Oakville Hydro picks up award

Oakville Hydro announced earlier this month it has received the President's Award from the Infrastructure Health and Safety Association (IHSA) for achieving 250,000 consecutive hours without a lost time injury.

Oakville Hydro president Rob Lister said his employees reached this milestone by working safely and averting a lost time injury since June 2012.

"Health and Safety at Oakville Hydro Corporation is a core value and a cornerstone of our business," said Lister.

"We strive to maintain a best-in-class Occupational Health and Safety Management System to provide the foundation, guidance and focus for every aspect of integrating health and safety into our work and life.

"We are pleased to receive the IHSA President's Award as acknowledgement of the hard work and commitment of each and every employee and the strong safety culture that they uphold."

The IHSA's vision is to have workplaces without injuries, illnesses or fatalities and they work with employees and employers across Ontario with the goal of making that vision a reality.

"Our award-winning 'Stayin' Alive' Safety Program is one way that we connect with employees on a regular basis to ensure that they are staying safe at work and at home," said Peter Michaud, director of health, safety and environment at Oakville Hydro.

"The constantly reinforced safety message and high level of employee engagement is what makes the program so effective and allows our culture of safety to grow and thrive."
