A MERITED HONOR.

William Lyon Mackenzie at Last Fittingly Remembered.

Toronto Star

In resolving to place a portrait of William Lyon Mackenzie within the new municipal buildings, the city council have performed an act which, if long deferred, is well done. The portrait should be worthy of the man and of his place in our civic and colonial history. He was our first mayor and chief magistrate, in fact the first mayor in the province. He helped to create our municipal system, and laid the foundations of our civic government. The city's coat of arms was designed by him, and its motto, "Industry, intelligence, integrity," which marked the author's life, marked no less his official administration. Honest and unselfish devotion to a duty, or a cause, was one of Lyon Mackenzie's qualities. In the the midst of the terrible cholera plague which fell upon the rising city, he personally ministered to its victims, and performed, at imminent risk to himself and his family, the last sad offices to the dead and the dying. His courage and self-sacrifice as acitizen, and his services to the poor are remembered by old residents of Toronto. Among the city's worthies of the past he deserves an honored place.

An example thus set by Toronto, we are reminded, should be followed in a similar way by the province at large. "Apropos of tablets," says the Westminster, "is it not time for a monument to be erected to the memory of William Lyon Mackenzie, whose grave in the Necropolis is marked by only a very small marble slab? The fierce political animosities of '37 have died away, and Canadians of to-day can see the great men of those troublous times in a clearer light and do them juster honor than their fellows did. What though our fathers killed the prophets, if they were true prophets, we should not be ashamed to build their sepulchres."

The Westminster's proposal has had many friends in the press. Every journal in Toronto, and many throughout the province, have at one time or another favored it. The late Hon. Archibald McKellar, an old parliamentarian and ex-minister of the crown, who knew Mackenzie intimately and appreciated his great public services, had the project at one time in hand; but it lapsed with his death a few years ago. One of its latest advocates is Rev. Dr. McMullen in his graphic story of the pioneers of Oxford.

It is surprising, not a few will say ungrateful, that, during all these years of political progress, no memorial of a personality so picturesque and strenuous as Mackenzie should have come into existence. The late Sir M. C. Cameron used to say that, conservative as he was, he would gladly contribute to such an object. The first premier of Ontario, Hon. J. S. Macdonald, was one of Mackenzie's ardent admirers. "William Lyon Mackenzie," said the New York Tribune, "was the leader of the real struggle for responsible government in Canada. He conducted the political siege, and headed the storming party that effected the breach. Mackenzie personified the vim and virtues, personal and political, that fought the fight and won it." This tribute from an intelligent critic of events in our early history, indicates, in part, the claims of the old liberal to recognition. He proved his faith by his works, as a fearless public man. He was the leader of a movement which, though not faultless, hastened a radical change in British colonial government; and he staked his life on the issue. Such a man may well be honored by a monument to his memory.

ROBERTS IN PRETORIA

Possession Will Be Taken At Once.

ADVANCE OF THE FORCE.

FOUND BOERS ON WAY TO SIX MILE SPRUIT.

They Were Dislodged and Pursued For a Mile—Then the British Found Themselves in an Awkward Quarter, But Relief Came to Them Speedily.

London, June 5, (12:47 p.m.)—The war office has issued the following despatch from lord Roberts:

"Pretoria, June 5, (11:40 a.m.)—We are now in possession of Pretoria. The official entry will be made this afternoon at two o'clock."

The war office this morning issued the following despatch received from lord Roberts:

"Six Miles Spruit, June 5, (8:30 p.m.)—We started this morning at daybreak and marched about ten miles to Six Miles Spruit, both banks of which were occupied by the Boers. Henry's and Ross' mounted infantry, with the West Somerset, Dorset, Bedford and Sussex companies of yeomanry, quickly dislodged them from the south bank and pursued them nearly a mile, when they found themselves under a heavy fire from guns which the Boers had placed in a well concealed commanding position.

"Our heavy guns of the naval and royal artillery which had purposely been placed in front part of the column were hurried to the assistance of the mounted infantry, as fast as oxen and mules could travel over the great rolling hills surrounding Pretoria. The guns were supported by Stevenson's brigade of Pole-Carew's and after a few rounds drove the enemy from their positions.

"The Boers attempted to turn our left flank, in which they were again foiled by the mounted infantry and yeomanry, supported by Maxwell's brigade of Tucker's division. As, however, they still kept pressing our left rear, I sent word to Ian Hamilton, who was advancing three miles to our left, to incline towards us, and fill up the gap between the two columns. This finally cleared the enemy who were driven back toward Pretoria, I hoped we would have been able to follow them up, but the days now are very short in this part of the world, and after nearly two hours' marching and fighting we had to bivouack on the ground gained during the day.

"The Guards' brigade is quite near the southernmost fort by which Pretoria is defended and less than four miles from the town.

"French, with the 3rd and 4th cavalry brigades, and Hutton's New South Wales mounted rifles, is north of Pretoria. Broadwood's brigade is between French's and Hamilton's columns and Gordon is watching the right flank of the main force not far from the Delagoa Bay at Irene, station, which was destroyed by the enemy.

"Our casualties, I hope, are very few."

Equal To The Occasion.

Cape Town, June 2, (10.15 a.m.) The correspondent learns that prime minister Schreiner will meet the Afrikander bond party in caucus, and will lay a programme before them. If his programme is disapproved he will resign. There are different opinions as to the outcome of the matter.

The Cape Times, discussing the speeches made at the people's congress (Afrikanders) at Graafreinet, advocates a suspension of the constitution. The correspondent has the authority of Sir Gordon Sprigg, the former prime minister, to state that he strongly disapproves of any such action. He says that he is positively of the opinion that the Cape constitution is equal to the occasion.

Sir John Rose-Innes, the former leader of the British minority in the Cape parliament, and premier Schreiner, are also strenuously opposed to any such action.

The immediate political future is very gloomy, but the leading politicians are all prepared to make great sacrifices and sink their differences in order to save the situation.

Cape Town, June 2, (3 p.m.)—The political situation is developing. The Ons Land, the leading Afrikander paper, today urges the members of the Afrikander bond to act on the resolutions adopted by the people's congress at Graafreinet, and block everything until the imperial government shall give its decisions in regard to the points made. The situation has practically resolved itself into a fight between premier Schreiner and the Ons Land, for a majority of the members of the bond, including commissioner of public works Sauer and Mr. Hofmeyer, the Afrikander leader, support the Ons Land.

Wanted To Resign.

Victoria, B.C., June 5.—At a meeting held at Nanaimo on Saturday night W. W. B. McInnes, speaking of his father's position in the recent political occurrences, said he would let the audience into a family secret. For the past two years his father had been in communication with the authorities at Ottawa in relation to resigning, being sick and tired of the worry.

Mr. Turner said: "That is not true."

Mr. McInnes, replying, said: "That is not an untruth, and the records at Ottawa will bear me out."

The bicycle club members will have a club run to Collins Bay a week from to-night. Capt. Rae and Lieut. Ruttan will be in charge. The ladies are cordially invited to attend.

MANY GRIEVANCES.

What the Laborers Have to Tell of Troubles.

Ottawa, June 5.—The Ottawa merchants are forming themselves into a merchants' retail association; committees have been appointed to canvas the merchants and a meeting will be held tomorrow night to complete an organization.

At the meeting of the association for the promotion of biblical instruction in the public schools, held last night, at the Y.M.C.A., a committee was appointed to draft a scheme of biblical instruction in the public schools, and to bring the matter before the public school board, and, when the verdict of that body has been obtained, to report to the association.

Ottawa may have a saw and tool manufacturing establishment. Messrs. Hurley and Dietrich, who conduct a large industry of that character at Galt, Ont., have written the city authorities that they propose to establish a new factory either at Ottawa or Sherbrooke, but they prefer this city. They ask to be given a hearing before one of the committees to explain what they propose to do. A meeting of the industrial committee to consider the matter will be held at four o'clock this afternoon.

Now that the building trades are airing their troubles it looks as if a fresh grievance comes to the surface every hour. Several stone masons of their union complaint that members of their union are working for the public works department for less than union pay. The union wage paid by the city contractors is $3 per day, and it is said the union men on the hill are perfectly satisfied to work for $2.50 a day and a nice easy time.

A CANADIAN DEAD.

He Passed Away At Naauwpoort on June 1st.

Ottawa, June 5.—Lord Minto has received the following despatches from Sir Alfred Milner:

"Cape Town, June 2. Regret to report that 7610, Pte C. H. Bolt, Royal Canadian regiment, died of enteric fever at Naauwpoort on June 1st.

"Regret to report 1,270, Pte. J. W. Gray, second Canadian mounted infantry, severely wounded near Johannesburg, May 28th; 291, Corpl. R. A. Stevens, dangerously wounded, 85, Pte. L. Dore, slightly wounded, both Canadian mounted infantry, at Rooiport, May 28th.

"Regret to report Capt. E. J. Harrison, Canadian mounted infantry, dangerously ill of enteric fever at Wynburg."

Canadians Wounded.

Ottawa, June 5.—Col. Aylmer received a cable from Lieut. Col. Otter, dated Johannesburg, June 4th, reporting the following men as having been wounded on the 29th May: Pte. J. E. Davis, Royal Canadian dragoons; Pte. J. B. Robinson, 21st Essex regiment; Pte. J. Jordan, Q.O.R.; Pte. E. Hill, 9th Voltigeurs, Quebec; Pte. A. Haydon, 62nd St. John Fusiliers; Pte. F. Richardson, No. 5 military district (no corps). Lieut.-Col. Otter also reports Evans, No. 7,888, as wounded, but Col. Aylmer is unable to identify this man.

Lieut. Col. Otter also states that the effective strength of the battalion at the front is only 450, all ranks.

Toronto, June 5.—Private Joseph Jordan, of this city, reported wounded on May 29th, was a corporal in "A" company, Queen's Own rifles, before he joined the first Canadian contingent for service in South Africa. He was also in his third year at the Toronto medical school. He is nineteen years of age.

FIRE LAST EVENING.

There Was a Vast Amount of Smoke and Little Fire.

What was at first supposed to be a disastrous fire, owing to the density of the smoke issuing therefrom, was discovered in the wareroom of George Wilkinson & Sons' store last night at about ten minutes past seven. An alarm was sent in and the fire brigade was quickly at work, two streams of water being thrown on the flames, which, after much trouble, were found to be concentrated beneath a stairway in the wareroom back of the front shop. The fire was extinguished after a good deal of the stairway had been cut away, allowing the firemen to reach the flames.

Thought the actual loss by fire will be slight, at the same time the aggregate loss by breakage, smoke and water will total, it is estimated, about $3,000. The entire large building was completely filled by smoke, which poured from all windows and doors like so many smoke stacks. How the fire originated is a mystery, as the place in which it broke forth had not been open for at least ten days; this was a sort of pit beneath the stairs, into which were thrown the loose straw from cases, bottles, etc. Employees had gone through the warehouse only a few minutes before the fire was discovered, but saw no sign of fire or smoke. Mr. Wilkinson left the store at seven o'clock and had not reached home, though he started directly for there, when the flames broke out. These were discovered by Mrs. J. O'Connor, of the Club hotel, who gave the alarm. There is insurance on the stock aggregating $15,000. It is thought the fire was due to spontaneous combustion.

The city as a community is to be congratulated upon its narrow escape last night from one of the worst acts yet attempted by machine politics. If a certain appointment had been made it would have been an outrage.

OF SECONDARY MOMENT

News About The War That Looks Stale.

BIG FIGHTS THREATENED,

BUT POSSIBLY THEY ALL VANISHED AS OTHERS.

A Dynamite Factory Occupied by the British—Hunter Was to be Opposed at Lichtenberg—Angry at Kruger For His Flight—The Krygsraad Assume the Powers of Government.

Pretoria, June 1, via Lorenzo Marques, June 4, (3:15 p.m.)—The dynamite factory at Modderfontein was occupied last night by a regiment of British troops. Commandant Delarey's commandoes are now surrounding the factory and a fierce fight is expected. The Orange Free State artillery (the Stadt artillery) of three batteries are now between Johannesburg and Delagoa Bay railway station. The Afrikander women here have presented a flag to commandant Gen. Louis Botha.

London, June 5.—News concerning Gens. Rundle and Brabant is awaited with interest, it being hoped that they have cornered and will shortly capture the bulk of the remaining fighters in the Orange Free State.

Gen. Hunter's division is now believed to be at Lichtenburg, a few miles east of Mafeking, in the neighborhood of which place, according to a Kimberley telegram, several commandoes are assembling, presumably to oppose the continuance of Gen. Hunter's march to Pretoria.

Are Quite Disgusted.

London, June 5.—A despatch to the Times from Lorenzo Marques, dated June 4th, says that the city is swarming with foreigners who were assisting the Boers until a few days ago. The more intelligent of these men speak unfavorably of the treatment they received from the Boers. Many of them, after serving months in the field, are practically penniless. Only in exceptional cases was a remuneration granted to them. This was contrary to the understanding under which they accepted service. The Germans, both civil and military, appear to be particularly disgusted with the conduct of the Transvaal government. Many Irish Americans, some of whom only recently joined the Boers, are returning to the United States.

The chief cause of complaint against the burghers is the total absence of any sense of gratitude, and it is charged that at critical junctures they altogether failed to justify their traditional reputation for bravery.

The Attempts Baffled.

London, June 5.—The Boer operations to break lord Roberts' communications have been successfully baffled, and the communications are in no danger of being surrounded at Ficksburg, Senekal, Heilbron and Lindley. Gen. Rundle, instead of throwing himself against the Boers that are entrenched at Senekal, moved toward Ficksburg and established communication with Gen. Brabant. The Boers marched parallel with Rundle, intending to seize a strong position on the Ficksburg road, but Gen. Rundle got there first. The 1,500 Boers who were in this movement are now reported to be going elsewhere.

The correspondents with Gen. Rundle continue to point out the hardness of the fighting last Tuesday, but they believe it will be the last real resistance. Col. Lloyd was thrice wounded. Drummer Haynes, while aiding Col. Lloyd, was hit in the hand, which was resting near the colonel's heart.

War Tidings.

At midnight on Friday, on account of the violent anger of the public and the officials at Pretoria, the president sent word to have the new treasury notes redeemed in gold. These were the notes issued for the payment of salaries.

President Kruger's precipitate flight to Lydenburg and the taking away of the gold bullion which was intended for coinage, and the leaving of a majority of the officials unpaid, has engendered a deep feeling of anger among the burghers. The Krygsraad assumed the powers of government.

Gen. Delarey, in Pretoria for a few hours, said that Pretoria would be defended to the utmost extent. He went on to say that there was every chance still to drive the enemy out of the country.

In an address to the burghers, one of the leading Transvallers said that, with God's help, the hour was still coming when Great Britain would yet acknowledge the independence of the two republics.

WOULD BE A HINDRANCE.

Point Raised Will Be Decided By the Courts.

Winnipeg, June 5.—F. H. Phippen, counsel for the license holders' association, states that the proposed Manitoba prohibition law will be nullified through the deed of surrender executed by the Hudson Bay company, in 1896. One clause of the deed, which was an agreement between the company and the dominion and imperial authorities, and therefore not subject to the provisions of the provincial government, provides that the company shall be at liberty to carry on its trade without hindrance in its corporate capacity, and that no exceptional tax is to be placed on the company's land, trade or servants. A prohibition measure, it is held, would be a hindrance to the company's trade.

Premier Macdonald interviewed on the question, said the point raised was an arguable one and would have to be decided by the courts. The government would not withdraw its bill, however, but would let it go before the house, and if it passed, the courts would be asked to give a ruling on the disputed points at once.

ONE DEAD; ONE DYING.

Francis Kerr Shoots His Wife and Then Kills Himself.

Winnipeg, Man., June 5.—About 8:30 o'clock last night a most deliberate attempt at wife murder was made by Francis Kerr, fifty-nine years of age, a civic employee, who afterwards placed a revolver in his mouth, and instantly killed himself. It seems there has been trouble in the family for some time. Last night he evidently premeditated the deed, having armed himself with a revolver. His wife was in the front room when he entered the house, and pointing the revolver at her he fired two shots, both of which took effect in the right side. Confusion followed, and Kerr ran upstairs, and going into a back room, shut the door and leaning against it, put the revolver in his mouth, ending his existence, blowing his head to atoms.

The wounded woman was taken to hospital, where the doctors spent two hours in probing for the bullets. One bullet came out at the back of the neck, and the other smashed the collar bone and lodged at the top of the right lung. The latter was not found and the condition of the woman is very serious. She is about fifty-four years of age. The family has ten children. An inquest will be held.

CRACKSMEN AT WORK.

They Tried to Open a Safe, But Were Frightened Off.

Lachute, Que., June 5.—Professional cracksmen have again been at work here. This time they tried their hand on the safe at the C.P.R. station, but were frightened away before they had time to fully complete the job. They apparently used the same methods practiced on the safe of P. Campbell & Co., millers, Lachute, which was blown open a few weeks ago. Judging from the appearance of the office and furniture, the explosion must have been terrific.

After the sound of the explosion had died away they evidently returned and finding their way to the coveted cash still barred they started in a second time to tear away the steel barrier, but before attaching the fuse, they were apparently frightened away. This is the second time in two years that the safe here at the C.P.R. station has been blown.

Toronto, June 5.—W. J. Evans, 204 Cottingham street, says that the Evans of the Royal Canadians, wounded at Johannesburg and who cannot be placed by the militia department, is probably his son, W. J. Evans, formerly of the 10th Royal Grenadiers, who went out as a member of the draft to reinforce the regiment and who reached Bloemfontein about May 1st.

Kruger's Thanks.

New York, June 5.—A facsimile cablegram, dated Lorenzo Marques, and signed by president Kruger, is printed here to-day. The cablegram extends thanks for the offer of homestead farms in the United States, but adds that the burghers, however, have determined to fight for their liberty-loving country to the bitter end.
