CELEBRATING THE RELIEF.

HOW KINGSTONIANS RECEIVED THE GLAD TIDINGS.

Mammoth Celebration Arranged on Short Notice — Music Everywhere — Addresses by Mayor Minnes and Others—The Crowd Wild With Joy—Scenes at the City Hall.

The relief of Mafeking brought relief throughout the length and breadth of the vast British empire to the pent up feelings of all loyalists, whose sympathies stretched across the sea and far over the burning sands of Africa to that strongly invested, half-starved gallant garrison and its plucky commander, who for over 200 days were shut in a small, unfortified place, surrounded by a force many times their number, who never ceased to worry the loyalists on every possible occasion. Yet the thousands of merciless Boers were fought off time and again, and when they became too raucy the gallant band of Britishers would sally forth and inflict chastisement. All the world reveres a hero, and there is not a Britisher who passed through that memorable siege who is not entitled to a distinguishing medal with the word "hero" stamped upon it in big letters. There is nothing the British empire possesses too good for these men.

Some time ago little "Bobs" sent word to Col. Baden-Powell to hold on until the 18th inst. Like an obedient soldier he prepared to do as he was bidden and the world knows how successful he has been. When the time set by the pet of Tommy Atkins for the relief of the besieged drew near, Britishers became restless and looked to Bobs to fulfil his promise, and how he did it all the world knows. From one end of the world to the other, wherever the flag of old England floats, a mighty cheer went up over receipt of the good news, and could Col. Baden-Powell and his handful of braves know of the rejoicing over their safe delivery they would no doubt feel themselves amply paid for the great service they rendered the empire. Canadians were doubly interested; first, because as Britishers they rejoiced at the supremacy of the flag to which they hold allegiance, and, secondly, as Canadians, because the best bone and sinew of their country, the right arm of the British empire, took part in bringing about the end long sought.

And how Kingstonians did rejoice! The loyal citizens showed their appreciation of the glad tidings in a very demonstrative manner. Though it was late in the day when the wires brought the good news, citizens did not consider it too late to rejoice. Flags were run up on all public buildings, private residences, stores, and in fact, wherever a piece of bunting was owned it was shook free to the breeze. It was not until the evening that the pent-up feelings of the people found utterance, and it took them many hours to satisfy their desire to shout and sing their praises of the deeds of heroes. By eight o'clock the whole city was fully astir. Thousands flocked to Princess and King streets, and the market square was packed full by a good-natured, singing, joking crowd, who wanted to do something to show their appreciation of the good news which thrilled an empire, and to express their happiness. Though rain threatened to fall heavily, and in spite of the drizzle which made being out of doors uncomfortable, the crowd surged hither and thither to catch a glimpse of what was going on, and when the side walk would not accommodate the crush, they took to the road. In this way the principal streets were filled to overflowing, while patriotic music was wafted hither and thither on the breeze, fireworks illuminated the surroundings and cheers rent the air. Nearly everybody in the streets carried a small union jack, and the scenes presented throughout the city will never be dimmed in the memory of those who saw them.

At eight o'clock the band of the 14th P.W.O. rifles made its appearance. It was originally intended to play a programme of music in the market square, and torches had been provided to give light for that purpose, but owing to the rain it was found advisable to play in the city hall, after making a tour of the city in a street car, generously provided for that purpose. The band thereupon went through the streets playing patriotic music, from a slowly moving street car. The musicians were everywhere received with enthusiasm, and whenever a familiar song was rendered, the people took up the refrain and sang it through. Shortly before nine o'clock the bandsmen reached the city hall, which was filled to overflowing, and the enthusiasm of the crowd could not be restrained. Every minute or two cheers were given for Baden-Powell, for the Mafeking garrison, for "Bobs," for the Canadians fighting in South Africa, for the queen, etc. The band was liberal with music, playing such airs as, "God Save the Queen," "When the Boys Come Marching Home," "Soldiers of the Queen," "The Absent-Minded Beggar," "The United Empire," "The Boys of Merry England," "The English Brigade," "Soldiers in the Park," and others. Every number was encored, and in many cases the tired musicians responded.

The cheers which greeted mayor Minnes, ex-mayor Ryan, aldermen Taylor, McLeod, Shaw and other civic dignitaries as they entered the hall and made their way through the vast crowd, might have been heard many miles away. Following these came the boys' brigade, carrying aloft a huge union Jack, every boy having a small flag either in his hand, hat or buttonhole. The big flag was taken up to the platform by the boy who carried it, and just as mayor Minnes stepped forward to speak it was waved over his head, bringing forth renewed cheers. When these had subsided, the mayor began to address the crowd, saying:

"The whole empire rejoices to-day over the good news of the relief of Mafeking. (Cheers). This fair dominion of ours which forms part of the Great British empire rejoices. (Cheers). Kingston, one of the most loyal cities in the dominion rejoices in common with the whole empire. The great victory won today by British arms is not the least since this war began, and we all rejoice that Baden-Powell and his gallant garrison have at last been relieved. (Cheers for Baden-Powell). The next command will be 'on to Pretoria,' where will soon float the flag which we are all so proud, the flag that for a thousand years has braved the battle of the breeze, under the folds of which are found freedom and equality, no matter of what creed, color, or religion a man is. The British soldiers have always proved their loyalty to the empire by their willingness to share its trials as well as its triumphs. (Cheers). Our Canadians on the battle line have won for themselves distinction and have nobly upheld the honor of their country. We appreciate the loyalty and spirit they have shown, which have done so much towards binding the British empire together. (Cheers). For the 14th band we have nothing but kind words to say. We appreciate their generosity in turning out to-night and giving us so much of their good music."

Ex-mayor Ryan was called for and received a warm welcome upon ascending the platform. "I do not believe there is a single man in this crowded hall who would not take off his hat and cheer for Baden-Powell," said he, and his words were followed by three cheers and a tiger for that distinguished personage. Continuing, the speaker said:

"Of all the British officers at the front, the name of Baden-Powell stands out most prominent. When we consider what hardships, privations and discouragements Baden-Powell and his handful of gallant men have been subjected to, we begin to realize of what pluck and material they are made. This war will be a memorable one, because we find shoulder to shoulder brave men from Australia, New Zealand, India, Canada and England, English, Irish and Scotch, men from all parts, fighting together for the one cause, the upholding of the supremacy of the British empire. They make no distinction, they fight together, die together and their blood flows in the one stream for the honor of the British flag. (Cheers). Proud should we be to be members of the British empire, to cherish it and hand it down as a precious inheritance to our children and generations to come. To-day the British empire presents a united front to the world. (Cheers). United may we ever be to present the same unbroken front to protect that flag which has flashed aloft for a thousand years, and to keep it afloat for a thousand more. That flag is the badge of freedom, and all who live beneath its folds will find sure protection, no matter of what race, color or creed. Long may it remain on high. We are proud to-day of the feats of British arms in South Africa, and rejoice heartily at the relief of gallant Baden-Powell and his handful of plucky followers." (Cheers).

Alderman McLeod was called upon, and upon coming forward intimated that he considered it a great privilege to be allowed to speak upon the occasion of the celebration of the greatest event of its kind in the world's history—the relief of Mafeking. "First we rejoiced over the relief of Ladysmith, then Kimberley and now Mafeking. The next step will be the liberation of our prisoners at Pretoria, (Cheers). I do not consider that our prisoners at Pretoria have been treated at all humanely, and it will be a relief to them as well as all British subjects when we learn that they have been released. I think I voice the sentiments of all present when I say that we are proud to belong to a nation like the great British empire. The British flag stands to-day as the emblem of liberty, and all who come beneath its folds find justice and equality. We believe that before very long that flag will reign over the whole of South Africa; not that we as British subjects should desire to oppress others, but rather that the people of South Africa might enjoy the same privileges which we here in Canada enjoy, and which all countries enjoy where that flag floats. That flag will bring the same liberty and equality to Africa that it has brought to India, together with civilizing influences. There is not a person in England, or Canada either, for that matter, who would wish to oppress, but rather to lift up the masses. We are proud of our Canadian boys who went out to South Africa, and proud are we of the fact that they have been identified with all the great achievements that have there taken place. We sent out the best men of our country, and they have done us credit, and not 1,000, but 100,000 more would take up their musket to fight in defence of the British empire. (Cheers). When those brave boys of ours come home we will give them a grand welcome, and the best we have will be theirs. I hope this campaign will soon be over, in fact I think the end is not far off. The Boers have lost heart. I will conclude by saying that I wish we had Paul Kruger here to give him a taste of British justice."

Alderman Taylor concluded the speech-making by a brief address, expressing pleasure at the great victory in South Africa, and hoping the British would continue to win further honors.

The whole mass then arose and sang "The Soldiers of the Queen," the band playing the accompaniments. The famous song has never been rendered with more fervor nor feeling; it was grand to hear between 800 and 1,000 voices singing the refrain. Then followed cheers for Baden-Powell and his garrison, for Tommy Atkins in South Africa and for the queen, the performance closing by all singing the national anthem.

Meanwhile city clerk Drennan had been busy outside setting off fire works. He had colored fires blazing at different points around the market square and streets adjacent thereto, the different shades blending beautifully. The 47th battalion band also encircled the city in an open car, pouring out patriotic music and receiving the plaudits of the citizens. Even the buglers of the 14th battalion paraded the principal streets making a stir with fine martial music. Hundreds of boys formed a procession and paraded the streets, creating no end of din by pounding on tins and blowing fish horns. Nearly all had flags which they made good use of in wafting on high.

After leaving the city hall the 14th band formed a "Highland brigade," and headed by the celebrated pipers of that corps, marched up Princess street to the tune made famous at the charge on the heights of Darghai—"The Cock o' the North."

Altogether it was a grand celebration marking a great achievement, but the ceremony was not more expressive than the occasion deserved. Kingstonians did nobly in arranging such a big event in so short a time.

A great many members of "A" field battery and the 14th battalion, in uniform, took part in the parade.

Bandmaster Trendell's little speech was timely and pleased the crowd in the hall.

WATER WORKS COMMITTEE

VARIOUS SUBJECTS DISCUSSED IN FRIDAY'S MEETING.

The Water Supply Will be Extended to Mr. Tooher's House, John Street—Hydrant at Tete de Pont Barracks—Request For Damage Refused—Mr. Hewitt's Salary.

A regular meeting of the water works committee was held yesterday afternoon. There were present: Chairman Kent and aldermen Toye, Cooke, Campbell, Walkem and superintendent Hewitt. Several accounts were passed. The account of J. R. Mills, charging $15 for valuating damage to Mr. Power's and Mrs. Brophy's properties on Wellington street, was referred back for consideration. The charge was thought too high.

Ald. Shaw, on behalf of the fire and light committee, wrote, asking what it would cost to place a hydrant within Tete de Pont barracks. Mr. Hewitt explained the cost would be $875 for putting in a six-foot main and placing three hydrants on it.

Ald. Toye did not think this was the way the request should be answered; they had interpreted it wrongly. The board of works simply wanted to know what it would cost to place one hydrant at the barracks. Mr. Hewitt stated that the cost of such work would be $775. The superintendent was instructed to write chairman Shaw to this effect. The pipe along Place d'Armes is in poor condition, and the laying of a new pipe would be a great benefit.

Mr. Brophy wrote the committee, claiming that he should be paid for damage to two houses on corner of Wellington and Gore streets. The committee's architect inspected the places, and said there had been no damage.

Architect Smith examined the property for Mr. Brophy and thought the damages should be allowed; the foundation had been injured.

Mr. Brophy addressed the committee. The water had been in the house the year before, but he had not asked for damages. Damage had been done this year to the foundation floors.

Ald. Cooke thought that superintendent Hewitt should go to the house and be shown the damages by Mr. Brophy. If there was damage he should be paid for it.

The committee declined to consider Mr. Brophy's request, as no damage worthy of the name had been done.

T. Tooher, John street, was present. He had offered to supply six-inch tile pipe and hydrant and to give the committee $50 cash if they would lay a water supply pipe and construct a sewer to connect with his house, the sewer pipes to run from Bagot street along John street to his property. The tile and hydrant would cost about $16. Mr. Tooher asked for a reduction in his share of the cost. The committee decided to reduce the total amount to $65, the city to supply the tile and hydrant.

A petition was received from Joseph Bewes and others, asking for extension of water main on Chestnut and Cherry streets. The cost would be about $150, and the rate to be reaped only about $10.50 per annum. The chairman thought it would be best to recommend that the petition be granted in case a sewer were built on Chestnut street, which the board of works was thinking of doing. The petition, however, was again laid over.

Superintendent Hewitt having retired from the room, chairman Kent introduced the question of a raise in the superintendent's salary, which he had asked for. The members were proceeding to argue the matter, when Ald. Toye saved a lot of usless discussion by pointing out that the request would first have to go before the council.

The meeting then adjourned.

QUIT WHITE BREAD.

Could Not Get Strength From It.

An Episcopalian minister, of Ellenville, N.Y., who is interested not only in the spiritual welfare of his congregation, but in their physical well-being also, says, "I can now do an immense amount of work and feel no fatigue, for the reason that I am using Grape-Nuts breakfast food and have quit coffee entirely and am using Postum Food Coffee.

"Myself and family are all greatly improved in health. We have largely abandoned the use of white bread. Upwards of twenty-five persons have changed their diet, on my recommendation. It is gladly given, because I know from personal experience, whereof I speak."

It is a well-known fact that white bread is almost entirely composed of starch and this is difficult of digestion by many people, particularly those who have weak intestinal digestion. The result of the use of much white bread is a lack of brain and nervous power to do mental work and it also creates intestinal troubles, because the excess of starch ferments in the intestines and makes the conditions right for the growth of microbes whereas Grape-Nuts breakfast food contains the needed starch but in a predigested form. That is, it is transformed into grape sugar in the process of manufacture, and delivered in the packages, ready cooked, and in such shape that it is immediately assimilated without hard work of the digestive organs.

The food also contains the delicate particles of phosphate of potash which, combined with alubumen, is used by nature to make the gray matter that must be in the cells of the brain and the nerve centres throughout the body, in order to give strength and ability to stand long and continuous work. Both the Postum Food Coffee and Grape-Nuts are sold by all first-class grocers.

A KLONDYKE OF OUR OWN.

FRONTENAC RICH IN GOLD, COPPER AND GALENA.

What A. M. Chisholm, an Experienced Miner, Has to Say—The Back Townships Are Rich—Awaiting Development—What One Company is Doing.

Very few of our readers are aware that Kingston is the county seat of one of the richest counties in the dominion of Canada. A Whig representative had the pleasure last evening of an interview with A. M. Chisholm, of Cloyne, Ont., and recently of New York. He is now the managing partner of the owners of the Helena mines, situated in the township of Barrie, where he has been operating for the last two years. While his company has no property for sale and no stock to place on the market, Mr. Chisholm had no hesitation in saying that in the northern townships of the county many thousand acres as good as the Helena mines are awaiting the coming of the prospector.

Mr. Chisholm and partner have spent a large amount in developing, and are perfectly satisfied with the results. In fact, they are so much satisfied that they are now erecting twenty-five comfortable dwelling houses for their employees. They are also putting in air compressors and a smelting plant with a 200 ton daily capacity.

Mr. Chisholm had with him several samples of ore, in which the gold showed freely. One of our Kingston boys, A. H. Spencer, is in charge of the assaying department. Both copper and gold are found, while there is plenty of galena on adjacent lots. The Helena mines are situated eighteen miles from a railway, and the famous Boerth mines are only twelve miles below them. Mr. Chisholm stated last night that these latter mines, which have been shut down for some time, would be opened up again soon. He proposes to keep at work in his mine until they have gone down 2,000 feet. At present fifty tons of ore a day are being taken out.

Mr. Chisholm is a Canadian, having been brought up in Hastings county, and he has had extensive experience in the mining fields of Montana, Colorado, etc. He states that no one realizes the richness and mighty possibilities of the northern townships of Frontenac county. All that is required is the capital to open up these hidden treasures of nature. Unlike the mines in the western states, the ore in these local mines is free milling ore, which is a great advantage. There is no need to travel into the frozen regions of the Yukon to seek the yelow metal; we have it in more abundance at our very doors, awaiting to be developed.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Thought Transference.

Kingston, May 17, (To the Editor): It is a long time since the scientific world has been so electrified as by the outspoken utterances of Sir William Crookes, F.R.S.V., P.C.S., on the subject of thought transference. Sir William is a leader in the ranks of scientists, before whom all bow as the ablest and boldest of researchers. The following article is written to show how thought transference affects many persons in business transaction, and is the direct cause of much unpleasantness which will not be overcome until the development of the individual along the line of thought transference. Many persons receive the thought more strongly than the words, and such persons act from the power of the mental vibration they receive, and, if the act is not in harmony with the mental vibration sent out, the person dealing is to blame for any mistakes that may follow and not the person dealt with. When this power is more fully and perfectly understood people will naturally be more careful to see if the act and thought are in harmony so that no mistakes will follow. A sensitive person can not only feel the thought vibration from another person, but can also see thoughts and in time will hear thoughts. Those powers are waiting to be recognized.—Z. A.
