SEEKING TO SAVE ESTATE.

BAXTER DON'T WANT TO HAVE IT SOLD.

He Has Appealed to the Courts—Premier Marchand Taken Ill at the Government Buildings—Not Considered Serious.

Montreal, Que., June 1.—That James Baxter, who is serving a term in St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary in connection with the Ville Marie bank wrecking is making a determined effort to save his estate, was evidenced by an appeal taken by him to-day to the court of appeal. The sheriff was to have sold property of Baxter's to-day to the extent of two hundred and sixty-five lots, an opposition having been dismissed by the superior court. Baxter, however, secured another delay by appealing to the higher court.

Premier Marchand was taken ill at the government buildings, St. Gabriel street, this morning, and had to be removed in a cab to the house of his son-in-law, senator Dandurand. His illness is not considered serious.

The negro Chandler, who some twelve years ago attempted to kill Mr. Sheffield, of the C.P.R., and sentenced to life imprisonment in St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary, has been released by order of the government, and has gone to New York, where he has relatives living.

A Toronto Man Ill.

This morning a man apparently about thirty-five years of age made his way into the police station, but why he did so he failed to explain, nor could he give a satisfactory account of himself. From his actions one would be led to believe that he was either under the influence of liquor, on the verge of the "D.T.'s," or insane. After much difficulty it was gleaned from him that his name was Thomas Tutt or Tett, and that he resided at No. 38 Noble street, Toronto. He took a seat outside the police station but had not been there very long before he collapsed into semi unconsciousness. Dr. T. M. Fenwick was summoned and upon examining the man pronounced him to be in a very precarious condition. He had him carried into the station and placed on one of the beds. The man's pulse was very feeble and there was very little life in him. Dr. Fenwick worked over him for some time and succeeded in getting the blood circulating more freely and the heart beating stronger. He was too weak to be removed to the hospital at the time, but when he gathers sufficient strength he will be sent there.

A Sweet Topic.

A complaint has been made in an unreflecting quarter of the quantity of sugar purchased for Rockwood institution for the insane last year. The quantity of sugar purchased looked large to the critic, 27,677 pounds, less 600 pounds on hand at the end of the year. The number taking meals, patients and employees, was 650, so that the sugar used per person was less than two ounces daily, costing under one cent. This includes all used in preserving, baking, desert, tea and coffee. It is a small subject for great minds.

A party pull is alleged to foster orders and consumption. The charge is absurd. Orders for sugar the grocers do not want, and are for ever kicking against. There is so little margin on sugar that it does not pay the handling, and the merchants reach out for general orders instead or at least to accompany the sugar order. Local influence would reduce not inflate sugar purchases. Criticism should have a sensible basis.

The Cedar Is Poor.

Alderman White has called the attention of the city engineer to the poor quality of cedar ties being laid for sidewalks throughout the city. He found some being laid on Union street which were rotten and through which he was able to thrust his walking cane. The engineer states that these stringers were rejected. He inspects all the lumber and cedar used in walks. It is difficult at the present time to get good cedar, the Union street walks are being delayed awaiting the arrival of some new stock.

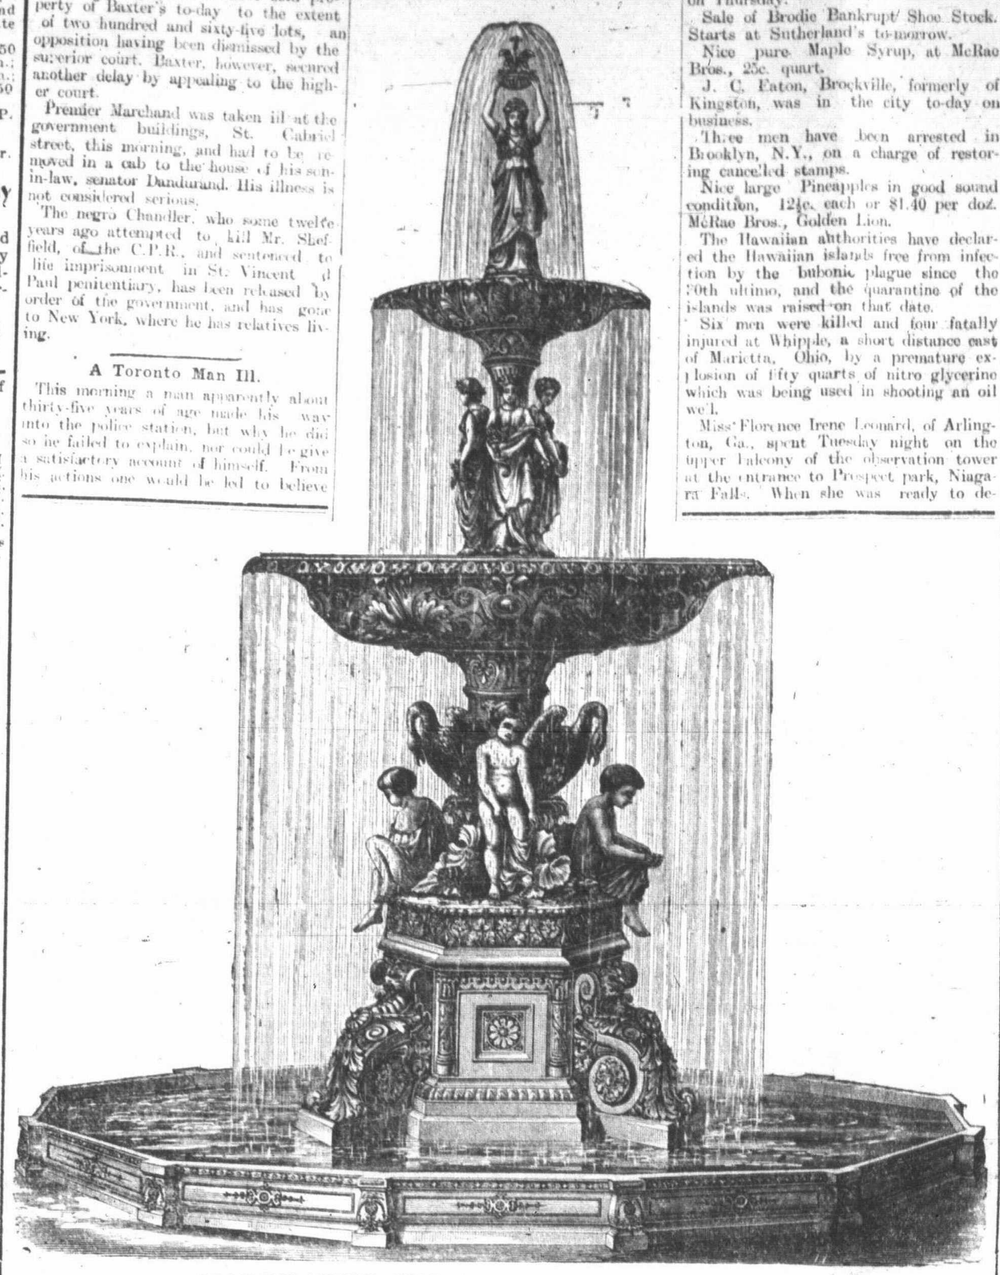
THIS IS YANKEE STUFF,

because Great Britain Would Never Quit If She Was Right.

London, June 1.—The struggle in Africa has had a salutary effect. It has postponed if not averted another war. Nearly six weeks ago the crisis between Russia and Japan had reached a point where hostilities were regarded as inevitable by the authorities of both countries. A dead-lock had been reached over Japan's installation of a trader in the best locations at Masampho, where the king of Corea a year ago had given Russia the right to settle on condition that she did not fortify the place. Japan refused to withdraw her unofficial representative, and prepared to defend him in his possession. The Japanese had the right to expect the support of England under the existing understanding in proceeding to extremities, but the despatches government received an intimation from London that Great Britain would be unable to act while the war in South Africa continued. The note conveying this intimation contained the advice that Japan should settle the matter with Russia in the best manner possible. Thereupon the Tokio government reluctantly withdrew from its belligerent attitude. War usually breeds war, and even in this case there is reason to believe that the conflict between Japan and Russia has only been postponed for a brief season, for the spirit of Japan is more warlike than ever.



SUGGESTED KIRKPATRICK MEMORIAL.

The committee and friends of the late Sir George Kirkpatrick have begun active work for a memorial. The city and county councils pledged $250 each and $500 has been subscribed in advance of any general appeal. This will follow in a few days. The form of memorial most favored is a fountain, and the design that pleases best is reproduced above. The height is eighteen feet, the figures being almost life size. The cost will be $2,500 or $3,000. The site chosen, in front of the court house, will give the memorial an excellent position, and improve the grounds as well as the classic building. If the people subscribed as they praised Sir George there will be no shortage of funds.

Three Men In Trouble.

This morning C. Fralick, H. Bethune and A. McDay were placed under arrest at the instance of chief of police Ryan, of Gananoque. The three, together with C. McConville, are charged with holding a cocking main at Gananoque on the afternoon previous to the queen's birthday. McConville could not be found by the police to-day. Chief of police Ryan came up at noon from Gananoque and took the three men back with him in cabs. They were accompanied by James McPartland, who will give bonds for them should they be committed for trial, and E. H. Britton, who will act as their counsel. The men say they are not guilty.

Bound To Be Notorious.

King Pen had another jockey episode yesterday afternoon. He was speeding his little three-year-old horse on the fair grounds track, where he was in no danger of being held up. When jogging along at a smart clip the axle of his vehicle broke, and there was a spill. The next scene is laid in Princess street. A king, mounted on his royal steed, and himself and his royal robes bearing all the evidences of an unexpected roll in dust three inches deep, passed slowly and sadly down the street. Acquaintances spoke sympathetically to the man and tried to cheer him up. The only reply he deigned to make was: "The horse is worth $50 more now than it was before." Blessings always come in disguise.

Chairman Donnelly, of the board of works, would like citizens to remember that it is their duty to notify the city officials of any loose or broken planks found in the sidewalks. By so doing they might save the city a law suit. All such notifications will be immediately attended to.

A BUSINESS BASIS.

It Is Always Best to Get Down to That Quickly.

"I think I should like to look at some of your brass bedsteads."

"Yes, ma'am. Step this way, please. You want to see our best, I presume?"

"It pays to buy the best, doesn't it?"

"Yes, it's economy in the long run. The price of this one is $60."

"Oh, I couldn't afford to buy anything as expensive as that."

"Well, we have some over here that are practically just as good. You can have one like this for $45."

"Haven't you something still cheaper?"

"Well, here's a special bargain and the cheapest all brass bedstead in the house. We can sell you this for $25."

"I can't afford to pay any such price as that, either. What is it about brass that makes it come so high?"

"A great many of our customers, ma'am, are buying bedsteads made of iron, painted in any color desired and trimmed with brass. They look almost as good and don't cost nearly as much."

"What can you sell me one of that kind for?"

"Here's one for $12.50."

"Haven't you some that"—

"Here's the greatest seller we've got in the store. It's iron, painted white, trimmed with brass, neatly made and ought to bring $14, but we're selling it for $9.75."

"Is that the cheapest you've got?"

"It's the cheapest bedstead trimmed and ornamented with brass you can find here or any place else. We guarantee it to"—
