RED WITH BRITISH BLOOD.

Rebellious Ashantis Attack Hodgson's Forces and Kill Many.

London, May 7.—The colonial office has received the following despatch from Sir Frederic Mitchell Hodgson, governor and commander-in-chief of the Gold Coast colony, dated Kumassi, April 27th:

"The situation, I regret to inform you, has changed for the worse. On April 23rd a force was sent to clear the rebel forces to the eastward. Four members of the constabulary were killed, and a large number of the rebels were killed or wounded.

"On April 26th the Ashantis surrounded the town in great force, probably 10,000, and made a determined attack. The Hausas were obliged to evacuate the cantonment and to concentrate around the fort. The engagement lasted four hours. Twenty of our native allies and two Hausas were killed.

"The present occupants of the fort number 358, inclusive of eighteen Europeans, six of whom are missionaries. It is necessary that further re-inforcements be sent to the gold coast."

Sir Frederic, under date of April 30th, telegraphed:

"Yesterday a serious attack was made on the fort by the rebels, but they were routed on all sides with great loss. Two members of the constabulary were killed and ten wounded.

"A contingent of Lagos constabulary, under inspector Gen. Aplin, has arrived after two days' severe fighting. The column was attacked at Assagu, which was taken with the loss of one killed and twenty-three wounded, among them Aplin, slightly.

"On the following day the contingent was attacked two miles from Kumassi by 8,000 rebels. There was great loss in taking the stockade across the road. After desperate fighting the Ashantis fled. Two members of the constabulary were killed and 133 wounded, including assistant inspector Read.

"Have been unable to send letters or telegrams through."

Under date of May 3rd Sir Frederic wired that the rebels were pressed eastward and that he had made a demonstration the previous day with two guns, inflicting great loss. One of the native auxiliaries was killed.

The colonial office announces that, in addition to the Lagos constabulary, reenforcements have been sent to Sir Frederic from the Sierra Leone frontier police and from the West African frontier police, in northern and southern Nigeria.

BRUTALITY OF BOERS.

Captured Btitish Soldier, Shot and Kicked Him.

London, May 7.—The Times has the following special:

Farosfontein, May 3.—As we were leaving Donkerpoort yesterday an outlying picket of ten men of the Cape rifles was surrounded and attacked by the Boers. Four men escaped.

Trooper Smythe reports that he was wounded, but fought till the enemy disarmed him and then told him to go away. After he had gone a short distance a dastardly brute fired, wounding him in the head, shoulder and leg. When he pretended to be dead the Boers approached, examined him, kicking him brutally meanwhile, and finally leaving him for dead. During the night Smythe crept away, and this morning was found near Caledon by the men of the Queenstown volunteers, and sent to the hospital at Mafeteng.

It is assumed that the remainder of the party were similarly treated, as they are still missing. This outrage has created intense feeling among the men of the colonial division, the more so as doctors were dispatched to-day to the neglected Boers at the hospital near here, and the contrast in the treatment exasperates the men. To-day a strong force from Gen. Chermside's division arrived to garrison Wepener, under Col. Castletown.

Robert Tackaberry, living near Athens, has purchased the farm of S. Niblock, situated at Sheldon's Corners, for $3,000.

WINBERG IS OCCUPIED

Gen. Ian Hamilton Has Possession Of It.

STILL ACTIVELY ENGAGED.

BRABANT AND RUNDLE BUSY ABOUT THABA N'CHU.

Ousted the Boers From Their Position—The British Welcomed at Brandfort—Are Fighting Under Compulsion—Took the Boers Unawares.

London, May 7.—With the exception of a report from Bloemfontein, that Gen. Ian Hamilton has occupied Winberg, there is little to add to Gen. Roberts' description of the advance of the British forces from Brandfort, to the Vet River. It is assumed here that the operations were continued actively Sunday, but no details have been received.

The neighborhood of Thaba N'Chu seems to continue to be the scene of active engagements, notwithstanding the northward advance. Gen. Brabant apparently met with strong opposition at Thaba Patchoa, near Thaba N'Chu, for Gen. Rundle left the latter place Friday, to assist him with the 17th brigade and two batteries of artillery. The British succeeded in ousting the Boers from their position on a kopje, but the subsequent operations have not been reported.

Several correspondents send additional details of the occupation of Brandfort, where they say the British were welcomed by the inhabitants in a manner similar to their reception at Bloemfontein. They declare that the Free Staters are wholly tired of the war, and that they continue fighting only under compulsion by the Transvaal Boers, being completely surprised at Brandfort.

It is stated that they nearly lost their convoy of guns in the compulsory haste of their retreat. Especially unexpected was the arrival of a strong mounted force of Australians, Canadians and New Zealanders to the eastward of the town. Several small kopjes, from which their advance might have been resisted, were unoccupied by the Boers, apparently because they did not suspect that the British were near. The advance was further aided by two of Gen. Pole-Carew's battalions of guards seizing at night two hills commanding a deep spruit, the passage of which the Boers guarded daily. Finding then that their position was untenable, the Boers relinquished their defence of the spruit which allowed the passage of the whole British force without opposition.

Another correspondent says that the conduct of the Irish brigade in firing on the first of the British troops to enter the town, is keenly resented by the inhabitants, who regard their action as a wanton attempt to imperil their safety.

Had Hot Engagements.

Vet River, May 6.—Gen. Pole-Carew started at daybreak yesterday on a nineteen mile march. He first came into contact with the Boers holding the river at 1 p.m. The British soon had two batteries in action, and later they added two naval nine pounders, two 4.7 and 5 inch siege guns. The Boers fired with great accuracy and the duel continued unabated with a terrible din until sunset and even later there was desultory firing. It is marvellous that nobody on the British side was injured.

Gen. Hutton started early to find the drift on the west. When this was discovered, it proved to be strongly held and protected by two guns. The British speedily engaged the Boers who enfiladed the dismounted firing line with a Maxim and forced the Boers to leave the river bed.

The encounter was terribly hot. Later, the whole British force crossed the river, threatening the Boer right. The Boers retreated during the night.

The Boers must have received about the same time news of Gen. Hamilton's occupation of Winberg. About sunset a detachment of twenty-six Australians who had crept unseen toward the river bed, found themselves near a kopje occupied by the Boers. After firing they fixed bayonets and charged, capturing the kopje. All was done on their own initiative. Thus night fell. Early this morning it was discovered that the whole Boer force had fled.

The British discovered along the railroad concealed small packets of high explosives. The Boers had destroyed three bridges over spruits between here and Brandfort, but in every case it was possible to make a detour. The Boers appear to be fighting with much less spirit. It is reported that they are commanded by Gen. Lucas Meyer. The bridge over the Vet river is completely destroyed. Gen. Hutton captured a Maxim and took twelve prisoners.

Roberts' Despatch.

London, May 7.—The war office has published the following despatch from lord Roberts dated Vet River, Saturday, May 5th, 7:15 p.m.: "I marched here to-day with Pole-Carew's division. Headquarters and Wavell's brigade of the 7th division are two miles in the rear. Maxwell's brigade of the same division is the same distance to our right.

"The enemy are in considerable strength on the opposite bank of the river. Our guns engaged theirs for some three hours without being able to force a passage of the river. Shortly before dusk, however, mounted infantry under Gen. Hutton turned the enemy's right, and in a very dashing manner pushed across the river under heavy shell and musketry fire. We're now bivouacking for the night within three miles of the Vet river. Our casualties, I hope, are not numerous.

"Hamilton was in action yesterday and succeeded in preventing a junction of two Boer forces by a well executed movement by some of the Household cavalry, the 12th Lancers and Kitchener's Horse who charged a body of the enemy and inflicted serious loss. The enemy fled, leaving their dead on the field and their wounded ed to be attended by our doctors.

"Macdonald's Highland brigade dislodged the enemy on the right flank under cover of the naval guns, in which operation the Black Watch distinguished themselves and were very skilfully led. Hamilton was advancing this morning to a difficult drift over the Kleint river.

"Hunter reports that Barton's brigade was heavily engaged this morning two miles north of Rooidan. The enemy's position was quite four miles long and strongly held. He states that our men marched magnificently and carried ridge after ridge in grand style. The casualties in this force and in Hamilton's and Hutton's will be reported as soon as possible.

"Capt. Miller who was taken prisoner near Thaba N'Chu, has been sent to Rundle's camp by the enemy, with a severe wound in the abdomen.

"Brabant reports that one sergeant and three men were captured on May 2nd, while on patrol, and one of them, who had been brutally ill-treated and left for dead by the Boers, was found the following day.

"Lieut. Lilly, Victoria mounted rifles, reported missing, was found at Brandfort dangerously wounded, and has been most carefully attended by the Netherlands' ambulance."

Crossed The River.

London, May 7.—Lord Roberts has crossed the Vet river. The Boers are in full retreat towards Zand river and Kroonstadt. The capture of Wynburg by Gen. Hamilton's force is confirmed.

Can't Enthuse Free Staters.

London, May 7.—The Times correspondent at Lorenzo Marques says that commandant Gen. Louis Botha has been in the Free State with the object of rousing the burghers to a sense of their duties and responsibilities, but that he returned disheartened and disgusted by their apathy. The correspondent adds that he has learned from an unimpeachable source that Gen. Botha openly told some of his friends that the Free Staters were so completely demoralized that it was hopeless to expect to do anything with them. The correspondent further says that it is more than ever evident that the mass of burghers will not become a party to resisting the siege of Pretoria.

What A Norwegian Thinks.

Copenhagen, May 7.—The Politken prints a letter sent from Pretoria on March 9th purporting to be from Capt. Allum, of the Norwegian army, who went to South Africa on behalf of his government to study the war. He describes the Boers as being busily engaged in making and repairing guns and manufacturing projectiles and powder. Despite the four strong forts around the city, he does not believe that the burghers will be able to defend Pretoria long. He records an interview with president Kruger, who had just returned from the Free State. He says the president looked very old and broken. He was suffering from an affliction of the eyes, which he kept closed. He said scarcely anything, but suddenly exclaimed: "What can we poor Boers do? The English have 100,000 soldiers in one place, 40,000 in another and 20,000 in another. Now they send 30,000 Kaffirs against us."

The president had just learned of the Deerdpoort affair. Capt. Allum adds that he received the impression that the president considers all is lost except honor, but does not intend to surrender yet.

Has A Secret Force Gone?

London, May 7.—The Cape Town Argus reports the secret departure of a relief column for Mafeking before Gen. Hunter's advance to that place began.

It is stated that Gen. Hunter will operate north of the Vaal river, and Gen. Methuen south of that stream, in conjunction with Gen. Roberts' movements.

Captured The Place.

Vet River, May 6.—Gen. Ian Hamilton's brigade this morning occupied Winberg, twenty miles of this place, and which was the base os supplies for the Boers in the southern Free State. Yesterday Hamilton's force captured kopjes controlling the town, and this morning the enemy were found to have evacuated the place. Their retreat from Winberg was simultaneous with the retirement of the Boers north of here.

The Rumors In London.

London, May 7.—From Lorenzo Marques come various rumors that Col. Plumer has been reinforced and is again advancing toward Mafeking.

Another report says Mafeking has been relieved and Gen. Lemmer, with 3,000 Boers, captured at Fourteen Streams.

To Run Some Months.

Winnipeg, May 7.—The legislature will resume business to-night. One of the officers of the house said that there was enough legislation on hand to keep the members in attendance for a couple of months or more. Quite a number of private bills have been received since the adjournament.

St. Joseph's Orphan's home for boys was blessed and declared open by his grace archbishop of St. Boniface in the presence of a great crowd of citizens yesterday.

President Alfaro Escapes Death.

Panama, Columbia, May 7.—A correspondent in Guayaquil, Ecuador, reports that an unsuccessful and cowardly attempt to assassinate president Eloy Alfaro of the republic, has been made. The would-be assassin has been captured. President Alfaro seems to bear a charmed life. This is the third unsuccessful attempt made to assassinate him.

May Cost Two Lives.

Toronto, May 7.—In a fire which consumed the interior of a building on Queen street, west, Sunday night, Mrs. Degan, eighty years old, and her four-year-old grandson, occupying the third floor, were overcome by smoke. They were rescued by firemen in an unconscious condition and may not recover.

WISH OF SALISBURY.

When The Artistic Genuis Flourished.

HOPE IT WILL BE OUTCOME

THE SPEAKERS AT THE ROYAL ACADEMY BANQUET.

Admiring a Great Picture—Will Hold its Own in the Portions of the World it Now Occupies—Khaki Stands as a Wonderful Symbol.

London, May 7.—At the annual banquet of the Royal academy the guests included king Oscar of Sweden, the prince of Wales, prince Kottichitto, of Japan, prince Christian, of Denmark, prince Edward of Saxe-Weimar, the archbishop of Canterbury, the marquis of Salisbury, the duke of Cambridge, Hon. Henry Campbell-Bannerman, liberal leader in the house of commons, Rudyard Kipling and Joseph Choate, the American embassador. There were many other notable persons present.

Responding to a toast to the royal family, proposed by Sir Edward John Poynter, president of the Royal academy, the prince of Wales thanked him for his congratulations on his escape from an assassin's bullet, and added that the incident could be regarded as closed. He said further that "all's well that ends well." The prince congratulated the artists on the beautiful pictures exhibited, especially on Mr. Sargeant's "Three Sisters," of which he said: "After looking at and admiring it, I can only call it a picture of the three graces."

The duke of Cambridge in responding to a toast to the army, said that the army stood as high as ever in the eyes of the nation. The duke said further: "We have associated with us in the present war splendid colonial contingents who show to the world what an empire we really are. Let us maintain that sentiment. Let us show that while we have no feeling but friendship for other nations, we are determined to hold our own in those portions of the world which are ours."

The Right Hon. George J. Goschen, first lord of the admiralty, replying to a toast to the navy, remarked that the common garb of khaki which was worn alike by the navy and army, the regulars, volunteers and colonials, was symbol of the common effort of men fighting side by side without jealousy in the common cause of the empire.

Lord Salisbury responding to the toast, "Her Majesty's Ministers," made a speech in which he referred to a great movement by the victorious queen in South Africa, "which we hope," he said, "will bring to a determination this lingering war, and will bring relief to the heroic garrison of Mafeking."

Lord Salisbury, good-humoredly upbraided the critics of the government, who, being unable to speak in depreciatory terms of the cause for which the country was fighting, and having no desire to say a word in derogation of the generals, sought an outlet in the government. Lord Salisbury went on to say that he was unable to speak of the government's political actions in the past, because he was forbidden to go into the secrets of the council chamber. He concluded by saying: "We find that those centuries which have been fullest of conflict and shock of arms, have also been centuries in which the artistic genius of human nature has flourished most brightly. I earnestly hope that this will be the outcome of the present war."

ONTARIO GOES AHEAD.

Hon. Mr. Stratton Prophecies Big Things For the Future.

Toronto Star.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, speaking at the Cartwright club, Friday night, said:

Great as had been the progress of Ontario in the past, with renewed activity in the business world, the province has taken new life.

The new premier of the province, the noblest provincial of them all, associated with a cabinet of kindred provincial spirits, had struck out a new course.

Ontario's resources of field, forest mine and fisheries were of almost boundless extent.

In the new and unexplored territory there were tremendous assets in all these departments.

The latest pulpwood concessions guaranteed the investment of $2,300,000 of capital and the employment of 1,130 hands, not to speak of the industrial employment that would be associated with these.

During the recent session the government had passed other important measures, including acts to enable municipal corporations to establish cold storage, to create a labor bureau, to aid in the establishment of municipal sanitoria, to render more stringent the election law and to provide mining development.

During the next session the assessment act would be placed upon a more equitable basis.

During the coming summer the government would consult municipalities as to the best means of expending grants to good roads.

Next session the grant would be made. Then the mediaeval system of toll roads would be abolished.

CALLS BROTHER A CAESAR.

Because of Quarrel Brother of John D. Rockefeller Leaves Church.

Cleveland, May 7.—Frank Rockefeller, trustee of the Euclid avenue Baptist church, has written to the official board of the church resigning all connection therewith. His wife and their three daughters, Misses Alice, Annie and Helen, have also resigned.

The Euclid avenue Baptist church is one of the most fashionable and the richest in the city. Frank Rockefeller and his brother, John D., have been its most prominent members. Frank's resignation is due to his bitter quarrel with John D. Rockefeller, who is superintendent of the Euclid avenue Baptist church Sunday school.

It is said that Frank Rockefeller used this language in talking of his action:

"I do not believe in placing Caesarism before christianity in any church."

Rockefeller's friends believe he meant his brother John when he referred to the Caesar of the church.

Montpelier Breaking Up.

St. John's, Nfld., May 7.—The wrecked steamer Montpelier, which went ashore early Friday morning, is breaking to pieces, and all hope of saving her is abandoned. It now transpires that the engineer and three firemen were left aboard the steamer when the crew were taken off. They were rescued by shoremen, who made the trip to the wrecked vessel at the risk of their lives. The disaster to the Montpelier is regarded here as another proof of the necessity of a thorough survey of the waters around the coast.

Grand Opera In English.

New York, May 7.—The Castle square opera company inaugurate a spring season of grand opera in English, at the American theatre to-night, with a magnificent production of Wagner's superb "Lohengrin," "Mignon," "Tanhauser," "La Traviato," "Il Trovatore," and "Faust" will follow. An enlarged orchestra, the great grand opera chorus, of sixty and a force of supernumeraries will be employed, with the best caste to be had anywhere, in the production.

A Lad Killed On A Farm.

Comber, Ont., May 7.—Amer Loyst, the fifteen-year-old son of Andrew Loyst, boarded a moving freight train here yesterday at noon, and in jumping off again, fell between the cars, the wheels passing over the centre of his body. Death was instantaneous. The trainmen evidently did not notice the accident, and the body lay there until discovered by some children returning home from Sunday-school. An inquest will be held.

Canadian Casualties.

Ottawa, May 7.—The militia department has a list of those members of the Canadian special service forces who have been killed in action or otherwise, died from wounds received in action, died from disease, and received wounds, officially reported to militia headquarters, Ottawa, up to and inclusive of the 30th day of April, 1900. The list shows fifty-six dead and 103 wounded, a heavy percentage.

Another Smallpox Victim.

Winnipeg, May 7.—Nurse Lynch, one of the patients at the isolated smallpox hospital, died last evening, the second death since the disease was discovered. Two other female patients are in a very precarious condition, but all others are doing well. The parents of nurse Lynch reside at Moncton, N.B.

Toronto, Ont., May 7.—Archbishop O'Connor has ordered a collection in aid of Ottawa and Hull fire sufferers in all the Catholic churches in the dioceses next Sunday. This announcement was made yesterday in the various churches from the pulpit.

Bishop Of Savannah.

Washington, May 7.—The papal legation here announces officially the appointment by the pope of Very Rev. Benjamin Keiley, D.D., as bishop of Savannah. It was the dying wish of the late bishop Becker that Dr. Keiley should succeed him.
