strange shade that cannot be found in these beads.

The chain should usually fall in front nearly to the knee, and the ends are finished always with some elaborate tassel or other ornamentation. The Japanese and other Oriental stores have imported painted and fancy beads in varied colors and designs, and the strand is punctuated with these at different points. They come now in solid colors and also in dull colored carved woods that alternate effectively with the colors of the beads that make up most of the chain. The chains are used rarely to support a lorgnon or locket and are generally intended only for ornament. They are rarely strong enough to hold anything heavier than the tassels at the end of the chain.

Off For A Fish.

A party of five Kingstonians—Robert Stevenson, John Pigion, George Parks, James Boone and Thomas Connor—left this morning for Camp Nrad, Bowers' lake, near Jones' Falls, where they will enjoy a two weeks' outing. Some tall fish stories are expected on their return.

NAPANEE NOTES.

Napanee, Aug. 3.—The yacht Madge took out yesterday the following gentlemen for a week's cruise on the Bay of Quinte waters: Rev. W. W. Peck, John T. Grange, Ralph Hodgson, Dr. Wartman and W. Templeton and son Willie.

Thomas H. Whelan, son of Thomas Whelan, South Napanee, arrived home from Arizona on Wednesday. He had the misfortune to fall down the shaft of the mine he was working in, causing such serious injuries that it was thought advisable to bring him home.

Mail clerk W. N. Doller and family are spending holidays in Picton. John I. Wilson, Trenton, is relieving him as mail clerk. Mrs. D. S. Warner and granddaughter, Gladys, have returned after a month's visit with friends in Toronto and Stratford, and a visit to the Pan American.

The Eastern Methodist Sunday school held their annual outing on Thursday last. The steamer Aletha was taxed to its utmost capacity and when the captain had taken aboard all she could carry, he pulled away from the wharf and some forty or fifty people were left behind.

Miss Myrtle Lake and Miss Stephanie Harshaw arrived home on Wednesday from the Catskill mountains, where they have been spending the summer months with J. A. Shibley, whom they report as vastly improved in health. Mr. Shibly expects to be at Providence house about the last of August. Our band treated the citizens to an open-air concert last evening. They succeeded in drawing an appreciative audience.

WEDDED AT INVERARY.

Two Young And Popular Residents Bound in Wedlock.

On Wednesday evening, July 31st, a pleasing event took place at the residence of Alexander Ritchie, Inverary, when his daughter, Ida A., was married to Hugh Gibson, of Inverary. Rev. T. Meredith performed the ceremony under an arch of evergreens, on the lawn. The bride was attired in a very becoming gown of white silk mull, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses. She was assisted by her sister, Margaret, who wore a dress of violet silk mull and carried pink roses. The groom was attended by his brother, William J., of Goldsboro, N.C.

Immediately after the ceremony a four course supper was served on the lawn, four charming little maidens, the Misses Ida Hughson, Pearl Thompson, Mabel Dennee and Edna Lake, acting as waitresses. The presents from the one hundred guests and others were beautiful and costly.

Mr. and Mrs. Gibson left Inverary behind a prancing team of white horses, en route to Kingston, where they took train for Niagara Falls, Buffalo and Hamilton. On their return they will reside at Inverary.

Is A Handy Man.

Alderman R. H. Toye is a very convenient man for the remainder of the council. At present he is chairman of the board of works, acting chairman of the fire and light committee and acting mayor in the absence of his worship, mayor Rent. The alderman from Ontario ward is a very useful commodity, and is serving the city well.

Defamation Of Character.

Miss Minnie Hutton, through her solicitors, McIntyre & McIntyre, entered an action at law against Delos Grimshaw and wife, charging them with defamation of character. She claims $10,000 damages. The case will be heard at the fall assizes. Miss Hutton alleges Mrs. Grimshaw said she (Miss Mutton) was the cause of her mother's death.

Neatly Kept Grounds.

The Rockwood hospital grounds are a picture of neatness and fine growth. No one can complain of the results of the work of at least one class of officials. Rockwood grounds are good enough for an experimental farm.

Must Remove The Hay.

Harbor master McCammon to-day notified S. Going, of the Canada hay company, to remove from the harbor the bales of partly burned hay, which were dumped into the lake when the warehouse was damaged by fire.

Winnipeg industrial fair closed yesterday with American's day, when 15,000 North Dakota and Minnesota people covered the grounds. The city was gaily decorated. The stars and stripes floated from the city hall alongside the union jack.

John Burns, principal of the printing department of the deaf and dumb institute, Belleville, was the guest of Mr. Singleton on Wednesday. Mr. Burns was a member of Mr. Singleton's choir in Port Hope for many years.

George Harpell, a C.P.R. conductor, of Winnipeg, had a leg cut off yesterday at Forest, Man. His foot caught in a frog as a train was backing down and took his limb off at the knee.

A large party came from Tweed and other places along the Bay of Quinte railway line this morning, to take the steamer Varuna's excursion to the Thousand Island park.

There were no cases to appear before the police magistrate to-day, and the officials had an off day. Nearly every day this week large grists have passed through the mill of justice.

Market clerk McCammon and wife left this afternoon on the steamer Caspian for Rochester, N.Y., where they will spend ten days with relatives and friends.

Architect E. M. Storey is preparing plans for the erection of four workingmen's houses at Marlbank, for the Canada Portland cement company.

There was a slight frost in some parts of Woodstock last night, which, as far as can be learned, did little or no damage.

Misses Eva and Lou Parent left this afternoon for Rochester, where they will visit friends.

SANDERSON'S MOUNTAIN DEW. Noted in Scotland as the purest of spirit.

Out of Sorts.

Carelessness and neglect, and ofttimes wilful disregard of Nature's laws puts the system out of sorts. Hurried, neglected and irregular meals cause most of the trouble.

No wonder the stomach revolts—goes on strike. It's functions are so necessary to your daily health that when it doesn't act properly your entire body suffers. Bowels clogged, liver inactive, blood impure, bad taste, coated tongue—you feel all petered out—and you look it.

The result is indigestion, biliousness and constipation, followed by more serious complications if the body's natural functions are not restored at once. To all such sufferers there is a sure, safe, economical and palatable cure—that is time-tested, never-failing Abbey's Effervescent Salt. A laxative that never gripes, gentle, but certain. It gets the bowels back to their normal action. Tones up the stomach. Livens up the liver. Makes the entire system right as a trivet.

One important point in a well made skirt—the edge—is not always the most conspicuous.

But if a worthless "binding" is used the hidden weakness becomes intolerably noticeable long before the garment itself ceases to be slightly.
