CANADIANS DEAD OR ILL.

LORD MINTO GIVES OUT THE CABLES RECEIVED.

Speaking in High Terms of the Work of the Canadian Red Cross Society—It Was Trooper C. Owen Who Accidentally Shot Himself.

Ottawa, June 12.—Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, writing to lord Mino, under the date of May 24th and enclosing correspondence from lord Roberts and lord Methuen, says: "I observe with great pleasure the high terms in which lord Roberts and Methuen have reported on the work of the Red Cross society."

On the 29th of March lord Roberts writes the secretary-of-war from Government House, Bloemfontein, in which he forwards a letter from lord Methuen bearing testimony to the excellent work done by the Canadian Red Cross society at Kimberely, and the energy and zeal of Lieut.-Col. Ryerson. The date of lord Methuen's letter is March 19th. He says, in writing to chief-of-staff.: "I wish to bring before the commander-in-chief the fine and unostentatious work performed by the Canadian Red Cross society here, under the guidance of Lieut.-Col. Ryerson." The day that lord Methuen wrote four Canadian nurses had arrived. Lord Methuen wanted that the good work done by the society should be made known through the president in Canada.

Sir Alfred Milner cables to lord Minto that Lance-Corpl. A. F. Vanorman, of the first Canadian contingent, died of enteric fever in the hospital at Bloemfontein on Friday last. He was a member of the Royal Canadian infantry before going to South Africa. Some time ago the authorities wired that trooper Clarence Cowan had shot himself at Karee on the 30th April. The message read trooper Cowan, and it was thought possible that the party he referred to might be C. Owen. The high commissioner now confirms the report that it is trooper Owen, not Cowan.

Sir Alfred Milner adds: "Enquiries are being made about Hian 7,321; Brunton not yet reported to me. Medical reports to-day from No. 1 general hospital, Wynberg, tell of dangerous illness of Capt. Harrison of enteric fever; not expected to recover."

The following additional cables have been received from Sir Alfred Milner by lord Minto: "June 11th, regret to report that 528, gunner John Neil, Royal Canadian field artillery, severely wounded by accident by Colt-gun, at Campbell (Griqualand West), June 4th.

"June 11th, regret to report dangerous illness of privates, 7,380, A. Robson; 207, W. Glover, Royal Canadian regiment, of enteric fever, at Springfontein; 367, P. E. Mullins, 1st Canadian mounted rifles, enteric fever, at Kroonstadt."

Education.

Detroit Journal.

We were deeply interested.

"But," we ventured, "when you have finished teaching him, does he know anything?"

The new pedagogue regarded us pityingly.

"What does he know?" she repeated, with quiet dignity. "I do not ask. It is enough if he does not know that he has been taught!"

We could not help feeling that we had been very impertinent.

Bribed Transvaal Dignitaries.

Brussels, June 12.—The action of the Transvaal government against the Franco-Belgian company, which constructed the Koomsh-Pisdate railway, was begun yesterday. The company is charged with fraud in demanding £9,600 per mile, whereas the cost was really only £7,200. The defence put forward by the company is that the difference was spent in the bribery of the receiver of the road, including president Kruger and his son-in-law, Eloff. The company's representative at Pretoria admitted that he presented carriages to twenty-two of the twenty-four members of the Transvaal volksraad. He alleged, however, that these presents were made out of his own pocket.

A new airship invented by Herr Weismann, has been tried at Berlin. It ascended twenty metres and flew fifteen, landing safely.

The C.P.R. imperial limited service to the Pacific coast was inaugurated for the summer months under favorable auspices yesterday.

INCIDENTS OF THE DAY.

PARAGRAPHS PICKED UP BY OUR BUSY REPORTERS.

The Spice of Every Day Life — What The People Are Talking About — Nothing Escapes Attention.

The dredge Rideau will shortly be sent to Kingston Mills to do important work.

Clarence P. Jones will assist the 14th battalion band in its concert in Macdonald park Thursday evening.

Thomas Hughes, the lad struck by a train on the Kingston Mills bridge on Saturday evening, was much better to-day.

Messrs. J. J. Turner & Sons, Peterboro, are furnishing three large tents for the canteens at the Kingston military camp.

The archbishop and Mrs. Lewis, who left Kingston on Saturday, sailed for Europe by North German Lloyd's steamer to-day.

Steamer "North King" leaves for Rochester, N. Y., on Sundays at 6.30 p. m., and for Gananoque and Thousand Islands at 9 a.m.

Rev. T. J. Thompson, Belleville, is to visit Europe and Thurlow Fraser, M.A., of Queen's college, is to be left in charge of the services.

The local agency of the Rathbun company has received a large order for lumber and timber to be used in rebuilding the starch works at Cardinal.

A farmer from Frontenac was in the city to-day who weighed 345 pounds and stands six feet, seven inches. His feet are something enormous.

At London camp canteens are being closely watched. Michael Cody, canteen-keeper of the 21st regiment, was fined $20 and costs for selling liquor.

Possibly a large manufactory in a western town will be abandoned, and the proprietors purchase the Kingston locomotive works. Watch the indicator for a few days.

The term of the Ontario institution for the deaf and dumb, Belleville, closes to-morrow. The pupils from this city and county will return by the train reaching Kingston to-morrow at 12:30.

The folks will have to re-organize Betsy Jane at Red Cross headquarters in Toronto. Dr. Hodgins, secretary, must be away, for letters and telegrams from Kingston and Belleville have been unanswered for a long time. Somebody is a misfit.

In an eastern Ontario city over 200 books were recently added to the public library and only three of these were devoted to religion. Thus it is spoken in the Kingston notes of the Westminster. Does it refer to Kingston, the city of churches, colleges and charities?

LOVE LETTER PILLOWS.

Pillows Stuffed With Curled Paper Are The Latest Noveities.

What do you think of pillows stuffed with paper? This is what is now being done, and from a hygienic point of view they are declared without an equal. This also solves the question of what to do with old letters. It is hard enough to tear a letter up when you answer it, but that is nothing to the pang experienced when in cold blood you set to work to tear up the accumulation of months. Now, you can use the letters to fill pillows instead of feeding the fire. I wonder if in some mysterious way one would be affected by the thoughts written in the letters? The pillow stuffed with love letters might be almost blown away by lovers' sighs, or your head might rest uneasily upon it by reason of the jealousies and lovers' quarrels committed to paper. The true, loyal words of friendship would soothe your slumbers, even if those of the "wee little whimpering Love" disturbed them.

These pillows are much in demand for hospital use, and doctors say they are superior to any other kind of pillow stuffing. The latest manner of preparing the paper for stuffing is to cut it into narrow strips about three inches long and a quarter of an inch wide. Then with a dull blade knife each strip should be curled, as are ostrich feathers. A case stuffed with paper in this way makes a light, serviceable pillow, and has proved more satisfactory than one stuffed in any other fashion.

Progress Of Art Education.

Lawrence Uglow; advanced course, thirteen proficiency certificates; mechanical course, two proficiency certificates, extra subjects, one painting oil colors, three wood carving, two modelling in clay, three China painting.

Ellen E. Baker won a gold medal for modelling in clay at the art school.

Will Secure A License

New York and Ottawa Co. vs. Collins' Bay rafting and forwarding company.—A. H. F. Lefroy, for defendants, moved for order for security for costs. D. W. Saunders, for plaintiffs, contra. Upon plaintiffs' solicitors undertaking to obtain, within three weeks, a license to hold property within Ontario, order dismissing motion. Costs in cause. Order not to issue until undertaking given.

Can't Get A Bishop To Preside.

There is great difficulty in securing a presiding bishop for Ontario synod next week, the archbishop having left for England, as usual. All the bishops in the ecclesiastical province are reported as engaged with their synod, or other duties, save those of Montreal and Fredericton, and if one of these is not available another adjournment must take place.

Might Be Found!

A city lawyer was carrying a spade on Johnston street yesterday. Two ladies of well-known church zeal asked him what he was going to do with the weapon. He replied that he was going out in the country to dig up a bishop for them! Well indeed he might find a good one under the dirt some people threw last week at one of the candidates.

Ven. archdeacon Carey was married this morning in Montreal to Miss Edith Shibley, of Kingston, who was guest of her brother, Arthur D. Shibley, Westmount.

DID NOT CHASTISE HIS WIFE

His Intentions Were Good, but the Woman Weighed 300 Pounds.

"Mawnin, jedge!"

He was an old, undersized darky with lips like a pair of purple radishes. He had a determined look in his eyes as he shuffled up to the desk at the police court the other day and doffed his hat with an air of old fashioned southern courtesy.

"Good morning, Sam. What can I do for you this morning?" said the judge.

"I jes' wants to inquiah what a man gets dat done whip his wife."

"He ought to be hanged," said Justice Hall severely.

"But dat ain't what I wants to know, jedge. I wants to find out what de sentence o' dis coht am. Don't keer nuffin 'bout what he oughta git."

"Well, if a man was brought up before me charged with beating his wife I surely would give him the limit, and that would be $50 and costs."

"But dispose a man had provocation, jedge; dispose he was jest fohced to it, what would it be?"

"If the provocation was very great, I might make it $10," admitted the judge.

"Das all right, jedge; das all right, an I'ze suah willin to pay dat fer de privilege o' knockin thundah out o' dat ole 'ooman o' mine." The old fellow went down into the pockets of his ragged trousers and began to haul out dimes, nickels and pennies and pile them up on the desk before the astonished justice.

"What's this for?" inquired the judge.

"Dat's to pay my fine, jedge. I spees to be befoh de coht tomawoh fer whippin my ole 'ooman."

The judge put the money into an empty tobacco bag and laughed quietly to himself.

The next morning an old negro scarcely recognizable as the one who had been in the day before edged his way up through the crowd of prisoners before the judge's desk. He had one arm in a sling, an eye bound up and court plaster crossed on different parts of his countenance. With the well hand he carried a cane to steady himself, as one leg was sadly in need of repair.

His name was not on the docket, but he watched his chance and caught the judge's eye.

"Mawnin, jedge."

"Good morning, Sam. Did you carry out your evil design of yesterday?"

"No, sah, jedge. Dat's jest what I'ze come to tell you about. I'ze done changed my min' about whippin my ole 'ooman, an I'ze come to git my money back. De ole 'ooman an me has done made up. Dah she am, jedge, dat la'ge, han'some lady in de reah o' de coht."

He pointed to a colored woman that weighed in the neighborhood of 300 pounds and stood nearly six feet tall, who displayed a double row of ivories as she smiled broadly.

The judge gravely handed the old negro the bag containing his $10. He said nothing, but watched the old fellow force his way painfully through the throng to his waiting better half and deposit the bag in her outstretched hand. Then she took him by the well arm with a not too gentle grasp and led him out into the world.

The Evolution of Signs.

Emblematic signs, consisting of tools and utensils of trade, are of a primitive origin and became a necessity in the early ages to inform the illiterate public of the particular business or occupation carried on within. Thus a gilt arm wielding a hammer informs us where the goldbeater lives, and the sign of the golden fleece was the emblematic sign of the draper and tailor. One of the signs originally used exclusively by apothecaries was the well known mortar and pestle, these being implements for compounding drugs.

The ancient custom has not been entirely abandoned, and numerous emblems, such as the watch, the boot and others, are still in vogue in many of our large cities and, more especially in the small towns and villages almost everywhere.

At a later period, as art began to advance and develop, there came a gradual and growing demand for pictorial signs, which ever since have become very popular and almost indispensable. Afterward came the inscriptive or written sign of today, which is the adopted standard all over the entire world.—New York Times.

Shave and Hair Cut.

McPhun entered the club a few mornings ago, his chin and cheeks plainly showing that he was freshly emancipated from the hands of the barber.

"Been having a shave, old man?" asked MacKan lazily.

"Yes, and had my hair cut too," was the reply. "Always have my hair cut when I have a shave."

"And how often do you get shaved?" was the languid inquiry.

"Every morning," answered McPhun.

"And have your hair cut, too, every day?" said the other.

"Yes."

"Don't you find it rather expensive?"

"No. Only costs twopence."

"What? Only twopence for a shave and haircutting?"

"That's all. Barber couldn't shave me without cutting my hair, don't you know."—London Telegraph.

A Draft Even There.

Mr. Henry Furniss tells an amusing story of Mr. Justice Hawkins. The learned judge had a horror of drafts and used to close up every cranny in his court, to the great discomfort of everybody. Meeting a brother judge, the latter said: "Oh, Hawkins, I had a frightful dream the other night. I dreamed you were dead and taken to Woking to be cremated. I cost the last train down and bribed an official to let me peep through one of the loopholes of the crematorium. All that I saw was a heap of ashes, but I heard a voice cry out: 'Shut the door, Keating. There's a draft here.'"—London News.

Here Too.

An American in Italy for the first time was entertained by an American resident of that enchanting or disenchanting country, just as you choose.

"Well," said the visitor at parting, "there's one thing in Italy that covers a multitude of sins."

"What's that?" eagerly demanded the other.

"The sky," said the visitor.—New York Sun.

A Superfluity.

"I'm very fond of whist," said Mr. Meekton. "Henrietta and I play it a great deal."

"I have just been reading up on the game."

"I never look at such books. They affect me like downright impertinence. The men who wrote some of them seem to think they know more about the game than Henrietta does."—Washington Star.

Werner's Dictionary of Synonyms & Antonyms, Mythology and Familiar Phrases.

A book that should be in the vest pocket of every person, because it tells you the right word to use. No Two Words in the English Language Have Exactly the Same Significance. To express the precise meaning that one intends to convey a dictionary of Synonyms is needed to avoid repetition. The strongest figure of speech is antithesis. In this dictionary the appended Antonyms will, therefore, be found extremely valuable. Contains many other features such as Mythology, Familiar Allusions and Foreign Phrases, Prof. Loisette's Memory System, 'The Art of Never Forgetting," etc., etc. This wonderful little book bound in a neat cloth binding and sent postpaid for $0.25. Full Leather, gilt edge, $0.40, postpaid. Order at once. Send for our large book catalogue, free.
