NATURE LEADS US GENTLY.

Longfellow.

As a fond mother, when the day is o'er,
Leads by the hand her little child to bed,
Half willing, half reluctant to be led
And leaves his broken playthings on the floor,
Still glancing at them through the open door,
Nor wholly reassured and comforted
By promises of others in their stead,
Which, though more splendid, may not please him more;
So nature deals with us and takes away
Our playthings, one by one, and by the hand
Leads us to rest so gently that we go
Scarce knowing if we wished to go or stay,
Being too full of sleep to understand
How far the unknown transcends the one we know.

TROUBLOUS TIMES.

Are Ahead of The Ritualists of the Church.

New York, April 16.— The duke of Newcastle, who is one of the leaders of the ritualistic movement in England, made an address yesterday before the men's guild of the church of St. Mary the Virgin, in the course of which he referred to the attitude of English archbishops toward the movement as "preposterous," talked about "blatant Protestants," declared it to be the doctrine of the real presence which English ritualists were contending for, and asked the prayers of "American Catholics" in the troublous times which he said were just ahead.

No Imported Labor.

Sullivan & Langdon have sub-let to the Carnovsky wood manufacturing company the contract of supplying doors, trimings, etc., for the drill shed. They will begin to manufacture the articles at once. Carpenters are still at work on the shed, and it will not be long before the contractors turn the building over to the public works department. The contractors pride themselves on the fact that local men and firms have done all the work.

The Late A. R. Pratt.

The funeral of the late Alexander R. Pratt, killed at Buffalo, N.Y., Thursday last, took place from the Sisthers' hospital, Depew, N.Y., Members of Transit lodge, No. 719, I.O.O.F., had charge of the arrangements. Mr. Pratt was forty years of age. He came from Kingston, Ont., and lived for a number of years in Buffalo, before taking up his residence in Depew. He left a wife but not any children.

Did You See The Balloons?

Did you see the balloons in the churches yesterday? They were there, affixed to the heads of the ladies. And the array was great to behold. The hats were of various shapes and sizes, some of them being measurable in cubits and some of them in storeys. It was a beautiful day, and the ladies rejoiced greatly.

Returned From India.

Dr. Claude Wood and wife, Methodist missionaries to China, have returned to Canada to enjoy a holiday after a number of years' absence. Mr. Wood is visiting his mother, Mrs. F. N. Clifford, Brockville, and Mrs. Wood is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Mallory, Maitlandtown. Their young child accompanies them.

Funeral Of Mr. Flett.

The funeral of the late Alexander Flett took place this afternoon. Service at the house was conducted by Rev. M. Macgillivray at two o'clock. The pallbearers were members of Chalmers church session, the A.O.U.W., and the Sons of Scotland. A large concourse followed the remains.

Given a Hearty Welcome.

Miss Elizabeth Gordon Rose, Riverside, California, at present visiting Kingston, addressed St. Andrew's Sunday-school yesterday afternoon. Miss Rose was a former teacher, and was given a hearty welcome.

To Have The Remains Interred.

R. S. Wright, court stenographer of Montreal, formerly of Kingston, is in the city to-day. He is here in connection with the removal of the remains of his late mother from the vault for interment at Cataraqui cemetery.

Very Little Maple Syrup.

Very little maple syrup or sugar is being (or has been) made in Leeds county. Since warm weather set in the night frosts have not been severe enough to ensure a good run of sap the next day.

Still Coming to Hand.

Another batch of the Taylor, Montreal Star & Co. franked racial literature is being received by residents of the city. It is a safe venture to say that two-thirds, and over, of it is never read.

To Answer at The Court.

An hotel keeper will appear before the police magistrate to-morrow morning on a charge of selling liquor within prohibited hours.

The emperor of Germany decorated every player in his comedy, "The Iron Tooth," excepting only Herr Molar. After all, his imperial highness lacks a sense of the fitness of things.

When the playbill says two weeks elapse between the acts, we can hardly blame the men for going out after a little refreshment.

"Every rule has its exception," except one, that a man must always be present when he is being shaved.

NATURE AIDS THE BRITISH.

WITH MORE FROSTS THERE WILL BE NO GRASS.

The Boers Will Suffer—British Success Pleases Japan—Japanese Think if England Were Weakened Their Own Outlook Would be Less Hopeful.

New York, April 16.—Isaac N. Ford, the London correspondent of the New York Tribune, cables his paper, reviewing the war situation:

"Optimism is the note of the meagre despatches received from the Free State during the last twenty-four hours. The long halt is nearly ended, and preparations are making for an irresistible march northward. It is intimated that Gen. Roberts can leave 20,000 men to guard the railway behind him, and still have 80,000 men available for an advance to the Vaal river.

"One reason of the British confidence is the lack of pasturage on the veldt, which will deprive the Boers of the use of their wiry, hardy ponies. Gen. Roberts' inaction has brought nature into the field as an ally against the Boers. The high veldt leading toward the Transvaal will be without grass after a few hard frosts during the next fortnight, and as president Kruger's warriors will not have any orderly system for the transport of forage, their raiding operations will be rendered more difficult as the southern winter sets in."

Japanese Are Pleased.

New York, April 16.—A letter from Tokio to the Sun says: The success of lord Roberts in South Africa afforded keen satisfaction not only to the emperor but to the great bulk of his majesty's subjects as well, for the Japs have a strong conviction that if England were permanently weakened the outlook for Japan would be anything but hopeful. The principal vernacular papers issued extras accordingly when Cronje surrendered and when Ladysmith was relieved, and the joy of the people was as great almost as if they had won a victory themselves. "And as a matter of fact," said the Juji, "we do not for a moment regard England as a foreign country. She has our true and full sympathy. Our sovereign does not speak in the name of himself and the empress only" (this refers to the congratulations the Mikado telegraphed to queen Victoria), "he speaks in the name of the whole nation, and we do not doubt that the British people, appreciating our sentiments, will derive from this incident an access of friendship toward Japan."

Nothing of Importance.

London, April 16, (2.10 p.m.).— Conflicting reports regarding the conditions at Wepener continue, but at this hour there is no definite or important news from the front.

A Cape Town despatch says nearly 3,000 horses have been landed there since April 13th, which indicates that every effort is being put forth to remedy the great defect in the British organization.

The chief Boer delegate, Fischer, accompanied by Dr. Leyds, visited the president of the Dutch cabinet at The Hague. The doings of the Boer delegates create little speculation in England.

Frederick Villiers, the veteran war correspondent, who arrived at Southampton to-day, from the front, said he believed the worst of the war was over but that the guerilla warfare would continue for some time.

An official bulletin issued at Pretoria, April 13th, reports that the burghers captured 500 slaughtered oxen at Wepener and that Gen. Froneman that day defeated the British, causing them to fly in the direction of Volverpoort, apparently over the Orange river.

The Irish-American ambulance arrived at Pretoria April 13th.

The Boers report no casualties during the recent fighting at Warrenton.

Blown Up Collieries.

London, April 16.— A special despatch from Ladysmith dated April 16, 9.45 a.m., says: "Native scouts have just reported that the Boers in the Elandslaagte district have retired beyond the Biggarsberg. Other information tends to confirm the report that the Boers have succeeded in blowing up three important collieries near Wessel's Nek, completely destroying the engine houses and plants."

Ready to Parley.

On the eve of the battle of Bull Run a number of senators and representatives went down from Washington to see the confederates run. And when the confederates began to run after the panic-stricken Union army, the valiant congressmen ran in advance for the capitol. One of them, arrayed in a linen coat, corpulent and perspiring, glancing backward saw a zouave coming and mistook him for a confederate. Suddenly he tripped on a root and fell headlong. The zouave fell on top of him. Unable to look around but believing himself in the hands of the enemy, he shouted, "My God! can't this thing be compromised some how?"

Talking of Trusts.

A director of the Standard oil company recently published in the Independent an article declaring trusts to be good for the workingman. To the May Century, Andrew Carnegie, of the Carnegie company, which rivals the Standard oil for first place among the world's great corporations, will contribute an essay taking the same ground. The great steel manufacturer argues that the evils of trusts are generally self-corrective; that no trust can live long unless it secures a virtual monopoly of the commodity it deals in; and that "the only people who have reason to fear trusts are those who trust them."

To Take to The Woods.

Peekskill, N.Y., April 16.—The Italians are drilling with shot guns and other fire arms preparatory to the impending strife.

Sheriff Molloy has gone to Sing Sing for the militia company there. He scouts the idea of bloodshed. He says as soon as the militia appear the Italians will take to the woods with a rush.

Killed in a Riot.

Johnstown, Pa., April 16. — At a "speak-easy" at mine No. 31, of the Berwind white coal company, near Windber, Somerset county, a riot occurred shortly before midnight in which three men were killed, one being shot and two stabbed to death and another man was so badly stabbed that his recovery is doubtful. One Italian is supposed to have done the killing.

WON'T BE TRIFLED WITH.

Australia Threatens to Become a Republic if Bill Rejected.

London, April 16.—Walter Griffiths, a member of parliament of South Australia, declared in an interview here that if the imperial parliament refused to pass the Australian commonwealth bill without amendment Australia would become a republic.

"Australia's patience is worn threadbare," he said, "on this federation proposition. We have spent too much time and thought and money perfecting the scheme and getting it indorsed by our people to tolerate any trifling at the hands of Downing street or Westminster."

The Dead Sea.

Some long-current illusions concerning the Dead sea are dispelled by Henry Dexter, of the American News company, who went to see its reputed wonders with his own eyes. In his opinion the bed of the sea is of volcanic formation. "I took a plunge in the water to test qualities. The water is, I should say, a bituminous salt brine. I was careful not to get the water in my eyes or on my hair. I had been told that nothing could sink in the Dead sea, but I found that was untrue, for the reason that if I did not make an effort to keep on top I would go down. The water is of a character that if any one had a cutaneous disease it would make the flesh smart fiercely. It was exceptionally refreshing, however, on account of the heat. The water was wonderfully clear, and you could see down to a depth of twenty feet. The water was perhaps a little more buoyant than ordinary salt water, but it would not hold me up. It was not sticky, but washed off as freely as any salt water. One thing I noticed, and of which I have never been able to get an explanation, was a small island about five hundred feet from the shore. This had on it large square blocks of stone. I have never been able to ascertain where these blocks came from. The theory that birds cannot fly over the water is untrue, as I saw lots of birds flying over it."

Like Master So The Servant.

Nap Jennings, the historian of the Texas rangers, tells this story of the visit of Col. Jack Chinn, the late William Goebel's right-hand man, to Texas:

Col. Chinn came to Houston. He brought with him a negro valet, Sam. This negro had been a slave in the Chinn family before the beginning of the civil war, and idolized his young master. One night the darky came to Chinn and said: "Massa Jack, I'se going out in cullud society heah to-night, an' I'd like to borrow dat ivory-handled six-shooter of yours to take along."

"Why, you black rascal," returned the colonel, "some of these Houston coons will take that gun away from you and break it over your head."

The darky straightened up. Like his master, he was a man of unquestioned nerve, and there was a peculiar glitter in his eye as he said: "Massa Jack, you let me hab dat gun, an' if I don't show up heah wid hit in de mawnin' you can go down to de morgue an' throw down de sheet an' say, 'Lawd! don't he look nacher!'"

Col. Chinn's body-servant was that night armed in a manner that entitled him to move in the best circles of Afro-American society in Houston.

Death of Dr. T. R. Hossie.

Gouverneur, N.Y., April 14.—Dr. T. R. Hossie died Saturday, after an illness of two months' duration. Dr. Hossie was born in Perth, Ont., about forty-one years ago. He was graduated from Queen's college, Kingston, and received the degree of M.D., when but nineteen years old. At that time he came to this village, where he has ever since resided. He has always been prominent in democratic politics, and two years ago was a candidate of that party for representative in congress. He was never married.

Let Loose Army of Microbes.

New York, April 16.—Edward Thimme, of the druggists' league, declares that the pharmacists of New York are laying in big stocks of medicine in anticipation of a rush of business when the construction of the Rapid transit tunnel gets fairly under way. At a meeting of the social progress league, Mr. Thimme declared that the breaking of ground for the tunnel would let loose an army of microbes on the defenceless population of the city.

Another Pulp Syndicate.

Rat Portage, Ont., April 16.— It is anounced that John Mather, of Ottawa, has formed an English syndicate to build a pulp mill at the water-power on the Winnipeg river, recently harnessed by the Keewatin power company, at a cost of $250,000. Mr. Mather says his English syndicate intends to invest $1,000,000, providing that the Ontario government will give a guarantee that no pulp wood will be shipped away from the district for a period of thirty years.

To Be Considered Next Year.

Toronto, April 16.—The provincial government has decided in view of the important matters regarding abolition of toll gates and taking over of township roads by county authorities, involved in the good roads bill now before the house, to hold over the bill till next year to permit of the discussion of its provisions carefully by the municipal authorities meanwhile.
