WHAT DOES IT STAND FOR?

THE CANADIAN - AMERICAN CLUB OF DETROIT.

President Rothwell Wants to Have a Political Tinge—Dr. Smith Thinks it is For the Purpose of Making Active Citizens Out of its Members.

Detroit, Mich., March 7.—There seems to be a difference of opinion among leading members of the Canadian-American club as to the object of the club's existence. President Rothwell is reported as being in favor of introducing a tinge of politics, a tinge of strong republican hue, and the cause is the alleged stand of its leading democrats with reference to the present struggle in South Africa. The sympathies of the democrats are, in Mr. Rothwell's opinion, strongly pro-Boer, and he is not inclined that way. Dr. C. B. Smith deprecates the introduction of politics in the club's affairs and speaks of such a move as indiscreet. He says the prime object of the club is to have all Canadians in Detroit, or residents of Detroit who are of Canadian origin either through their parents or other relatives, become American citizens in the prescribed legal way, and to inculcate in them the true spirit of American citizenship. A meeting of the club committee of twenty on reorganization is to be held at Dr. Smith's office to-night, and the doctor hinted pretty broadly that any move to turn the club into a political organization would result in his withdrawal. The membership of the club at present is said to be one hundred and fifty of which number about one half are naturalized.

FLOWER OF THE NATION.

and there, a few sharp commands are given, and the different corps deploy in different directions. The artillery on one flank and the cavalry on both, the infantry take open order. We fall in with the infantry, supports or remain behind the guns, and all advance. A few of our scouts ahead can be seen in the

and our patrols far away out to the right and left are on the look-out falls. It must be a fight, you think, for the shells are beginning to sing closer over your head, and soon our guns are unlimbered for action. Closer and closer come the shells. They are trying the range, but we press on. There are a few rifle shots and a spurt of send several hundred yards ahead, and then we rest. A few gurgles from the water bottle, a pipe, while the field guns pot away at the face of the position. They get the range. Through our glasses we can see the enemy moving up and down along the face of their position. A few hundred yards nearer we move, and a bullet now and then whisks over head or falls spent ahead of us. Their artillery cannot find the spread-out lines of slowly arriving khaki. Outside the zone of fire we halt and lie down, and some corps are moved hither and thither from position to position. And then a squadron of cavalry comes up from the right at the trot; our guns pour shell after shell into the position and we all advance again. The cavalry dash forward as if about to cut off a herd of cattle and horses on the right, and we are under fire. There is a roar of battle all along the enemy's lines, and general and staff note the positions and strength of the enemy. A horse falls, another one; the men are picked up, and then off the cavalry go to the right at the gallop. Then more orders are given, the infantry lie down and volley after volley is exchanged. A flesh wound is got here and there, or a man lies dead, and still the general watches on. Another movement is made, incomprehensible to the civilian mind, and a perfect storm of bullets fall from what was believed to be an undefended point. The range is too long, and there is nothing but the "spurt" of the dust ahead. A returning Boer patrol is seen; there is an attempt to cut them off. A horse is killed, and we lie quietly for half an hour and munch biscuits. A shell occasionally burst unpleasantly near, but no damage is done. It is now in the afternoon, and the fire and movements of the Boers on the hill sides have told our general much. And he knows that Magersfontein can never be taken that way. And the Boer knows that he must never relax his vigilance or venture to assist his brethren in Natal. Back again to the Modder we go, knowing full well that this is what Belmont wasn't—wait, but praying for the time when reinforcements or strategy will come to the general, and the onward march to Kimberley will begin again. As for Tommy, Oh! Tommy swears.

—CHARLES LEWIS SHAW.

Associated Board of Charities.

The regular meeting of the associated board of charities was held yesterday afternoon. It was decided to make the objects of the charities better known. The general opinion is that the associations exist only for the purpose of poor relief, but their aim is much wider than that. It is to prevent poverty and inculcate habits of thrift.

During the past three months the poor relief statistics have been as follows: Cases helped, fifty-eight; widows, thirty-one; number who worked for relief, fourteen; cases of relief on account of sickness, six; aged couples, four; loans given, three.

In the last issue of Queen's College Journal the thanks of the students are tendered "Chaucer" Elliott for his good work in connection with the college football team. He took hold of the team at a critical time, when all green men were brought into the ranks, and by close application brought them up to a standard of excellence. Thanks to his tactics and generalship there are more football men now in Queen's than ever before.

Frontenacs in Finals.

The local hockey league schedule has narrowed down to the final match. At the Kingston skating rink Tuesday night Frontenacs put Queen's Indians out of the running by shaving them clean. The match was spirited throughout, checking being close and individual sprints frequent and brilliant. At half time Frontenacs had scored one point and in the second half two more were added while the Indians failed to tally. Frontenacs will meet the bicyclists for the local championship. The teams

REV. DR. WILD ON THE WAR.

Predictions Hissed at, He Claims, Have Been Fulfilled.

Rev. Dr. Wild writes to Rev. Dr. Richardson, of this city, from Los Angeles, where he is preaching on the prophecies to large audiences. He says it is rather strange that the two greatest christian nations are now engaged in war, but things are coming about as he had written in 1882. The things he told in Brooklyn twenty-five years ago, and for which he was hissed, are now taking place. "I told," he says, "how the states would break the Munroe doctrine, increase her navy and army, and join with Great Britain in a policy looking to the great struggle of the battle of Armageddon. It is wonderful how the British and Americans, through their governments, now see eye to eye, and how nicely Providence welds the British colonies together in the African war. Letter than all 'speech making.' Dr. Wild concludes that a southern confederacy must be formed from Cape Town to Cairo in Egypt.

Saw Son Lying Dead.

Quebec, March 7.—A most peculiar psychic experience is related by Mrs. Hector McQueen, mother of Corpl. Alexander McQueen, killed recently at Paardeberg, in South Africa. On the night of the 18th Feb., about the time when the Canadians were making their famous attack on the enemy's trenches, Mrs. McQueen had a vision of the death of her son. She was not asleep, she says, but saw the struggle, saw her loved one in the heat of action and finally saw his dead body as it lay on the African sands, with his life's blood ebbing away. She told her husband that their son was dead and described the scene that she had witnessed. He tried to calm her by telling her it was only a dream, but she says she knew that he was dead when the news did come she was not surprised. Mr McQueen is very anxious to hear of the details of his son's death in order to see if they coincide with her dream.

Michigan's Half-Hearted Boers.

A resident has received a letter from a friend in Muskegon, Mich., in which he states that the city is almost wholly pro-Boer. Meetings are held nightly in the opera house and other public buildings. The citizens attempted to raise a fund for Boers' widows and orphans, but all the whole city could do was to contribute $200. "Talk is cheap and plenty with them," an eastern paper remarks, "but when it comes to contributing cash,—nit, not, no."

Funeral of the Late Thomas Briggs

The service over the remains of the late Thomas Briggs was conducted this morning at St. James' church by Rev. G. L. Starr. The hymns were "Nearer My God to Thee" and "Abide With Me." Mrs. Cochrane played the organ and Charles Harvey led the singing. The pallbearers were relatives: Hon. A. S. Hardy, R. V. Rogers, Prof. J. Cappon, Walter, James and Francis Macnee.

Two bottles completely cured me, and I have not one single symptom of catarrh now. Want Their Photographs.

Col. Montizambert has received a militia order from Col. Foster, chief staff officer, containing the following clause: "The high commissioner for Canada, being desirous of obtaining as soon as possible individual photographs of all officers, non-commissioned officers and men who have proceeded or are about to proceed to South Africa in active service, district officers commanding will be good enough to cause lord Strathcona's request to be made known to the families and friends of those concerned, and to secure the photographs required, which they will immediately forward to headquarters."

Thomas J. Wright has been appointed inspecting superintendent of the improved realty company, a responsible position with a satisfactory financial consideration. He was formerly inspector for the Canadian loan and savings company.

The annual hockey match between Queen's divinity and science teams takes place at the Kingston rink to-morrow at noon. Guy Curtis will again play with the divinities, having obeyed the missionary call to "come over and help us."

After a cold drive a teaspoonful of Pain-Killer mixed with a glass of hot water and sugar will be found a better stimulant than whiskey. Avoid substitutes, there is but one Pain-Killer, Perry Davis'. 25c. and 50c.

THE SLATER SHOE

Business Moods.

When a good man swears on a wet day it's more than likely the profanity comes from his feet.

The shoe that pinches spoils the temper, irritates the nerves, impairs digestion, and obscures the merry sunshine of life.

It had to fit the shoe.

Success or failure in life oft hinges upon a man's mood at critical moments, and the way his feet feel sometimes sways destiny.

A pair of "Slater Shoes" may unconsciously save a fortune, but can't cost more than $5.00.

It's cheaper to throw away a shoe that hurts than to keep it, and mark this—new "Slater Shoes" need no breaking in.

A tag on each pair tells just what leather it is made of—how it will affect the feet—and the wear it will, or will not give, according to use.

The makers name and price stamped on the sole protects against imitations of Goodyear Welt, and ensures value every time to the wearer. $3.50 and $5.00.
