ATTENDED SERVICE.

The Strathcona Horse Paraded to Christ Church, Ottawa.

Ottawa, March 12.—The Strathcona Horse attended divine service at Christ church yesterday morning in full strength, less the detachments of Presbyterians and Roman Catholics, who were marched to their respective churches at the same hour. All ranks looked trim and soldier-like, but a peculiar feature in their dress was the wearing of the miserable little khaki forage caps, which are ill adapted for Canadian winter wear and in the biting March wind must have been most uncomfortable. The church was crowded to repletion, many of the congregation being obliged to stand throughout the two hours' service, which was most hearty and solemn. The bishop of Ottawa preached an impressive sermon dwelling on the causes of the war and the fact that it had been forced upon Great Britain who, was fighting for the greatest of all earthly boons—liberty and freedom to all classes of her subjects. After the offertory, the national anthem was sung with the deepest fervor, and during the communion service which followed the entire congregation remained within the church.

The countess of Minto was present accompanied by lord and lady Hertford, and Capt. Graham, A.D.C. Mr Fielding and Sir Louis Davies were among those who attended, besides Col. Foster, Lieut.-Col. Steele, Lieut.-Cols. Cotton and H. R. Smith, Capt. Winter acting as brigade major. The horses were entrained during the afternoon, and the regiment left for Halifax this morning followed by the prayers and good wishes of the many friends they had made during their sojourn in Ottawa.

HUGH JOHN'S BLUFF.

A remarkable announcement comes from Winnipeg. It is to the effect that Hugh John Macdonald will order a dissolution of the new legislature if one of his colleagues fail to find the seat he is looking for in the power. Why? He is alleged to have a clear majority in the house and to possess its entire confidence. Now Mr. Davidson may be rejected in one place and get an opening in another. But the process of finding him a seat endangers the weakening of that power by which the government holds to office. Admitting that on what ground can Mr. Macdonald make appeal to the people? Should he not meet the house, and ascertain his standing in it? And not receiving its support he should resign and give some one else a 'chance' to form a government. It would be this one's prerogative to secure a dissolution and an election as the only way of testing the popular feeling upon what is going on. There has a great deal of boasting by Mr. Macdonald as to what his government was going to do. It has not been doing much so far except to send out biased and evidently untruthful statements in regard to the late government. The best it can do now is face the men in parliament whom it has been criticizing, and verify or recall its allegations. To evade the issue by a dissolution, were it permissable, would be a cowardly act.

USE OF THE STREETS.

The decision of the courts puts the responsibility upon the council afresh of seeing that the streets are free from obstructions, that they are safe to walk, drive, and play upon. A curious case occurred in Markdale. A little fellow, seven years old, was hurt while playing among some timbers that had been left upon the highway. His father sued the corporation for damages. The trial judge favored the defendants, but he permitted of an appeal, which has just been disposed of. The father now gets a verdict for $400 and costs. The town sued the sidewalk contractor, alleging negligence on his part. This action was dismissed with costs.

In reflecting upon the original case Judge Robertson said: "The highway is pro bono publico, and so long as it is not obstructed unduly by the person using it, that person, whether adult or infant of tender years, has a right to the use of it, and should he or she be injured while so using it, by reason of it being out of repair, the municipality, whose duty it is to keep it in repair, is responsible for all damage sustained by such person."

Kingston has by-laws which are not being enforced. An experience such as Markdale has just gone through would do good educationally. It would lead to a shaking up of the dry bones, and a respect for law and order which is now sadly missing.

A GOOD OUTLOOK.

Hon. Mr. Ross, as provincial treasurer, has made his financial statement, and it is one which the people of Ontario can most agreeably contemplate. A budget is necessarily a mere approximation, and in the discussion of it there is room for the exercise of the buoyant spirit; and yet the experience of the province from year to year is such that the revenue and expenditure can be gauged with tolerable certainty.

One of the features of this budget speech, indeed the chief feature, is the statement that the province is living within its income, and not running into debt as the opposition alleges. In 1899 the surplus was $400,000, and this year it is expected to be $200,000. What becomes of the money, because these surpluses, if held, would soon amount to an immense sum? The demands of a growing province, or a growing population, are many. New districts for settlement have been opened, and at considerable cost. New roads are being made, and old ones improved. Cold storage is being adopted, at way stations along the lines of railways, for the convenience and profit of the agricultural community. School interests are expanding. The Normal school of London entails a heavy expenditure, and the increase of school districts brings up the outlay of inspection and other service. The care of the sick, the mentally weak, the physically deformed, the idiotic, involve an annual expenditure of $1,000,000.

There cannot be substantial progress in the government as there is in state unless at an outlay commensurate with the importance of each. Some improvements might be deferred, among them the opening up of New Ontario, and the plans by which the export trade of otherwise perishable goods may be developed. Would that be making the most of our opportunities? It pays to be progressive. It does not pay to be this of course, at a continued loss, and Mr. Ross' statement, that Ontario is doing well financially, will be received with general satisfaction.

The budget speech reads well. There are some men who can throw a degree of charm into the driest statements. Financial reviews do not afford the material out of which much diversion can be taken. They can be made intensely interesting, and it is to Mr. Ross' credit that in the administration of the new department he has shown himself to be such an adept. The Whig congratulates him.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Boers have been appointing a new batch of generals and major-generals. A sign that they are still in fighting humour.

The system of having a dozen men go together, from point to point, opening water grates, is not the best way of utilizing labour. Only two or three can work to any advantage.

The Grand Trunk railway company has at last advanced its section men's wages ten cents per day. This was what it was asked to do a year ago and refused. Its action now will not overwhelm it with glory.

The shamrock is to be the emblem of more than a nationality. It is henceforth to be the sign of bravery, and will be worn by the British troops as such. Can we all have a sprig for our personal adornment on March 17th?

The financial statements of the Ontario government do not contain any special reference to the Humber piggery. This is a dreadful omission and Mr. Ross will hear about it though the stentorian St. John is not now a member of the legislature.

The senate of the United States—influenced or dictated to by the jingo party—has amended the Hay-Pauncefote treaty in regard to the Nicaraguan canal. The change provides for the fortification of the waterway. But Lord Pauncefote has yet to speak, and if he says no, the treaty as amended is useless.

According to the provincial secretary it cost the government $9.17 per cwt. to make binder-twine in the Central prison, and it sold for $11 per cwt. The World started the yarn that it cost only six cents per pound to make the twine, but the World man is saying a good deal in this Lenten season besides his prayers.

Sir Charles Tupper is in favour of a judicial commission, which, after the next census, shall fix the boundaries of the electoral divisions. It is anything to postpone a correction of the gerrymander until after the next election. Of course the conservative majority in the senate will express its concurrence.

The Toronto World is getting a wigging from more than one side. It does not think that the $800,000 spent in the maintenance of the insane does the province good at large, but it thinks that Ontario should follow New York's lead and spend hundreds of thousands on sanitarias for consumptives. Talk like this is entitled to a scare heading.

SOME VICTORIA CROSS FACTS.

Story, in Brief, of Most Precious Bit of Metal in the World.

The Victoria cross was instituted by her majesty at the close of the Crimean war, January 29th, 1856.

Apart from those who have won the V.C. in the present war there are 160 living holders of the medal.

Sixty-two Victoria crosses were won in the Crimean war, six in the Boer war of 1881. In all 130 odd crosses have been won.

The V.C. is a Maltese cross made from cannon captured from the enemy. In the centre is the royal crest; below a scroll bearing the words "For Valor." The reverse side is bare.

When a large number of men are engaged in a daring enterprise, the cross is awarded by votes of their comrades to one officer, one non-commissioned officer, two privates, seamen or marines.

The first V.C. was won by midshipman Lucas, of H.M.S. Hecla, on June 21st, 1854. During the bombardment of a Russian fort a live shell fell on board the Hecla. Lucas picked it up and threw it overboard. It burst just before touching the water.

The V.C. is worn on the left breast, suspended by a blue ribbon in the navy, by a red ribbon in the army.

It is illegal for a pawnbroker to accept the Victoria cross as a pledge under any circumstances.

Rev. James William Adams, the only clergyman who has won the V.C., gained it in the Afghan war of '79.

The V.C. measures one inch and two-fifths square. The actual weight of the metal is 434 grains, just three and a half grains less than an ounce. Its intrinsic value is a penny farthing.

The cross is only awarded to officers and men who have performed some signal act of valor or devotion to their country in the presence of the enemy. It carries with it a special pension of £10 a year, and should the holder do some deed which, if he had not already won the cross, would have gained it, another bar is attached to the ribbon by which the cross is suspended. This bar carries an additional £5 a year pension.

IS BOGART IN CANADA?

Brooklyn Rapid Transit Conspirator Suddenly Disappears.

Toronto, March 12.—In connection with the alleged conspiracy to spread false news about the Brooklyn rapid transit, and other companies, with a view to manipulation of stocks, an indictment was found against James Bogart, of New York, a few days ago. It is believed Bogart is now in Canada, and an endeavor is being made to locate him. Alonzo Bogart, a commission merchant, in this city, on being asked if the missing man, who, it is alleged, is a cousin, was in Toronto, said he was entirely in ignorance. He had not seen James Bogart in four or five years. He was then in New York, but there was no means of identifying him with the Bogart indicted in that city. The family home was at Napanee and more might be known there. If Bogart came to Canada he did not reveal himself to his Toronto friends.

MONTREAL TOPICS.

Henry Irving's Appearance—Hint For King Ben.

Montreal, March 12.—Sir Henry Irving closed a three show engagement at the Academy, Saturday night. All the opery cloak, low neck and swallow tail folks were there, and standing room was a snug fit. Ellen Terry failed to materialize, her part being acceptably filled by Maud Milton. Sir Henry was rather a disappointment, but then perhaps folks expected too much for three dollars.

That beloved little lady, commissioner Eva Booth, of the Salvation army, was a drawing card at the Centenary Methodist church, Point St. Charles, kindly set at her disposal, Friday evening. "The Mystic Bunch of Keys, love sympathy, sacrifice and action," a bunch that should open any one's heart, was her theme, and the effect was heightened by her ragged dress, etc. She filled several appointments here during the week.

McGill and Laval have swapped understandings and their sky is clear once more of animosity, so far as the colleges are concerned. Thus an unfortunate thing is buried. Whig readers will see by this time that my size up of the situation was correct. To one on the inside the matter was easy enough to grasp, even those who run could read, and make no mistake.

Strathcona's Horse will be elaborately entertained to-day (Monday). If I get a chance, I'll take hold of your hand and we will shove round in the crowd and see it.

There are 10,000 Jews in Montreal. A fellow should be able to pick an expert three ball team out of the crowd, eh? They are good citizens and pride themselves on extending the glad hand, and they take full care of their poor, not allowing any to become a public charge.

Say! I fancy Kip knew what he was talking about when he wrote "Our Lady of the Snows." Snow! Well, I should say. Thousands of men have been picking and shovelling ever since the storm over a week ago, and yet the principal streets are almost blocked. The side streets outrival the road between Kingston and Cataraqui—pitch holes so deep and big that when a sleigh goes in you get tired waiting for it to come up again. It's no uncommon thing to see coal sleighs, furniture drays and heavy loads stuck, dead stuck, right in the heart of the city. I said thousands of men were employed with the shovel, didn't I? Well, I think the God who watches over the sparrows also keeps an eye on the city's poor, for this is a send to them. Sure thing! Here's a point for Ben. The street railway back regular freight cars up the line, load up and haul 'em off out to the dump. Half a dollar, Ben. Say, your friend the Whig might make it a dollar, payable to our friend. It will see it reaches Miss Corbett for poor Billy Larabee's two-foot fund. Billy's in the general hospital you know.

It is said a drowning man will grab at a straw. We don't care to try it, but here's something funny in point:—A horse attached to a snow-laden sleigh yesterday backed too far off the wharf. Realizing its danger, the horse grabbed its driver's ear, taking half of it to chew on while they fished him out of the cold water of the St. Lawrence.

Succeeds His Cousin.

London, March 12.—Major Childe, who was killed after leading "F" squadron, of the South African light horse in a victorious assault, and whose own epitaph was "Is it well with Childe? It is well," has been succeeded in the command by Sir Bryan Leighton, who served with the American troops against Spain and wrote a book about it. This adventurous young baronet, who is a cousin of the late major Childe, and who was standing beside the latter when Childe was killed, went out to South Africa as correspondent of an illustrated paper and obtained a commission in the South African light horse. He has now been made a major commanding a squadron. While he fights the Boers the youthful lady Leighton occupies the unique position in England of master of the fox hounds.

Romance Of a Workhouse.

London, March 12.—A curious romance comes from Chester, where there was recently admitted to the workhouse a Capt. Salisbury, son of the late member of parliament for Chester. Though only forty-four years old, he has had a remarkable career as a soldier, war correspondent and author, finally falling upon very hard days. It seemed as if this distinguished pauper was doomed to spend the rest of his life in the poorhouse, when there suddenly appeared on the scene an apparently rich woman, described as Miss Emily Cunningham, of Ireland. The sequel occurred Thursday last, when Capt. Salisbury was married to his visitor. They departed for Chester in great style and amidst no end of sensation.

Will Raze The Town.

London, March 12.—A correspondent of the Daily Mail at Lorenzo Marques says: "I am reliably informed that high officials openly avow that the British flag shall never fly at Johannesburg. The place will be razed to the ground, and the mines put in readiness to be electrically exploded from the fort, as occasion requires. Most of the gold mines except those which the government controls are in a stock syndicate. They are flooded and the machinery is rusted and being wilfully smashed."

Travelled Miles to Murder Woman.

Tacoma, Wash., March 10.—Frank Sprague shot and killed Mrs. Guy T. Gale and then killed himself yesterday, at Gale's logging camp, about seventy miles from Tacoma. Sprague arrived here Sunday from Cross Fork, Pa., where it is said he met Mrs. Gale, and was a suitor for her hand before she married Gale last November. Mrs. Gale's maiden name was Gertie Richardson and she has a mother and brother living at Cedar Run, Pa.

Bishop Gets Six Months.

Rochester, N.Y., March 10.—Gabriel Bishop, the thirteen-year-old Cuba youth convicted of manslaughter in the second degree in causing the death of Everett Austin at Lake Cuba in July last, was sentenced by judge Morton to pay a fine of $100 and serve six months' imprisonment in the Erie county penitentiary.

The Portuguese officials, learning that the fortunes of war have turned in favor of the British side have arrested German officers bound for Pretoria with arms and ammunition.
